ARMY OF DISSENT: 25,000 on Capital Peace March

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — An army of dissenters marched at the White House and rallied in the shadow of the Washington Monument Saturday in a massive protest against the United States role in Viet Nam.

Peace placards glistening in a warm November sun, they paraded in slow-moving circles on sidewalks around the White House, then marched to the monument.

There they heard march leaders demand a Viet Nam cease-fire and a negotiated end to the war against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas and their North Vietnamese allies.

Police estimated that 25,000 people joined the six-hour protest. March organizers claimed between 40,000 and 50,000 people were on hand at the monument rally.

Their signs ranged from simple calls for negotiations and peace—the tone favored by march sponsors—to demands that U.S. troops withdraw and denunciations of President Johnson.

There were scattered scuffles and at least eight people were arrested in clashes between the peace pickets and their critics.

Among the men arrested was George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi Party. Police said he scuffled with demonstrators after wrenching a North Vietnamese flag from one of them and tearing it apart.

At the monument grounds, a motorcycle-riding band of counter-demonstrators heckled the marchers and police said they arrested the leader of that clique. They ushered the rest of the group away from the audience.

One trouble spot was on the Pennsylvania Avenue sidewalk, where Communist sympathizers waved the gold-starred flag of the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Two men were taken away by police after they wrestled a Viet Cong flag to the ground. "There are people dying over there and you let them fly that thing," one of them said as police led him to a waiting patrol wagon.

At another point when Viet Cong flags were unfurled, counter-demonstrators quickly moved in to surround them with American flags. That was the tactic recommended by Sanford Gottlieb of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, the march coordinator.

Most of the marchers were quiet and good humored. Some brought along their children.

While the pickets paraded, a delegation of their leaders conferred for 90 minutes with Chester Cooper, an aide to White House adviser McGeorge Bundy.

There weren't many people in the White House and executive office building to confer with. President Johnson is at his Texas ranch.

When the delegation emerged, Gottlieb reported Cooper reiterated an administration suggestion that they write letters to North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong asking them to agree to unconditional negotiations.

He said the peace marchers refused. "This is not acceptable to us, to simply call for unconditional negotiations when North Viet Nam is being bombed," he said.

"He wanted us to become sort of partners on the side with North Viet Nam," said Socialist leader Norman Thomas.

"I can't say that we got very far, except we both agreed that we were sincere."

Arcadia, El Capitan Bands Tie for Top 'Review' Prize

By ART VINSEL

Two bands tied for the coveted Mayor's Trophy Saturday for the first time in the 25-year history of the All-Western Band Review in Long Beach.

Identical prizes will be awarded to Arcadia High School and El Capitan High School, which chalked up 95.9 points each for the sweepstakes trophy.

Thousands of persons turned out in 70-degree sunshine to witness the colorful pageant, in which 6,700 bandsmen and marchers participated.

Competition was stiff in the review — one of the best known of its kind in the Southland — and final scores for the 30 different band units ranged between 95.9 and 87.35 out of a possible 100 points.

A second tie highlighted the Class AA division for large schools when Pasadena and Anaheim deadlocked at 95 points each.

Only a few paces kept one of the bands from emerging as sole winner, judges said, because each was penalized one point for moving along too fast. Band directors were to decide possession of the winner's trophy by a flip of the coin.

Entrants surged into Long Beach from as far away as Fairfield in the San Francisco Bay area. Several bands, including three class winners, came from San Diego County.

They represented 65 high schools, including

ALL-TIME HIGH FOR YEAR

U.S. Spending Will Top $105 Billion

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — Federal spending will rise above $100 billion for the first time in U.S. history in the current fiscal year and President Johnson will present the first $100-billion-plus budget to Congress in January, White House sources disclosed Saturday.

Sharply increased costs of the Viet Nam war and other factors have pushed up spending estimates to a record $105 to $107 billion, for the fiscal year ending next June 30, the sources said.

Budget Director Charles Schultz was said to expect a federal budget deficit ranging between $7 and $8 billion for the same period. Figures supplied by sources close to the President indicated that the deficit could climb as high as $10 billion.

President Johnson has been informed that federal revenues, swollen by the nation's general prosperity, may exceed $96.5 billion for fiscal 1966—also a record.

Last January, Johnson predicted revenues $94.4 billion during the fiscal year that began last July 1, and a deficit of $5.3 billion.

Johnson a year ago estimated that 1966 fiscal year spending would be $99.7 billion.

He now has directed cabinet members and federal agency heads to begin pruning their next budget requests.

Sources said the "bee" is on the cabinet chiefs and administrators to bear down in the next few weeks and do the job that Johnson did last year in cutting requests.

The sources gave the following picture for the multibillion-dollar increase in spending:

The cost of waging the war in Viet Nam, the big buildup in American forces and the military pay raise have raised the defense budget $3 to $4 billion above the $49-billion estimate of last January. The Viet Nam war is costing $750 million a month.

Congress approved Johnson's request for another $1.7 billion for Viet Nam needs last summer. He will ask for another supplemental appropriation in January.

A second factor in the boost in spending was higher outlays for farm-price supports, higher interest rates, a $480-million federal employes' pay increase and a half-billion-dollar rise in veterans' compensation and pensions.

Higher interest rates on federal securities pushed up U.S. spending by about $500 million to $12 billion for interest payments on the national debt.

1 Erie Ship Safe, Other Fights On

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Coast Guard reported Saturday night that the Allison, one of the two ships being pounded by high winds and waves on Lake Erie, had reached the port of Buffalo safely.

However, a second ship, the Avondale, continued to ride out the storm in winds up to 50-miles-an-hour and 28-to-30-foot waves while at anchor southwest of Port Colborne, Ont., the Coast Guard said.

The two ships carry a combined crew of 70.

The Coast Guard said the 440-foot-long Allison, a converted World War II Liberty ship, had docked at Buffalo at 5:30 p.m. The vessel had been anchored west of Port Colborne waiting for the Welland Canal, closed early Saturday because of the winds, to reopen for traffic.

* * * *

BUT the wind and waves snapped the freighter's anchors and it began drifting helplessly in the lake. But before Coast Guard vessels could reach the freighter it had regained control of the situation and reached Buffalo unassisted.

The Allison had 38 crewmen.

Meanwhile, the Avondale, a 500-foot-long freighter with a crew of 32, had requested Coast Guard assistance after reporting broken deck plates in the engine room and loss of steam.

The Coast Guard said the Avondale was at anchor about 26 miles southwest of Port Colborne and had later reported restoring some of its steam.

A Coast Guard officer said the freighter was able to keep the strain off its anchor chains, to keep them from snapping.

Grand Jury Hits County Financing by Leaseback

By DON BRACKENBURY
L. A. Times-L.P-T Los Angeles Bureau

The "sale-lease-back" plan used by Los Angeles County to finance capital projects, and which now totals $161 million in commitments, is detrimental to taxpayers, the County Grand Jury has charged.

In a letter to county supervisors, made public today, the Grand Jury urged that existing leases be renegotiated, and that supervisors make an "in-depth review" of this type of financing.

Under the plan, the county enters into an agreement with the Board of Retirement of the Los Angeles County Employes Association. The retirement board uses its funds to construct the building, then leases it to the county with an option for county purchase.

Such agreements now cover about 20 separate projects, including the $29-million Hall of Administration and the $11.6-million New Hall of Records in Los Angeles Civic Center; six golf courses, five court buildings and the men's central jail.

"The investigation made by this Grand Jury reveals that the methods and procedures used in accomplishing the construction of capital projects using this type of financing are subject to severe criticism and, therefore, may not be in the best

Fire Bomb Terror in Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — African terrorists Saturday night hurled bottles of flaming gasoline at a bus in a Salisbury suburb. Arsonists also set fire to a tobacco warehouse.

The only reported victim of the attacks was an African child on the half-filled bus, who was badly burned on one arm. Thirty other passengers escaped injury. The fire bombs were thrown at the bus in the suburb of Highfield.

Volunteer firemen quickly put out the warehouse blaze in suburban Msasa Siding after a number of bales of hay caught fire.

Elsewhere, in the suburbs, three buses were showered with stones by African youths in another protest against the rebel white-ruled government of Premier Ian Smith.

Mrs. Kennedy Is Hit by Sargent Shriver

FAIRHAVEN, Mass (AP) — Poverty War Director Sargent Shriver, husband of Eunice Kennedy, ran into another Kennedy woman Saturday — but she was not related to the famous family.

The meeting was completely accidental.

Shriver was driving west on U.S. Route 6 and collided with a car operated by Mrs. Frances Kennedy, 41, of Acushnet, at the end of a bridge leading to New Bedford.

The 50-year-old Shriver said he was not injured and Mrs. Kennedy told police she was "just shaken up."

AIRCRAFT WRECKAGE ON SNOW-COVERED HILL

Crash of this chartered DC3 twin-engine transport plane shortly after takeoff from Salt Lake City Municipal Airport in snowstorm killed all 13 persons aboard early Saturday. Plane was scheduled to pick up more passengers at Provo, Utah, en route to afternoon football game at Albuquerque between Brigham Young University and New Mexico teams. (Story, Page A-13.)

L.A.C. Says:
A Bit of Sophistry

According to a Washington news story, 200 top U. S. officials have passed a "conflict of interest test," including the President. The chairman of the Civil Service Commission and chief presidential adviser on personnel handled the tests. He says all came off with clean records, having no conflicts of interest. It caused me to look up the definition of "sophistry," which is, "deceptively subtle reasoning or argumentation."

It is hard to understand how such tests can be of value when the President's own conflict of interests have been so widely publicized. His long-established monopoly of radio and TV in the Texas capital city of Austin is a glaring example. Such monopoly was established when he was the Democratic leader in the Senate. It is estimated to be worth $15 million. Monopoly is possible only by rulings of the FCC, whose members are appointed by the President.

During the nine years prior to his exposure, Bobby Baker was the close associate of Sen. Johnson. It has been shown how Baker gained an estimated $2 million fortune using his influence as secretary of the Democratic majority. On his appearance before a Senate committee, he repeatedly took the Fifth Amendment to escape incriminating himself. The Baker case has been "swept under the carpet" by official Washington. It is apparent too many senators and administrative officials did not want his testimony.

It is an example of the low opinion these officials have of the people's intelligence to brazenly report no conflict of interests under these circumstances. The Civil Service head says, "This is the first time anything of this nature has been done—I think this is a healthy innovation in dealing with the conflict of interest problem."

The President's position is supposed to be cleared because his family has placed all its holdings in a trust. But the trust is headed by a man who was a part of the Johnson enterprises for many years. It must also be recognized that as the trust increases in value it increases the Johnson fortune—which will revert to him when the trust is ended. It is doubtful any government decisions will be harmful to the trust as long as Mr. Johnson is President. When he retires from office it reverts to him and his family.

The only way the stigma on the President could have been removed would have been for the FCC to end the monopoly—or for the President to end all ownership of the properties. But that did not happen and apparently will not. It is, in my opinion, pure "sophistry" for his government officials to now say such tests are made for all officials. If the leader accepts such condition as ethical for himself—how can we expect other public officials to act any differently? If this seems a severe criticism I ask, how does the reader feel about it?

This same callousness was demonstrated by the state legislature this year, voting fabulous pensions for members who may lose their offices because of reapportionment. It is reflected in the several county tax assessor scandals over the state whereby they have received payments for under-assessing large properties. It was disclosed last year when the state controller was shown to have received over half his campaign funds from estate appraisers whom he appointed. It raises the question of the people's attitude. Have they, too, reached a point where they are willing to accept such "sophistry" as a part of our social, economic and political outlook?—L.A.C.

Retired General Dies of Gunshot Wound

The death of a retired Army major general who lived in Palos Verdes Estates was declared suicide by the coroner's office Saturday.

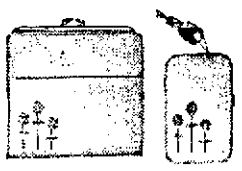

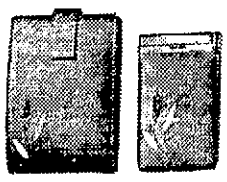

Palos Verdes Estates Officer Roger Sherwin, on routine patrol, found the body of Ivan L. Foster, 69, a veteran of two world wars, lying in the 1500 block of Via Talamantes shortly after 8 p.m. Friday.

A .45-caliber pistol with one bullet expended was found near the body of the victim, who organized California's National Guard Reserve First Division during the Korean conflict. Foster enlisted as a private in the Illinois National Guard in World War I, and was awarded the Medal of Verdun for his participation in that battle.

Funeral arrangements are pending at White and Day Mortuary, Redondo Beach.

Russ Say, U.S. Denies, Refugee Who Fled to Alaska Detained

The Soviet Union has protested that Gregory Sanapushkin, one of two Russians who defected in Alaska is being prevented from returning, but the U.S. State Department says it is not true.

"If these people want to return to the Soviet Union they will be permitted to do so," said Joseph Reap, State Department press officer, Saturday.

He recalled that U.S. Coast Guard officials had made arrangements to return the two men to Soviet territory after they landed near Wales, westernmost point of Alaska, last Aug. 7 in a walrus-skin boat and said they wanted to return to their homeland, but then they changed their mind, Reap said.

"At no time," he added, "have we denied access to the two men by officials of the Soviet Embassy and they had several meetings in Alaska with the men.

"It is firm U.S. policy to accept requests for asylum from refugees from communism."

97, Buys Yacht

Purchase of the late sportsman-playboy Horace E. Dodge Jr.'s mansion and lavish yacht Delphine by his mother, 97-year-old Mrs. Anna Thomson Dodge, was disclosed Saturday in Detroit.

Attorney Douglas Leo Paterson, executor of Dodge's estate, said Mrs. Dodge paid the estate $200,000 for the yacht, once valued at $2.25 million, and $325,000 for the 28-room mansion.

The balance of a $600,300 total transaction covered other properties.

At a 1964 court hearing on her son's properties Mrs. Dodge had expressed a sentimental interest in the yacht, Paterson said.

Dodge, a son of the late auto pioneer Horace E. Dodge, died in 1963. He was in his 60s.

The Delphine, a magnificent 257-foot vessel known as the largest steam yacht in the country, is berthed at East Matunuck, R.I. She once carried a crew of 48 men. She has facilities for 18 passengers.

The hosts were Redemptorist Fathers who do social work in Manacapuru, a town of 3,000 about 50 miles upstream from Manaus on the junction of the Amazon and Manacapuru rivers.

Radio reports from Manacapuru said Kennedy, his wife, Ethel, and party arrived aboard the packet Percival Farqhar after a leisurely trip up the broad river.

Amnesia Ends

For 17 years amnesia darkened the life of John Christopher. Then he remembered he had a brother.

"At first I thought maybe I was losing my marbles," he said Saturday. "Then I kept remembering other things."

That was six weeks ago, he recalled in a telephone interview from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Christopher of Salisbury, Md.

In the background were heard the excited voices of the Christopher family — including John's wife, their seven children, and 23 other relatives — preparing for a Thanksgiving dinner two days late.

Christopher, a 45-year-old product-design engineer from Huntsville, Ala., disappeared in 1948 from his Eastern Shore home.

He said he still doesn't remember how it happened.

Grand Jury Hits Funding by Leaseback

interest of the taxpayers of this county," wrote Peter F. Schabarum, Grand Jury foreman.

The jurors charged that "excess rentals" have been paid to the Board of Retirement and should be returned to the county. They described "excess rentals" as those in excess of payment which would amortize the project, based on actual cost, plus interest at 4.5%.

In the case of the Hall of Administration, the Grand Jury said that if the county exercises its option to buy the building in 1980, "the optimum date to purchase," it will have paid in excess of $1.3 million over the original cost of the project, not including normal interest.

"In other words," Schabarum wrote, "the Board of Retirement, at the time of repurchase by the county, will have received its original investment back, the prescribed 4.5% interest, plus a total bonus in excess of $1.3 million."

The jury charged that this method of financing "does not permit complete public exposure to the justification for construction of a project."

It added that the system does not permit "easy public access" to terms and conditions of the agreements and to plans, and asserted "a case could be argued that some of the projects approved and built do not represent a mandate from the electorate."

The Grand Jury also charged that by "arbitrarily entering into this type of financing," the county does not "expose the project to the market place" to determine if other financing may be available at less cost.

"In recent years, comparatively little effort has been made to obtain financing through submission of a bond issue to the voters," the letter asserted.

* * * *

AGREEMENTS between the county and the Board of Retirement are subject to criticism that they are negotiated at "less than arm's length basis," the jury said.

A review of leases on county facilities, when compared to those used in private enterprise "can only lead to the conclusion that there are agreements between the county and the Board of Retirement not apparent in their lease arrangements," the report said.

The Grand Jury letter warned that the long-range capital improvement program for the county "portends a tremendous expenditure of the taxpayers' dollars, as well as the assumption of large, long-term obligations to repay the funds required to construct the improvements contemplated in this program."

Schabarum said the purposes of the Grand Jury letter are:

—1. To correct certain inequities that are extant in existing leases with the Board of Retirement.

—2. To stop what appears to be a wholesale and indiscriminate use of this type of financing without an objective review of other available methods.

—3. To forestall future criticism that will surely come when current budgets have to be increased to provide funds to amortize the obligations incurred.

Car-Leasing Expanding by Leaps, Bounds

By GEORGE ERES

The name of the game is car leasing and every year more and more individuals are playing.

Out of an approximately 8-million-a year passenger-car market, car-leasing now accounts for about 1 million, and estimates of growth run from a conservative 20% of the total sales to over 50%.

It's a game dealers have not gone into on a large scale in the past, but more of them are taking a hand in self-defense.

Leasing is just another method of merchandising. Some dealers use the "tool"; some don't. In addition, there are individual leasing firms and individuals in the car-lease business.

One of the strongest advocates of leasing for dealers is Sam Lee, of Los Angeles dealer and lease consultant, who publishes "Lease News."

Profits Dealer

Lee cites these advantages to the dealer:

It makes it "possible for the dealer to make a profit on the auto-finance end that he can't unless he sets up his own finance company — a profit which now goes to a bank or finance company."

Allows the dealer to hang onto his "cream puff" business -- the doctor, the lawyer, the high-placed executive who now consider it a status-symbol to lease.

Provides an outlet for surplus merchandise.

Provides a steady flow of good used cars.

Enables a dealer to handle car makes other than those he is franchised to handle.

Credit Tight

Lee does not see the leasing business taking more than 20% of the market. The immediate limiting factor is that the credit requirement is tougher than for purchase.

"The very nature of the leasing business is an attempt to fit depreciation and interest costs, and in some instances maintenance as well, into a specified monthly payment," says Lee. On the high-priced cars, payments may run about $150 a month — obviously the credit rating of the leasee is important.

And, asks Lee, "Will the leasee pay a $300 or $400 deficiency if one is created?"

Two basic types of contracts are offered: the "closed" or "walkaway" and the "open."

Contract Forms

The "closed" contract sets up a specific monthly payment. If the car is turned in at contract's end showing only "normal" wear and tear, that ends the deal for the customer. He may have been required to put up a deposit to cover more than "normal" repairs and he may get this refunded. Independent appraisal may be specified to forestall argument.

The open contract may require the leasee to pay the difference between what the dealer can sell the car for after it is returned and the total of payments made.

(Unusually low advertised monthly lease terms should be investigated by the prospective leasee. This type of contract may call for a "balloon" payment —a large sum as the final payment).

The leasing business has thrown the industry "out of gear," says Newton McLaughlin, manager of the Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association.

A Problem

"Leasing firms buy in huge volume. They move in at the start of a model year and take large numbers of cars from the factory. This creates a problem for the dealer," he said.

"Then every two years (usual term of a lease), there is a dumping of these cars in large numbers, depressing the market in used cars. Some time ago in Long Beach, a dealer bought up a large number of used cars from a rental firm and saturated the market, depressing trade-in values and causing a consumer loss. In order for the buyer to get a better deal, he had to go out of the area."

McLaughlin says the "closed" type of lease agreement is dangerous for dealers and the industry.

"If the market is depressed, the dealer takes a bath."

Revolution

If leasing grows to where it is handling the major portion of the car output, McLaughlin says, buying and selling as we know it today in the industry will disappear. Leasing can be operated out of a small office—the auto row as we know it may disappear.

To the customer, leasing has some advantages—especially in always driving a mechanically good car--but, as in anything else, it depends on the deal. A lease in itself is no guarantee of anything. The only sure way of knowing what you're getting is to shop around and compare deals.

Most firms which lease will give you figures.

The things to watch in addition to the monthly payment you are expected to make are:

—1. Is a deposit required? Is it a "true" deposit—returnable?

—2. What fees are charged as the "down" payment in addition to first and last payments often required;

—3. The capitalized cost of the auto. Prices of units do vary at various concerns. If you decide to buy the leased car at the end of the contract, the difference between payments and the cost of the unit is what you will have to pay. Obviously, a signed commitment showing the depreciated value over 12, 18 and 24 months is the way to travel.

—4. Lessee should be aware that the advertised monthly payments do not normally include other costs involved in either leasing or buying. For example, insurance is required, tax is required.

ON taxes, the lessee may save a few bucks over outright purchase. The 4% sales tax on the monthly payments basis works out at a saving from the amount paid in outright purchase.

As far as deductions from taxes for use of autos in business are concerned, it's the same for lease or purchase.

One Advantage

If you're sharp with a buck and know how to invest it, there is the advantage of no large down payment in leasing. You might put the down payment into the stock market and make it work for you.

There is one factor that lease customers should be aware of: interest. Lease rates do not show interest. According to Lee, lease firms should be "careful that interest rates not be shown as a separate item on a lease transaction, but that they be lumped into the monthly rental rates."

Most customers do not familiarize themselves with the question of interest on cars. They accept the fact that they must pay interest at so much per year.

The law allows as much as 13% per year on auto financing.

It Adds Up

However, the interest is figured on the total cost of the loan for a contract period. So say you are paying 7% per year on a three-year loan the interest totals 21%.

The lessee should be aware of percentages used to figure the monthly reserve and rental fee. These figures are basic in fixing the monthly rate.

Whether there is an advantage to leasing or outright purchase depends on the kind of a deal you can get. They vary. The only way to know for sure is to compare the figures.

Catholics, Protestants Drafting Book of Worship

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Representatives of the Roman Catholic and Presbyterian Churches, ending a two-day meeting, said Saturday that a common Book of Worship, and Bible Study may be a reality before the end of next year.

Spokesmen for the groups reported basic agreement on tentative drafts for the proposed book, which they agreed would serve as a guideline in the hope of bringing them closer together.

The meeting, second in a series of conversations initiated by the American Catholic Bishops' Commission on Ecumenical Affairs, was attended by 30 persons, about equally divided between Catholic and Presbyterian theologians and lay leaders.

In a statement, they said they looked forward to joint worship on all levels from local to national "in view of the common bond in Jesus Christ between the two faiths."

* * * *

THEY ALSO proposed concrete steps toward Christian unity.

Spokesmen for the two groups said the basic drafts of the Common Book of Worship and Bible Study presented more of a "crossfire of theological divergencies than of insurmountable obstacles."

The joint committee announced a time calendar for the book:

—Preparation of a final text in January.

—Approval by the full unity delegations in early May.

—Approval by the Presbyterian General Assembly, which meets in mid-May, and by the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Conference, or of its Ecumenical Relations Committee, by late Fall.

Officials agreed that because of its official nature, the fruitful results of the interfaith agreement points toward one of the most historical steps in bringing Catholics and Protestants together on a lasting, nationwide basis, since the reformation split of four centuries ago.

License Worries for Young Motorists

By VINT MADER

The critical events in a young person's widening life include certain thrilling little milestones like the first date, first shave or cosmetics, and the first drivers' license.

However, owing to a certain change in the California Vehicle Code some young folk and their parents have been more critical than thrilled when they went for that driving license.

Because the state legislature enacted an amendment last summer, the Department of Motor Vehicles has had to set up regulations that make some applicants bring proofs of age to secure a license, says Howard Link, manager of the Long Beach DMV office.

This has brought troubles for a considerable number of persons who are under 22 and harried parents and license examiners, says Link. He readily admits he doesn't know which legislator fathered the new law or what is the basic intent behind it.

Staff Photo

Frances Haustein, 17 (left), of 5349 Abbeyfield St., presents her birth certificate to interviewer Alma Helm at Long Beach office of Department of Motor Vehicles. Looking on is Julie Raymond, 17, 46 Sicilian Walk. New drivers' license law requires age proof from those under 22.

* * * *

THE crucial change is in CVC Section 12802 that covers signing and swearing to the truth of statements by all applicants, with parental verification in the case of minors, into which the legislature inserted the words "... and the applicant shall submit such evidence of age as the department may require."

Noting that "it could be an awful problem" if the clause were interpreted to require evidence from everyone who secures or renews a license, Link said Sacramento officials of DMV worked out with legislators an age group under 22 and a list of acceptable documents for trial when the law took effect Sept. 17.

"Driver education teachers are apparently putting the point across very clearly," Link said, "but a good many students even from those classes arrive here unequipped, although they were no doubt fully informed of the requirements."

So here's how it may go sometimes, with a parent or guardian led on at the scurrying pace of the teen-age world:

The adult and a minor keyed up for peak performance under the scrutiny of a road-test examiner approach a window at the DMV office to complete the "red-tape" part of the application.

The interviewer there asks for one of the documents on the "accepted" list for evidence of age.

Faces fall--and the license-seekers depart to return another day, the adult perhaps fuming at "bureaucracy" for having wasted a trip when other important tasks are neglected and having got a teen-ager out of school early.

* * * *

NOT all the disappointed applicants are minors, of course. There is that group of 21-and 22-year-olds, technically adult, but still required to provide the age-evidence.

They can come up with some unique stories, problems and complaints, say Link and Eugene Lathrop, senior examiner of the Long Beach office.

For example, a youth from farthest Down-East New England or Deepest Dixie whose birth records are at some fishing village town hall or small parish church may object vehemently about the time and toil involved in trying to get a copy.

Totals of all the disappointed and irate have been averaging about 50 a week at the Long Beach office alone, the officials say.

For those affected, who don't want to be disappointed, the DMV list of "acceptable documents which may be used" is: birth certificates, baptism documents, transcripts of school records that confirm birth date, armed forces documents, and licenses that were issued with profile photos to minors and are being surrendered for licenses with full-face photos by those reaching majority age.

* * * *

OTHER documents that are acceptable include foreign driver's licenses when birthdate is shown, visas, passports and immigration documents that show birth date and California licenses that have become damaged, but still have legible birth date.

However, draft cards of the Selective Service System are among documents that DMV cannot accept.

In an age that grows more complex and demanding, it seems no longer enough to reach the age of majority and be a full-grown young man or woman—at least for DMV, you must prove it as well as be it.

In the words of the reflective poet (A. E. Housman, 1859-1936) the young license applicant may say:

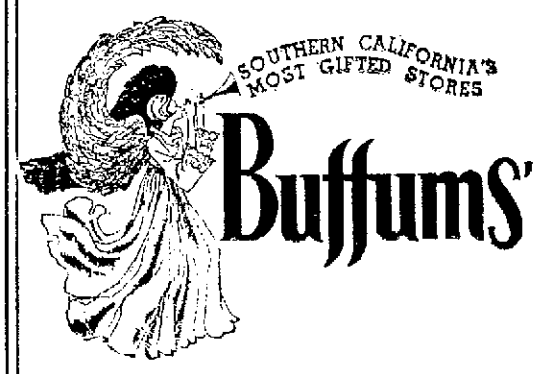

"And I am two-and twenty,
And Oh, 'tis true, 'tis true."

Viet Cong Says Yanks Freed to 'Honor' Protests

Combined Wire Services

SAIGON, Sunday—The Communist Viet Cong clandestine radio announced Saturday night that two American sergeants held prisoner for two years had been released. But an American spokesman said early today there was no report of the men being turned over to American or allied forces.

The Viet Cong said the two were being released in honor of anti-Viet Nam demonstrations in the United States. The announcement came as thousands of peace pickets marched in front of the White House in Washington protesting U.S. involvment in the war.

The broadcast identified the two as Sgts. George E. Smith and Claude E. McClure, two of the more than 50 American servicemen in Communist hands in North and South Viet Nam.

* * * *

Smith and McClure were among four Special Forces men captured Nov. 24, 1963, when the Communists overran the Hiep Hoa Special Forces camp, 27 miles northeast of Saigon.

One of the other two was Sgt. Isaac Comancho of El Paso, Tex., who last August became the first American to escape from Red captors.

* * * *

THE FOURTH man, Sgt. Kenneth Roraback, also of Chester, was executed on Sept. 26 in revenge for the firing-squad deaths of Communist agitators.

Mrs. Rita McClure was advised at her home in Chattanooga of the report of her husband's release. She said quietly:

"Oh, my God! I hope it's true! I hope it's true."

Mrs. McClure said she has heard nothing from her husband since his capture. They were married in July, 1963, 10 days before McClure left for Viet Nam, and she has been living in Chattanooga with her family since then.

* * * *

SMITH'S mother, Mrs. Lucille A. Potts, learned at her home in Chester of her son's reported release and she said:

"I just thank God and hope it's true!

"I've been to church the last three mornings and prayed that George could be home for Christmas.

"I won't be at ease until he's back under U.S. control."

* * * *

EARLIER this year a Russian newspaper printed a letter, allegedly written by Smith, which contained praise for the Viet Cong and said, "I'd like this testimony of an American, who was a witness to the barbarisms we are committing in South Viet Nam, to help our brothers get out faster from this cursed and unnecessary war."

Mrs. Potts said at the time that her son had volunteered for duty in Viet Nam, and he "couldn't have written such a letter in his right mind."

Muscovites Cheer American 'Boris'

MOSCOW (AP) — An initially chilly audience warmed up at the close of the opera "Boris Godunov" at the Bolshoi Theater Saturday to cheer American bass, Jerome Hines in the title role.

The tall American took five curtain calls after receiving flowers on the open stage. The audience laughed when he kissed the forehead of the short doorwoman who brought out the flowers. Hines is on his second singing tour of the Soviet Union. From Moscow he goes to Kiev.

VIET CONG FLAG IN WAR-PROTEST MARCH

Walter Teague of New York carries Communist-starred banner as newsmen interview him in Washington's mass demonstration "for peace in Viet Nam." He and fellow Viet Cong sympathizers complained that pro-American groups tore or stole some Red flags. Cuban flag is in center background of picture.

Army of Dissenters on March at White House, 25,000 Strong

Dr. Benjamin Spock, chairman of the protest, reported.

Thomas said the delegation told Cooper the marchers want a halt in the bombing of North Viet Nam, a presidential bid for a cease-fire agreement, and administration declarations that the National Liberation Front — the Viet Cong — would be represented in any negotiations, and that the United States will pull out of Viet Nam after a settlement is reached.

Gottleib and the march sponsors did their best to keep the signs and demonstration moderate in tone, even suggesting authorized slogans for the pickets.

They weren't altogether successful. One cluster of about 30 marchers walked along chanting:

"Hey, hey LBJ

"How many kids have you killed today?"

A handful of Negroes walked along carrying signs which proclaimed them members of the Deacons, a militant Negro defense organization. "Klan Beware, Deacons Here," one of them read.

March Day dawned gray and rainy, but despite the drizzle there were pickets on the Pennsylvania Avenue sidewalk hours before the demonstration formally began.

Their number swelled as the morning wore on, and the sky cleared into a warm, bright day.

Truckloads of printed signs were on hand for the marchers. "Steps to Peace: Stop the Bombings," they read, "Stop the Bloodshed," and "War Erodes the Great Society."

March monitors wearing orange armbands kept the pickets moving in half-block circles, and tried to weed out bitterly worded signs that went beyond the phrasing authorized by the sponsors.

There was a gaudy banner in blue and red which caricatured Johnson and called him a hypocrite. There were the Viet Cong flags. "McNamara, Get Human," one placard read. "The U.S. Is the Aggressor," said another.

There were ironic notes, too. A U.S. Army bus, from Ft. Meyer, Va., stood by in Lafayette Park as the first aid station.

A uniformed soldier watched the picket line and shook his head. "I have never seen anything quite so silly," he said.

Marchers held aloft placards proclaiming their hometowns. There were signs from San Jose, Calif., from Chicago, from Ballston Spa, N.Y.

There were counterpickets, too. Columns of police sought to keep them away from the main demonstration. They marched across Pennsylvania Avenue. "To Hell With Communists and Communism," one of their signs said.

Among them was a man wrapped in chains, dragging a wooden hammer and sickle. "Bomb Hanoi," read his sign, topped by a small U.S. flag.

And there was a picket from the American Nazi Party, his street corner shielded by police, his sign reading:

"Free Gasoline and Matches for Peace Creeps."

A foreign car rolled down Pennsylvania Avenue and, as it passed the picketers, the sun-roof opened and a woman held aloft a sign saying: "Peace Finks Go Home."

REP. GEORGE BROWN

Viet Peace Speech by Southland Solon

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON—Neutralization of Southeast Asia under a United Nations peace-keeping force and a six-point program for ending the Viet Nam war were advocated by a Southern California congressman at Saturday's anti-Viet Nam War rally here.

Rep. George Brown, D-Monterey Park, urged U.S. support of a neutralist organization composed of both Viet Nam, Cambodia, Laos, Thailand, Burma, Malaysia and "other Asiatic nations who might later seek to join."

Brown, the only government official to address the rally, on the Washington Monument grounds, said any member nation should be free to select its own form of government "without interference from its neighbors, or any great power."

* * * *

"I suggest that each member of this organization commit itself to renounce military force in its relations with all its neighbors, and that (the members) receive in return the protection of a United Nations peace force—and the guarantee of its security by all the great powers, both the Communist and non-Communist blocs," said Brown, who is serving his second House term.

Brown also suggested that the U.S. give economic aid to the troubled area through a Southeast Asian Development Bank, and that the U.S. "make a 10-year pledge of support which would be at least equal to what it has expended in this area the last 10 years."

He urged that other nations do likewise.

Brown made his proposal for a neutralist organization after offering a six-point program for ending the Viet Nam conflict. He said the United States should—

1. Call for a cease-fire throughout Viet Nam, whenever the other side is ready to accept it, and announce that it is halting the bombing of North Viet Nam for an indefinite period of time.

2. Halt the introduction of additional men and material and ask the other side to do the same.

3. Reiterate its support for a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam based on the principles of the Geneva Accords of 1954—including the eventual withdrawal of all foreign military forces, a prohibition against alliances, the peaceful reunification of Viet Nam and self-determination for the Vietnamese people.

4. Declare its willingness to negotiate with all concerned parties, including the Viet Cong—a primary combatant.

5. Declare its willingness to accept as part of the settlement a representative new government in South Viet Nam, selected through a free and fair election supervised by the United Nations.

6. Declare its support for a United Nations peace force to supervise the cease-fire, provide for peaceful establishment of a new government in South Viet Nam, protect the rights of all citizens and protect the neutrality of North and South Viet Nam."

Brown stressed that the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong should also issue declarations cited in his third, fifth and sixth points.

Although Brown had top billing of the half-dozen speakers at the rally, the crowd's reception for him was less enthusiastic than for Norman Thomas. The old Socialist got a standing ovation before he even began his emotional, rambling talk.

Brown was often applauded moderately, but there were scattered boos when he said that "representatives of our government are seeking to open the door to negotiations in a multitude of ways."

Lakewood High, largest on the roster with 3,850 pupils, Parlier, a San Joaquin Valley school with an enrollment of only 360.

Police said no incidents marred the yearly event, although review officials reported one girl became ill and had to be taken to a hospital for treatment.

In addition to judging of bands, drum majors, majorettes and majorette teams were given prizes.

The evening awards ceremony in the Municipal Auditorium was supplemented by announcement of winners in the California State Baton Twirling Championships held in conjunction with the review.

Many weary young strutters completed the trip down Ocean Boulevard with their high school bands, then entered state championship competition immediately thereafter.

Winners of the 1965 All-Western Band Review by divisions were:

CLASS AA: Anaheim and Pasadena, Grossmont, Montebello, Santa Monica.

CLASS A: Mt. Miguel, Helix, Loara Saxon (Anaheim), Norwalk, Monrovia.

CLASS B: El Cajon Valley, Baldwin Park, Glendora, Savanna (Anaheim), San Mateo.

CLASS C: Hilltop, Monte Vista, Granite Hills, La Canada, Tulare.

CLASS D: Dos Palos, Castle Park, Santana, Chula Vista, Selma.

CLASS E: Coalinga, Chowchilla, Tranquillity, Orosi, St. Augustine.

MILITARY DRUM MAJOR: Tom Peacock, Savanna (Anaheim), Bruce Van Dale, Glendora; Larry Cooper, Loara Saxon (Anaheim).

MILITARY DRUM MAJORETTE: Cheryl Wilkinson, Azusa; Sally Kates, Grossmont; Eileen Penman, El Cajon Valley.

TWIRLING DRUM MAJOR: David Hoffman, Los Banos; James Williams, Santa Monica; Bryan Reeves, Covina.

TWIRLING DRUM MAJORETTE: Nancy Ridd, Montclair; Diane Nakamitsu, San Mateo; Pat Frederick, Norwalk.

MAJORETTE TEAM: Merced, Hilltop, Los Banos, Glendora, Dos Palos.

California State Baton Twirling Championships were awarded to boys and girls in senior through juvenile divisions. They included:

Senior Girls: Diane Nakamitsu, 16, San Mateo; Christine Doran, 16, San Lorenzo; Barbara Schneider, 17, Whittier; Jane Proud, 16, Chino, and Pat Wagner, 16, Bellflower.

Boys' division winners were Mike Gray, 16, San Diego, senior boys; Pat Gray, 12, San Diego, junior boys; Michael Cruz, 5, Cupertino, juvenile boys.

Other girl winners were Becky West, 13, Ontario, junior girls, Debbie Sue Porter, 9, Oceanside, juvenile girls, and juvenile strut: Diane Nakamitsu, 16, San Mateo, senior strut, and Carol Moss, 14, El Centro, junior strut.

Margulies now has three productions in preparation for Warner Bros. The others are based on Norman Mailer's novel, "An American Dream," and Jean Kerr's play, "Poor Richard."

"Where's the Action?" was purchased last week by Warner Bros. The unpublished first novel was written by Bruce Douglas Reeves, a 24-year-old San Franciscan. New American Library will publish the book in fall of 1966.

Cong Battalions Maul Government Troops

QUAN DAO TENG, Viet Nam, Sunday (AP)—Four Viet Cong battalions badly mauled a government regiment Saturday after it had beaten the Communists in an earlier battle.

Reinforced by North Vietnamese regulars, the guerrillas machine-gunned all government troopers who responded to a surrender call during the fighting on a French-owned rubber plantation, 35 miles northwest of Saigon.

Two of four government battalions were beleieved to have suffered heavy casualties. American advisers to the 7th Regiment of the Vietnamese army were said to be among the dead and wounded.

Ten C123 transport planes evacuated the most severely wounded Saturday night.

A Vietnamese military source said 400 Communists had been killed. U.S. sources said such confusion prevailed that it was impossible to get a reasonably accurate count of the enemy toll.

L.A. Peace March Not Very Big

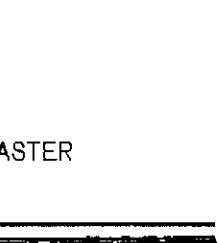

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An estimated 1,000 marchers paraded from Pershing Square to MacArthur Park Saturday in a demonstration to coincide with a larger anti-Viet Nam policy march in Washington, D.C.

Police said there was only one incident during the "walk for peace in Viet Nam" along Wilshire Boulevard.

Two men grabbed a sign away from a girl marcher and were arrested on a charge of battery. Officer John Gehlsen identified the two men as James O'Rourke, 46, and Hershal Gifford, both of Los Angeles. Gehlsen said the two men had been heckling the marchers before the incident.

ASKS PRESIDENTIAL POWERS BE TRIMMED

Report Proposes Revitalization of Congress

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress should install information computers, trim presidential powers, alter the Supreme Court and start "thwarting, hampering and opposing" the executive in exercising its check-and-balance power.

These were some of the proposals for revitalizing Congress contained in three studies sponsored and published today by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research. Nine other reports are to follow.

Dr. Lewis A. Dexter, a visiting lecturer in sociology at the University of Maryland, said there is a "real danger of Congress becoming too 'nice' as an institution in this era of "consensus" government.

He observed that the last five presidents were men of "considerable prudence" and then added:

"But suppose, which is by no means impossible — a couple of fire-eating chief executive men with the worst features of Andrew Jackson; suppose, for that matter, a president who treated Mexico and India as Lyndon Johnson treated the Dominican Republic; or suppose just stupid and unimaginative presidents, then many of those who now deplore check - and - balance would thank God for the Congress."

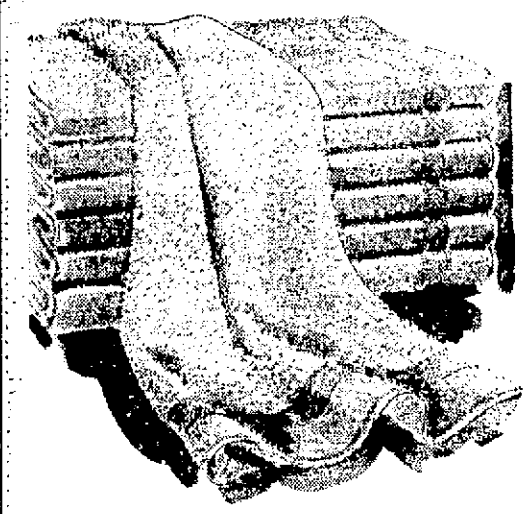

Dr. Kenneth Janda, assistant professor of political science at Northwestern University, said automated information processing systems would give congressmen fingertip "recall information that would help voting decisions," analyses of public documents and studies of constituents' interests.

He estimated the cost might be kept under $300 million, and be worth it.

THE JOINT committee on Organization of Congress, now considering new legislative reform proposals, has heard other testimony on computerizing information for the lawmakers.

QUAKES DISCOUNTED

Bid of California as Atom-Cracker Site Still Strong

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON — California's bid for a huge atom smasher is unshaken by Midwestern claims that the state's earthquakes make it unsuitable for the $300-million facility.

So says Dr. Paul McDaniel, director of research for the Atomic Energy Commission and the man coordinating the evaluation of sites proposed in the 85 bids being considered by the federal government for the giant research center.

McDANIEL

Dr. McDaniel clears up the earthquake question in an interview with The Independent in which he discusses some of the specifics of the general criteria put forth by the AEC for a site.

Selection of the site has become a highly charged political issue with areas in virtually every state hoping to get the 200-billion-electron-volt accelerator, which is perhaps the biggest piece of pork to come down the pike in several years. A final site selection may not be made until after next year's elections.

* * * *

DR. McDANIEL, a lean, graying scientist who denies that he's gotten any particular political heat in the site-evaluation task, acknowledges that the general criteria established by the AEC last year have been broadly interpreted, sometimes through rose-colored glasses.

Dr. McDaniel, who points out that one factor will be weighed against another in evaluating sites, gives the following clarifications of some of the general criteria set forth by AEC:

Geology—Earthquake activity is not overriding, assuming a site were not directly over a bedrock fault. California's seismic activity was a big point in a presentation made recently by 13 Midwestern governors, but the Midwest was shaken by a temblor shortly after they made their pitch.

A minor earthquake would not impair the accelerator seriously because the huge machine would be moved uniformly. To be avoided is terrain in which the doughnut-shaped ring might settle out of horizontal uniformity, since even a few thousandths of an inch distortion in the ring would necessitate costly adjustments.

Ideally, AEC would like a site on a deep, solid block of granite with an even overburden of soil deep enough to provide the 35 feet of dirt necessary to shield the facility.

"Unfortunately, God didn't make the land like that, McDaniel says.

Climate—Important largely because of design, construction and maintenance costs. Extremely cold, humid climates would necessitate additional insulation and enclosure of the ring and its appurtenant buildings. Relatively low humidity is desirable to facilitate evaporation of water for the accelerator's cooling system, which will use up to 4,000 gallons of water a minute.

Transportation—The site should be within an hour's driving time of a major airport.

Just how critical is this factor is indicated by the fact that high-energy physicists last year made about 4,000 one-day trips to existing accelerators. Thus, a transportation layover of an hour or so could cause a great waste of highly valuable scientific manpower.

One facet in evaluation of this factor will be the home bases of the physicists expected to be using the accelerator. The largest concentration is Chicago, 150, followed by New York, 105; Boston, 110; San Francisco, 78 and Los Angeles, 67.

Community—This is the stickiest wicket of all, because of the esoteric factors beyond the basic need of a city of at least 50,000 population with adequate available housing.

The less-tangible aspects include "proximity to a cultural center that includes a large university that will provide intellectual and cultural opportunities for staff and families." Community pride being what it is, this facet of the criteria probably has been the most broadly interpreted.

"There are only about 100 living people capable of designing this accelerator and only a few hundred capable of using it. While we don't treat them as prima donnas, it's obvious that they must be attracted to live and work in the area selected. Many such individuals are attracted to an area because of its cultural and intellectual activities."

HEIRESS OUT OF HIDING

Anna Maria Hitz Bierschenk, 18, heiress to millions, Saturday emerged from hiding in Caracas, Venezuela, long enough to have picture taken with husband. Almost all her life she had been center of custody fight between mother, who was awarded legal custody, and father and father's kin. Mother, in Washington, D.C., had reported her missing and wants to hear from her personally that she is all right and happy with Ulrich Bierschenk, 25, whom she introduced to newsmen as her husband. She said she gave birth to a daughter Nov. 2, asked to be let alone.

Three New Legal Codes Being Drafted for State

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Plans for drafting three complete new codes to replace California's ancient penal code, which was adopted in 1872, were announced Saturday.

The announcement was made by Arthur H. Sherry after the first meeting of the advisory board of California's Penal Revision Project. Sherry is director of the project.

Work is going forward, Sherry said, on the drafting of a Criminal Code, Code of Criminal Procedure and a Corrections Code to replace material now contained in a single code.

The Correction Code will contain all of the various provisions now scattered throughout the California statutes relating to the operation of prisons, county jails, probation and parole services.

* * * *

THE PROJECT was authorized by an act of the legislature which established a 10-man joint legislative committee under the chairmanship of Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville.

The advisory board is composed of experts of the bench and bar who will act as a consultative body to the committee staff and the legislature.

Members are Gregory S. Stout of the San Francisco Bar; Judge Folger Emerson of the Alameda County Superior Court; Arlo Smith, chief assistant attorney general; Keith Sorenson, district attorney of San Mateo County; Jay Ballantyne, Tulare County district attorney; Judge Lewis Drucker, retired Los Angeles County Superior Court judge and former chairman of the Adult Authority; Richard Buckley, chief public defense, Los Angeles County; and Edward L. Barrett Jr., dean of the school of law, University of California at Davis.

The advisory board heard reports from Sherry and the committee staff on the progress of the staff work over the past several months on such topics as arson, homicide, kidnaping, sentencing and corrections.

* * * *

GRUNSKY announced that he was working on the formulation of a Citizens Advisory Committee to act as "a sounding board" of public opinion. He indicated that the committee would be composed of a Northern California and a Southern California section of approximately 40 persons in each section.

The citizens committee will assist the advisory board and the legislative committee in determining public reaction to various proposals for change in the criminal laws.

Workers Hit Each Other's Pocketbooks

EDISON, N. J. (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. afternoon shift was prevented from entering the plant Saturday by a group of morning shift employes who were apparently seeking "revenge," a company spokesman said.

He said a small group of morning shift employes blocked the entrance and forced the plant's 1,300 afternoon shift employes to return home, causing them to lose a day's wages.

Apparently, the spokesman said, the action was to avenge a similar blockout Wednesday by afternoon-evening shift employes that prevented morning shift employes from earning holiday pay.

The dispute began when a group of employes asked to be paid earlier than usual before the Thanksgiving holiday, he said. When they were told it was impossible, they refused to leave the plant.

Finally, he said, they left the plant but stayed in the parking lot and refused to allow the morning shift to report for work.

Set Viet War 'Debate-Ins'

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — College students are planning a series of 'Debate-Ins" on the war in Viet Nam at campuses across the country on Dec. 7, the conservative organization of Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) said.

Tom Huston, national chairman of the group, said YAF members would debate representatives of Students for a Democratic Society (SDC), which opposes U.S. involvement in Viet Nam and has helped organize many student protest demonstrations.

Red Chinese Lose Tunisia Backing

TUNIS (AP) — Communist China's heavy-handed diplomacy has lost her another influential friend in Africa and helpel defeat the latest move to bring Peking into the United Nations.

A serious crisis in China's relations with Tunisia has brought the two countries to the verge of a diplomatic break and has cost China the prestige victory of recognition by a simple majority of the U.N. General Assembly.

Tunisia's outspokenly pro-western president, Habib Bourguiba, for years demanded Peking's admission to the world body. In 1963 Chinese Premier Chou En-lai visited Tunis and obtained Bourguiba's agreement to establish diplomatic relations.

* * * *

BUT AS THE Chinese sought to exploit the newly found friendship, Bourguiba became increasingly alarmed by their penetration attempts in Africa and their blustering efforts to dominate all the Afro-Asian world.

After long taking a position of nonalignment, Bourguiba abruptly changed position in Viet Nam. Almost alone among African leaders, he blamed the Viet Nam war on Chinese Communist ambitions.

In an interview with the French magazine Realites earlier this month, Bourguiba denounced Red Chinese leaders as madmen resembling Hitler who were leading the nations into a third world war.

"Any concessions to them would only raise their unlimited ambitions still further," the Tunisian leader declared.

* * * *

In the U.N. General Assembly Nov. 18, Tunisia's abstention helped swing the balance in the critical vote on China's admission to the United Nations. A two-thirds majority would have been needed to bring China in, but the moral victory of a simple majority would have given Peking a prestige boost.

The General Assembly tied 47-47 with 20 abstentions and thus rejected the Red China's admission. If Tunisia had voted yes as in previous years, the resolution would have won a simple majority.

NOW REST IN PEACE

'Eve' Girls Score Over The Peepers

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Girls at a Dublin factory ended a strike Saturday after employers agreed to alter a transparent plastic door they installed on the ladies' powder room. The strike lasted a week.

The trouble began when officials at Eve of Dublin, Ltd., an underwear factory, had a wooden door torn down and replaced it with a plastic one. The management said the girls spent too long in the powder room smoking.

The 150 girls said the new door was transparent, and the ladies' room was visible from outside.

After the girls walked out the Workers Union of Ireland held talks with employers. Under agreement reached Saturday the employers said they would cover the lower portion of the door.

The girls return to work Tuesday.

Boy Gets Picture of President

If 11-year-old Richard Hester seems unusually chipper these days, there's a darn good reason for it, his friends at Bret Harte Elementary School will tell you.

Five weeks ago, Richard, of 5865 Walnut Ave., sent a letter to President Johnson, accompanied by a drawing he did.

Well, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hester hasn't quite been himself since he got a reply from the White House last week.

* * * *

"IT TOOK them a month to answer me," the blond, green-eyed sixth grader said the other day, "but I'm sure happy they did."

In addition to receiving a picture of Johnson, Richard got a booklet on the White House and a nice note of thanks from the President's personal secretary, Juanita D. Roberts.

In his own letter, Richard had asked for a picture of the President.

"Please have it little-sized," he had written. "I would really be happy to get it."

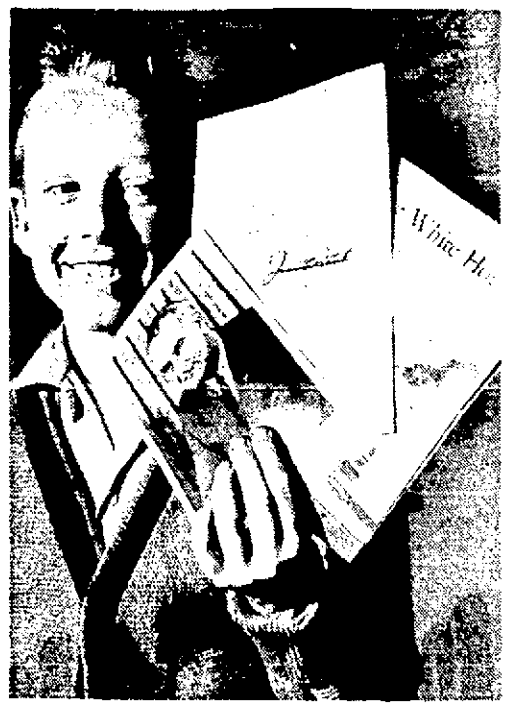

* * * *

THE PICTURE wasn't quite as "little sized" as he had hoped, so he won't be putting it in his photo album. But he has bigger plans: he intends to take the 5-by-7-inch photograph and frame it.

"I'm going to put it up in my room," he declared proudly.

Richard's drawing for the President, by the way, showed the Statue of Liberty, the White House, the Capital building and the face of a quarter. A large order for a small artist. But Richard managed to set them all on the one sheet of paper.

Which shouldn't have surprised the President really, as Congress does it all the time—that is, pack a lot of little things into what initially was a single piece of legislation.

Name Indian Health Trio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appointment of three new members to the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Indian Health was announced by the public health service.

They are Dr. Cecil Legriel Wittson, Omaha, Neb., dean of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine; John D. Dressler, Carson City, Nev., chairman of the Inter-Tribal Indian Council of Nevada, Inc.; and Cato Valandra, Rosebud, S.D. president of the Rosebud Sioux Tribal Council.

The next meeting of the nine-member committee will be held Dec. 6-8 in Phoenix, Ariz.

GOP Chiefs Urge Gifts for S. Viets

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — House Republican leaders called on Americans today to help fill a 100-car trainload of food, medical supplies, toys and clothes for distribution as Christmas gifts to the South Vietnamese.

"We believe this program should be a convincing answer to the thoughtless mob of demonstrators who are advocating that we turn Viet Nam over to the Communists," the GOP leaders said in a statement.

The gifts, which also may include household supplies, tools, and other useful items, will be collected during a cross-country train trip originating here Dec. 15 and terminating on the West Coast. The collection then will be shipped to Viet Nam for distribution by U.S. troops.

* * * *

THE NONPARTISAN project is labeled ACTT (Americans' Christmas Train and Trucks). It is sponsored by Young Republicans, Young Democrats and the national Junior Chamber of Commerce Organizations.

A statement urging "wholehearted participation" in the project was signed by Reps. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, house GOP leader; Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, GOP whip; Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican conference; John J. Rhodes of Arizona, chairman of the House GOP policy committee; and Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the House Republican campaign committee.

UCI Chancellor Is Big Brothers Head

UCI Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich Jr. will head the Orange County Big Brothers, succeeding Robert Guggenheim Jr., of Newport Beach, who has headed the organization for four years.

During the past year, the Big Brothers aided 500 boys in Orange County. More than 200 men are enrolled as its members.

BROWN TELLS GOAL

Education Gets LBJ Top Priority

PASADENA (AP) — "Education tops the list" of the fundamental goals of President Johnson's Great Society and the Democratic Party of California, Gov. Brown said Saturday night.

"Excellence in education. That is the first goal of this administration," Brown said in prepared remarks before the 47th Assembly District Democratic Dinner. The Los Angeles County lower house district has been a Republican stronghold.

Brown, expected to announce his candidacy for re-election in January, said that next year his administration "will go to the people with our record and our program . . . we will take action and plan for the future."

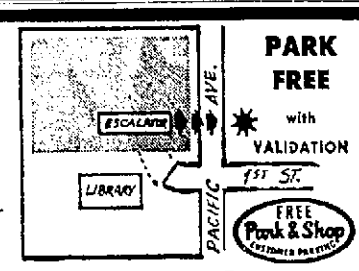

Misled Roses

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP)—Roses misled by unseasonably mild weather are blooming in the famous Valley of Roses under the snowy slopes of the Eastern Bulgarian Balkan Mountains, the news agency BTA reports. The roses are cultivated there for their scented oil.

LBSC Has Week for Coeds

Crowning of "Diamond Jim" Friday night will climax "Women's Week" which starts Monday at Long Beach State College.

Coeds will select Diamond Jim from among eight candidates in campus-wide voting Thursday. The winner will be crowned at the Diamond Jim "turnabout" dance in the college cafeteria.

Diamond Jim candidates are Joe Bleakley, Chris Canaday, Steve Case, Gaylord Daniel, Bob Kaltenbach, Bob Kline, Ken Mayers and Lee Spath.

Purpose of the week, according to the college, is to further ideas about women and to foster new friendships among women students and the women faculty members.

* * * *

OPENING EVENT Monday is a noon lecture by Mary Lou Burnett of the Patricia Stevens Modeling School in Lecture Hall 51 on "How to Be Feminine in a Masculine World." Miss Burnett will be the honored guest at a 1 p.m. tea.

Diamond Jim campaigning will continue throughout the week. Wednesday noon the candidates will perform in skits in front of the college bookstore. A student-faculty potluck dinner will be held at the cafeteria at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Friday noon three members of the faculty will answer impromptu questions concerning women in a panel discussion in Lecture Hall 151. The panel includes Dr. Kenneth Shanks, Dr. Hugh Smith and Dr. David Dressler.

Theme for the 9:10 p.m. to 1 a.m. dance is "Holly-Daze." Diamond Jim will be crowned at midnight.

Government Strike Ends in Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Some 200,000 government workers ended their strike Saturday when the government agreed to a budget that will provide salary increases for its employes next year.

The proposed salary raises will boost the budget from 8 billion pesos to 13 billion pesos, a rise of about $200 million.

The workers, who struck early this week, had asked for a 48% increase and the government counteroffer was a 25% hike. The cost of living has increased 55% in the first 10 months of 1965.

The 300,000-member Central Workers Union staged a 24-hour strike Wednesday in support of the government workers and the combined walkout virtually paralyzed Uruguay.

Kuwait Sheik Sworn as Ruler

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Sheik Sabah as-Salem as-Sabah took the oath as the 12th ruler of Kuwait Saturday and promised to continue the foreign and domestic policies of his elder brother, Abdullah, who died Wednesday of a heart ailment, Kuwait Radio reported.

The broadcast said Sabah paid tribute to "the remarkable achievements" of the late ruler who used Kuwait's vast amounts of oil money to modernize the tiny sheikdom.

The new ruler was sworn in at an extraordinary session of the National Assembly, the broadcast said.

U.S. CRAFT DENY CONG ACCESS TO KEY AREAS

Pacific Mine Force Staff Chief Tells of Operations Off Viet

By BUCK LANIER
Naval Affairs Reporter

The belief that one nation's navy can control the seas is a fallacy, according to Capt. Frank N. Shamer, chief of staff, Pacific Mine Force.

"Denying to the enemy use of a selected area for a period of your own choosing is the precise goal," Capt. Shamer declared.

The former World War II submariner pointed out that the Mine Force's "Market Time" operations off Viet Nam was a prime example for the U.S. Navy.

"Our minesweepers and coastal surveillance vessels now are denying the Viet Cong access to the coastal area to infiltrate spies, guerrillas and run supplies. Our stop and search methods on all junks and related craft gives us 100% effectiveness, too," he declared.

The chief of staff picked up an unusual souvenir when he was engineering officer of the USS Seal — Japanese bottom paint on his submarine.

The boat was rammed while firing on a convoy, but he managed to escape in a way submariners like to escape — dry.

"There sure was a lot of rice and beans to get off when we surfaced," the captain said.

Capt. Shamer admitted he was partial to the "small ship Navy" because of the "spirit, attitude and group identification."

He pointed out, too, that minesweepers have a ticklish material problem since everything must be nonmagnetic.

"This creates special procurement problems, too," he said. "Some parts are not available readily and in many cases it takes unusual self reliance by the crew to keep operable."

He came to his present assignment from Paris where he served as chief of the joint plans branch of the Plans, Policy and Operations Division, Headquarters, U.S. European Command.

Capt. Shamer was in Long Beach at the beginning of his naval career aboard the cruiser USS Tuscaloosa in 1937 and nearly got back in 1956. He had been ordered to report to Mine Division 7 but a last minute change sent him to commander-in-chief, Atlantic, Norfolk, Va.

Long Beach duty did come up again in 1959 when he was given command of the fleet oiler USS Pasumpsic, for 13 months.

Capt. Shamer has seen plenty of changes in Long Beach, "all for the positive, and plenty between 1960 and the date of my return this summer."

He received the Silver Star for the service on the Seal, the Navy Commendation Medal with Combat V for service as commanding officer of the USS Queenfish and the Submariners Combat Pin.

Bread Strike May Spread Over Britain

LONDON (UPI)—The Labor government Saturday was faced with the possibility that union bakers would extend their bread strike throughout England and Wales.

Everything appeared to depend on the decision of the 12-man executive of the 32,000-member bakers' union, which meets in Birmingham this afternoon.

The strike resulted in long lines outside baker's shops for most of the week in Wales and the Midland regions of England. A supporting strike started Friday in the Greater London region spread the bread famine to the south.

Teacher of English Assails Colleagues

BOSTON (AP) — The way English is being taught to high school students who are slow or only average learners is shocking and shameful, the executive director of the National Council of Teachers of English said Saturday.

James R. Squire said, "I cannot believe that American society will support such indifference and lack of concern about the English programs for almost half of our students so evident in this country today."

In a prepared report on a national study of high school English programs, Squire said:

"If I speak bitterly, it is because I know we can do better . . . for teachers of literature not to present literature, teachers of composition to ignore composition, teachers of language to ignore all we know about the social dialects of their pupils—seems to me shocking and shameful."

He noted "little attempt to introduce intellectually stimulating learning, an absence of imaginative literature and excessive reliance on the technological, the scientific, the mechanical; a much greater use of routine drill books, workbooks, and 'canned' duplicated lessons.

"Indeed, again and again, we found the same teacher performing brilliantly with her honors students, performing dully and dismally with the dullard an hour later," he said.

Calif. Crop Receipts to Set Record

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Federal estimates of California's 1965 gross agricultural cash receipts indicate a record figure, Gov. Brown said Saturday.

"Our earlier forecast that California's farm product value would equal or exceed the $3.6 billion record set in 1964 is being borne out," Brown said.

Brown said his statement was based on a recent report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service.

California's cash receipts from farm marketings are running 2 per cent above 1964, according to the federal report covering the first nine months of the year, Brown said.

Brown said the federal report shows that the value of California crops is only slightly ahead of 1964, while livestock and poultry are up 5%.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

13 Killed in Plane Bound for Game

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A two-engine football charter plane groping its way through a snowstorm struck one hill and crashed into another southwest of Salt Lake City early Saturday, killing all 13 persons aboard.

Wreckage of the Edde Airlines DC3 splintered 500 yards across a canyon beyond the two hills. Bodies were scattered, most of them burned beyond recognition. Only the tail section and a sheared-off wing were discernible in the charred ruins.

Searchers tagged 12 bodies and said the remains of the 13th possibly were among the others.

The nine passengers and four crew members were en route from Salt Lake City to Provo, 35 air miles south, to pick up more passengers for a flight to Albuquerque, N.M., and the Saturday afternoon Brigham Young-New Mexico football game. No football players were aboard.

The victims were: T. R. Gledhill, 43, Salt Lake City businessman; Dr. Tony Dalton, Dr. Gordon Lewis, Dr. Marion Probert, Dr. Bernard Kritchfield and Dr. Roger Parkinson, all Salt Lake City physicians; Garth Edde, 45, the pilot; Kenneth Myers, co-pilot; Norma Jenkins, stewardess; Diana Edde, 17, daughter of the pilot; Salt Lake City attorney Richard Wilkins, deadhead pilot Calvin Higgs and J. Peterson. All were from Salt Lake City.

10,000 N-Warheads in Europe

PARIS (UPI)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told a meeting of NATO defense ministers Saturday the United States has more than 10,000 nuclear warheads assigned to its strategic forces or stockpiled in Europe.

He said this number would be increased by 20% within the next six months.

"This will represent a doubling of nuclear weapons strength in Europe over the past five years," McNamara said.

After the meeting, McNamara left for Saigon for an on-the-spot visit to Viet Nam battlefronts.

New Opposition for De Gaulle

PARIS (AP)—A vigorous Kennedy-type campaign by handsome Jean Lecanuet has thrown shivers of fear into the supporters of President Charles de Gaulle, with the French presidential election only a week away.

LECANUET

Government ministers have started a vigorous counterattack and their main target is Lecanuet.

Gen. De Gaulle, after announcing that he would not take part in the political maneuveting and would make only one brief address before the voting, has decided to go on television Tuesday night.

He also will speak on Friday when the campaign for the Dec. 5 vote closes.

No one expects Lecanuet to win, or even to finish in second place, but his raids on the Gaullist centralist stronghold could—if the trend continues in the final week—leave De Gaulle with less than 50% of the total vote.

This would force a second round of voting Dec. 19, with only the two top candidates left on the ballot.

Some sources close to De Gaulle have hinted the haughty 75-year-old general would consider this an affront on his dignity. They say that rather than take part in a run-off election, De Gaulle would retire.

Vatican Treasures Recovered

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Police said Saturday a sharp-eyed gardener led them to a field where he found three of the four treasures stolen Friday from the Vatican library. The find included two manuscripts considered priceless.

The manuscripts of 14th-century humanist Francesco Petrarch and 16th-century poet Torquato Tasso were wrapped in a package and undamaged. A replica of the crown of St. Stephen, less valuable, was slightly bent and some of the small stones in the crown had been pried out.

Still missing was the fourth item stolen — a crystal box containing the bloodstained pages of an address Ecuadorian President Garcia Moreno was holding when he was assassinated in 1875.

Cafe Burner Held for Murder

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — A teen-ager who was refused service at a Providence nightclub was charged with murder Saturday for a fire at the club that killed one man and seriously burned eight other persons.

Police said three teen-agers were refused service Friday night at Fiore's Cafe. The drinking age in Rhode Island is 21. Later that night, authorities charged, the three returned to the cafe and set it on fire in reprisal.

Vincent R. Iacobucci, 18, pleaded innocent in Sixth District Court to both murder and statutory-burning charges. The case was continued to Dec. 9 for hearing.

Gales Lash Northeast

CHICAGO (AP) — Gales on the tail of a major storm lashed the northeast Saturday after dumping heavy snow near the north-central border and loosing tornadoes in the Midwest.

Buffalo, N.Y., Airport was raked with gusts up to 59 m.p.h, and power failures hit South Buffalo and Lackawanna as well as other portions of the state.

Forty and 50-mile winds in the Watertown, N.Y., area tipped over a house trailer, and felled trees and limbs, snapping utility lines.

Anti-Smoke Drive Makes Converts

LONDON (AP)—The British government believes its propaganda against cigarette smoking, now three years old, is beginning to make converts. It claims a trend likely to lead to a steady drop in consumption of cigarette tobacco.

The tobacco industry is skeptical, but such a claim by government markedly dependent on revenue from tobacco is obviously not made lightly. The government gets 3 cents in tax every time a Briton lights a cigarette.

"We seem to have made a very definite impact on the nation's thinking habits about cigarettes," said a spokesman for the Ministry of Health.

"We believe we have partly demolished the thought barrier which saw cigarette smoking as a natural and harmless function.

"Whereas the term 'non-smoker' once tended to identify a person as a crank or faddist, this no longer seems to be true.

"There is now a lot of good will among the public to reduce cigarette smoking. And a high proportion want to see more publicity about the possible evils of cigarettes."

* * * *

Sales of cigars have risen from 390 million in 1962 to 590 million last year.

The Ministry of Health sees a shift to filter tips and the growing popularity of cigars as strung indications that the public is growing wary in its uses of cigaretts. Half the cigarettes sold are filter tips. People seem to regard the filter as some sort of safeguard, although this has never been stated by the tobacco companies.

The tobacco industry admits that British and American official reports linking cigarette smoke and cancer have had an affect on cigarette consumption. But, the industry maintains that the major reason for falling sales is the increased cost of smoking due to higher taxation.

With four hikes in tax since 1960, a pack of 20 cigarettes now costs 78 cents, 60 of which go to the government.

The Customs and Excise Department estimates that revenue from tobacco sales this year will reach a record $2.95 billion. This is 105 times more than similar revenues of 1900 and sufficient to meet total annual government expenditure on education.

* * * *

SO WHILE it campaigns to destroy the cigarette the government has the country's biggest vested interest in its continued existence.

The money it is spending on its anticigarette drive this year is, by comparison, a puny sum—$327,000.

The program started in a muted way with the aim of establishing nonsmoking as the norm of behavior for teen-agers. Popular national heroes such as soccer stars were depicted as abstainers, in a series of comic strips and cartoons.

A survey showed that teenagers were cynical toward the campaign mainly because their elders were not exhorted to quit smoking cigarettes.

* * * *

SO THE ministry has gone over to a national poster campaign and taken time on television to persuade adults to stop.

A one-minute TV film which the ministry believes had an impact showed a surgeon sitting at his desk and saying:

"Most of the patients I see here in hospital with lung cancer and with bronchitis, and many of those with heart disease, ruined their health by smoking cigarettes. Of course, they didn't know that cigarette smoking was dangerous, but we do know now and it's rather worrying that so many people go on taking this serious risk.

"Besides, many people can stop much more easily than they think.

"And we know that when people stop smoking their health begins to improve, even if they've smoked for years . . ."

NEXT GIANT STEP—MARS

Nuclear Powered Spacecraft in Works

By GEORGE SKELTON

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—While an American on the moon is still five years away, a group of engineers have spent $780 million on the next giant step: a vehicle to carry man to Mars and beyond.

By contrast, the project makes the trip to the moon look like a simple walk around the block.

The Mars vehicle will be nuclear powered. A nuclear spaceship will be faster, more efficient and more economical than present chemically-fueled vehicles.

"You might say it gets more miles per gallon," says Dr. C. C. Ross, vice president of Aerojet-General Corp., prime contractor for the machine. With Westinghouse as a partner and with 60 subcontractors, Aerojet has been working on a nuclear rocket engine since 1961. Research on the idea started 10 years ago.

* * * *

ROSS FIGURES taxpayers will have spent $2 billion, roughly $10 for every man, woman and child in the nation, on "Nerva" (Nuclear Engine for Rocket Vehicle Application) by the time it is launched. So far, $780 million has been spent and the result is an engine —on the drawing boards.

It will be tested next month when Nerva is fired 90 miles northwest of Las Vegas, Nev., at Jackass Flat —near the atom bomb test site.

"We're confident," says Ross, manager of Aerojet's nuclear rocket program. "We've tested and retested everything. We don't see any problems."

* * * *

ROSS SAYS it probably will be 1982, however, before Americans — eight of them—set out for Mars, 35 million miles away. When they do, it'll take them 220 days (over 7 months) traveling at speeds of 74,000 to 92,000 miles per hour to get there. They'll spend two to three weeks on the planet, about half the size of earth, then return — making a roundtrip of well over a year.

By contrast, the moon mission—hoped for 1970—will last a total of 7 days. The three Apollo astronauts, boosted by chemical rockets, will whirr through space at "only" 17,500 mph.

ARE NUCLEAR rocket engines safe?

"Our policy is to treat the engine as if it were a bomb," Ross says. "However, the engine under no conditions will ever perform like a bomb.

* * * *

ABOUT 4,500 people currently are working either directly or indirectly on the project. Next month's test will be a "Breadboard." That is, all engine parts will be tested, but spread out separately from their regular alignment. This is to permit scientists to more easily study each individual unit.

The first full "configuration" test, with all components in their rightful place, will be held late next year. A "hot" vertical test, with the engine upright, will be staged in early 1967. The initial flight is tentatively planned for 1975 or 1976.

Pick New Director of Health

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dr. Lester Breslow of Berkeley has been appointed California's new director of the State Department of Public Health, Gov. Brown announced Saturday.

Breslow, 50, replaces Dr. Malcolm H. Merrill, who resigned effective Nov. 1 to take a federal post in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

* * * *

"DR. BRESLOW is recognized throughout the nation and internationally as an outstanding doctor, medical researcher and expert on health care programs," Brown said.

Breslow's appointment, subject to State Senate confirmation carries a salary of $26,000 a year.

Breslow, a Democart, has been with the department since 1946 and has been chief of the Division of Preventive Medical Services since 1960.

* * * *

BRESLOW was director of the study for the President's Commission on Health Needs of the Nation in 1952.

Brown said his selection was made from a list developed by the nation's leading doctors and medical leaders and coordinated by Dr. John Porterfield, head of medical and health services at the University of California.

Disneyland Award Unit Meet Due

The six-member committee named recently to decide which organizations share in $28,000 posted for this year's Disneyland Community Service Awards will begin work Tuesday.

Dr. Daniel G. Aldrich Jr., chancellor of University of California Irvine, called the work session as chairman of the selection committee.

Since the committee was announced last September with the posting of a record $28,000—about twice the cash grants last year—25 Anaheim groups and 117 from elsewhere in Orange County have filed notices of intention to compete for awards.

* * * *

ALDRICH said that notices of intent to be considered for grants must be filed by Dec. 31.

There will be 23 cash awards. The $28,000 is divided into a $5,000 top honor, and other awards ranging down to $500. Two $2,500 awards and four of $1,000 each are reserved for competition among Anaheim groups. The others are open to any charitable, philanthropic or service organization in Orange County.

Irvine Library Plans 5-Story Addition

A five-story addition will be made to the library building at the new University of California Irvine campus which opened last month.

The structure will double the size of the library's 61,000 square feet, but will quadruple the book capacity by innovations in shelving and arranging, according to librarian John E. Smith. The library now has 100,000 volumes.

The $1,460,000 addition is expected to be completed in late 1968, indicating that bids may be asked in the summer of 1967.

Latin Guerrillas Lauded in Cuba

HAVANA (UPI) — The Cuban government has reiterated its support of antigovernment guerrillas in Venezuela and Colombia.

A statement signed by Defense Minister Raul Castro, Fidel's brother, called the guerrillas in the two countries models of the anti-imperialist struggle. The statement was sent to Moscow for a reading before a youth meeting there and published in Havana Saturday.

Rescues Bat Wins Medal

Newport Ford Jobs Up

Engineering employment at Ford's Aeronutronic at Newport Beach jumped 20% in the past two months, as heavier emphasis was placed on meeting contractural obligations of the research and manufacturing firm.

Dr. Robert S. Carlson, director of engineering for the aerospace firm, said that 300 engineering personnel were added to increase the company's total to 1,500 engineers —about half of its total personnel of 3,200.

Aeronutronic has 85 prime contracts with the Department of Defense and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

English Like Yank's Fish, Chips

SGT. REYNOLDS AND SPECIALTY

By THOMAS A. REEDY

HUNTINGDON, England (AP)—For three years, Dick Reynolds did his daily chores as a veteran master sergeant of the United States Air Force at the Alconbury Field near this central England town.

His offtime was spent slaving over a hot frying pan.

Then he took his 20-year retirement pension and settled down.

Now it's paid off:

The 43-year-old Yank from Muskogee, Okla., makes some of the best fish and chips in town. His shop, the Tip Top, is thronged all day. He has bought another and expects to open it up, spic and span modern, in a few months.

A half mile away, he relaxes evenings in a bright new American-style home with his English wife, his 15-year-old son and 11-year-old daughter.

"It's a great life," said ex-Master Sergeant Richard J. Reynolds.

During his flying career, Reynolds fell in love not only with an English girl but with the English way of life.

He determined to take his retirement in England.

That's when he took his course in frying fish and chips, centuries-old traditional dish of the poor but tasty enough when done right for the epicure. He trundled over to Essex County whenever he had spare time to learn the trade from his father-in-law and help out, to boot.

In his spare time, he put his carpentering talents to work on building a small shop on the outskirts of Huntingdon.

One day, up went the sign "Tip Top — Fish and Chips."

He's never looked back since.

"I've been planning this venture for years," he said. "I've always wanted to have a nice fish and chip shop in England when I retired. I like the English way of life. I like meeting people and serving them. I chose fish and chips because it is the traditional English dish. I let my wife name the bar and she is a director. I plan to open a Tip Top fish restaurant up the road later on."

with MALCOLM EPLEY

IT WAS a week of happy reading elsewhere in the U.S. as Southern California, sustaining its reputation for things big and dramatic, provided the nation's front pages with boxcar headlines about a "weather disaster."

Jack Drown, the magazine sales tycoon, was in Chicago on business and said the stories displayed there gave the impression our whole area populace was fighting to stay alive in a sea of mud and water. If he hadn't been through this before, he would have feared for his home atop the Palos Verdes hills.

As usual under such situations, we've been getting calls from people around the country inquiring about the safety of their relatives.

It's not that the reports which go out of here were filled with error. They were basically correct, but the collection of sensational facts was just enough to make people believe the worst about what was happening. And people around the country like to believe the worst about Sou. Cal., which usually has the lion's share of the best of it.

AS TO mis-impressions from the news, another local traveler, Mgr. George Badenhausen of Harriman Jones Clinic, says the U.S. is getting a bum deal from the news disseminators in Europe.

"While I was in Europe," says Geo., "I was amazed to hear our domestic news garbled and twisted by the government's propaganda machine in England. The British Broadcasting Co. — 100% owned and controlled by the state — is doing us about as much good as Tokyo Rose did in World War II.

"The BBC is actually manufacturing its American news to strengthen Britain's sagging socialism. When you listen, you find yourself wondering if you're hearing about the same country you left a few short hours ago."

The U.S., which boasts the world's biggest conglomeration of public relations experts, never seems to do a good image job for itself abroad.

IT SEEMS like the wrong time to mention it- the supply of the birds having been badly decimated in the last few days — but I'm told that a turkey gobbler makes an admirable "watchdog."

Dr. Lawrence Kundis, the state college engineering prof., said he knows of people in various parts of the country who depend on the gobblers to "gabble" warnings about the arrival of strangers.

He imparted this bit of fascinating knowledge just as he and I and some others were picking over the last remains of what could no doubt have been a fine watchdog.

LONG BEACH residents have a chance to extend the hand of hospitality in an unusual way as a result of the visit here of the Australian Guided Missile Destroyer, HMAS Perth. It's at the Naval Station on a training mission and will be here at Christmas time.

Capt. Morton Lytle, the Naval Station cmdr. here, says the Perth's enlisted men would be thrilled to spend Christmas day in a home with tree, turkey and the works.

There are about 200 Australian sailors who could participate in such a program. To be sure we don't overlook U.S. sailors, also far from home, Capt. Lytle suggests that maybe some local families would be glad to have two men — one American and one Australian — for Christmas dinner.

Anyone wishing to volunteer to play Santa Claus in this great way can contact Capt. Lytle, USN, Naval Station, Long Beach, or call his office. Clint Furrer, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Armed Services Committee, thinks it's a great idea, and so does this dept.

BRIGHT DAY ADDS SNAP

7,000 'Strut Stuff'

Independent-Press-Telegram

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1965

Downtown Long Beach came alive with the sound of music Saturday as nearly 7,000 high school students participated in the 25th Annual All-Western Band Review, marking its silver anniversary.

The brassy din of 76 trumpets 76 trombones echoed from billboard to apartment house facade as the colorfully costumed marchers strode down Ocean Boulevard from Falcon Avenue to Magnolia Avenue.

Bright sunshine and warm weather drew many spectators to the review and some basked in bermuda shorts while others clustered in the cool shadows of tall buildings.

Staff Photos

Wave upon wave passed as the pageant unfolded. From the Azusa Aztecs to the Tustin Tillers they came, clad in Scottish tartans, Indian feathers and silver sequins.

Among the band units entered was one from Selma Union High School, which has marched down Ocean Boulevard's six-lane parade route every year for the past quarter-century.

Los Banos High School drum major David Hoffman endeared himself to the crowd when he paused while leading his 96-member band and rendered a snappy salute to the reviewing stand.

He went on to win first place.

Nearly four hours after the classic began, the 62-member Bellflower Union High School band brought up the rear of the parade and Ocean Boulevard was turned over once again to automobile traffic.

Spectators gathered up campstools and cushions and departed, leaving papers, pop bottles and other litter to mark the route.

The 6,700 bandsmen swarmed over the downtown area, looking for empty restaurant booths or counters. There was a bit of hand-holding to be seen among a few boys and girls in different uniforms.

"These kids really worked their hearts out for this," beamed one review official.

The youngsters who had paraded and serenaded throughout the afternoon returned to Municipal Auditorium for a little entertainment of their own. What was it?

Music and dancing.

What are drum majorettes made of?

They're made of little girls like Lori Roe, 4, of 21424 Budlong Ave., Torrance.

Lori's mom took her to the 25th Annual All-Western Band Review Saturday and the youngster was hooked the first time she caught sight of silver sequins and high-topped, tasseled boots.

She began practicing right there on Ocean Boulevard with first a rather tentative pirouette, then a few proud, high steps.

Now, just give her about 12 years.

A Body Blow to the Colleges

THE STATE COLLEGE SYSTEM received a body blow in the recommendation of the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education that professors receive a 6.6% pay hike. The trustees had recommended a 11.2% increase.

At the same time the council recommended an 8.1% increase for University of California professors.

This is not fair, and so far we have heard no reasons for widening the salary gap between state college and university professors. The university already has substantially higher salaries. Full university professors draw 21% more than those in the colleges.

BOTH SYSTEMS on the undergraduate and lower graduate levels teach the same subjects. It seems quite logical that their faculties should be comparable in academic qualifications and should receive comparable pay.

As it now stands, the state colleges are having difficulty in acquiring qualified personnel. Some students were rejected this year because there were not enough teachers.

The university now carries out certain functions beyond the scope and purpose of the state colleges. It provides the training toward degrees in medicine, law, sciences and other learned specialties. Perhaps teachers of such advanced disciplines deserve special salaries.

IT IS DIFFICULT to see, however, why a sophomore taking European history at California State College at Long Beach should have a professor who is paid substantially less than his counterpart at UCLA.

The effect of this discriminatory action is to make recruitment of qualified academic personnel more difficult at the state colleges and to force embittered professors to look for jobs where the pay is better. It is a questionable economic policy to build a high-cost system and staff it with low-paid professors.

The state colleges serve an important function in California. They provide higher learning for the upper one-third of high school graduates. They give future business and community leaders the essential knowledge and culture to fulfill their roles. They give our civilization the kind of men and women needed for further progress.

This is also what the university does on the undergraduate level. Why then should the university get the lion's share of the salaries?

A Challenge to Civilians

MEN AND WOMEN of the U.S. Navy and Coast Guard have added an even brighter chapter this year to their long record of generous support for the fund drives that finance community services in the Long Beach area.

From the Navy and Coast Guard units based in this area have come more than $190,000 for the combined federal campaign. Funds from this campaign go to the United Way agencies, the Red Cross and a number of designated health and welfare agencies. United Crusade, the financing effort for a large number of these agencies, will get around 70% of the Navy-Coast Guard contributions, giving United Crusade a strong push toward its big goal.

When it is recognized that much of the money from the service people goes to agencies from which they do not directly and personally benefit, the contributions become an outstanding example of unselfish giving.

AND THEY BECOME a clear-cut challenge to the civilian community. We surely cannot let these people, virtually all of them based here temporarily and thousands of them at sea, do better by our community services than we do ourselves.

If civilians give as cheerfully and generously as the Navy and Coast Guard, there will be no question of adequate financing for the vital community health, youth and welfare agencies supported through the combined campaign.

And we should leave nothing undone that will show the community's appreciation as opportunities arise to offer cooperation, hospitality and a friendly hand to the military people in our midst.

Reds in Open

EDITOR:

A few years ago a law was passed requiring Communists in this country to register with our government. Then along comes the Supreme Court and voids the law on the contention that the law is un-Constitutional. This has been the procedure time and time again.

This has prompted the American Communist Leader, Gus Hall to state; "Now we can come out into the open." When will the people ever realize that all is not well within our government power-structure? Years ago, a politician said something I shall never forget when he said; "The people have a short memory." How true and how sad.

The real danger comes from those extreme liberals within our own borders, who fraternize and patronize our known enemy. It's high time each of us take a personal interest in politics and know more of what's going on.

Probers Given Ring-Around on Automated Phone Calls

SACRAMENTO — Phone firms give you ring-a-ding-ding public service on most requests.

But that doesn't include queries as to whether automatic calling devices are making an unwarranted intrusion on the sanctity and privacy of the home.

From The I.P-T State Bureau

Confronted with questions from a legislative investigator, phone representatives either have begged ignorance or given cooperation grudgingly on tracking down automated phone-sales gadgets.

One person, informed of the pending legislative investigation, even hurled an implied threat.

"Don't legislators use the phone for campaign purposes near the election," he said. It is a credit to the integrity of lawmakers that the investigation still is under way.

* * * *

PHONE MEN are delighted to give you the time of day. Or they'll provide the area code for Signal Hill or the address of your second cousin in Newark, N.J.

But for all they hold dear at good ole Bell Tell, please don't ask them to look into the commercial automatic calling devices. That is hitting below the belt!

The concern over automatic-calling devices that pester home-owners first was expressed last August by Chairman Joseph M. Kennick of the Assembly Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

* * * *

KENNICK declared war on "fiendish black boxes" on reading that the Public Utilities Commission had learned of the development of an automatic-calling device that phones back if there is no answer.

Such a machine could have the capability also of replacing the call if you hang up on the recorded sales pitch before it is completed. "You could become a captive in your own home," Kennick figured.

Subsequent investigation revealed that the device referred to by the PUC no longer is being manufactured, according to research by Phillip H. Schott, the committee's consultant.

However, Kennick wanted to explore all automated phone-call devices on the market. And this is where his staff ran into trouble.

* * * *

PACIFIC Telephone representatives maintained they did not have a complete file on such devices, though they did hand over some newspaper clippings.

In other words, the largest California phone firm isn't even able to say what phone accessory devices are on the market. Or, it didn't want to say.

The committee investigation thus far has been stalled by this sort of phone-company indifference.

Kennick has vowed — if necessary—to subpoena the automated phone devices so the committee can study them at a future hearing.

Committee consultant Schott has now widened his investigation outside phone firms to track down the offending gadgets. If you have information on the automated phone-calling devices, phone Kennick's office at 432-5473. Please do your own dialing, however.

DUCK RACIAL ISSUE — The Democratic-controlled Assembly took pains to see that no racial issues linger from the autumn special session. Quietly killed so it wouldn't come up for a vote was a second resolution praising Los Angeles Police Chief William Parker and other public officials for their job in the Watts riots. An earlier Parker resolution also was scuttled.

* * * *

INTEREST TEST — State officials thus far have taken a ho-hum attitude on a federal government requirement that the top 200 federal officials must obtain a conflict-of-interest clearance. There is no comparable state program, and the state's conflict-of-interest laws have many loopholes.

* * * *

SMOGGY FUTURE — Assemblyman Charles E. Chapel, R-Palos Verdes Estates, says former smog czar Smith Griswold has been discounting the possibility that car anti-smog devices significantly will reduce air pollution.

FREDERIC W. COLLINS

Picking Successor for Bundy Will Be Big Decision for LBJ

WASHINGTON—It is one of the signs of the somewhat goofy times in which we live that one of President Johnson's most important upcoming decisions deals with filling a vacancy in a job most people never hear of from one end of the year to another.

It now seems quite likely that McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security affairs, will leave that job around the first of the year to become president of the Ford Foundation.

More people have heard of Bundy than had heard of any of his predecessors. He has not been wholly the prey of that passion for anonymity which at one time was supposed to be the sole distinction of presidential assistants. It is a safe bet, though, that few of those who have heard of Bundy could say what his title is, and that 999 people out of 1,000 lack the faintest idea of what the job is.

* * * *

YET THE JOB is of first importance. This particular special assistant is the closest and most continuous link between the President of the United States and the rest of the world. He has to be a sort of one-man National Security Council, open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Unlike the secretary of state, he is only a few yards away from the President's desk. In periods of crisis he may sleep, if at all, in his office in the cellar of the west office wing of the White House.

One of Washington's favorite parlor games just now is guessing who might succeed Bundy. Some of the guessing takes the form of proposing names of persons favored by the guessers. This correspondent has a candidate, who would undoubtedly be the best man for the post. His name shall remain secret, because Mr. Johnson might have this same man in mind and would certainly exclude him from consideration if his name were to appear in print. This would be bad for the country, and would deprive readers of these dispatches of one of their best "reliable sources."

* * * *

HOWEVER, the name of the new man is less important than what the choice will reveal about how Mr. Johnson wants the job done.

The special assistant for national security affairs, who is sort of dean of faculty for the high officers who sit as the National Security Council, occupies an extremely delicate position. Unless he is awfully careful, he can get his lines terribly tangled with those of the secretary of state, who is never likely to forget, however even his temper may be, that he is the senior cabinet officer and the one directly charged with the conduct of foreign affairs.

Yet in some ways, the special assistant holds a place in the line of authority superior to that of the secretary of state. He is in many instances the last stop, or the last relay point, for information coming from the whole intelligence community, or from the Pentagon, or from any other part of the government with responsibilities abroad, to the President.

OR, ON SOME occasions, his desk may be the launching pad for presidential authority as it radiates out into state, the Pentagon, and other "national security" elements of the executive branch. He is a vital conduit in the flow of advice and opinion to the President in such matters, and to an extent determined by his individual initiative, subject to the President's wishes, can easily become an adviser on his own. And, for that matter, he can likewise become an originator of action in the President's name.

There are two ways of doing the job. One is to have it occupied by a large personality, perhaps a name, who becomes a sort of deputy president in foreign affairs. The other is to have the job done by someone totally lacking in public identity, but steeped in the subject matter, knowledgeable in the bureaucracy, sound of judgment and capable of giving advice when asked. In an ideal world—i.e., one designed according to the specifications of this correspondent — the second is vastly preferable. If the President chooses somebody nobody ever heard of, there can be, within this school of thought, unrestrained applause.

Moderation at Disadvantage in Slugfest With Extremism

I. P-T Political Editor

MODERATION, by definition, is not the best weapon to use in a slugging match with extremism. But it has an inexorable strength in America — a vitality in numbers and reason to prevail despite an occasional tactical defeat.

This, in essence, is the explanation Republican leaders are giving for the Nov. 17 election of 32-year-old George J. King Jr. as president of Long Beach Young Republicans and for a belief that he or the group won't last long in their present roles.

* * * *

KING says he hasn't belonged to anything but the YR group in the last two years and has moderated his views. But he was given a year's probation after pleading guilty to illegal possession of a machine gun; belonged once to the John Birch Society; California Rangers and to the Signal Hill American Legion Post discredited for anti-Semitism. Assemblyman C. George Deukmejian said King admitted to him by phone last week that he is anti-Semitic.

GOP leaders aren't standing still. Deukmejian called on State party chairman Dr. Gaylord Parkinson. Parkinson asked and was promised a report by state YR President Mrs. Floy Archer, of Whittier. The matter of King's election here is bound to be brought before the county YR group Dec. 7.

J. K. (Ken) McCall, chairman of the Long Beach area's 32nd Congressional District division of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee, says the reaction against King in GOP ranks "has been violent. It's distressed everybody. It caught us by surprise because we thought the club had almost disintegrated. They did not communicate with us or attend our meetings. We thought they were a dead issue."

* * * *

McCALL SAID the local Central Committee will meet with county YR President Jerry Alexander Monday or Tuesday if possible to see what can be done at that level.

"Then," said McCall, "I intend to call a special meeting of the Central Committee here with the idea of withdrawing the local YR club's recognition by the Republican Party."

Woodrow W. Baird, a member of the GOP Central Committee and chairman of the local unit of the new, moderate California Republican League, was "upset but not too surprised" at King's election.

"People who seek the middle road," said Baird, "generally do so because nothing looks all black or all white to them. So it's hard to argue with those who take these strong, black and white positions. You're not willing to say he's absolutely wrong, but he's perfectly willing to say you are."

* * * *

BAIRD made it clear his views on extremism applied to those of the left who are embarrassing the Democratic Party in the same manner "that we are being embarrassed by this matter."

State Vice Chairman Kurt Hahn of the state's other new, moderate organization, Alliance of Republican Voters, was busy in Stockton at week's end doing some repudiating of his own against a "Birch-front organization called the Keep America Committee."

The committee, said Hahn, "is actively involved in a massive nationwide propaganda campaign to tab Christmas seals as unAmerican" through an "anti-Semitic literature distribution."

A copy provided by Hahn suggests the seal sale is an effort to foster "the un-American mental health program . . . It doesn't take a brain to figure why Jews plug Christmas seals when they hate Christ and the name Christmas."

CAPITAL CHATTER

Solon's Knife Job on Economic Aid Chief Is Whopper

WASHINGTON—When Eugene Foley was put in charge of a multi million-dollar program to aid economically depressed areas, he found that his first project would be in his own office.

Foley, undersecretary of commerce for economic development, got congressional authorization for $130,000 for an eight-person staff to set up the program.

From The I.P-T National Bureau

But Foley did not count on Rep. John Rooney of New York, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee for the Commerce Department. Rooney slashed Foley's appropriation from $130,000 to $50,000, leaving Foley with a staff of two secretaries.

Because Rooney's reputation has been made from his sharp cuts into the State Department budget, his knife job on Foley's budget was a surprise.

Those in the know claim that Rooney went after Foley because the former Small Business Administrator refused to hire a Rooney crony in his EDA office.

* * * *

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS who praised the appointment of S. Dillon Ripley as head of the Smithsonian Institution are beginning to have second thoughts.

Referring to Ripley as "the empire builder," they point out that he has already taken a sizable chunk of the United States Information Agency's budget and is now in charge of all foreign exhibits. The USIA staff for foreign exhibits has moved lock, stock and barrel into the Smithsonian's natural history building.

Other Ripley projects are aimed at the Department of Agriculture, the National Park Service and the National Gallery of Art.

Because the Smithsonian traditionally is immune from congressional inquiries, officials fear he will get control of their pet projects.

They argue that Ripley has enough to handle at the Smithsonian which has an annual budget of $30 million without taking on the rest of the capital.

* * * *

IT'S STILL A LITTLE EARLY to spread the word around, but there's one honey of a job about to open up for the right bear. And like many cushy human-type jobs, it's in Washington, D. C.

The job is that of acting as a prototype for the U.S. Forest Service's champion fire fighter, Smokey the Bear, whose poster image urges Americans to help stamp out forest fires.

The present Smokey lives at Washington's National Zoo, but he's approaching old age. Rescued as a cub from a New Mexico forest fire, the present Smokey is 15 years old, which is roughly comparable to a 45-year-old human.

The Forest Service recently disclosed that the original Smokey has failed to produce an heir, even though a mate moved in with him two years ago.

So now, the foresters are looking for the right cub to become the next Smokey. And they say they aren't even particular if he's a Democrat or a Republican as long as he can learn how to pour water on a campfire.

TAKE HEART, FOR NOT ALL government documents are couched in dull gobbledygook. Consider the report of a National Labor Relations Board examiner who pondered variant testimony in a case before him:

"It is as though there were two distinct versions of Uncle Tom's Cabin. While both versions agree that Liza sped rapidly across the ice, one version has her fleeing from the onrushing scoundrel whereas the other places her in this position because she enjoys winter sports."

Special China Flown From England for Princess

WASHINGTON — Princess Margaret doesn't know it, but special English china was flown across the Atlantic for use at the White House during her official visit. It took some strenuous transatlantic phone calls, some quick transatlantic air freight, and some transporting of samples to Texas by airplane to do it. But it was done.

What happened was that before Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon were to arrive, Pat Derby of the White House staff rushed into the pottery fair in Georgetown and asked for an English design of boullon cups called "Hunt Club." This is an inexpensive copy of English Wedgwood, cheaper but more decorative. The White House needed a quantity in a hurry.

Miss Derby wasn't sure of the size, pattern, or other details, so some samples were given her which went to Texas by the next plane for Lady Bird's scrutiny. The following day the samples were returned and the choice confirmed.

But the required number were not in stock in Washington. Nor were they in stock in New York. However, the New York importer telephoned the factory in England, and the bouillon cups were rushed by air from England to Georgetown and delivered to the White House just before Princess Margaret arrived.

Actually, the imported china was not of England's best- in fact, wasn't even china, but a type of earthenware used in middle-class British homes for family use while the best china is kept in the china closet for more important occasions.

Note—The imported china didn't cost the White House any more than if purchased in Washington. The importer was delighted to pay telephone and transportation costs.

EFFORTS of the far right to penetrate the Republican party continue to be successful despite the opposition of such moderates as Sen Thruston Morton, Ky., former GOP National Chairman.

Last week in California, George Joseph King, Jr., son of Admiral J. J. King, was elected president of the Long Beach Young Republicans, despite a previous arrest for selling machine guns, and membership in the right wing California Rangers which advocates training for guerrilla warfare.

When convicted in 1963, King denied that he had been a member of the California Rangers, though he had a Ranger's membership card in his wallet signed by William Gale, then commander.

King was an early secret leader of the John Birch Society but was considered too racist for the Birchites. He claimed the Birchites did not "face up to the race issue." In an interview with Sherman Williams of the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram, King said it was "a moot question as to whether he was expelled or resigned from the John Birch Society."

King explained that there were two groups on the far right—the moderates, who discuss Zionism but avoid the Jewish problem, and the hard core, which blames the Jews for a so-called "international conspiracy." He placed himself in the latter group.

This is the man who now has been elected president of the Long Beach Young Republicans.

Note—The American Legion dissolved the charter of the Signal Hill Legion Post because of its affiliation with the California Rangers.

SMUGGLERS operating out of Puerto Rico have been dumping American cigarets, beer, cosmetics and other contraband on the Dominican black market. They ship the contraband ashore at night in small boats, thus evading import duties which the Dominican government sorely needs to pay its bills.

The lost revenue also comes out of the pockets of American taxpayers, who are making up the Dominican Republic's deficit. The authorities are also alarmed over the possibility that the smugglers may find it even more profitable to sneak arms to rebels.

ANN TERRY

Declaration of War Seen as Peril to Safety of U.S.

I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The John Birch Society and U.S. Senator from Oregon, Wayne Morse, have at last agreed on an issue in the nation's capitol. Both called for a declaration of war against North Viet Nam.

However, the liberal Morse and the right-wing Birch society substantiated their position with widely differing contentions.

The Birch Society argument is that the only way the United States can "win" in Viet Nam is by total annihilation of the enemy.

The Oregon Democrat often tells the Senate to declare war on Viet Nam when he isn't telling them the U.S. should negotiate with the Viet Cong and withdraw from the war-torn country. Morse decoders explain that his pro-war speeches are aimed at having a congressional debate on Viet Nam that Morse hopes would show a repudiation of the President's policy there.

* * * *

REGARDLESS of who advocates declaration of war against North Viet Nam for whatever reasons, the administration vehemently opposes such action.

Officials point out that considerable escalation in the war would be inevitable.

"A declaration of war would make it very difficult for the Soviet Union and Red China not to go to war on North Viet Nam's side," an administration source said.

A State Department aide put it stronger: "If we actually declared war then China and the Soviet Union would have to come in on North Viet Nam's side . . . they would have no other choice politically."

While no public treaties between North Viet Nam, Red China, and the USSR exist which call for specific action if the U.S. declared war, there are mutual assistance pacts between the three countries.

* * * *

THE EFFECTS of a U.S. declaration of war on our relations with friendly foreign countries could be "disastrous," a White House official said.

"For one thing it wouldn't look very good for a big country like the United States to declare war on a little country like North Viet Nam.

"We would be formally subject to charges of unprovoked aggression and hauled before the United Nations General Assembly," he pointed out.

A State Department official said that countries such as Canada, India, and Japan who quietly support our Viet Nam policy now would be forced by political expediency to condemn U.S. aggression.

* * * *

IF THE United States did declare war on North Viet Nam, there would be these consequences at home:

A declaration of war automatically activates thousands of statutes concerning federal power over private industry, according to a Defense Department legal advisor.

* * * *

ONE MILLION reservists would be called immediately into active duty. Terms of enlistment would be automatically extended to six months after the war is ended. Hundreds of inactive World War II military bases now used for job corps camps or civilian purposes would be recaptured by the military.

Present control of communications (such as newspapers and television) would be "considerably enlarged." And the civilian economy would come under the control of the President.

* * * *

"THIS MAY all be true," argues the Viet Nam hawk, "but still our soldiers fighting in Viet Nam would get benefits they aren't now getting."

Administration officials disagree. They argue that soldiers fighting in Viet Nam get the same benefits as their counterparts in World War II and Korea (which was a United Nations "police action" and not a declared war):

1. Wives, widows, and children of men wounded or killed receive the same benefits as those whose husbands and fathers were wounded or killed in World War II or Korea.

2. Soldiers actually engaged in fighting receive "combat pay" which is comparable to the "overseas pay" of 20 years ago.

3. Soldiers in Viet Nam receive tax benefits not available to their colleagues in Germany or Fort Ord. The tax benefits were made possible by present declaration of a war zone in South Viet Nam.

4. Soldiers in Viet Nam have free postal service.

5. Soldiers are eligible for all military honors and medals.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has pointed out again and again that "we (the United States) have all the tools at hand to fight in Viet Nam without declaring war."

He has said that the Defense Department can get all the weapons and men it asks for without a declaration of war.

The question of the consequences of a declaration are probably academic anyway.

A staff member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee recently expressed doubt whether the committee would even hold hearings on such a resolution under the present circumstances in Viet Nam.

He pointed out that Congress did pass a joint resolution in August, 1964 which "essentially gave the President a blank check in Viet Nam." The resolution, passed in the wake of the bombing of U. S. ships in the Bay of Tonkin, promised congressional support "in whatever action the President feels necessary to protect U. S. forces in Viet Nam." He said that Congress has not considered a declaration of war against anyone since it passed one on Dec. 8, 1941.

What does a declaration of war mean?

"It implies an overall hostility and desire to crush the enemy totally," a State Department official said.

"You reserve a declaration of war for deep personal challenge to the United States," another said.

They added that "it might be somewhat precipitous for the U. S. to declare war before South Viet Nam does."

Finally they made it quite clear that the declared policy of the U. S. forces in Viet Nam is to assist the forces in the south to counter aggression from the north.

"And when you look at it that way, the whole debate is a phony issue and totally nonsensical," the State Department official said.

Rain, Rain, Go Away? Not Radish Growers' Refrain

By DICK EMERY

Rain makes cool radishes. And cool radishes bring top prices.

So the Dominguez-area farmers around here who are growing 1,000 acres of radishes just love the rain.

A spokesman for the farmers watching the rain poured on his 75-acre radish patch this week, said the perfect radish can be grown only with plenty of water.

"Too dry, and the radish gets hot, too hot. Once the tender little radish has sprouted in the ground, rain is its friend. With rain it grows fast and cool and becomes a perfect radish!"

The spokesman, long identified with Dominguez truck farming, asked not to be named, but claimed "so far, this rain has been worth $10,000 just to my 150 acres.

"Half my crop is radishes. The rest is onions, cabbages, turnips, beets and lettuce. They like rain, too.

* * * *

"THE ONLY damage is to seeds not yet germinated, in newly seeded plots. Standing water may seal the surface over the seeds, and they won't sprout. We only get 20% or 30% of the crop in those plots, from seeds which float to the top and germinate.

"That loss is nothing compared with the good this rain is doing for us."

His estimate of the value of the rain, so far, to Dominguez-area farmers ran about $66 per acre, some $132,000 for the 2,000 acres now planted hereabouts. Half the crop is radishes.

"Rain and radishes work like this," he said. "In summer, from the time you plant the radish seeds until you pick the radishes, 30 days is perfect. The radish grows fast, with plenty of water from irrigation.

"Then comes this time of year, with plenty of nice rain, not so much hot sunshine, you get 40-day radishes—perfect. If they take longer to grow, from not enough rain, not enough sun, they get flavored too hot—no good.

"Come January and February, that's the time for 60-day radishes. Cool weather, not much rain, but if they're ready in 60 days you have good radishes which bring top price."

Radishes and other salad vegetables grown in Dominguez fields are harvested the year around and are shipped all over the country as well as to local markets.

Christmas Tree Lane to Turn on Lights

One of Long Beach's most colorful holiday attractions, the Daisy Avenue Christmas Tree Lane, will turn on the lights at dark Wednesday for a four-block-long spectacle of tableaux and novelties combining the religious and Santa Claus themes.

Each evening for two weeks the decorated center island between Hill Street and Pacific Coast Highway will broadcast seasonal hymns and carols.

Then on the evening of Dec. 4 Santa Claus will arrive to be welcomed by Marvin Marker's Junior Concert Band. Santa will appear thereafter every night until Chirstmas Eve.

Also featured nightly from Dec. 15-24 will be concerts by church choirs, the P-TA Mother Singers and the Municipal Band. Performances are scheduled from 7 to 8 p.m.

* * * *

CHRISTMAS TREE Lane is divided into two sections, with some new attractions this year. One section, dedicated to children, is a sort of elongated workshop in which Santa and his helpers turn out fanciful and sometimes humorous products of the season.

From 20th Street to Hill Street tableaux pay homage to the story of the Nativity. At the end is a full-size depiction of the stable in Bethlehem with life-sized figures surrounding the crude crib. A bright star will shine overhead.

The unique Christmas spectacle is sponsored by the city of Long Beach and the West Side Lions Club. Electricians and structural workers in the Public Service Department create many of the displays. Heading the creative team are Harry Morrow, one-time designer for Disney, now a painter in the department, and Glen Howe, a carpenter.

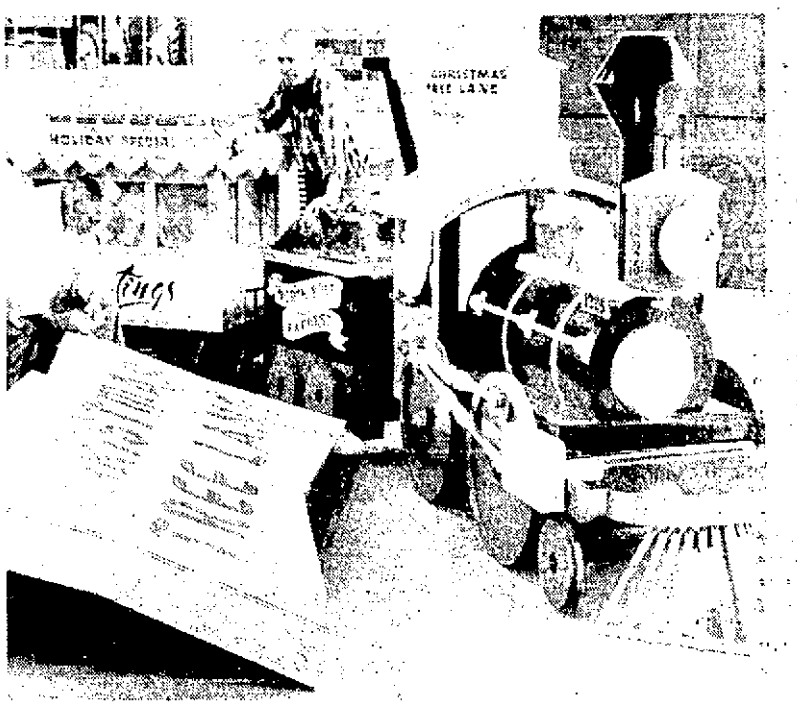

Their latest creation for this year is a toy train, the North Pole Express, complete with freight and passenger cars, a caboose and steam locomotive with a tender loaded with coal. The engineer, naturally, is Santa.

* * * *

THE SETTING is a long center island of evergreen deodars which become a row of lighted Christmas trees.

Property owners adjoining the lane share in the celebration. Houses become snow-covered and yards are filled with snowmen, Santas, reindeer and angels.

Originated in 1954, the lane has been renewed every year since by a committee working with the late Councilman D. Patrick Ahern and more recently with incumbent Sixth District Councilman Emmett Sullivan.

LANE'S LATEST ATTRACTION

Soviet Says China Hurts Viet Cause

MOSCOW, Sunday (AP) — The Soviet Union accused Red China today of hurting the cause of the Vietnamese Communists and helping the United States by Peking's refusal to form a united front with the Kremlin.

Pravda, Soviet Communist Party newspaper, carried in its Sunday edition the hardest-hitting attack on the Red Chinese since the new Soviet leadership took over in October, 1964.

"The developments of the last few months have shown convincingly that imperialism is trying to capitalize on the weakened unity of Communist ranks," Pravda said.

"Those who refuse to cooperate and turn down proposals for joint actions against the aggressors are hampering the struggle of the Vietnamese people and help the aggressor."

* * * *

THE Soviet statement claimed that a majority of Communist Parties throughout the world side with the Kremlin. China claims that more than 90% of the world's people agree with its position, regardless of what parties or governments say.

"The majority of the Marxist-Leninist parties calls for the closing of ranks of the Communist and entire liberation movements, despite existing difficulties, and for a resolute struggle against the common imperialist enemy," Pravda said.

"In the past year, the Soviet Communist Party has time and again proposed to the Chinese leadership that they come out together on highly important specific issues.

"Unfortunately, the Soviet Communist Party and other Marxist-Leninist parties met with no positive response from the unity action of Communists."

* * * *

PRAVDA said support rendered to the Communist cause in Viet Nam "is the touchstone of how this or that Communist Party fulfills its international duty."

"The Soviet Union is providing and will provide all the necessary assistance to the heroic people of Viet Nam," it added.

Pravda declared that the United States and its friends were trying "to capitalize on the weakened unity of Communist ranks." It said that Peking, by turning down "joint actions against the aggressors" are hurting the Vietnamese Communist cause.

The statement predicted that the division in the Communist world will be healed, saying: "There can be no doubt that the present difficulties, engendered by attempts to split its ranks, will be successfully overcome."

Auto Crash Victim on Critical List

A 70-year-old woman remained in critical condition Saturday night from injuries suffered in a two car crash in Newport Beach which killed a Long Beach woman and injured four persons.

The head-on collision in the 5800 block of Pacific Coast Highway Friday killed Nellie A. Rigney, 65, of 3835 Cherry Ave. Her husband, Harold, received minor injuries and their daughter, Virginia, 25, was reported in satisfactory condition at Hoag Memorial Hospital.

Still critical was Ana Thompson, who with her husband, Ernest, 76, both of 1235 W. Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach, were taken to Hoag Memorial. Thompson was reported in fair condition.

Tito to Liberate 105 Prisoners

BELGRADE (UPI) — President Tito Saturday proclaimed an amnesty for 476 prisoners on the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Yugoslav Communist state.

The Yugoslav president announced 105 imprisoned Yugoslavs will be freed on Monday, the anniversary of the Nov. 29, 1945, establishment of postwar Yugoslavia. The others will have their sentences eased, he said.

GILLETTE

Super Stainless Steel BLADES

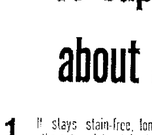

What's so super about it:

1. It stays stain-free long after the others turn into stained steel blades.
2. It has none of the tiny, hard chunks in the steel that can mar the smoothness of your shave.
3. It has a thinner, glob-free coating along the edge. Again, a more comfortable (and closer) shave.

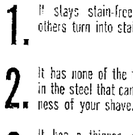

GILLETTE

that, until now, plagued the makers of stainless steel blades.

The result is a longer-lasting blade, a smoother and closer shave.

Rehiring of 2 Men Ordered

By CHARLES SUTTON

A Long Beach excavation firm has been ordered by the federal government to reinstate two employes it assertedly fired for filing overtime pay claims with the state.

In a ruling handed down by a three-member panel of the National Labor Relations Board, the B & M Excavating company of 5842 Cherry Ave. also was ordered to pay the men back wages from the time they were discharged.

The panel, acting on behalf of the whole board, affirmed a ruling issued Aug. 2 by trial examiner Howard Myers in a case involving Donavan and Robert Van Over, both members of Local 606 of the Teamsters Union.

* * * *

MYERS, in his ruling, said the two brothers were fired last January by company president Richard H. Brazil because they filed overtime claims totaling $12,000 with the State Labor Commission, and because they refused to agree to return the money if the commission ruled in their favor.

Myers also cited portions of Donavan Van Over's testimony in which Brazil allegedly asked Van Over to perjure himself before the state commission in connection with another case involving an overtime claim. Brazil categorically denied the charges.

He testified that he never asked any emplnye to testify falsely at a wage claim hearing. He said he never threatened anyone with discharge if the person filed a wage claim.

He also asserted he never threatened to fire anyone who accepted back-pay under a state commission ruling, and that he never promised anyone any favors for returning awarded back-wages.

Myers, however, after listening to both sides, ordered the company to rehire the two men and "cease and desist" in its alleged unfair labor practices.

In its slightly amended ruling, which upheld Myers' basic findings, the labor board panel took pains to explain why the excavation firm fell under federal labor law jurisdiction even when it did not engage in interstate commerce.

* * * *

BY itself, the panel indicated, B & M might not be subject to penalties under the law, but because it belonged to the Engineering and Grading Contractors Association, and because a member firm of the association had performed over $50,000 worth of services out of state last year, A & M could properly be said to fall under the act.

Moreover, said the panel, the alleged overtime violations came under sections of a contract between the contractor association and the Teamsters Union.

ALL DIVISIONS

Late Score on Crusaders

Public employes' division continued to lead and the professional division to trail all others in the Long Beach section of the area United Crusade campaign Saturday. Long Beach stands at 80.1% of goal.

Zooming to 128.8% of goal, the public employes' unit has raised $4,169 in the drive for funds for United Way agencies and the Red Cross.

Here's how the divisions stand in Long Beach:

Advance Gifts (Val Cassaday)	93.3%
Big Industry (John Hunt)	69.1%
Small Industry (Harry Jordan)	61.4%
Public Employes (Barney Walczak)	128.8%
Schools (George Geiger)	84.4%
Professional (James Hayes)	51.7%
Residential (Mrs. Robert Fox)	89.8%
Business (Harvey Freeman)	83.6%

Community Campaign Chairman Jess Grundy pointed out that all funds should be reported by Dec. 7, the date of the countywide report meeting.

Navy, Coast Guard and other federal emplnyes' contributions are not counted in the Long Beach figures, but apply to the areawide goal.

DAUGHTER ADMIRES DAD'S NEW MEDALS
Laurie, 14, Beams at Major Warren H. Gustafson

3rd Marine Air Wing Cites 8 Viet Heroes

Their heroism under enemy fire in Viet Nam won medals Saturday for seven Marines and a Navy doctor, honored at formal ceremonies at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station near Santa Ana.

Major Warren H. Gustafson of 2525 S. Salta Ave., Santa Ana, was awarded the Legion of Merit and the Distinguished Flying Cross, for separate actions in the embattled Asian nation.

He displayed "exceptionally meritorious conduct, heroism and extraordinary achievement in aerial flight against the Viet Cong," according to the citation read by Maj. Gen. F. E. Leek, commanding the 3rd Marine Air Wing, to which all are attached.

Major Simon J. Kittler of 13722 Lindle Lane, Santa Ana, was awarded two Distinguished Flying Crosses "for vital resupply and medical evacuation missions" that saved "numerous lives."

Navy Lt. Curtis G. Graham of 1162 N. Harding St., Orange, and Marine S. Sgt. James M. Boone Jr. of Vallejo were awarded Bronze Star medals for "their heroic efforts in the rescue of five wounded Vietnamese soldiers under small arms fire."

DFC medals also went to the following:

CWO William W. Barber, of Corona, "for participating in an emergency medical evacuation and troop withdrawal of an isolated patrol ambushed and surrounded at night."

CWO Carl D. Hamilton, of Little Rock, Ark., "for attempted rescue of a downed U.S. Navy pilot who was in the water off the Viet Nam coast."

WO Frank V. Ball, of El Toro, "for participation in a pre-dawn emergency medical evacuation of a Vietnamese patrol under heavy enemy fire," and to

Sgt. Floyd W. Miller of Billings, Mont., "for his action behind his gun in an assault helicopter, and, though wounded, he tended the wounds of a comrade."

Stars Just Right for Exciting Staging of Emotional 'Tosca'

By DANIEL CARIAGA

Friday night, exactly three weeks, and 18 generally cool performances after its disappointing opening night at the Pavilion of the Music Center, the San Francisco Opera's 29th Los Angeles season finally caught fire.

Surprisingly, the opera was Puccini's much-maligned melodrama, "Tosca," that old-fashioned thriller which so often disappoints us because one of its three principals is less than convincing.

* * * *

THIS time around, however, the stars were right for a believable, exciting and tear-producing "Tosca."

Marie Collier, the Australian soprano who conquered Los Angeles last year with an unforgettable Katerina Ismailova, and repeated the feat this season with her Minnie, is the worthy successor to the greatest Tosca of our generation, Maria Callas.

More than that, her singing surpasses, in every detail of beauty and inflection, the Callas Tosca. Her voice, the ideal bel canto instrument, the like of which has not been heard here since the last appearances of Sutherland and Simionato, makes sounds that are as expressive as they are glorious.

She is also a beautiful woman, and completely feminine (which is not the same thing). For the first time, this operagoer found believable Tosca's ability to drive Scarpia to distraction and Cavardossi to B-flats. Collier's Tosca is irresistible.

Jess Thomas' Mario suffered in no wise from sharing the stage with this Tosca, or from following, by three weeks, that other tenor in the same part.

* * * *

ON THE contrary -- he matched Collier's performance at every point, with an intensity that befits, but so seldom befalls, Cavaradossi. And he made the other tenor look like a slob.

Compare Thomas' Cavaradossi to Cordelli's? Of course I will. Thomas looks better, sounds better, acts better, and, most important, sings better.

The duet in Act I was aflame with emotion; so convincing were the lovers that one felt embarrassed to be watching them. Puccini, who was second only to Wagner in his genius for putting love on paper, would have bravoed this couple.

In Act II, Thomas' off-stage screams were frighteningly believeable; and when he reentered, singing "Vittoria, vittoria!" we were ready to go to war with him. Incidentally, Correlli's "Vissi d'arte," achieved the same level: for the first time in my memory it sounded, not like an aria, but like a prayer.

The rest of the cast maintained this high standard. Only Piero Bellugi's conducting, though more positive than before, seemed sometimes tentative.

* * * *

ALAS, Thursday's "La Boheme" was tentative most of the time. George Jenkins' 1958 sets are still handsome and spacious (I still miss the tree in Act III, however), but time has been less kind to last decade's voices.

Renata Tebaldi is still a sympathetic Mimi who makes occasional beautiful sounds, and causes tears to flow at "Donde lieta." Yet anyone even slightly familiar with the voice at its peak, when it was unfailingly lovely, large, and easy, must be disappointed in it now.

And what a shame that any tenor should reach, in his public career, the point where he must sing "Che gelida manina" down a half step.

The other principals, Marie Collier, Raymond Wolansky, Joshua Hecht, and Richard Fredericks, were excellent.

Cabbie Shot by Bandit Is Recovering

A taxicab driver, shot through the neck by a bandit, was reported to be in satisfactory condition in Gardena Hospital Saturday night.

Frank D. Vallone, 44, of 21190 Van Deane Ave., Torrance, told police he was shot by a man he had picked up around 4 a.m. at the Horseshoe Club, 14305 S. Vermont Ave. Vallone said the man robbed him of $22 before shooting him.

The gunman apparently tried to call an ambulance for his victim, but because of a jurisdictional mixup Vallone didn't get help until someone else found him two hours later.

Harbor Area AA Schedules Meet for Next Sunday

Alcoholics Anonymous will hold a public meeting next Sunday in the Exhibit Hall of the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

The Harbor Area Service Committee of AA is sponsor of the free meeting.

Dr. Jan Janniches of Huntington Beach will speak on some of the medical aspects of alcoholism. A judge and an AA trustee from New York will be featured also.

A local spokesman said this was the first of a series of open meetings this winter.

OFF TO AN OFFICIAL START

It Is Yuletime at Lakewood

Bullock's Lakewood store by unveiling a display of traditional Yule trees from six officially launched the Christmas shopping season Friday other nations.

—Staff Photo

SEASON'S GREETINGS, Spanish style, are extended by Julie Tuchscher, 19, Long Beach City College student, to Alvaro Moliner, chancellor of consulate of Spain, at Bullock's Yule display.

A luncheon was held in the store's Laguna Room to fete the foreign consulates whose assistance was solicited to promote the "Around the World at Christmas" theme.

Pretty models dressed in native costumes stood by the trees as the guests were taken on a tour of the displays.

Under each of the trees, decorated like those in Spain, Brazil, Great Britain, Denmark, France and Italy, was a Nativity scene.

Those present at the luncheon included Raul de Smandek, consul of Brazil; A. C. Karsten, Danish consulate general; Bernard Wilcox, British consulate general; Robert Jany, assistant commercial counselor of France; Luciano Morra, assistant Italian trade commissioner, and Alvaro Moliner, chancellor of the consulate of Spain.

WEEK IN REVIEW

Highest Viet Toll Bared

Combined Wire Services

The nation's Thanksgiving week was sombered by announcement that 240 American fighting men were dead in a week of fighting in distant Viet Nam.

The toll was nearly three times higher than any previous weekly listing for the conflict. It raised the fatality total for the war to 1,093.

The 240 battle deaths, resulting from bloody clashes in Ia Drang and Chu Pong, nearly matched the total death list of four years of U.S. fighting in Viet Nam from 1961 through 1964. It was about that of the weekly American fatality average in the Korean War.

* * * *

THE 240 Americans didn't give their lives cheaply. The U.S. Military Command announced that during the same period, Communist casualties amounted to 2,262 dead and 136 captured.

A personally anguished President Johnson sent a Thanksgiving message of appreciation to the troops in the foxholes of Viet Nam.

He told them that in their prayers to God, the American people ask "that He watch over you and give you strength."

The Chief Executive told the military men under fire: "Today we raise our voices in a single prayer of thanks for your courage and your dedication.

* * * *

"AND THAT is the most powerful voice of all."

As the human price of defending free Viet Nam went up, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced he would fly to Saigon to make a new appraisal of the situation. At the same time, a House appropriations group planned to go to Viet Nam Monday to assess future military demands.

One of the latter group, Rep. Robert Minshall, R-Ohio, said he has been told that the administration will ask Congress in January for an emergency appropriation of about $15 billion to cover the cost of fighting.

At week's end, there was another development underscoring the serious turn of the war. Two nuclear-powered U.S. warships—the aircraft carrier Enterprise and the guided missile frigate Bainbridge — took up stations with the U.S. 7th Fleet, ready for action against the Reds.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, said of the days that lie ahead: "It involves a long conflict and we must be prepared to accept this."

* * * *

THERE WAS a spate of stories about the possibility of peace talks in the news throughout the week. To close diplomatic observers, they seemed to hold no promise.

The State Department confirmed reports that last month Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Communist Romanian Foreign Minister Cornelieu Manescu had discussed the Viet Nam situation at a dinner meeting. But stories that Romania had offered to mediate the war were quickly denied and discredited.

Even more dampening was word from the Far East that North Viet Nam Premier Ho Chi Minh had reasserted his demand that all U.S. forces withdraw from South Viet Nam before any peace settlement could be considered.

* * * *

THE UNITED Nations General Assembly's leading committee voted 91 to 0 in favor of holding a world disarmament conference, with Red China invited. To the surprise of many, the United States voted in favor of the resolution. The committee vote virtually assured that the General Assembly will approve the conference, but that still leaves the conferees a long way from the conference table.

The next move is up to Red China. In preparation for the talks, China will have to disclose its views on world peace. That may be what the United States hoped to accomplish by its vote.

* * * *

THE FIGHT grossed $3,870,000 and practically nobody liked it, except the professionals. Cassius Marcellus Clay, 23-year-old heavyweight, sometimes known as Muhammad Ali, toyed with a 30-year-old heavyweight named Floyd Patterson for 12 rounds, until the referee stopped the bout.

Some 7,402 people who paid to witness the exhibition in Las Vegas, the 460,000 who watched it on closed circuit television around the country, were stunned by the ineptitude of the challenger. Most came away with the feeling that Clay would be champion for a long time. He emerged as a magnificent fighter, in the prime of his career, and as a highly unpopular champion.

That's what the pros liked. Said one: "The more obvious he becomes, the more they'll look for a white hope, a Holy Grail, and that is very good for our business."

* * * *

READING from the typewritten page in her hand, Princess Margaret intoned in a high, soft voice: "This for us is a very sad moment." She spoke for herself and her husband, Lord Snowdon, departing after a gay, 21-day visit in the United States.

Then the party, including personal hairdresser, maids, footmen and pilot, boarded BOAC flight 490 for Bermuda, en route back to London.

At the end there was one sour note. Women's Wear Daily, the fashion trade newspaper, said the Princess was "a schizophrenic mixture of chic and sheer fashion disaster." It said her styles were "too old and too matronly" and that her mink coat was "motheaten, ratty."

* * * *

SOME TIME Thursday night burglars broke into the Vatican Apostolic Library and made off with priceless art treaures. The loot included the original manuscript of "Il Canzoniere," by Petrarch (1304-1374); a manuscript by Tasso (1544-1596); an exact copy of the crown of St. Stephen, first kin of Hungary, and a box of relics of Garcia Moreno, assassinated Aug. 6, 1875, when he was President of Ecuador.

Pope Paul VI was reported to be deeply grieved by the theft, the first major one in the history of the Vatican. The loot was recovered in a field Saturday.

FRANCE became the third nation of the world to enter the space race on its own this week. Charles de Gaulle's defense ministry announced in Paris Friday that a small satellite was put into orbit from a French testing ground in the Sahara.

The Italians, the British and the Canadians have conducted successful space launches but in cooperation with the United States. The significance of the French feat is that France now joins the United States and Russia as a nation which has entered space unassited with its own rockets and scientists.

* * * *

BY THE simple expedient of reading a proclamation over the Leopoldville radio, Gen. Joseph D. Mobutu, 35, named himself President of the Congo. He sent a letter to his good friend, Joseph Kasavubu, explaining that Kasavubu was no longer President. The general canceled next spring's elections, and said he himself would be President for the next five years.

It was said that the general acted to break a political stalemate between Kasavubu and Moise Tshombe, who had been fired as Premier by Kasavubu Oct. 13.

* * * *

TO THE SOUTH of the Congo—in Rhodesia, where Prime Minister Ian Smith has proclaimed the country independent of Britain—an explosion blowing up an electric system pylon lent a fresh urgency to an already tense situation.

Saturday newspapers in London almost unanimously reported that a military group, possibly from the Royal Air Force, will be sent soon to Zambia, the African-ruled nation north of Rhodesia.

'YOU KEEP IT, I'LL GET ANOTHER'

Capt. Lewis E. Davis Jr., left, new commodore of eight-ship Destroyer Squadron 23, the famous "Little Beavers," gives former commodore, Capt. J. C. Hill II, the squadron's symbol. Capt. Hill was en route to Washington after his daughter's marriage Saturday for duty with the chief of naval operations. Capt. Davis took the command from skipper of the destroyer tender USS Bryce Canyon. The squadron was given its nickname by a World War II commodore, Arleigh Burke. While he was in command during the Solomon Islands campaign the ships received the only Presidential Unit Citation ever given a destroyer squadron. When in port the flagship USS James E. Kyes, flies the citation.

Rhodesia Churches Oppose Ian Smith

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)—Rhodesia's Christian Council, representing most churches in the country, has declared opposition to the secessionist government of Prime Minister Ian Smith and loyalty to British Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs, who represents Queen Elizabeth II as chief of state. The council in a statement called Smith's declaration of independence an unlawful act.

Garrett No.2 Choice of Rams

AFL Chiefs Claim Heisman Winner on 20th Round

By JEROME HALL

A mystery is heightening today in the strangest of all pro football drafts and Mike Garrett is a central figure in it.

The Heisman Trophy winner, grabbed in the second round of the National Football League draft by the Rams, had not been taken through 19 rounds of the American League's selections but there was a report that he already has agreed to terms with an AFL team.

"We've got him all wrapped up," a source close to the Oakland Raiders said Saturday even before Garrett closed his collegiate career in the Coliseum in a 56-6 victory over Wyoming.

But at 10 minutes to midnight, the Kansas City Chiefs took the Raider wrappings off Garrett and made him their 20th choice. The Chiefs drafted just ahead of Oakland, which then settled for Alabama fullback Steve Bowman.

Immediately after the game Garrett was rushed to the airport by a cordon of agents from teams in both professional leagues.

He had no comment when informed, as he hurried to change from his muddy uniform, that he had been drafted by the Rams.

"My decision will depend on the circumstances and what is offered me," he told a few reporters as he was spirited away from the Coliseum in a long, black limousine. He was flying to New York for an appearance on the Ed Sullivan television show this evening.

Though Garrett, who Saturday broke a 14-year-old record for most yardage on the ground during a three-year career, is considered small for pro football (190 pounds, 5-foot-9) he might develop into a valuable Ram gate attraction as a flanker back and it's believed the Rams will bid high for him.

Garrett has confided recently that he will play the two leagues against each other for the best possible contract. Though he is a sociology major at USC, he does not consider himself a charity case.

There were cases of hometown newspapers revealing the signing of AFL players before they were revealed to be draft choices. Oakland was a prime case in point.

While the Raiders did not announce that Bucknell end Tom Mitchell was their third-round draft choice until 6 p.m., sports editor Al Clark of the Harrisburg Patriot-News told Associated Press that Mitchell had signed a six-figure contract with Oakland at 9:30 Saturday morning.

As further evidence that Oakland was not announcing its selections until the player had been signed came almost 10 hours after the draft opened. When the Raiders finally revealed that Kentucky halfback Rodger Bird was their first choice, they also revealed he was under contract.

Adding to the mystery, Garrett may want to delay signing with either league to protect his college eligibility for the baseball season. He is an outfielder who has potential to command a bonus in that sport.

There was a loud celebration at midfield in the Coliseum after the game Saturday as Garrett's uniform number (20) was retired. "God bless you all," he said from behind tear streaks, "and I'll see you again."

But he wouldn't say exactly where.

The USC players paid tribute to the gritty little fellow who is the first California collegian ever to win the Heisman Trophy, the highest award in college football.

"I consider it a privilege to block for him," said lineman Chuck Arrobio, who blocked for him for four years. "He has tremendous pride in everything he does," says Paul Johnson, who played four season with Mike. "Pride, that's what he has taught me."

Said Rod Sherman, who may be the next USC all-American: "He made this worthwhile even if we didn't make it to the Rose Bowl."

Surprise! Rams Tackle Lineman No.1

By AL LARSON

The Rams, who have been run over nine times already this season, hope to retaliate next year—with a 240-pound guy who brings to mind a truck.

The Rams finally kicked their habit of drafting a college back on the first round of the National Football League picks Saturday by selecting offensive tackle Tom Mack of Michigan.

The 6-3 senior lineman from Bucyrus, Ohio, agreed to terms shortly after the selections began in New York. He was signed by former Ram coach Hamp Pool.

Mack was considered as a surprise selection, but the Rams need interior offensive linemen badly and plan to use him either at tackle or guard.

* * * *

WHY DID the Rams take Mack over Mike Garrett?

Rams owner Dan Reeves said simply:

"Mike Garrett is a great football player. And so is Tom Mack. But the biggest single breakdown in many Rams games this year was offensive line play, with the emphasis on pass protection. And we felt that this was the area we needed most to strengthen."

Mack, who played with Michigan in the Rose Bowl last season when the Wolverines routed Oregon State 34-7, said:

"I knew last Thursday Los Angeles was interested in me, but I am surprised and pleased that they picked me that high."

* * * *

SIGNED IN New York where he was joined by his girl friend, Anne Tollefson of La Canada, whom he met last December during his trip to the Rose Bowl, Mack explained: "I have a good contract. I'm pleased with it but I can't mention any figures.

"Playing with a last-place club doesn't depress me a bit. Michigan had a poor team three years ago, but we won the Big 10 title last year."

A pre-engineering student, Mack will not graduate in June. He plans to attend a college in California to complete his work for a degree. Mack was named to the all-Big 10 team on both major wire service polls.

Asked why he chose the NFL over the rival AFL, Mack stated, "It (NFL) offers the best challenge and future.

"I would like to play offense since that's what I

GARRETT A GO GO

Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett bulls across Wyoming goal, taking defender Mike Dirks (66) with him and leaving Bob Dinges up in the air. First of three Garrett td's covered two yards. The Trojan all-America broke 3-year collegiate rushing record on next try and fans (inset) responded with victory signs.

Mike Rips Ollie's Record in Adieu

By JEROME HALL

It was a beautiful day for a football game Saturday in the Coliseum and it's too bad they didn't have one.

What they had was a reasonable facsimile—barely reasonable—which the USC Trojans won, 56-6, over the unspurred Cowboys from the University of Wyoming.

It was, too, Mike Garrett's collegiate goodby and he responded to the constant cheers of the 39,233 in attendance by running for three touchdowns and passing for another.

It was a day for erasures in the record book as Garrett surpassed a national collegiate rushing record that had stood 14 years. Too, the Trojan point total was the largest in 24 years and the Trojan kicker set a school record by winging eight straight conversions straight through the uprights.

Garrett scored touchdowns on runs of 2, 1 and 1 yards in the first half as the USCers built a 42-0 intermission margin. In the second half he threw a 30-yard scoring pass.

Wyoming, though terrible when trying to defend against passes, put up a spunky defense of the ground and tackled harder in the second half than in the first. Presumably the Cowboys suffered from crowd fright earlier.

* * * *

THE TEAM from Laramie did a better job defensing Garrett than most clubs during the past three years. His longest runs were 17, 15 and 13 yards. They came in the fourth quarter against a weary ball club. Most of Garrett's gains (24 carries for 116 yards) were for 2, 3 and 5 yards.

"I felt we put in an overall excellent game," commented coach John McKay. Quarterback Troy Winslow, who completed 15 of 21 passes for 320 yards and was voted the outstanding back of the game, "played well," said the coach.

Winslow got much assistance from his receivers, who stole the ball from interceptors several times. Though he threw long passes this day, McKay pointed out he does not have a long arm — "I could have autographed one of the passes he threw, but he got the job done."

McKay, trying to liven up the post-game interviews in spite of the disappointment of the sudden, sodden conclusion to the season, added with a wry smile: "I thought Garrett's pass was a wounded dove."

The Trojan landslide began the second time they got hold of the ball, after the Cowboys had driven far enough on their first series to try a 51-yard field goal which was far short.

The Trojan drive went 80

Freshmen Shock UCLA Varsity '5'

It was very humorous the way UCLA began defense of its national championship Saturday night.

It was funny because the team that is favored in both the Associated Press and United Press International polls to win the national championship this year, lost the game.

Not just lost the game, you understand, but lost to the UCLA Freshmen team.

Not just lost to the UCLA Freshmen team, you understand, but lost by a 15-point margin.

THE SCORE was 75-60 against the two-time national champs and the 12,051 spectators who nearly filled UCLA's new gymnasium on its dedication night howled with delight as the youngsters on the Frosh team played like experienced players against the kind of Brutin pressure that has torn some of the better college teams apart the past two and three years.

It was Johnny Wooden Night and it was the col-

REMEMBRANCE FOR MIKE

'Alamitos Vandy-lized of $10,000

By DON HARDIN

Rocket Vandy, with Charlie Smith expertly guiding the son of Rocket Bar-Susan Vandusen out from the rail position, won Saturday's running of the $10,000 Los Ninos at Los Alamitos Race Course.

The Los Ninos was expected to be a two-horse race between Rocket Vandy and Moore Go, the latter breaking from the No. 2 hole, and they finished just that way, but the winner was a length ahead at the wire and stamped himself as a real contender for the estimated $170,000 Futurity to be run Dec. 11.

The fine crowd of 12,652, enjoying a brisk afternoon under sunny skies, sent Z. Wayne Griffin's colt off at a 6-5 and Ray Seeley's Moore Go off at 2-1 with staggering odds on the eight contenders, three of them eligible for the Futurity along with Rocket Vandy and Moore Go.

Rocket Vandy was timed

Rival Loops Emphasize Big Linemen in Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobile linebacker Tommy Nobis and power-running Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski were the top selections as the National and American Football Leagues staged their player drafts Saturday with unprecedented delays on some first-round picks.

Just as was the case with the rival American League, which was holding its draft nearby, the NFL emphasized the big linemen and agile linebackers with no quarterback chosen among the first 15 NFL picks.

Novack to Chargers

The San Diego Chargers drafted Long Beach State's Shelly Novack on the 15th round. Novack caught 68 passes for 1,013 yards and scored 13 touchdowns for the 49ers this season. The Chargers also drafted 49er defensive tackle Ron Ogle on the 17th round.

While Nobis was the top selection of the NFL's new Atlanta team and Grabowski was tapped first by the AFL's new Miami entry, there were these related developments:

1. Five players, all first-round selections, signed with NFL clubs — Purdue tackle

GRABOWSKI NOBIS

Jerry Shay with Minnesota, Indiana defensive end Randy Beisler with Philadelphia, Michigan tackle Tom Mack with the Rams, Kentucky tackle Sam Ball with Baltimore and Minnesota tackle Gale Gillingham with Green Bay.

2. Three players, all first-round selections, signed with AFL clubs — Minnesota end Aaron Brown with Kansas City, Michigan tackle Bill Yearby with New York and Kentucky halfback Rodger Bird with Oakland.

3. Three teams were unable to make their first-round picks in the alloted time of one hour. New York of the AFL finally made its choice almost six hours after coming up on the draft list. Pittsburgh of the NFL took 6½ hours and Oakland set an all-time record by taking more than 10.

* * * *

THE RAIDERS made Bird their No. 1 selection but took a strange route by announcing their second, third, fifth and seventh round picks before naming the Kentucky back. The Raiders did not say why they chose to do this.

4. Sonny Werblin, owner of the AFL's New York club, implied that the Jets were having difficulty reaching players they wanted to draft.

5. Early AFL picks co-

The Poisoned Pen

The Sunday sermons:

"In regard to Carolyn Winston's letter about conditions at Veterans Stadium, I would like to comment on critical statements about the Long Beach Police Dept. that she made. The Police Dept. uses reserve officers employed by the school to maintain order at games. These men are not ushers, nor ticket sellers, nor do they have anything to do with seating arrangements or speed with which people are permitted into the stadium. I don't know where Miss Winston parked her car, but were it not for the L.B. Motor Officers, she probably would still be trying to get away from the stadium. The stadium is inadequate, but critical comment should go to our city fathers who won't get off the dime, and not to the Police Dept. nor the administration leaders at Long Beach State."—(signed) Bob White, 6301 Johnson.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

"I read with interest your letters of complaint from Los Angeles' State College personnel and I agree that the treatment they received (in Long Beach) is inexcusable. But they are not the only ones unhappy about the situation. For some reason (during the L.A. State game here) both the South gates and West gate were closed. By the time we had circled the entire stadium and crossed the parking lot and stood in line to enter, the stands were completely filled. At both the Fresno and L. A. games, we parked in six inches of powdered dirt. We would much rather pay $1.50 for paved, well-directed parking than to pay this to a washrack the next day. I have no doubt that the inadequate lighting had something to do with L.B. State players being unable to field L.A.'s exceptionally long and high punts, and may have been responsible for that one official's questionable ruling. In the meantime, Long Beach, in trying to spend all of our oil money, is filling in the shoreline with rocks and parking lots, and the voters are spending millions on a Park which is virtually in the City of Lakewood. Let us hope that in two years, when we are hosts to Los Angeles again, we will have something better than these tank town facilities to offer them."—(signed) Mrs. Louis G. Harrison, 771 Terraine Ave.

(Let's hope!)

"Long Beach has earned the reputation of being an 'old fogey' town. Facilities for senior citizens are plentiful . . . for junior citizens, hold your nose! I'm fed up with this Vets Stadium mish-mash. I'm willing to be assessed one to five mills on each $1,000 of my realty taxes through 1975. WE HAVE TO PROVIDE A SUITABLE STADIUM FOR L.B. STATE. In 1975, I'll be ready to retire, so I don't think I have an ulterior motive."—(Name withheld upon request), 5110 Patterson St.

READERS' CAPSULED COMMENTS:

"Long Beach State coach Don Reed, supported by all the 'cry baby' sportswriters of your newspaper are sore fossers. If a coach is to be successful he must not only take the wins but also the losses."—(signed) Pat Bauguess, City College Student, 56 Rivo Alto Canal, Belmont Shore.

"Until I read the comments by coach Don Reed following the game between LBSC and Los Angeles, I was extremely proud of our team. He cried like a baby and blamed the officiating. I plan on being a coach and if I'm not incorrect, I thought the films were supposed to be used to help your players, not try to see how many mistakes the officials made."—(signed) Lee Marskell, 5480 Atherton St.

"I am positively ashamed of our Lakewood boosters (?) club. The Downey band did a beautiful job . . . and so did the Millikan band, but . . . the Lakewood High people ignored them. What kind of sportsmanship is that?"—(signed) Joyce Mooney, 4702 N. Albury, Lakewood.

"My friend informs me that the four-legged ram variety is becoming quite indignant over the fact that the so-called human Rams have dishonored their name in the disgusting performances this year. A word of warning to Harland Svare: If you see a cloud of dust from the North, RUN, KIDDIES, RUN . . . that is, if you can muster the energy."—(signed) Jane Doe, 106 S. Buick, Santa Ana.

THERE'S NOTHING wrong with the Rams. It's WHERE they play! All their games should be scheduled in Shea Stadium (N.Y.) where their talents (?) would be appreciated. Suggestion: The Rams draft Mike Garrett for defense and punt returns. Prediction: Roman Gabriel will be the next great starring quarterback AFTER the Rams trade him. P.S. If the Rams really want experience they could probably pick a surplus halfback from the Bears, whose initials are J. A."—(signed) Nick Sidoti, Gay 90's a Go Go, Long Beach.

"I wonder why L.B. fans get only the Rams' games on Sunday telecasts? The Rams couldn't draw flies to an outdoor barbecue."—(signed) Jim Haley, 933 Alamitos Ave.

"I feel very sorry for Harland Svare. He is a good coach and a fine man. He must be to take what he does every Sunday and still smile some. The Rams don't need a new coach. The coach needs new ball players."—(signed) A. C. Thrower, 15403 Halcourt Ave., Norwalk.

Wyoming Cowboys' safety Dan Prevo obviously has his directions confused as he runs into USC's Rod Sherman, attempting to catch pass from Troy Winslow. Interference was charged and USC scored its sixth touchdown two plays later.

Russell Dunks Lakers, 101-95

BOSTON (AP)— Bill Russell and Larry Siegfried sparked the Boston Celtics to a 101-95 victory over the Lakers Saturday night in a bruising National Basketball Association battle between the two division leaders.

Russell turned in a great all-around game as he scored 28 points and picked off 35 rebounds. Both were his top individual efforts of the season as Boston won its fifth straight.

* * * *

SIEGFRIED, filling in for the injured Sam Jones, tallied 16 points and got 12 of them in the first seven minutes of the decisive third period when the Celtics overcame a brief Laker lead and moved ahead to stay.

The Celtics led at the half, 49-46, and boosted this advantage to 10 points, 76-69, entering the final quarter. Then Boston quickly increased its margin to 19 points, 96-77, and coasted home. Tom Sanders, who scored 18 points, was a major factor in this surge.

Jerry West and Rudy LaRusso scored 21 points apiece to pace the Lakers, who got only two points from Elgin Baylor in 15 minutes of action.

The contest was a bristling, physical battle during which both coaches, Red Auerbach and Fred Schaus, drew technical fouls. The Lakers have now lost nine road games in a row.

ROYALS HIT 60%

Big O Sinks 44; Guerin Chased

Compiled from Wire Reports

Oscar Robertson scored a season's high of 44 points and the Cincinnati Royals hit a blistering 60% of their shots to whip the host New York Knicks 132-129 Saturday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Jerry Lucas put the Royals ahead for good 125-123 with 2:21 left in the game, hitting a one-handed jumper from the foul line.

The score was tied 13 times in the first half and the lead changed hands 14 times. No team had more than a six-point lead throughout.

Adrian Smith added 31 points for the Royals and Willis Reed hit a personal high of 40 points to lead the Knicks. Dick Barnett scored 35 for New York.

THE ST. LOUIS Hawks defeated the Baltimore Bullets 136-110, marked by the ejection of Hawks' player-coach Richie Guerin.

Guerin engaged in a skirmish with Baltimore's Ben Warley in the second period and, after teammates separated the pair, Guerin continued the argument, received a technical and was ejected.

Zelmo Beaty's free throw in the first period put the Hawks ahead to stay, and the period ended 43-32.

WILT CHAMBERLAIN scored 38 points and blocked numerous shots to lead the Philadelphia 76ers to a 124-117 victory over the San Francisco Warriors.

The win was the second in two nights for the 76ers over the Warriors and lifted their record to 12-7. The defeat knocked San Francisco below the .500 mark with an 11-12 record.

Tom Meschery topped the Warriors with 27 points.

Miami Shackles Irish

MIAMI (UPI) —Miami's four-time-beaten Hurricanes mounted a mighty defense Saturday night and gained a scoreless tie with the powerful Irish of Notre Dame before 68,077 roaring fans in the Orange Bowl.

It was the first time seventh-ranked Notre Dame has failed to score since 1962 and it was the Irish's first scoreless tie since the Army game of 1946.

The tie gave Miami only a 5-4-1 record for the season but it was a sweet "victory" to throw into the face of Sun Bowl officials who passed up the Hurricanes late Saturday in favor of Texas Christian.

Coach Ara Parseghian's machine had scored a total of 270 points in winning 7 of its first 9 games this year.

Each team had two chances to score field goals. Miami got its chances in the first half. Specialist Don Curtwright missed attempts of 43 and 47 yards.

Notre Dame moved into field goal range in the fourth period but specialist Kenneth Ivan, who went into the game with 7 out of 10 field goal attempts, missed boots of 22 and 27 yards.

The Irish defense proved superb. It held Miami to a minus 17 yards rushing and to 93 yards over all.

Miami was forced to punt 10 times and Notre Dame gave up the ball 9 times on kicks.

Miami's biggest chance to upset Notre Dame came on the opening kickoff when guard Larry Bodie pounced on Larry Conjar's fumble at the Notre Dame 22. But a penalty and three incomplete passes pushed Miami back and Curtwright saw his 47-yard field goal attempt bounce off the upright.

DEFENSE SPARKLES

Blades Cut Down Victoria, Regain Respectability, 3-1

By RICH ROBERTS

Have the Blades been holding something back?

The Victoria Maple Leafs and 6,000 fans at the L.A. Sports Arena must be wondering after seeing the homeless waifs of the Western Hockey League gun down the league leaders, 3-1, Saturday night.

The Leafs' third loss in 18 games cut a win streak at six and brought the Blades back to respectability after three successive losses. They roused themselves to a rare wire-to-wire performance, doing the job on goals by Leo LaBine, Cliff Pennington and Buddy Boone.

Showing how well they can play with a decent day of rest and the home ice advantage, the Blades dominated the team that most observers say is the best the WHL has seen in years.

Goalie Marcel Pelletier gave the Leafs a 1-0 jump after only three minutes when he tried to glove Gordon Redahl's lofted shot and the puck bounced off his chest into the net.

But he settled down to make some strong saves and the Blades supported him with alert checking around their own goal.

They got even on their power play after Victoria's first penalty near the end of the opening period. Brian Smith passed the puck from the side to Norm Johnson at the corner of the goal and Johnson flipped it across to LaBine for the equalizer.

Then Pennington put the Blades on top at 13 minutes of the second period. Ray LaRose's long shot got Leafs' goalie Lee Millar out of the crease and Pennington flipped in an easy rebound.

Boone, who had hit the post in the first period, made it 3-1 early in the third. The round little man carried the puck across the center of the blue line, and, without trying to make a play, slapped a smoker from 50 feet that caught Millar straight-up.

So steady was the defense that Pelletier had to make only 22 saves, a season low, in recording his third one-goal show.

And he admitted he was fooled on Victoria's only counter.

"I thought it was going to be a low shot, and when it went high I couldn't handle it," he said.

Boone, whose goal was the winner, said: "I think it might have surprised him (Millar). Of course, from that far out I'm just shooting for the net."

Victoria's rookie coach, Frank Mario, wasn't too broken up over the loss. "We were'nt as sharp as we have been," he said. "Those 23 shots is about our low. Of course, the Blades played well too."

Blade defenseman Bob Wilson, who had one of his better games, said the biggest difference was that "we were getting back together for a change instead of letting them skate in without anybody there."

BLUE LINES: Millar made a strong play on a breakaway by rookie Bobby Schmautz in the first period. He came out 20 feet to meet his man, then spilled him like Ty Cobb busting up a double play . . . Schmautz, with Willie O'Ree out with a pulled groin muscle again, moved above Andre Ariteau, slowed down by the same ailment, was taking regular shifts for the first time in a while . . . Atkins Cops Spill Marred Ascot Feature

Ex-Indianapolis champions Parnelli Jones and A. J. Foyt engaged in a hot duel for first place Saturday night in the 150-lap midget auto Grand Prix at Ascot Park, but both encountered mechanical trouble and fell out of contention.

Dick Atkins of Hayward, Calif., captured the 75-mile event in 1:1:02.43.

Jones and Foyt dueled for the first 69 laps, when Parnelli lost a wheel and his car flipped three times. He was unhurt, but his car was wrecked.

Foyt held the lead until the 118th lap when he stopped to change a tire. He was plagued by further mechanical trouble and finished far back. Bob Wente of St. Louis was second in the race, while Tommy Copp of Fresno, Calif., grabbed third.

Skee Radigan of Long Beach, hit the wall on the 118th lap and was taken to a Gardena Hospital. His injuries were not serious, however.

Vandywater Takes Virginia Stakes

C. S. Vandywater recorded a 77-11—66 Saturday to win class A low net competition in the weekly Virginia Country Club sweepstakes.

Class A blind bogey (72)—Ralph Oliver, Hal Aldridge, Art Macrate, Dan Darnell, Tom McCarry, Jack Watkins.
Class B low net—Tie between Earl Witscher, 85-17—68 and Greer Thompson, 85-17—68.
Class B blind bogey (77)—Hal Baumann, F. A. Ballman.

Nicklaus Retains Lead

LAFAYETTE, La. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus fired a one-under-par 71 Saturday despite a balky putter and held onto a one-stroke lead after three rounds of the $32,000 Cajun Classic golf tournament.

Nicklaus, who had seven golfers only one stroke behind him after 54 holes, found it hard to believe he was still in front of the tourney as he walked off the course.

"I'm leading? You're kidding," he said. "Shooting 71 is not very good, especially if you expect to win."

Nicklaus played almost perfect golf from tee to green over the par 72, 6,550 yard Oakbourne Country Club course. But his putter would not behave.

"I didn't putt well at all," said Nicklaus. "I hit every green, but I couldn't get down."

Nicklaus used 36 putts, taking three putts on two greens.

A quick drop in the mercury forced the field into sweaters and the chill in the air had an effect on the scores. The best rounds of the day were a pair of 67s, fired by Dave Ragan and Ed Griffiths.

The third round also saw this year's 10th ace on the PGA tour. Ken Towns holed out with a four iron on the 167-yard 14th hole.

HOWE, WOW! 1ST TO NET 600 GOALS

MONTREAL (AP)—Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings became the first man in National Hockey League history to score 600 goals during the regular season.

Howe's goal came in the third period in Detroit's game with Montreal Saturday night, pulling Detroit to within one goal at 3-2. That's how the game ended.

Howe, playing a record-tying 20th season in the NHL, has a total of 661 goals, counting those scored in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Freshmen Stun Bruin Cagers

legiate debut of Lew Alcindor, the Bruins' prized rookie prize, who soon will become the biggest single basketball attraction on the West Coast.

Alcindor, who towers 7-1, scored 31 in his first game since he attracted scouts and recruiters from all around the country to Powers Memorial High School in New York last spring.

There have been a lot of seven-foot basketball players since Bevo Francis cracked the height-barrier in the fifties, but few have shown the potential of this long fellow.

He shoots well, he runs with stamina and he blocks shots frequently enough to demoralize the best of players. And when he dunks a basket he goes up and he goes up and he goes up. Then he drops the ball through the hoop with a soft touch.

* * * *

THERE WILL be comparisons to Wilt Chamberlain and Bill Russell and if Saturday night's debut is an accurate indication, Alcindor may turn out to have an adequate combination of the best qualities in both.

The UCLA varsity had a ragged look as it trailed all but a few minutes in the first half. The intermission score was 36-31 for the Frosh and a scoring spree at the outset of the second half when the Freshmen tallied 10 points in a row, put the outcome beyond doubt.

Mike Lynn led the varsity scorers with 12 points. Doug McIntosh scored 10.

Midway through the second half the varsity fell 18 points behind and the Freshmen slacked off. Frosh coach Gary Cunningham cleared his bench and everybody laughed except the UCLA varsity coach and the UCLA players.

UCLA, Michigan Ranked 1-2 in Pre-Season Poll

The UCLA Bruins, defending national champions, were picked Saturday as the No. 1 team in the pre-season Associated Press college basketball poll.

The charges of coach Johnny Wooden, who will be trying for an unprecedented third successive NCAA title, beat out the Michigan Wolverines in the annual poll by an AP panel of 30 sportswriters and broadcasters.

A year ago Michigan edged UCLA for the No. 1 spot in the pre-season poll but lost to UCLA in the NCAA championship final last March.

BREEDLOVE

The Speed Breed

By RICH ROBERTS

"I don't think it's an obsession at all, and you don't get any prize money for breaking the record. I mean, it's not like winning Indianapolis. But the only way you can make a living at it is to hold the record for a while."

Two weeks ago Craig Breedlove was the second fastest man on wheels, a distinction only slightly more attractive than being second fastest on the draw.

Then, on Nov. 15, he pointed a quarter-million dollar projectile down a 6-inch strip of black tar stretching over the Bonneville Salt Flats and followed it into infinity.

He sped 593.178 mph going down and 608.201 coming back, an average of 600.601 mph and, wouldn't you know it, not a traffic cop in sight.

At 28, Breedlove had recaptured the world land speed record from Art Arfons in a mad duel on the desert that carried these men so far beyond scientific knowledge that they had to write their own textbooks as they went along.

THE SPEED OF SOUND is well beyond 700 mph, but Breedlove points out with some foreboding, "We're already experiencing some problems. We're in what they call the transonic speed range. That's where some of the parts of the car are actually becoming supersonic.

"Because of the car's shape it accelerates the air over certain areas and actually gets into supersonic flow. You have shifts in pressure distribution and this can cause all kinds of weird phenomena. It can make the car become airborne, which is what happened to us the first time."

Breedlove's Spirit of America Sonic I—let's say he's the registered owner but Goodyear holds the pink slip—is powered by a jet engine equipped with an afterburner for extra thrust.

Craig set a record of 534 mph last Oct. 14 without using the afterburner, but when he turned it on five days later all hell broke loose.

"In order to get beyond 534 we had to go into min AB (minimum use of the afterburner)," he explains, "and this is a big power jump. It put the car from 534 to over 600 and we hadn't had enough buildup runs between these speed ranges to know what might happen.

"WHEN THE car got up to 600 we left the ground. It was a direct and abrupt pressure shift. I immediately lost my steering control, and after three-quarters of a mile we were a thousand feet off course.

"I released the normal parachute system, which broke loose, then I fired the emergency system, which also tore loose. Then I stepped down on the brakes — we're still running 600 mph -- and the torque on the rear wheel when the brake grabbed dropped the front end and I regained my steering. Then I had to stop it from 600 on the brakes."

The experience so unnerved Breedlove that he was already planning modifications when his crew caught up with him.

"We extended the trailing edge of the airfoil to raise the critical mach number," he explained. "We added the length only to one side of the foil to make it non-symmetrical and help create a bit more negative lift. This did the trick."

NATURALLY, ANYBODY could have thought of that . . . anybody with a master's degree in aerodynamics, engineering and advanced English, except that Breedlove has none of these.

All he has is a diploma from Venice High and a wealth of practical experience. He built his first hot rod when he was 13 and figures that Sonic I is only the latest creation in a natural line of progression.

"It's not the ultimate," he says. "I believe a much better car can be built."

The first man to top 400, 500 and 600 mph on a two-way average also is planning an assault on the world water speed record next year and is tempted by the glamor of Indianapolis.

"I've thought about it lately, but if you go into that type of thing you have to go all the way. It takes all your time."

Driving at Indy does not appeal greatly to him, either.

"At Bonneville, there's more danger but less exposure. You make your two runs and that's it. But if you crack up, let's face it, you aren't going to get out of there.

"At Indy there's less danger but more exposure. You can get knocked around pretty good and still walk away—but you're out there 3½ hours. I hope I can keep from it."

SPEED RUNS in Breedlove's family. The mother of his five children, Lee, drove Sonic I to a women's land speed record of 308.56 mph before Craig's 600-mph run, but she's more willing to stand pat.

"I don't think I'll drive again unless somebody breaks it," she confesses. "And then I'd have to ask my husband if I could use his car again."

Together they looked out the window high in the Statler Hotel toward the clear, rain-washed Palos Verdes hills and the home that speed built.

"Our place is right up there by the radar towers," Craig pointed out, and Lee added, "I wouldn't live anywhere else."

Craig looked skyward at the raineloads. "I hope it keeps up."

So it will smooth out the salt?

"Well, that too, but mainly I hope it keeps up so Art won't get another chance at the record."

Frogs Leap to Sun Bowl On Field Goal

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Bruce Alford's fourth-period field goal lifted Texas Christian to a 10-7 verdict over Southern Methodist Saturday and the Horned Frogs immediately accepted a Sun Bowl bid.

The triumph was Texas Christian's fourth straight and earned the Christians a share of second place in the Southwest Conference with a 5-2 record.

They wound up the campaign 6-4 and will meet Texas Western on New Year's Eve in El Paso.

The Frogs, stifled for minus rushing yardage in the first half, came to life in the final quarter for a tying touchdown and the critical 40-yard kick by Alford.

Fumbling Rice Falls to Baylor

HOUSTON (UPI) — Speedster Richard Defee sprinted for touchdown runs of 11 and 17 yards in the second quarter Saturday to lead the Baylor Bears past the fumbling Rice Owls, 17-13.

Both of Defee's scoring dashes were set up on bobbles by Rice punt receiver Ronnie Cervenka in the final five minutes of the first half. Bob Purvis had a perfect afternoon, connecting on two extra points and a field goal, to round out the Bears' scoring.

Wingback Glen Hine contributed both of Rice's touchdowns, scoring on passes of four and two yards in the first and third quarters.

SPARTANS CORNER NEW GRID HONOR

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Undefeated Michigan State Saturday was named the winner of the MacArthur Bowl, awarded annually to the nation's No. 1 college football team as selected by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

Notre Dame was the 1964 winner.

The trophy will be presented to Michigan State at the eighth annual Football Hall of Fame awards banquet in New York on Dec. 7.

Coming back from a 1964 season which netted only four victories, Michigan State won all of its 10 games this season, defeating Notre Dame in its final game Nov. 27.

Cadets Beat Odds, Tie Navy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army and Navy grappled to a 7-7 tie Saturday—the sixth-stand-off in their colorful 75-year-old series — that nullified the iron man play of the Cadets' Sam Champi and the occasional passing brilliance of the Middies' sophomore John Cartwright.

The Cadets struck first after 4 minutes, 16 seconds of the game when Charley Stowers, a converted guard from Chesapeake, Ohio, rambled 25 yards to a touchdown after a fumble recovery by Champi.

The Midshipmen, a seven-point favorite, leveled the score in the second period, when Cartwright threw an eight-yard pass to Terry Murray in the Army end zone.

Each touchdown was followed by successful conversions—Andy Dull of Tallahassee, Fla., kicking for Army and Felix Bassi for Navy.

A crowd of 102,000, including Chief Justice Earl Warren, several Cabinet members and high Army and Navy officials, saw the two teams knock heads the rest of the time like a group of angry bulls.

Army missed a field goal chance which might have brought victory late in the first period when Dull tried from the 27 and the ball went wide to the left.

Stowers of Army was the leading ground gainer with 92 yards. Sophomore Carl Tamulevich, who had spent most of the year on the bench, was Navy's best with 38 yards. Cartwright was the thrower for minus-12 yards and Alan Roudhouse for minus-two.

Cartwright threw 20 passes, completed 13 for 124 yards. His Army counterpart, Cook, tried only 10, completed 4 and settled for 47 yards.

The last deadlock between the two teams was in 1956. Army has a slight edge in the series with 31 victories, 29 defeats and 6 ties.

Champi, a 6-foot-4, 224-pound end from East Orange, N.J., who played both offense and defense, was the stand-out individual performer.

He recovered the fumble that set up Army's first score, killed a Navy threat in the second quarter when he smeared the Navy's Felix Bassi for a 21-yard loss and caught two long passes in one of Army's futile drives.

Dennis a Menace; Rebels Ring Liberty Bowl Bell, 21-0

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's Rebels rode a brutal defense and the potent thrusts of halfback Mike Dennis to a 21-0 Southeastern Conference over Mississippi State Saturday.

Ole Miss announced its acceptance of a bid to play in the Liberty Bowl game Dec. 18 against Auburn after the Rebels chalked up their sixth victory against four losses.

The Mississippi defense produced two touchdowns and kept State bottled up until well into the second half.

Halfback Billy Clay picked a punt deep in State territory, off a pass by State quarterback Ashby Cook at midfield and raced all the way for a touchdown late in the first period. Jimmy Keyes added the first of three conversions.

The Rebel defenders set up the third tally after State halfback Marcus Rhoden fumbled on the Commodores' 22-yard line and four plays later Dennis, a 210-pound halfback, smashed across on the third play.

Dennis' running was the main Ole Miss weapon. He ripped off big chunks of yardage and was a key man in the defense that gave the team possession of the ball most of the game.

TIGER-CATS WIN CANADA PRO CROWN

TORONTO (UPI) — The Hamilton Tiger-Cats, staging a determined defensive stand in the final quarter, defeated the Winnipeg Blue Bombers 22-16 Saturday to regain the Grey Cup, emblematic of the Canadian professional football championship.

The Tiger-Cats entered the final quarter with a 22-13 lead and allowed the Bombers only three more points on Norm Winton's field goal.

Dick Cohee and Willie Bethea scored touchdowns for the Tiger-Cats who were representing the Eastern Conference in the Grey Cup for the eighth time in the last nine years.

Vols Whip Vandy, Eye Bruins Next

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fullback Stan Mitchell dashed 62 yards on the third play of the game for a touchdown Saturday and Tennessee went on to whip Vanderbilt 21-3.

The victory gave ninth-ranked Tennessee a tie with Florida for third-place in the Southeastern Conference race. This is the highest the Vols have finished since 1956, when they had a 10-0 record and won the championship.

THE TRIUMPH also set the stage for a pre-bowl game next Saturday at Memphis between Rose Bowl-bound UCLA, No. 1 in the nation, and Tennessee, a Blueberry Bowl choice.

Vanderbilt's Toby Wilt was successful on a field goal attempt early in the second period, but Tennessee took the resulting kickoff and marched 61 yards. Sophomore quarterback Dewey Warren connected with a 26-yard pass to end Austin Denney for the Vols' second score.

Late in the second period, Vol defensive end Paul Maumoff captured a Vanderbilt fumble on the Commodores' 22-yard line and four plays later Mitchell plunged in from the one for his second score.

This was Tennessee's fourth 1965 game in which they have held opponents to less than a touchdown. The Vols have given up only 38 points in nine games.

7 Thefts Sweep Tide Over Auburn

BIRMINGHAM (AP)— Alabama knocked Auburn out of the Southeastern Conference championship and claimed the title for the second straight year Saturday with a 30-3 triumph ignited by the passing of Steve Sloan and daring defensive play.

Sloan tossed three touchdown passes for the Orange Bowl-bound Crimson Tide. Alabama intercepted seven Auburn passes and captured two Tiger fumbles.

The victory before 70,000 fans gave fifth-ranked Alabama a 6-1-1 league record.

Auburn, the Cinderella team of the conference which will play in the Liberty Bowl, finished second in the title chase with a 4-1 mark, but for the year had a 5-4-1 record, its worst since 1952.

Sloan hit on touchdown passes of 11 yards to Tommy Tolleson, 33 yards to Ray Perkins, and 29 yards to Don Shankles. Alabama's first 15 points were set up by Auburn miscues.

Bowl-Bound Tech Jolted By Bulldogs

ATLANTA (AP)—An aroused Georgia defense produced a fumble and an interception which were quickly converted to points and the Bulldogs scored a 17-7 upset over Gator Bowl-bound Georgia Tech Saturday.

With but one lapse, the Georgia line punished Tech and sophomore passer Kim King throughout the game.

Tech will carry a 6-3-1 record into the Gater Bowl against Texas Tech. Georgia finished the season 6-4.

PLANE CRASH MARS BYU TITLE VICTORY

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Quarterback Virgil Carter passed Brigham Young University to a 42-8 football victory over New Mexico Saturday, giving BYU its first Western Athletic Conference football championship in history.

Carter passed for three touchdowns and completed 23 of 30 pass attempts for 303 yards. He shattered the WAC career total offense record by rushing for another 14 yards to wind up the season with 2,263 total yards. The old record of 2,226 yards was held by John Torok of Arizona State.

The BYU triumph was dulled by the plane crash earlier in the day that killed 13 persons, most of them BYU boosters.

The boosters, who chartered the plane to attend the game at Albuquerque, all were killed when their airliner slammed into a snow and sagebrush covered hill southwest of Salt Lake City.

Coach Tommy Hudspeth broke into tears in his post-game interview. He said his players, during a pre-game meeting, dedicated the game to the departed fans.

Military Strategists Refused to Gamble

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Navy stuck with its erratic rookie quarterback to save his confidence, while Army was reluctant to open up and the result Saturday was a 7-7 tie in their 75th football game.

Navy Coach Bill Elias said he was tempted to replace 19-year-old sophomore quarterback John Cartwright, particularly in the first quarter.

"He was falling down, fumbling and throwing the ball into the ground and merited being taken out," Elias said.

"But I kept thinking, here's a young man who has two more years and his confidence as a man is the most important thing."

Admittedly second guessing himself, Elias said "Who knows but that Bruce Bickel or Felix Bassi might have won the game for us at quarterback."

Elias had switched between Bickel, a senior, and Cartwright for the first part of the season.

"I learned you have to stick with one quarterback," he said, "and decided it would be Cartwright."

In the Army dressing room, Coach Paul Dietzel explained Army's reluctance to gamble thusly:

"We wanted to open up, but didn't want to throw the game away — the team had worked too hard to take a chance on giving it away.

"We had had field position most of the time, and passing never has been one of our strong points.

Elias also refused to gamble when Navy punted from the Army 46 with 1:25 to play instead of trying for a first down.

"I play the averages," he said. "Army had not fumbled the ball the entire game and we figured that maybe something would happen."

Vegas May Lose Future Title Bouts

The Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson bout staged in Las Vegas the past week was the second most successful promotion in boxing history.

Only the first Sonny Liston-Patterson bout in 1962 produced a bigger all-around gate, including ancilliary rights.

Exposure-wise, it was a tremendous bonanza for Las Vegas and its "recreational facilities."

The word about the glamour of the fabulous resort was heard 'round the world as the fight was covered in virtually every newspaper around the globe; nearly 700,000 fans watched it via closed circuit and community antenna television; an estimated 75 million heard it on radio in this country, and untold millions in foreign countries via overseas broadcasts.

DAVE LEWIS
'Lost' Vegas

However, despite the fact that Las Vegas is ideal for fights carried on closed circuit TV because it can produce a good live gate while not blacking out any of the major population centers throughout the country, the city may well have seen its last heavyweight title bout for some time.

The trouble revolves around Bud Albright, manager of the Convention Center, and what has been described as his "arrogant attitude."

Al Bolan, president of Intercontinental Promotions, and Fred Brooks, head of SportsVision, which handles the closed circuit telecasts, were in complete agreement that it is almost impossible to do business with Albright on a reasonable level.

According to Las Vegas newspapermen, most promoters who attempt to bring events into Convention Center run into the same surprising treatment and as a result several events—including a couple of big fights—have been lost.

Madison Square Garden, which controlled the weekly TV fights a few years ago, finally refused to deal with Albright because of what Hank Greenspun, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun, calls "his stupid, petty and insignificant demands that causes those who deal with him to leave conferences red-faced and frustrated. There have been few who ever went through a session with him who haven't sworn it will be the last time."

GREENSPUN, WHO PLAYED AN ACTIVE PART in bringing the fight to Vegas, has fired the first salvo in an attempt to correct the situation by either having the Fair and Recreation Board replace him . . . or at least force him to change his tactics.

The difficulty between promoters and Albright was kept quiet until after the match for fear that a disagreement would have given the Louisville group sponsuring Clay the chance they had been seeking to take the fight to the Houston Astrodome.

Houston, in fact, figures to play a prominent role in future Clay fights unless the Las Vegas situation can be straightened out.

There can be no over-emphasis that sports is a great tourist attraction in Las Vegas. When the first sports event was introduced in 1953, the Tournament of Champions golf classic, it opened up an entirely new avenue of tourism for the resort town.

Some 75% of the fight's live crowd (8,106) was from out-of-town, feeding fresh money into the city.

Furthermore, there isn't a sufficient amount of money even in Vegas to buy the coverage of these events in paid advertising—especially such world-wide exposure in all news media as a title fight.

THE MAN MOST RESPONSIBLE for bringing the match to Las Vegas was Jim Deskin of the Nevada State Athletic Commission who also is president of the World Boxing Association.

Jim discussed preliminary plans with Greenspun and revealed then Bolan's dissatisfaction with Albright when his group staged the Patterson-Sonny Liston bout in Las Vegas two years ago.

At the time, Bolan said they would never come back if they had to deal with Albright because they could get better terms in other cities which had larger arenas.

Deskin and Greenspun, taking everything into consideration, felt that a flat rental fee of $5,000 would be most fair considering what the fight could do for Las Vegas, publicity-wise, and the fact that the huge Houston Astrodome was asking only $9,500.

Albright and the head of the Fair and Recreation Board were contacted and told that chances of getting another fight in Las Vegas would be virtually nil if the former maintained his unreasonable demands.

When they left to call Bolan, it was the understanding of Deskin and Greenspun that Albright had agreed to the $5,000 fee. Bolan promptly announced from New York that the fight would be held in Las Vegas.

HOWEVER, WHEN BOLAN ARRIVED to sign the contracts for the fight, he walked out of his first conference with Albright and told Greenspun "there's no way to get through to this guy. He's so hard-nosed about every minor detail and so arrogant in his demands that we just can't do business with him."

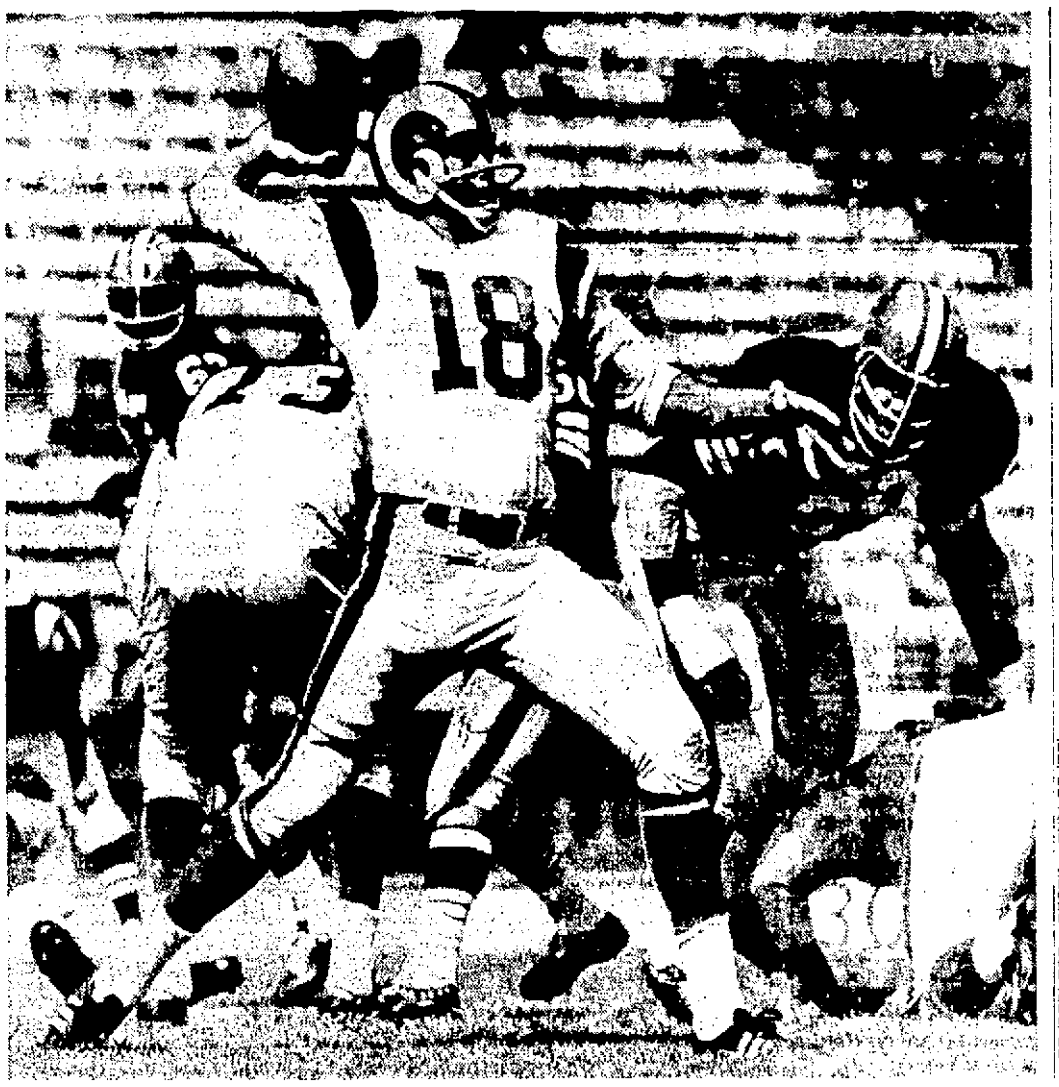

In the meantime, Albright had upped his demands to $9,500 for rent and $300 per day setting up time for closed circuit TV wiring, etc., plus a big block of tickets.

According to Greenspun, Intercontinental was "absolutely blackmailed" into paying everything asked except the $300 per day because so many other arrangements already had been made that it would have cost the promoters a small fortune to switch to Houston.

As Bolan prepared to leave Las Vegas after the fight, he said "never again."

Thus, Vegas has quite a problem on its hands.

One man seems bent on killing—or at least crippling—the goose that laid a golden egg.

BURDEN OF BRINGING RAMS BACK IN GABE'S LAP

Roman Gabriel will test his strong right arm today when Rams oppose Green Bay Packers at Coliseum. Gabriel, who has seen only limited action this season, steps in for injured Bill Munson at quarterback. Packers (8-2) continue their quest for division title; Rams (1-9) would be happy to win one.

Packers May Spoil Rams' Roman Holiday

By AL LARSON

Roman Gabriel, who hasn't started a league game all season for the Rams, has chosen an inopportune time to iron out the kinks in his throwing arm.

Replacing injured Bill Munson, Gabriel takes the firing line today against the surging Green Bay Packers who need a victory to move within a half game of league-leading Baltimore in the tough Western Division.

LARSON'S LOSER:
Green Bay 27, Rams 17

"I'm a trifle rusty from not playing for so long," admitted Gabriel, who must test his form against the NFL's top defensive secondary. The 6-4 signal-caller also has the task of helping the Rams escape a record ninth successive defeat.

L.A. matched its previous longest losing streak of eight for a single season (1959) when San Francisco rallied for a 30-27 victory last week. The club's all-time skid is 12 games spanning 1959-60.

But if the crowd of 34,000 expected for the 1:05 p.m. kickoff at the Coliseum anticipates a rout, it might do well to look past the Packers' 8-2 record and the Rams' 1-9 mark.

* * * *

TWO WEEKS ago in Milwaukee, Don Chandler kicked a field goal with 37 seconds left to eke out a 6-3 decision over L.A.

It was 13 months ago that Gabriel rallied the Rams to a 27-17 victory in Milwaukee. Then the Packers had to struggle to a 24-24 December tie at the Coliseum. So, in the last three meetings, the clubs are 1-1-1 and Harland Svare has a 54-47 cumulative point edge over Vince Lombardi.

However, odds-makers aren't so sure and have tabbed Green Bay as nine-point favorites.

* * * *

THE PACKERS seem to be once again on their old explosive track and are beginning to build up steam for their Dec. 12 rematch with Baltimore.

Lombardi located the oil can last week as the Packers clobbered Minnesota 38-13. Bart Starr, held to four completions and 73 yards by the Rams, completed 9 of 19 for 181 yards and three touchdowns.

Svare has made one significant lineup switch for today. He's opening with Willie Brown at halfback, marking Willie's first start for the Rams. The former Poly High and USC star pumps added speed into the Rams' backfield.

Willie netted seven yards rushing last week against San Francisco on two carries, and streaked for 37 yards on a pass from Munson. Brown saw his first action as a running back two weeks ago, but the Packers are bound to see more of the speedster from Long Beach today.

PACKER STAR EXPECTS TO BE TRADED

Linebacker Ray Nitschke is playing out his option with the Green Bay Packers in order to become a free agent and expects to be traded to another National Football League team.

The all-NFL defensive player said Saturday, "They're not paying me enough. What will happen now? I don't know. I suppose they'll trade me."

Under league rules, a player can decline to sign a contract with his club and after one year become a free agent. The Packers lost tight end Ron Kramer, an all-NFL selection in 1962, to the Detroit Lions this season after Kramer played out his option.

Zikes Saved, But Driver Loses Boat

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (AP) — A boat driver knocked unconscious by a wave during a $20,000 outboard regatta Saturday was rescued dramatically at the cost of the rescuer's boat.

Mel Zikes, a public relations man for American Airlines in Los Angeles, was thrown into the back of his boat by the wave from another boat traveling 60 miles an hour in the 500-mile race.

Zikes slipped unconscious into the water not far from Bob Crane of Concord, Calif., by the shore repairing a hole in the bottom of his boat. Crane pulled Zikes to safety while his own boat sank.

* * * *

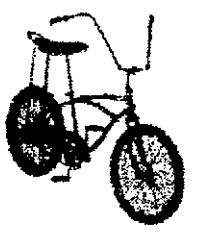

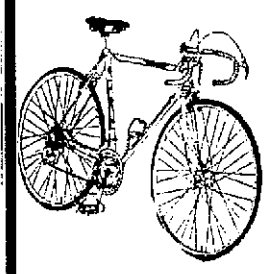

A SPOKESMAN at Mohave County General Hospital said later that Zikes, about 35, was in serious condition with two broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Another driver, Dick Lucero of Pomona sustained several broken ribs when he was thrown against the side of his boat but did not require hospitalization.

The leader after the first two hours of the six-hour race was Harold Eis of Topeka, Kan., who covered 23 five-mile laps. The final four hours of racing for the 100 competing boats will be today.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Corpulent Corbina

You probably have driven past the old Railroad Bridge right next to Highway No. 1 just this side of Sunset Beach, and you, no doubt, have seen dozens of fishermen trying their luck. Did you ever see anybody catch a fish there? Possibly not. I don't ever remember seeing anybody with a fish on or one in the sack.

Well, George Carlton, 735 Joann St., Costa Mesa, a most patient angler—all surf and bay anglers are like that—baited up Friday, using a razor clam. He whipped the bait into Anaheim Bay and bingo! He had a fish on in no time.

It turned out to be a six-pound, two-ounce corbina, one of the largest caught around Long Beach for months, perhaps years. It was funny, too, that a corbina would go for such a bait.

George weighed his fish at Sims Bait and Tackle Store on Highway 1 just south of East Seventh Street. J. B. Makemson, of Sims, said that it was one of the best-looking corbinas he had weighed in a long time.

Incidentally, Makemson said that corbina averaging from 2¼ to 2¾ pounds were running in the surf between Belmont Pier and the jetties at Seal Beach, but he cautioned that blood worms are the best baits for those smaller fish. He also said that barred perch were just starting to hit. With the rainstorm apparently ended, there should be some good surf fishing in the next few weeks.

MAKEMSON AND WIFE, ETHEL, spent almost a month in Utah on a different type of vacation. Normally, they leave their bait and tackle shop and head northward into the Trinity Alps country and they usually come home with a deer or two.

However, this year they decided to see Utah for a change. Ethel got the best deer of three. She always does, says Mac.

After their deer hunt, they drove into south-central Utah and fished in Otter Lake, where, said Mac, you could catch a limit of pan-size trout in just a short while. Mac and Ethel went for the bigger ones which came a bit harder, but they caught plenty of 15-inch fish, fat and weighing three pounds each.

Mac says that he saw two fish that weighed 7¼ and 8 pounds.

Mac, a long-time member of the Long Beach Sportsman's Club and widely known in fishing circles here and in other places, has taken on a new hobby—gathering petrified wood and agate.

Ethel, at one time one of the longest distance casters in ocean fishing, has gone along with the petrified wood and agate business so it appears that the Trinity has lost two friends for a time at least.

"After all," says Mac, "when you get your deer, plenty of nice fat fish and petrified wood and agate, what else could you want?"

NO UNFAVORABLE firearms bills affecting the 40 million gun owners in America passed the first session of the 89th Congress.

Favorable firearms legislation supported by sportsmen did not pass either. All of the bills will be carried over to the second session which convenes in January.

The main reason severe legislation did not pass, according to a Washington columnist, was that Congressmen received thousands of letters from law-abiding firearms owners protesting against unreasonable bills.

Several Congressmen report that gun owners can expect even more severe legislation to be introduced in 1966. Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach was recently quoted in a Washington newspaper as saying that Senator Dodd's S. 1592 was not strict enough.

The Attorney General is chairman of President Johnson's crime commission (The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice). After the first meeting of the commission, the chairman announced that there was enough information available on firearms to make recommendations for additional legislation. Several members of the commission have long records of favoring highly restrictive controls on sporting arms and ammunition.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Did you happen to see that story in The Press-Telegram one day last week which stated that 13 persons were shot to death while an estimated million deer hunters trudged through the woods in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota?

Well, that wasn't entirely true. In recounting the figures in the story, it seems that Michigan had eight shooting deaths for Saturday and Sunday, while Minnesota, winding up its deer season, reported 13 for its short season.

Numbers of others died of heart attacks and six were asphyxiated while sleeping in places where portable heating units were being used. A 12-year-old girl playing on a sled near her home was a victim of a deer hunter's careless fire.

Automobiles killed 710 deer on Northern California roads in the first 10 months of 1965. The State Department of Highways and the State Department of Fish and Game said that other deer, hit by vehicles, probably crawled off in the woods to die.

There was no estimate of damage to automobiles and no human lives were lost. Elmer Doty, fish and game inspector, and the California Highway Patrol advocated lesser speed limits for night use in deer areas.

Nobis Top Pick of Rival Loops

incided closely with published reports earlier this month that said the league already had had some sort of draft. Of 21 players picked through four rounds who appeared on the published list, 19 were picked by clubs assigned in the story. Two were incorrect.

6. There were three players selected on the first round of each draft — Nobis, Grabowski and Shay. Nobis was taken by Houston and Shay by Denver in the AFL and Grabowski by Green Bay in the NFL.

PICKED AFTER Nobis in the NFL's first round were:

Mack, Beisler: Iowa guard John Niland by Dallas; Princeton place-kicker Charlie Gogolak by Washington; Shay; Oklahoma linebacker Carl McAdams by St. Louis; Grabowski; Missouri tackle Francis Peay by New York; LSU tackle George Rice by Chicago. West Virginia fullback Dick Leftridge by Pittsburgh; Minnesota tackle Gale Gillingham by Green Bay, Massachusetts end Milt Morin by Cleveland; Ball, and quarterback Randy Johnson of Texas A&I by Atlanta.

SHAY NORTON

Pittsburgh was supposed to have drafted in the No. 3 spot but passed until later. Detroit did not have a first-round pick, having traded it to Green Bay. Atlanta had the first and last pick in each of the first rounds.

Miami, which named Grabowski as its brains pick on the first round, took Kentucky quarterback Rick Norton as its regular first-round pick.

THE REMAINDER of the AFL's first round, with New York and Oakland passing, went like this:

Purdue tackle Karl Singer was taken by Boston, Denver picked Shay, Houston selected Nobis, Kansas City named Brown, San Diego tapped Los Angeles State tackle Don Davis and Buffalo settled on Mississippi halfback Mike Dennis.

The NFL's first round finally was completed a record nine hours and 56 minutes after the draft started. The NFL took eight hours for the first round last year. The previous record was eight hours and eight minutes in 1963.

LAST YEAR the NFL waded through 27 hours and 10 minutes of studying, calling, thinking and selecting. That will be surpassed easily this weekend.

Nobis said it may be up to two weeks before he makes a decision on which contract to accept.

The Rams' third-round choice, Richard Tyson, won all-conference honors at Tulsa. The 6-2, 240-pound guard was rated one of the strongest linemen in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Garrett Breaks Matson's Record

yards in 11 plays. Garrett gained 33 yards in the series.

ON THE FIRST play of the second period Garrett passed the NCAA record for most yards gained rushing in a 3-year career, a record of 3,160 set in 1951 by Ollie Matson while at USF. Garrett finished with 3,221 yards.

The play was a four-yard gain, a Garrett plunge into the middle of the line, a play that was, except for its distance, totally symbolic of his career.

Two plays later USC had its second touchdown, a 15-yard pass from Winslow to end John Thomas.

Touchdown No. 3 came three minutes into the second quarter and it was an exceptional effort by the receiver, flankerback Rod Sherman. The play covered 47 yards. It was a 45-yard throw by Winslow but it was a step too short and the defender, Rick Egloff, caught it. But Sherman took it out of his hands and stepped across for the TD.

TWO MINUTES later the Trojans had TD No. 4. It was set up by two middle-distance passes and Garrett bucked over from the two for his second score of the day.

Two more quick ones rounded out the first-half scoring. Winslow threw deep to end Dave Moton who was 10 yards behind the nearest Cowboy on the 68-yard play and Garrett accounted for TD No. 6 on a one-yard plunge after a 32-yard pass interference penalty.

The seventh and eighth TDs were Garrett's pass to Moton, who caught five for 181 yards and 3 touchdowns and was named the lineman of the day, and a 50-yard pass from Winslow that Moton took away from a Cowboy who should have had a horse.

The Wyoming TD came in the fourth period on a 44-yard pass play from sub QB Chuck Shelton to Hub Lindsey.

played mainly in college. I expect my biggest problem now will be getting adjusted to the rest of the team and fitting in as a pro."

MACK IS the son of Ray Mack, former second baseman on the Cleveland Indians from 1938 to '46. His father also won Little all America honors at Case Tech in Cleveland and was drafted by the Chicago Bears. But he chose baseball over football and in 1940 was the American League's all-star second baseman.

Mack is considered one of the finest offensive linemen in the country. "He's extremely fast and is a fine blocker in all areas," a Ram spokesman reported. One scout noted, "He's the best pass protection blocker I've seen in college this year."

The Rams weren't the only club interested in strengthening their line. Only Pittsburgh and Green Bay chose a backfield player on the first round.

The Rams only hope now that they're not caught in a double draft. There's always the chance that Uncle Sam might whisk a few of the top players away before next September rolls around.

RACING ROUNDUP

Maker's Mark Splashes to Bay Meadows Victory

SAN MATEO (AP)—Maker's Mark, who takes to mud like a duck to water, scored a 10-length victory in the 33rd running of the $16,150 Bay Meadows Handicap at Bay Meadows Saturday.

The competition turned out to be for second place and the honor went to the Irish-bred Gainstrive. By The Way II, a native of Argentina, was third in the West's oldest continuously run stakes event.

With Frank Costa sitting there and enjoying the ride on the first clear day in a long time, the 4-year-old son of Spectrum II opened up five lengths on the back stretch and kept widening his lead all the way to his third win in a row.

Time for the sloppy mile and one-sixteenth was 1:49 4/5.

Maker's Mark paid $5.60, $3.80 and $2.20. Gainstrive returned $6.60 and $4.20 and By The Way II $4.20.

* * * *

SWIFT LADY earned $46,520 for top money-winning stable Harbor View Farm when she won the $73,320 Marguerite Stakes at Pimlico by three-quarters of a length.

Swift Lady paid $12.20, $6.20 and $4.20. Prides Profile, who set the pace from the start until Swift Lady caught her deep in the stretch, paid $6.00 and $4.40 while Indian Sunlite returned $4.00.

* * * *

HOBEAU FARM'S Choker stole away to a big margin when the early leaders faded out of contention in the $57,100 Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct and then coasted to a length and three-quarter victory in the 27th running of the race.

Choker paid $13.00, $6.40 and $5.00 and picked up a winner's purse of $37,115. Brave Lad returned $5.60 and $4.00 and Sheet Anchor returned $5.80.

* * * *

SOCIAL SONG scored his first stakes victory by winning the $10,000-added Alligator Handicap at Tropical Park.

The bay colt scampered home in 1:10 3/5 to pay $23.20, $12.60 and $8.00. Farmer Snooty returned $9.60 and $6.40 and Better Sea paid $4.60.

for the 350 yards over a strip which was the heaviest of the season in 19.1, by far the fastest time of the day, and the winner returned $4.40, $2.80 and $2.60. Moore Go, winner of the Bardella on opening day and ridden by Curtis Perner, paid $3.20 and $3, and Dal Rex Top Bar, breaking from the outside post, came up fast to grab third, a neck behind Moore Go, and returned $4.40.

The other Futurity eligibles, Silver D'Bar, Go Rebel Go and St. Bar, finished fourth, sixth and ninth respectively.

* * * *

ROCKET VANDY, who had lost to Moore Go in the Fresno Futurity but reversed the order of finish in winning the Futurity itself Oct. 16, earned $5,500 for his owner and swelled the bankroll for the year to $33,925.

Following a bad start by most of the horses, especially Moore Go, Rocket Vandy shot to a clear lead then crossed over in front of Moore Go and was in the latter's spot at the finish with Moore Go on the rail. There was a murmur of concern but the winner had a clear lead when crossing over and did not bother Moore Go.

Saturday's crowd poured $884,500 through the mutuel machines.

The Trials, with 52 horses eligible, will be contested next Saturday in possibly three divisions, and the first two finishers in the Los Ninos are almost certain starters.

* * * *

WILCOX, another two-year-old making his first start in the fifth race, proved he may be a comer as he won by two lengths in 19.5. Wilcox won his first start by a length and one-quarter.

After one week of racing in the mud, Smith and Perner are tied for the jockey lead with eight wins each, and in the trainer division Stan Immenschuh and Calvin Mims each have saddled four winners.

Racing resumes at the quarter horse plant on Monday with first post scheduled for 1 p.m.

Brisk Swap Session Seen at Winter Baseball Meet

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—All signs point to brisk business at the swap counter during the annual major-minor baseball convention starting Monday.

Having hurdled some of their more pressing problems—selection of a new commissioner, restoration of a game of the week television spectacular, establishment of a free agent and unrestricted draft, and the creation of a top level front office staff — the moguls will have more time to discuss activity on the field and personnel changes.

The owners already have created a commissioner's cabinet that includes an administrative assistant and directors for broadcasting, public information, amateur baseball and player affairs. At the time William D. Eckert, former Air Force general, was unanimously elected baseball commissioner, Lee MacPhail of the Baltimore Orioles was named as his administrative assistant.

Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee, counsel for the major league players, is virtually certain of being named director in charge of player affairs.

The public's prime interest, however, is the trading of players, which has been greatly stimulated in recent years by the introduction of a three-week inter-league trading period from Nov. 21 through Dec. 12.

From indications there should be some lively trading at the meeting.

The players most often mentioned in swap rumors include Dick Stuart and Wes Covington of the Phillies, Bob Allison and Rich Rollins of the Twins, Rico Carty and Hank Fisher of the Braves, Joe Pepitone and Jim Bouton of the Yankees, Orlando Cepeda of the Giants, Jim Gentile of the Astros, Leon Wagner of the Indians, Jim O'Toole and Joe Jay of the Reds, Curt Simmons and Bob Purkey of the Cardinals and Ed Charles of the Athletics.

Hottest rumor is that the Yankees may trade Pepitone to the Cards for southpaw Al Jackson, recently acquired by St. Louis in a swap that sent third baseman Ken Boyer to the Mets. Also a possibility is a Yankee-Giant deal involving Bouton and Cepeda.

PEPITONE CEPEDA

First order of business is the draft.

The price for any major league club wishing to draft a minor leaguer is $25,000. The list includes such ex-major leaguers as Stan Williams, Galen Cisco, Art Lopez, Gary Kolb, Bob Saverine, Frank Funk, Chuck Cottier, Eli Grba and Dave Vineyard. Even Bob Garibaldi, the Giants' one-time $90,000 bonus beauty, is among the availables.

LIONS PLANS RENEWAL OF OLD RIVALRY

One of drag racing's oldest rivalries will be renewed Saturday night when Tom (Mongoose) McEwen challenges Don (Snake) Prudhomme in a long awaited best-of-three match race at Lions Drag Strip.

McEwen of Long Beach holds the Lions strip and world record of 214.76. He earned the nickname of "Mongoose" for his fine record against Prudhomme.

Prudhomme is recognized as the No. 1 driver in the sport after winning both the NHRA World Championship and the NHRA Winternationals in one year.

Blomgren New CAR President

Jim Blomgren of Norwalk has been elected president of the California Auto Racing, Inc.

Blomgren, 1954 California state NASCAR champion and a veteran of several seasons of super and late model stock car racing, will take office Jan. 1, from Art Atkinson of Pasadena. Other officers elected:

Phil Zito (Pico Rivera), vice-president; Glen Howard (Long Beach), secretary; Charlie Stoner (Ontario), treasurer; Chuck Murray (Santa Monica), starter; Les Gray (Long Beach), pit steward; Larry Moorhead (Long Beach), technical inspector; Paul Turner (Lakewood), modified representative; Gabby Garrison (Long Beach), Jalopy representative; Dusty Frazer (Bellflower), publicity.

Crack Field at Pomona Drag Meet

World record holder Tom McEwen and NHRA king Don Prudhomme head a crack field of fuel dragsters entered in today's second NHRA Drag Festival at the Pomona Fairgrounds.

This will be the third event of the newly formed Jackpot Pro Circuit, which alternates among four strips, and it will begin at 8 this morning.

McEwen of Long Beach will drive the Chrysler-powered Yeakel Special and he holds the Pomona strip record of 211.76 mph. There also will be a large stock car field, headed by Gus Ronda's wild Mustang.

Clem Proctor, Jerry Johnson and Roarin' Oren Prosser head a 50-car field in this afternoon's 50-lap California Auto Racing Assn. Open Competition Super Stock Grand Prix.

Action begins on the ½-mile Ascot Park oval at noon with time trials. The trophy dash kicks off racing at 2.

Ted Shuster and his famed "Phone Booth" will shoot for his third consecutive ARA main event win in tonight's 100-lap Figure-8 Stock Car Grand Prix at Ascot Park.

Ed Sauer and Nick Thomas will continue their neck-and-neck battle for the driver point championship. Action for the eight-event program begins at 8.

49ERS STAGE LAKEWOOD CAGE CLINIC

Three members of the Long Beach State College varsity will conduct a clinic in basketball fundamentals at the Lakewood YMCA Saturday at 3 p.m.

Carl Washington, veteran 49er guard, will be in charge of the clinic and will be assisted by forwards John Chambers and Pat Holmes. The clinic was scheduled by George Kuestner, YMCA executive director, for the newly organized Lakewood Gray-Y athletic program for boys aged 9 to 11, but is open to all boys in the Lakewood area.

JRB, Potato Ducats on Sale

Tickets for the Dec. 11 Junior Rose Bowl, matching Fullerton and Henderson, Tex., are available at the Fullerton campus, 321 Chapman Blvd., and at all Mutual ticket agencies.

Cerritos officials have announced that 1,500 reserved seats for next Saturday night's Potato Bowl game between Cerritos and Boise, Idaho, are on sale at the administration office, 1110 E. Alondra Blvd., in Norwalk.

Tickets are priced at $2.50 for reserved seats and 75 cents for students. The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Bakersfield College's Memorial Stadium.

Ryan, Washington to Captain 49ers

Al Ryan, a 6-3 senior forward, and Carl Washington, a 6-2 junior guard, have been elected co-captains of the 1965-66 Long Beach State College basketball team.

The 49ers open their season Friday night by hosting Chapman at 8 o'clock. The game was originally scheduled for L. A. State at 7 p.m. Coach Dick Perry's club does play at that time Saturday at LASC against San Diego.

BARKING SIGNALS

Navy player was unable to collar this dog which delayed action in service classic for several minutes Saturday. He was eventually tied up as was final score, 7-7.

Rocky Returns to San Jose

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Rocky Bridges, popular 37-year-old former major league infielder, was re-hired Saturday as manager of the San Jose Bees of the California League.

Bridges led the Bees to the first half California League pennant in 1965 and then to a second place finish behind Stockton in the over-all standings. The Bees are a farm club of the California Angels.

Reese Retained

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) —Jimmy Reese, familiar 60-year-old Pacific Coast League baseball figure, will be back-coaching with the Seattle Angels in 1966, it was announced Saturday.

L.A.'s Larrieu Captures Cross Country Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Larrieu, who almost quit track after a dismal showing in the 1964 Olympics, scored a decisive triumph Saturday in the 68th National AAU Cross Country Championships.

The 28-year-old Los Angeles truck driver covered the 10,000 meters—about 6¼ miles—in 31:11.8 and was about 140 yards in front of the second place finisher, defending champion Dave Ellis of the Toronto Olympic Club.

Bill Morgan of the Golden Gate Track Club of San Francisco was third.

The Toronto Olympic Club captured team honors with 40 points followed by the University of Chicago Track Club with 73. The Quantico Marines were third with 90.

Utah took the first, second, fourth and eighth spots. Utah placed second with 39 points.

UCLA Harriers Romp to West Coast Win

STANFORD (UPI) — Bob Day led all the way Saturday and paced UCLA's harriers to an easy victory in the eighth annual West Coast cross country championship.

The Bruins, with Day covering the soggy 4.2 mile course in a time of 20:39.0, years.

All Systems Read A-OK for Rockets

By CHUCK MEDICK

After much delay due to rain, the Long Beach Rockets will play ball today.

Opposition will be provided by the Los Angeles Eagles who started the Rockers' season by defeating them 3-1.

Much rain has fallen since then and considerable cold water has been dashed upon any hopes the Rockets might have on repeating as Winter League champions. They now have two losses and are a game out of the top spot with three teams tied for first.

The 1:30 game at Blair Field will take on a definite big league flavor as Forrest Ashford, recently signed as an American League umpire, will be behind the plate. Ashford plans to work the Rocks' schedule until he departs for spring training.

Boys Clubs Stage Championships

Robert Reynolds of West and Norm Brudkin of North won heavyweight boxing and wrestling title Saturday during the Boys Club of Long Beach championships.

Registration is now underway for basketball and all interested players or coaches are urged to call John Northmore (437-0606). Results:

BACALL

Another Chance for B'wy

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Lauren Bacall is giving Broadway another chance.

The husky-toned damsel switched to the stage in rebellion against films five years ago. Now insurrection is reversed: movies are in, the theater is on probation.

"I was embittered about Hollywood," she says. "It's a great medium but there was a tendency then to write you off quickly or stick you in a slot. Now I find a healthier atmosphere. Younger people have taken over with a new approach to movie-making.

"In the meantime, I've gotten annoyed at the idea the theater is sacred and pictures are baloney. I've found they can be just as phony and pretentious around here as anyone ever thought of being out there."

Miss Bacall had every intention, in fact, of adding a couple of more pictures this winter to the three made since her 1963 return to films including "The Moving Target," a murder story with Paul Newman.

Instead she is on the rehearsal-tryout trail with "Cactus Flower," a play due on Broadway Dec. 8. The venture provided those "very stimulating" ingredients which she vowed to herself would be needed to woo her on stage again.

'10:30 P.M. SUMMER'

In 'Oscar' Drunk Tradition

COLMENAR DE OREJA, Spain—The path to the Academy Award podium has often been strewn with great drunk scenes. From Bette Davis in "Dangerous" to Elizabeth Taylor in "Butterfield 8," the wages of movie inebriation have frequently been golden "Oscars."

In the patio of the Parador de Frascuela, an ancient inn near this village in the Castilian highlands, Melina Mercouri has been playing a sequence from Jules Dassin's new psychological drama, "10:30 P.M. Summer," that is in the dramatically high alcoholic tradition.

For Mercouri, the glamorous one of "Never on Sunday" and "Topkapi," the character of Maria in "10:30 P.M. Summer" marks a sharp change of dramatic face and pace. Her face is bare of make-up, her hair is unkempt and her wardrobe consists principally of slacks, shirts and a beat-up raincoat. Her character—a woman for whom love has died, a woman disappearing from reality into an alcoholic fog—is unlike anything she has ever done on screen before.

"It is a marvelous part, but for me, I have never had anything so disturbing. I am—what do you say—playing against myself. I had a few cognacs today to help me into the mood and I am sick."

Melina clutched her stomach, thought a moment, and something of the old, wicked Mercouri twinkle came into her eye. "Please, if any one is interested, let them know that next time I am very happy to play the life of that woman who broke all the bottles in the bar—what was her name, Carrie Nation? Make me an offer."

MELINA MERCOURI bursts into hysteria while her screen husband, Peter Finch, and Romy Schneider try to wrest a bottle from her.

MIKE NICHOLS

'Working Out'

HOLLYWOOD—Mike Nichols, a gum-chewing, sandy-complexioned man of multiple talents, has undertaken one of the entertainment season's most exacting job -- directing Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", a document of an embattled married couple.

It is also the first motion picture Mike Nichols has ever directed. Despite the fact that he has four stage hits currently in full and successful swing, it is something else again to switch mediums in mid-career.

"Without appearing unduly confident," the young director said, "I think it is working out all right. I have had good advice and technical help on all sides. I made a few mistakes at first, but I was able to correct them. I must confess that it has been an exciting and stimulating experience, and I am happy to be a part of the motion picture business."

BESIDES Miss Taylor and Burton, the cast includes George Segal and Sandy Dennis. Nichols himself looks upon it as a five-character show.

PRE-SCENE DISCUSSION . . . Nichols, Burton

"The fifth is the audience," he explained. "They will become so desperately involved as onlookers that by the second reel, they will unconsciously find themselves part of the cast. It's that kind of a drama."

The Burtons and Nichols have a friendly and compatible relationship, and Miss Taylor says that probably for the first time in her life she has put herself entirely in the director's hands. "I trust him and feel that he can get the best from my performance." Also she adds that this is the first time she has ever played a thorough character. Heretofore there has been a little bit of Elizabeth Taylor in each of her roles. In "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" there is none. But there may be a lot of Mike Nichols in it.

'Winnie the Pooh' Disney Featurette

Walt Disney brings to the screen for the first time the wonderful world of Christopher Robin and his roly-poly little friend, Pooh bear, in his newest animated-cartoon featurette, "Winnie the Pooh and the Honey Tree."

All of the other delightful characters of A. A. Milne's classic tales, Eeyore, the doleful donkey, timid Piglet, bouncy Tigger, Rabbit, Owl, Kanga and little Roo, are also on hand, romping through the Hundred Acre Wood in this melodic entertainment treat.

Pooh bear's insatiable appetite for honey has always been his undoing and in the movie version, this weakness involves him in a series of misadventures.

Set to music by those Oscar-winning songwriters, Richard M. and Robert B. Sherman, the Disney cartoon-fantasy introduces five new tunes.

Duke Ellington to Score 'Assault on Queen' Film

HOLLYWOOD—Duke Ellington has been signed by producer William Goetz to compose and conduct an original score for "Assault on a Queen," which Jack Donohue is currently directing for Seven Arts-Sinatra Enterprises, released by Paramount Pictures. The Technicolor-Panavision adventure-drama stars Frank Sinatra, Virna Lisi, Tony Franciosa and Richard Conte.

Ellington reports to Paramount Dec. 20 and, upon completion of the scoring of the film, will embark with his orchestra on a six-week tour of the Continent in January.

Fasternak Produces 38th 'Oscar' Show

Joe Pasternak will produce the 38th Annual Awards Presentation of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Academy President Arthur Freed announced.

This will be the second consecutive "Oscar" Show for Pasternak. It is scheduled for April 18, at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

Nudity--- It's Not Necessary

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Alfred Hitchcock says nudity is not essential to a sexy scene.

In "Torn Curtain" he hopes to sizzle the screen with a sequence involving Paul Newman and Julie Andrews — and the only flesh visible will be from the Adam's apple up.

The scene has Newman and Miss Andrews on a ship where the heating system fails. The two keep warm by sharing a stateroom bed beneath an awesome stack of covers, including blankets, comforters, coats, furs and jackets.

"When Brigittee Bardot sees this scene," says Hitchcock, "she'll turn in her towel."

'STIMULATING THEATER'

Actor's Circle Group 'Digs' Anouilh's 'Romeo, Jeannette'

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

Drawing again many of the bright, young people on the prowl in this town for stimulating, unpretentious theater, Actor's Circle under the top-notch direction of Dina Gossett converted Jean Anouilh's playfully malicious and modern satitre on love, "Romeo and Jeannette," into a weird and wonderful theatrical event last Friday night.

It was the second presentation at 29 39th Place, by the group of young performers who "dig" Anouilh.

In Romeo and Jeannette the "digging" comes particularly hard at times. This fellow Anouilh is so urbane and civilized that the red savage in him is always attempting to devour the white corpuscles of his high-intellect conscience.

But some real cool acting by the Circle makes the digging worth every moment.

* * * *

IN THIS comedy? tragedy? Anouilh is off on a binge against the ritual of love prevailing against the rising tide of reality.

In short, he is saying: Romeo and Juliet could not have been for real. If so, then your father's mustache is full of soup, your mailman is the messenger of death and bathos is merely a misspelling for pathos.

To prove his bias, Anouilh makes love gory at every turn.

Lovely Bonnie Gallup (Jeannette) as the love-thief and outcast sister smashes her hands through a glass window-pane to keep up legendary pretenses that love, once contracted, renders all wounds immune to common pain. Equally mordant and typically Anouilhan is his passing comment on the fate human lovers mete out to their house (animal) pets.

They eat them.

* * * *

BUT THE unkindest cut to love comes at the very end.

Jeannette, shot-gunned into marriage with a dark stranger, is reunited with Frederick (Romeo) on his way to marry Julian. But the reunion is tragic, with Frederick and the wedding-gowned Jeannette dying upon a kiss as the ocean gallops over their moony heads. And poor Julia, the love goddess who lived and breathed love—even to the point of taking poison—is left barren with the bachelor fact of life.

Snickers anyone? You won't hear a single one because Anouilh is such a pastmaster at the game of ironically blending illusion and reality that even in this occasionally word-soggy play he fascinates you with his brittle Gallic wit. Director Gossett's penetrative and well shadowed work keeps the piece in a playful, yet restrained pool of light and shade.

* * * *

LARRY VERDUGO, giving a fine sensitive, brooding, eternal-lover type performance as Frederick.

Bonnie Gallup as Jeannette is undoubtedly destined for a fine theatrical career and right now her only big obstacle is her inability to harness all that big, natural, lovely power in heavy scenes. Her Jeannette, however, when muted jumped with that inner vitality so essential in transforming the intellectualizing of her character into behavioral meaning.

The dark, haunting beauty of Anita Sorrels was ideal for Julia, the meticulous in the dusty, dingy, meat-loving household.

Ray Sorrels as Lucien (or was Lucifer intended?) made the characterization of the woman-hating, love-biased, atheistic brother with "a doctorate in cuckoldry," rock with artful savagery all the way.

Sharon Conley as Frederick's mother and that of 11 other children carried her burden well and Verne Thomas as is the father. Ron Thronson played the postman with a sense of death on the special delivery plan.

In the end love, still being the luck of the living, contrary to the quereth all — audience and Anouilh. You'll love this for the same deep reason people used to dote on Charles Boyer's Mayerling. We prey on it—love preys on us.

'Othello' Given December Release

The pre-release premiere of "Othello," starring Laurence Oliver in the Warner Bros. motion picture presentation of Shakespeare's drama, will take place on Dec. 15 in Hollywood.

"Othello" will be given 10 performances only during a one-week engagement that will enable the film, its cast and technical staff to qualify for this year's Academy Awards.

Wayne Fit Since Surgery

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It has been more than a year since John Wayne had surgery for lung cancer. Here's a progress report:

"I had my annual checkup at Scripps Clinic where they found it in the first place," he says. "And they gave me a clean bill of health."

* * * *

HE KNOWS the normal wait-and-see period is five years but his doctors told him he caught his early enough to rate one-year optimism.

Duke looks the best he has in 15 years. After surgery, he gave up five packs of cigarettes per day. He says that zoomed his weight to 245 pounds.

Since then he has dieted down to 225 and looks as if he could lick every Comanche in the West.

* * * *

HE'S NOW making his 167th movie with a favorite director—Howard Hawks.

In "Eldorado" he brawls, rides and gives out with all the action he's famous for.

Wayne's also expecting his seventh child.

"At the rate I'm going, I'll catch up with my grandchildren," he smiles.

He now has 10 of those, with two more on the way.

Italian Mouse in Full Length Film

Topo Gigio, the English-speaking little Italian mouse who created a sensation in his Ed Sullivan TV appearances, stars in "The Magic World of Topo Gigio," a full-length motion picture which will be shown in special matinee (12:30 and 2:30) performances Dec. 4 and 5, in area theaters.

The four matinees will also feature Topo's girl friend, Rosy, and his friend, a cowardly worm named Giovannino. The Columbia Pictures release in color tells a story of Topo building a rocket to the moon.

Universal to Release 'Agent for H.A.R.M.'

NEW YORK — Universal Pictures has acquired worldwide rights to "Agent for H.A.R.M.," formerly titled "The H.A.R.M. Machine."

Mark Richman, Wendell Corey and Barbara Bouchet star.

Hampton Auditions

Auditions for Arthur Kopit's "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad," will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Hampton Theater, 100 Wall St., Redondo Beach. Opening is scheduled for Jan. 14.

PROBLEM FOR AUTHOR

How to Enjoy His Success Without Being Slave to It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How to enjoy success without being captured by it: That's the problem met and apparently conquered by John La Carre.

That is not his name, of course. He uses the pseudonym on his books, which include last year's sensational best-seller "The Spy Who Came In From the Cold" and the current "The Looking-Glass War."

* * * *

HIS REAL name is David Cornwell; he is 34, sandy-haired and well-spoken, a former civil servant in the British foreign service. His literary alias and the convincing detail of his novels of intrigue have convinced some of the more literal-minded that he is a spy.

An interviewer so accused him during a recent visit here. Cornwell's reply: "If I wrote a book about prostitutes, it wouldn't necessarily follow that I ran a brothel."

* * * *

TWO YEARS ago he was a foreign service employe in Hamburg earning about $6,000 a year. Today he is an international celebrity, incorporated and capable of amassing huge sums (paperback rights to "Looking-Glass" drew $400,000).

"As far as the money aspect is concerned, I set up the machinery to take care of it—and now I live in ignorance of what goes on," Cornwell explained.

Needless to say, his financial affairs are better managed than when he was a newcomer to the field of big-time literary properties. "The Spy" was sold to Paramount for $35,000.

That seemed like a fortune at the time, since it amounted to 3½ times his annual salary. But the sum appeared less appropriate when he learned that Richard Burton was to receive $750,000 plus 10% of the gross for enacting Cornwell's tale.

* * * *

CORNWELL discounts the loss of privacy as a danger to a successful author; he finds he can move with freedom in London, and he maintains the same circle of friends. But he admitted that his standard of living has changed and as a novelist he no longer observes "the minuteness of human companionship and inconvenience, such as a bus ride."

Thank You America

for making Chevrolet your first choice again this year

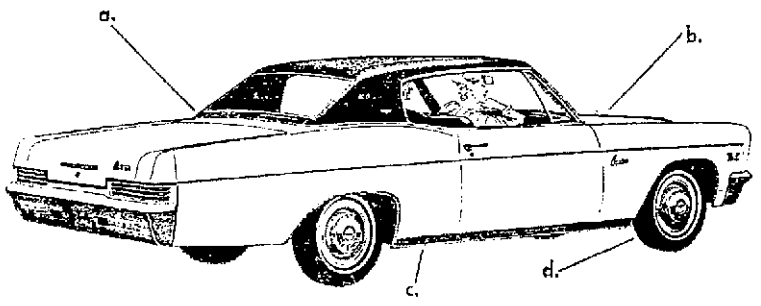

With the enthusiastic reception of our 1966 cars, more people are buying Chevrolets this year than ever before in history—more people than ever bought any other make in a single year.

Already this year, Chevrolet's first-place lead exceeds 340,000 cars—and the lead is growing greater every day.

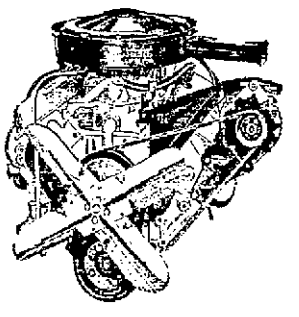

This continues Chevrolet's great record of leadership. Leadership that's been earned year after year.

It's been earned with such 1966 advances as these that you can order: Tilt-telescopic (or tilt only) steering wheels; Comfortron automatic heating and cooling; AM-FM Stereo radio; the very newest in comfort, Strato-bucket seats.

And it's been earned with all these Chevrolet advantages: a. Body by Fisher with luxurious, tasteful interiors. b. Long-luster Magic-Mirror acrylic lacquer finish. c. Rocker panels that clean themselves of road salt and other corrosives. d. Bonded brake linings. A traditionally higher resale value at trade-in time.

It's been earned with such engineering innovations as the new Turbo-Jet V8 engines that are now available in five different versions up to 425 horsepower.

We're grateful for your overwhelming preference for our products. Our dealers are grateful. And both of us aim to do everything we possibly can to maintain and enhance the leadership you have given us.

Leadership...the Chevrolet way

We Know How The Question Is WHO?

We're looking for a limited number of highly select men to take advantage of our knowledge, training, methods and aggressive to make huge personal fortunes in their own business. Our proven program makes it possible for men with little or no experience to step right into a growing Oil conditioner market and show tremendous net profits from the very first week of operation. Our franchisee Shell owners show an annual average gross of over $100,000 with the best shops grossing over $250,000, making possible personal incomes of $20,000 to $50,000 and more! There are no seasonal slumps, no shortages or excessive inventory problems and no effects from recessions, all assuring a continuous and very lucrative personal income and no limits on potential growth. If you can invest from $12,500 to $23,000, depending on size and location . . . if you have the burning desire to succeed as a part of the world's largest coast-to-coast network of automatic transmission specialists, write, wire or call Robert Morgan, Vice President AAMCO Transmissions Inc. 2500 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90005 (213) 386-1934 and furnish us with complete personal details. Remember, no automotive experience or any kind is necessary—just convince us that you're one of the men we're seeking and this can be the most important move of your life!

MANY EXPERIMENTS PLANNED

Space Sleep Deeper Than Earths? 2-Week Gemini-7 Flight May Tell

©1965 World Book Encyclopedia Science Service, Inc.

HOUSTON — Is space sleep deeper than Earth sleep? Does a weightless astronaut lose his sense of balance? What happens to the calcium which leaves his bones? Can he be protected against the "lazy heart" that develops in weightlessness?

Space scientists hope to get some of the answers from the two-week flight of Gemini 7. Crammed with experiments, more than half of them medical, the flight climaxes an effort to find out what long-term space living does to the human body.

Many experiments are follow-ons to the clues provided by the four-day Gemini 4 flight and the eight days of Gemini 5.

"The things we have observed have been subtle changes," said Dr. Charles Berry, chief of medical programs at Manned Spacecraft Center. "There hasn't been anything as gross or obvious as a tumor that has resulted from man going into space, but there are changes. To uncover them, we have to do specific examinations to look for those effects."

ASTRONAUT FRANK BORMAN TALKS WITH DOCTORS

* * * *

MOST DIFFICULT in terms of what it will demand from astronauts and researchers, are three experiments to learn what happens to the calcium that disappears from human bones during flight. Researchers have noted the same phenomenon occurring in hospital patients during prolonged bedrest. This loss of calcium is what makes the bones of elderly people more fragile than "young bones."

Space scientists consider this an urgent question. If a practical means for counteracting such calcium loss cannot be found, astronauts making prolonged or repeated space flights in the future eventually would find themselves with "old" bones early in life.

The Gemini 4 and 5 astronauts were x-rayed and their calcium loss studied. This study will be continued on GT-7. During the flight and for 10 days before and four days after, astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell will eat specially prepared food to maintain calcium intake at 800 and 1000 milligrams a day.

* * * *

RECORDS OF blood calcium levels will be kept, and samples of all waste material which leaves their bodies analyzed — even sweat. Both men will rinse off in distilled water and wear special long underwear for two 24-hour "sweat periods" before the flight. Their towels and underwear will be analyzed. Their flight underwear will get the same treatment.

"We know that a program of exercise reverses bond calcium loss in bedrest patients," Dr. Berry explained. "But the amount of exercise necessary is far above what the astronauts get from their exercising device. We must find out what happens to the calcium and how much of it remains in the body."

Another possible space hazard at which scientists are looking closely is the "lazy heart" problem, which doctors call orthostatic hyptension. This is a condition in which the heart has to pump faster to keep an adequate circulation, blood pressure falls, and the blood tends to pool in the legs and feet of an upright man.

IN A WEIGHTLESS state, the heart does not have to work as hard. It gets used to this vacation and then needs time to return to normal. The condition seems to worsen with increased time spent in space.

On Gemini 5, pneumatic cuffs were placed around Pete Conrad's thighs while Gordon Cooper went without them. The cuffs were pressurized automatically for two minutes out of every six during the first four days. After that the system ran out of the gas used for pumping up the cuffs.

On Gemini 7, the same equipment will be run from the tanks of breathing oxygen, and will work during the entire 14 days. Researchers believe this system will prevent deteriorating blood distribution. For comparison, Lovell will wear the cuffs.

* * * *

BRAND NEW in medical experiments will be the attempt to get a pattern of brain waves during sleep. Researchers would like to know if a man sleeps more deeply when he is weightless. Borman will wear two leads of an electroencephalogram attached to shaved places on his head. Recordings made of his sleeping brain waves on the ground will be compared with the flight data.

Two experiments are concerned with the heart. The inflight exerciser will be used to provide a measured workload for the heart, to find out how fast it speeds up and slows down before and after exercise.

A microphone placed on the astronauts' chests will record any delay between electrical activation of the heart muscle and its actual contraction. This is a measure of heart fatigue.

* * * *

THE EIGHT non-medical experiments aboard Gemini 7 are mostly repeats or extensions of those carried on other flights.

Borman and Lovell will also make a series of naked-eye observations for the National Academy of Sciences. Borman offered to conduct tests which might be of value to the academy. These include:

Charting the stars they can see in the group known as the Pleiades. This test is to determine effect of atmosphere on sight.

Taking photos of the mouth of big rivers.

Observing the Gulf stream in the Atlantic.

Drawing figures of the moon as it appears at various heights.

Looking for the moons of Jupiter.

16-Year Low Expected in Oil Drilling

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—There is indication fewer oil and gas wells will be drilled in the United States in 1965 than in any year since 1949.

Total completions through mid-November were about 8.5% below the comparable 1964 period. Wildcat operations were off 10.5%.

Drilling trends the first 10½ months indicate about 41,000 well completions for 1965, compared to 45,450 in 1945 and an all-time high of 58,259 in 1956.

Wildcat completions should total about 8,300 wells, compared to 9,250 last year and a record 13,034 in 1956.

Both of the 1965 totals will be the lowest since the domestic industry recorded 39,015 completions, including 8,013 wildcats, in 1949.

Total completions have declined in all but two of the nine years ince the record breaking 1956 pace.

* * * *

FACTORS constributing to the steady declines include a world surplus of crude oil, wider spacing of wells, a 1958 recession that aggravated general conditions within the industry, and the prolonged controversy over federal efforts to control wellhead prices of natural gas sold into interstate commerce.

Domestic crude production dropped to 6,220,385 barrels a day in mid-1958 after having climbed to 7,818,400 in early 1957.

The slump in well completions has been accompanied by a sharp decline in the number of rotary drilling rigs in use. Many drilling contractors have gone out of business and the number of rigs sold at auction has increased annually since the first such action was held in 1960.

There were 1,481 rotary rigs making hole last Monday but averages for the first nine months of the year were well below that total. The January-September average was 1,346 active rigs, compared to 1,493 a year earlier.

There have been predictions the 1965 average will not exceed 1,370 active rigs. Annual averages for the past five years were 1,502, 1,501, 1,637, 1,764 and 1,745.

* * * *

THE 1964-65 PRESIDENT of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors believes, however, the 1965 drilling statistics reflect at least one encouraging trend.

Earle C. Hellums, Houston, noted the rotary rig activity was down 10% the first time nine months of the year, while well completions were off about 8% and total footage drilled was down about 2%.

"This indicates the drilling industry has continued to increase its efficiency in 1965, showing an average increase in the number of wells per rig, with a large increase in footage per rig," Hellums said.

More than 700 rigs have been sold at auction since 1960.

Hellums believes such sales have had some effect but says the industry still has an oversupply of rigs.

"The demand for an supply of rigs is still too far out of balance in most areas," he said.

"This means we still have to look into the future for economic stability in the contract drilling industry."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Secondary Shares Lead Gains in Dull Market

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Blue chips continued to plod through their long consolidation in the holiday-shortened week, but a host of secondary shares helped take up the slack in buying interest.

Blue chips fell sharply in the opening session and only a modest gain on Tuesday and no change on Wednesday helped save the indicator from a worse deficit on the week.

Despite the sharp drop on Monday, the analysts saw little to worry about in the market's performance since the low-priced and speculative shares continue to gain ground and particularly since Monday's retreat failed to attract any really substantially following either during that session or on the following day.

* * * *

THE THANKSGIVING holiday had a dulling effect on the market since many traders were planning to extend the Thursday celebration thrrugh to Monday and were therefore hesitant to make substantial commitments.

Brisk gains in the rail average, however, added a glimmer of hope to an otherwise dull week and the analysts saw in the acting of the carrier average the offing of a new upsweep in industrials.

The technicians point out that the last big advance in the industrial average was preceded by an aggressive move in the rail indicator and that this may be a similar signal.

* * * *

THE GOVERNMENT'S attitude toward price increases, as exemplified by the actions against both copper and aluminum, has also had a depressing effect on prices and on confidence too.

Dow-Jones industrials fell 4.56 on the week to 948.16. Rails, however, soared 5.25 to 242.33. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index slipped 0.21 to 92.03.

Trading for the four days totaled 28,373,660 shares compared with 39,716,910 shares in the five days a week before and 18,803,856 shares in the same week last year.

* * * *

GAINERS outnumbered losers 740 to 625 as 1,527 issues crossed the tape. There were 199 new 1965 highs and only 88 new lows.

SCM Corp. was the volume leader with a gain of 4⅝ at 52¾ on 592,800 shares. Martin-Marietta rose 3⅝ to 24 on 497,200 shares in second place in the active list and Fairchild-Hiller was third with a gain of ⅝ at 16¾ on 375,900 shares.

American Telephone, trading ex-dividend, dropped ⅞ to 62⅛ on 351,900 shares as the fourth most active issue. The increased dividend declared the week before had little effect on the recent downtrend in the stock.

Pan American World Airways advanced 3⅛ in fairly active dealings. Airlines were generally strong. National Airlines jumped 7⅞, Eastern 7½, Delta 7⅝ and Northwest 10⅞.

Continental Airlines jumped 7¼, Braniff tacked on ⅜ and Western added 1⅜. The three carriers are expected to benefit from the northwest-southwest route allocations under which they and, to a lesser extend Trans World and United, will serve 47 pairs of cities with their first single-carrier through service. Trans World advanced 4¼ and United jumped 6⅞.

* * * *

ELECTRONICS were hit by profit-taking during the week but still finished higher. Zenith soared 7⅝, Beckman 5⅛, Fairchild Camera 5, Motorola 7½ and Litton 7. IBM lost 7 points and Contra Data shed 2¼.

Copper shares survived the week in fairly good condition despite the forced roll back of their recent price increases. Anaconda and Copper Range were up ⅞ and Cerro added ⅜. Kennecott fell 5⅜ and Phelps-Dodge shed 2½.

Aircrafts continued to gain ground. North American Aviation skyrocketed 9⅛. Northrop rose 4⅞, Bendix 3½, Lockheed 2½, Boeing 3¼, General Dynamics 2⅜ and McDonnell 1⅜. Among the small pleasure aircraft producers, Cessna rose 4¼, Beech 3¼ and Piper, ex-dividend, 4⅜. United and Douglas were hit by profit-taking and fell 2¼ and 2⅛ respectively.

* * * *

STEELS WERE generally firm. Autos were soft with Chrysler down 2, General Motors 1¼ and Ford ¾. Chemicals also declined. Du Pont fell 3¼. Eastman Kodak 1⅛. Union Carbide ¾ and Allied ½.

United Gas advanced 2½ to 38¼. Simonds Saw climbed 8¼ to 42¼ on a bid to acquire all of their shares of $43.50 from Wallace-Murray. Wallace-Murray rose 14⅛.

Amalgamated Sugar rose 2⅛ after directors boosted the quarterly dividend despite a drop of fiscal profits. Amphenol jumped 5 on plans for a 2-for-1 stock split. Black & Decker scored a similar gain after its directors boosted the quarterly payout.

National Biscuit fell 1⅝ after the company and Coca-Cola called for their merger discussions. Coca-Cola rose ⅞. Seaboard Air Line Railroad rose 4⅝ and Atlantic Coast Line Railroad picked up 4½ after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a lower court decision setting aside ICC approval of the proposed merger of the two roads was in error. The case goes back to lower court.

Times Mirror rose only ¼ despite the fact directors boosted its quarterly dividend to 20 cents from 12½ cents in previous quarters.

Labor Disputes Cost Millions at the Cape

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Down-to-earth labor disputes at the nation's spaceport are costing millions of taxpayers dollars and loom as an ever-present threat to trip the United States in its race to the moon.

Their impact was dramatically spotlighted last week when McDonnell Aircraft Corp. machinists stayed off the job and nearly caused next month's Gemini rendezvous flights to be postponed.

Nevertheless, the overall labor picture at Cape Kennedy appears brighter today than ever before.

One reason is the "no-strike" pledge of 1961, endorsed by the general presidents of international unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO's building and construction trades department. It says:

"No strike shall be undertaken on any missile project . . . without complete exhaustion of all available procedures . . . for the peaceful settlement of the dispute."

* * * *

DESPITE THIS, more than 100 work stoppages have halted space projects here since then—from little differences of opinion that kept three or four men off the job only one day to about 10 disputes when nearly all 3,000 construction workers stayed away from work for two to four days.

Since Jan. 1, 1964, 75 stoppages have cost more than 92,000 man days of work, mostly at the $750 million spacecraft which is being built for launching men to the moon, according to figures compiled by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Thanks to industrial unions' interpretation of the no-strike pledge, the Cape has never been totally shut down due to a work stoppage, though there have been times when 85% of all brick-and-mortar construction was stopped.

In addition, grievance-settling machinery is functioning on a local level, for the first time in years.

It is no longer necessary for labor to post pickets at all entrances to Cape Kennedy so labor's grievances come to the attention of Washington.

* * * *

"THE SAD THING is that issues involved in all work stoppages to date could have been solved peacefully under established proceedings," said David T. Roadley, chairman of the Cape Kennedy missile sites labor relations committee.

Before Roadley took office last July as chief federal mediator locally, "the only way we could bring anything to a head was to call it to Washington's attention," said Clifford D. Baxley, coordinator of the Brevard Building and Construction Trades Council.

"And the only way to do that was through work stoppages," the labor leader added.

Baxley, who speaks for about 18 construction union locals at the Cape, said labor can now take a grievance before the missile sites labor (federal mediating) committee "and get a 'yes' or 'no' answer—something we could not do six months ago."

ARMS, HANDS, LEGS USELESS SINCE BIRTH

Artist Has Brush in Teeth

PRINCETON, W.Va., (AP) —Marvin Kessinger's paintings would be worth notice even if he were an average man, which he's not. The only way he can hold a brush is between his teeth.

His arms, hands and legs shriveled and useless from birth, the 33-year-old Kessinger spends his waking hours in a motorized wheel chair. He earns an income painting oil portraits, landscaping and still lifes.

Through years of patient practice with his teeth clenching a brush, Kessinger evolved the skill to express a talent that nature tried to suppress.

Kessinger's development as an artist began in this southern West Virginia town when he was introduced to coloring books in the first grade. He began copying pictures from books and magazines. When he was 12, Miss Edith Tuggle, a teacher for homebound children, taught him to mix colors.

* * * *

NOW, AFTER years of constant practice, he makes money from his art, charging $50 for portraits and up to $25 for other paintings. "It's the only way I have to make my own way," he said. He says the five portraits he has sold took about a month and required five sittings.

"I try to paint some every day," he said, "But most of my work is done inside because it's hard for me to get up when I'm outside."

Kessinger's parents have converted a room of their small home into a studio. They help their son by laying out his brushes and spreading paint.

A sloping concrete ramp has been built onto the porch. By using a push-button control, he can manipulate his wheel chair down the ramp and into the yard.

When he's not painting, Kessinger likes to play chess and checkers. He moves the pieces with a stick held in his mouth.

A sports fan, Kessinger likes to watch the local high school and nearby college teams in action whenever the opportunity arises.

"However, painting is really my life," he says.

Fishermen Saved From Volcano

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese patrol boat removed 10 shipwrecked fishermen Saturday from Torishima Island 20 minutes before the island's volcano erupted, the Maritime Safety Agency in Tokyo reported.

The island, 360 miles south of Tokyo, was evacuated Nov. 16 because of unusual volcanic activity. On Friday the Fishermen were forced to abandon their vessel in a storm near the island and took shelter ashore in deserted weather station buildings.

HHH to Address Calif. Educators

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Vice President Humphrey will give the feature address Dec. 3 at the 35th Annual Conference of the California School Boards Association, it was announced Saturday.

Humphrey is expected to discuss the impact of new federal programs on education. The four-day conference of more than 2,500 school board members starts Dec. 1 at the Hilton Hotel.

Drop Is Seen in Number of Farmers

CHICAGO (AP)—American agriculture was pictured Saturday as an expanding industry which will offer, however, fewer opportunities for young people in the future.

Prof. John Dunbar, agriculture economist of Purdue University, said that by 1975 there will be good places in farm production for only about one out of 10 youths coming from the farm.

Dunbar told the convention of the National Association of Farm Broadcasters that the farm population, which numbers about 3.5 million, will be down to about 2.5 million in 10 years. This reduction will come about, he said, even though farm production will increase sharply under advancing technology and rising demands.

Pakistan Deaths

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)— Five Indian soldiers were killed as a result of "retaliatory action" by Pakistani troops in clashes in the Wagah, Hussain-Iwala and Badiana sectors, 200 miles east of Rawalpindi, a government spokesman announced Saturday. Pakistan troops suffered one casualty, he added.

Pinscher Flunks Out---No Nose for Booze

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Chatham County's booze hound has flunked out. Schoenheidt, a Doberman Pinscher being trained to follow his nose to moonshine stills, has too much of a blue nose.

Ed Swain, a kennel operator retained by the county to train the dog for the police vice squad, said Schoenheit "was bred for show and just wasn't aggressive enough to go after liquor."

Now, Swain is working with Caesar, another Doberman Pinscher "who seems to have more of a nose for the liquor business than Schoenheidt."

HERE'S AN ANGEL you can create for your home (see directions, accompanying story). Artistic Christmas angel figurines, like one above, will be used as centerpieces at Rick Rackers' formal dinner dance Saturday.

Breathes there a woman who doesn't like to create something really special for Christmas? Rick Rackers are no exception--they just have exceptional ideas which, angels that they are, they share here . . .

You, too, can have halo

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Society Editor

Rick Rackers are having a ball. You can, too.

For their upcoming Winter Wonderland Ball next Saturday, the clever party-givers are turning out the most glittering array of angels this side of heaven.

You can do them, also, thanks to Rick Rackers, who —angels that they are—have agreed to share their techniques.

Most amazing thing about these and other do-it-yourself decorations they share: they're made from such unlikely (and inexpensive!) objects as wire, Styrofoam and burlap.

Also throw in a few coat hangers, some glue, cotton sheeting, paper toweling, wallpaper paste and dime store gadgets.

MOST COMPLICATED and most effective are the three-foot handcrafted angels that, as centerpieces for the ball, will highlight night's theme, "I've Got a Date with an Angel."

Directions, provided by Mrs. Bernard F. Burger, are as follows:

Use a tag board cone base (tag board is equivalent to weight of manila folder paper), Styrofoam egg (available at most dime, variety stores), wire, paper toweling, cotton sheeting and wallpaper paste.

See HAVE FUN DECORATING, page W-3

Hey, fellas (all ages). Here's a chance for you to have a date with an angel—your favorite one, of course. Rick Rackers have invited the public to attend their annual Winter Wonderland Ball, a formal dinner dance and traditional signal for start of Long Beach's holiday festivities.

Ball theme this year is "I've Got a Date with an Angel," and event will take place Saturday in International Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel.

For reservations contact Mrs. Hunter L. Richmond, ball chairman, Mrs. David Tallichet, chairman of Rick Rackers, junior auxiliary to Long Beach Assistance League, or any member of ball committee comprised of Mmes. Donald R. Ewing, Robert H. Lintz, John Nisbet, Bernard F. Burger, Allan V. Kenady or B. J. Young.

Proceeds help maintain league girls' clubs and finance Rick Rackers particular girl's club at Franklin Junior High. In addition, the auxiliary supports a scholarship trust fund for eligible students at Long Beach State College.

THIS HANDSOME Christmas "candy tree," being admired by Mrs. Hunter L. Richmond, chairman of Rick Rackers' annual Winter Wonderland Ball, can be made do-it-yourself style for smart coffee table accoutrement. Instructions, in accompanying story, were provided by Mrs. Darrel K. Clarke.

GIRLS TELL WHY

They didn't become drop-outs!

By MARY NETH

A year ago a group of Long Beach women set out to solve (or help solve) the local drop-out problem.

Their goal: to put kids who'd dropped school back in class: to keep kids at their desks who are inclined to ditch.

It was an ambitious project. The majority of the women, though well intentioned, were not trained teachers or social workers.

Could they succeed in cases where parents and educators had failed?

The record shouts down any doubts.

The Long Beach Youth Project, name of the one-adult-to-one-child program of tutoring, understanding and help, has scored 93% success. Now there are plans for expansion—new volunteers are being sought.

The pilot project, headed by Elizabeth Hudson of the board of education, Mrs. John P. Davis and Laura Mae Dunn was comprised of 29 women, 29 wavering students. All but two of the students are now back in class.

Recently a number of the girls who didn't drop out told why.

The occasion: a luncheon celebration with their 'big sisters' and school and city officials who've also lent their help.

"I just didn't like school—it bugged me," frankly stated one of the drop-outs, now only months away from her high school diploma.

"I hated it . . . having to be a certain place at a certain time. So, half the time, I just didn't go."

What did this here-today-gone-tomorrow school Miss want to do instead?

"Be independent—get a job—move away from home."

But, as disinteresred as she was in the three Rs, she did fill out the "why are you sliding in school—can we help you?" card mailed by the youth project.

Result: "Gee, everyone has bent over backwards to help, I'd feel just terrible if I flubbed up," she said.

Behind her lack of interest in school lay a lot of real problems. The 'sister' conferred with everyone who could help—the big prob-

MARCIA HOLLIS (l) & CHRISTINE MARSTON . . . both agreed Youth Project program "kept us in school—its people are great."

WILD WAVES SAY

In drippy, zippy times--or do you remember?

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Society Editor

. IF YOU'RE faced with cleaning up tired Turkey Day leftovers—read this and weep. What a gourmet feast Margit (Mrs. Vernon) Cupper prepared for dinner honoring Assemblyman George Deukmejian and his wife, Gloria, long-time friends of the hostess. (See photo, right.)

A cocktail and sit-down dinner affair at Margit's Signal Hill home, 1980 Raymond Ave., it was attended by 40 close friends of the honorees. Here's what they dined upon, all personally prepared by Margit—roast duck with cherry rum sauce, Spencer roast, rice-stuffed beef, chicken cacciatori, Italian eggplant, squash, Hungarian-style red cabbage, wild rice, and, to top it off, cherry, apple and cheese strudel.

Bidden to festive affair were George's law partners and spouses, Mal and Joan Lucas and Sandy and Liz Lucas (latter couldn't be there; brand new baby at home), such Signal Hill officials and wives as Paul and Barbara Kemner, Fred and Betty Baxter, LB's Mayor Ed and Mary Wade, Burton and Elsie Benwell, Bill and Lois Smith.

"How did you get so much food cooked for that many people?" I queried. "I cooked for three days AND nights and loved every minute of it," countered the energetic hostess.

I SUPPOSE it's possible that even Florida is more pleasant right now than it has been around here. OK, so I'll go wash my mouth out but not before I finish the news about Chuck and Maria Stevens. They'll wing away Monday for Florida to attend the Winter Baseball Association meet, then go on to the Bahamas to celebrate their silver anniversary. Relatives and their daughter are holding down fort here.

WUPS! WHERE has the year gone? Christmas decorations are about to go up at Gene and Rose Bishop's home on Monita Street in College Park Estates. Well, it's really not quite as late as this makes it seem. The Bishops are decorating early for a holiday open house they'll have next Sunday.

It's to be a merry-times cocktail buffet for assorted friends and certainly will be rhythmical with Rose's Civic Light Opera cohorts present. Sound of music will pour from upstairs, where they have a grand piano, and downstairs, where they have a player piano.

For those who tire of music, there'll be other entertainment. The Bishops' boys, Anthony, 9½, and Gene Michael, 8, have two rats (live) they dote on showing to party guests.

BLITHE spirited, young-in-heart cocktail buffet was given by Lloyd and Evelyn Whaley Saturday in honor of daughter Vicki's 21st birthday, which was really Wednesday. But Vicki was too busy flying home from studies at San Jose State for partying that night.

Invited to Saturday's fun-fest were young marrieds, college students who have HAD their 21st birthdays and contemporaries of the Whaleys.

A few in the cross-section crowd present were Don and Jack Crawford and their mother, Lillian, Dave and Kay Berg, Steve and La Vonne Kral, Bob Ruchti Jr., Vic Rhorer, Jane and Bill Rhorer, Stan and Geneva Weiss and their sons, Paul and wife, Pat, and Alan, John and Kathy Hamilton.

Assisting from 6:30 p.m. and on were Dorene (Mrs. Rodney) Whaley and Dave and Jane Smitheran.

AS INSOUCIANT as they are personally will be Marilyn and Jim Crooker's "beef stew and brew" annual Christmas party Dec. 10 at their Park Estates home. Marilyn, by herownself, will prepare the hearty fare for about 100. But she doesn't plan to get into a stew about the brew—that will be Jim's department.

With open jealousy, I'm glad the Crookers flew back from a gorgeous two-weeks' worth of Hawaiian vacation to share our stinky weather.

They have nothing but rave notices for the new Rockerfeller Mauna Kea hotel and golf course on the Kona Coast of Hawaii. The golf course, carved out of volcanic rock, is one of the greatest Jim says he's ever seen—and he's seen a-many. The project has been purported to cost $20 million. That many bucks should smack of class.

YAKKED UP a storm with Helen Hamman for first time since she and Clare returned from glorious month and a half vacation in the Orient. Their paths crossed with Jim and Doris Wood's, also doing the Orient, in Hong Kong and the foursome spent a week together there, racing from tailor to tailor, shop to shop, fancy eatery to glittery night spot, having the time of their lives.

The Hammans celebrated their 40th anniversary and the Woods their ninth in Hong Kong. "Miraculous, isn't it?" quipped Helen, "considering we're still 39." Clare and Helen toured Japan, Taiwan, Philippines (loved PI), Singapore and Bangkok.

Enchanted with travels in Europe, Helen resisted touring Orient, thinking, somehow, it would be crowded, ramshackle, tawdry. Not so. She loved every inch of it.

ALTHOUGH they've been a steady twosome for over two years, this will come as a surprise to many of their friends. Thelma Marshall and Delbert Murtland were married in a quietly planned ceremony at the home of her brother, Nelson Pyle, in Los Angeles Thursday. They're now on a honeymoon to Arizona; will be home Dec. 10.

DESPITE inclement weather (that word again!) Tri Delts had a big turn out for Founder's Day dinner at Petroleum Club. Among those who tripped in drippily in chic gear geared to soggy skies were Dorothy Ellery, Charlene Swanson, prexy of alums, Eleanore Smith, Cecilia Tallichet, Polly Murphy, Helen Viets, Barbara Newton, Betty Jenkens plus many actives from LBSC.

MARGIT'S GOURMET DINNER WAS A THING OF DELIGHT, JOY TO BEHOLD . . . From left, Malcolm Lucas, hostess Margit Cupper and honorees Gloria and Assemblyman George Deukmejian

BEGINNING to feel that her last name has particular significance for her is Bev Carver. She hobbled out in the rain to attend a Nightingale board meeting at Mary (Mrs. James) Thompson's, one of her first outings since surgery on her feet for the 16th time. Some kind of pesky, reoccurring thing that keeps requiring scalpel.

SMILING politely but undoubtedly figuring they'd have been better off "to have stood at home"—because of weather, not the hospitality—are house-guests of the Brewster Grays, Hester's sister and her husband, Margaret and Art Iuchs of Kansas City. To relieve—heh, heh — the monotony, Hester and Bruce took them to Palm Desert for a long weekend—hoping, of course, for sunshine. Well, you know what happened there.

Cloudbursts, flash floods, the bit. Took them six hours to drive home. Well, at least from Thanksgiving to now (fingers-crossed) they've seen California as we love to show it off.

Long Beach homes await newlyweds

Murphy-Guzman

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was setting Saturday morning for the marriage ceremony joining Edward J. Murphy and Rose Mary Guzman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Guzman, 2065 Fashion Ave. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Murphy, Harrisburg, Pa.

Attendants for the bride were her cousin, Isabel Martinez, maid of honor, and Suzanne Rice, bridesmaid. Completing the wedding party were William Leung, best man; Timothy Murphy, honorary best man, and Ruben Guzman, usher.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The newlyweds will be at home in Long Beach following a San Francisco honeymoon trip.

Elam-Jackson

Shirley Ann Jackson, daughter of Mrs. Charlyne Cramer Jackson, 2940 Ladoga Ave., became the bride of Michael Hugh Elam in a 2 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Our Lady of Refuge Catholic Church.

Honor attendants for the couple were Mr. and Mrs. John Coelho. Completing the entourage were Pam Haney, Bette Jo Martin, Nancy Sahner and Sandi Jackson, sister of the bride, bridesmaids; Leslie Dudney, flower girl; Bill Hughes, Fred Crum, Ken Hall and Rich Hansen, ushers.

They departed on a honeymoon trip to Northern California. They will reside in Long Beach. Parents of the bridegroom are Hugh Elam, 1833 Ashbrook Ave., and the late Mrs. Elam.

Colby-Durnin vows set in Corona del Mar

Engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Margaret Ann, to Charles William Durnin, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Harry William Colby of Corona del Mar.

Vows will be exchanged Dec. 29 at a small family wedding service in Community Congregational Church, Corona del Mar, with a reception following at Newport Harbor Yacht Club.

THE FUTURE bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. William G. Durnin of Long Beach, was graduated from Wilson High School and Pomona College. He now is in his third year at Baylor Medical School, Houston, Tex. He is a member of Alamitos Bay Yacht Club.

His bride-to-be also was graduated from Pomona and received her master's degree in education from that school last June. She is teaching elementary school in Houston where the newlyweds will reside until he completes medical school.

Slit top of cone one inch and insert a 15-inch length of wire. Bend to form arms and hands. Attach with tape.

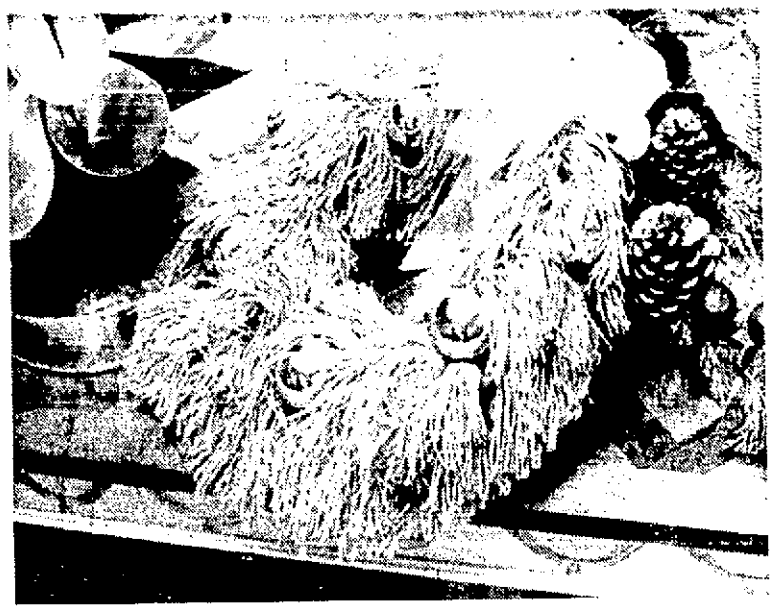

Next, mold hands and arms of paper toweling which has been dipped in wallpaper paste, with excess wrung out. (Note: wherever paste is used, excess should be squeezed out.) Then, using 24-inch strips of cotton sheeting (utilize old sheets for economy) dipped in paste, drape wire "arms" to create sleeves.

Add 60-inch drape of sheeting, also paste-dipped, for side folds (30 inches on each side) and 60-inch drape for front.

Tie gold cord around waist. Arrange all draping in artistic, classical lines while materials are damp and pliable. Then drape a triange cowl of paste dipped sheeting or lace over shoulders. Attach head, after smoothing, gluing on single layer of paper toweling.

Use yarn, glued in place for hair. Attach a wire halo. Allow two weeks to dry, then spray gold.

The finished angel will be like papier mache and, properly stored, will give enjoyment for many years.

NATURAL SHADE of new burlap, deeply fringed, combined with golden Christmas baubles, topped with golden bow, makes surprisingly sophisticated indoor wreath for home or office. Best of all, you can do it yourself for pennies. See accompanying story for directions.

Burlap wreath

Inexpensive, yet extremely sophisticated, is Mrs. John S. Watkin Jr.'s contribution—a burlap Christmas wreath for indoor decor.

Cut nine-inch wide strips of burlap for a total of five yards of strips. Form a wire coat hanger into a circle. Fray the burlap three inches on each side then weave it in, out and around hanger. Arrange edges around and around to create fullness.

Attach gold baubles, top with a gold bow to disguise hanger top. The natural color of burlap, the gold ornaments add up to smartness. If you like, tuck a bit of holly here and there for third dimension color effect.

Candy tree

For a coffee table at the holidays, try Mrs. Darrel K. Clarke's "candy tree." You'll need heavy velour and gold paper (almost cardboard weight), Styrofoam base, glue, stapler and two-foot long piece of dowling. Cover base and dowling with paper.

Cut circles out of the sturdy, decorative paper; planning five tiers with three circles each, diminishing in size for the top-most "branches."

Bend each circle in the middle and staple to make double cup. Glue and staple to dowling. Paper clips are handy to hold circles in place while glue sets. Decorate top of tree as desired. Fill cups with bright, assorted candies.

Candle decor

Another bright idea comes from Mrs. Clarke to brighten your holiday decorations. Use an inexpensive wicker table mat and spray it gold. Cut mat on one side to mount on Styrofoam base to create fan effect.

Secure one or two tall candles to base, heap pine cones, greenery, glistening satin Christmas balls around them. Touches of ribbon can be woven in the mat or added to greenery.

Girls who didn't drop out

lems melted away.

WHAT ARE the main reasons for drop-outism?

"Usually, it's a combination of factors," said Mrs. Davis.

"Unhappiness at home, lack of proper clothing, inability to study, slowness in reading—each or all can culminate in a big ball of frustrating self-doubt and apathy.

"This is where the one-to-one relationship pays off. If the girl (or boy) is taken out of the realm of statistics, treated instead as an individual, astounding things can be accomplished."

Take the case of another drop-out gal who didn't.

According to Mrs. Davis, the problem hinged mainly on loneliness — worry about her looks.

"She was a pretty girl, but she didn't know it. Her parents weren't paying any attention—no one else was either.

All she needed was some help on grooming—tips on hair care and wardrobe selection—plus some special academic tutoring—and she perked up and began to pass her tests.

"But, don't get the idea that this project is a sure-fire, quick-acting panacea," pointed out Mrs. Davis.

"It's full of unexpected dips and turns and setbacks. To a problemed teen, a minor crisis can be critical."

That's why the women keep communication lines always open. In fact, many a 'sister' has raced across town in the dark of night to talk over a situation with a distraught young friend.

"We've learned you just don't put off problems till tomorrow. For they don't go away, they get worse," said one worker.

FOR MOST of the potential drop-outs, the reasons for staying in school don't come as anything new.

School officials have been drumming away at the importance of diplomas for years. But, somehow a faltering teen can be terribly impervious to such preaching.

"Sure, I'd heard all the reasons," said one youngster. "But they didn't seem to apply to me. Besides, my dad didn't go beyond the eighth grade, and he's doing OK."

Said another: "I wasn't making very good grades, so I thought—heck, why bother. No one's going to care that much anyway."

Now, they know differently.

Someone not only cares, but, as one near drop-out puts it, "They're knocking themselves out about it.

"I guess if my education means that much to these people who don't have a stake in it at all—it REALLY must be important."

"She's so right," says Mrs. Davis.

"LONG BEACH has a far better than average holding rate for its schools—we must see that it stays that way, even improves.

"The drop-out problem is critical—growing hordes of uneducated people on the job market will spell disaster to our society."

Figures brought out by the U.S. Census show that in many occupations a high school diploma is worth about $1,000 a year in increased earnings—or about $40,000 over a life time.

The overall difference between earnings of average elementary school and high school graduates is even more striking. In 1959, the elementary grad could expect lifelong earnings of only $184,000 as compared with $247,000 for the high school grad—a difference of $63,000.

Today most employers demand high school diplomas.

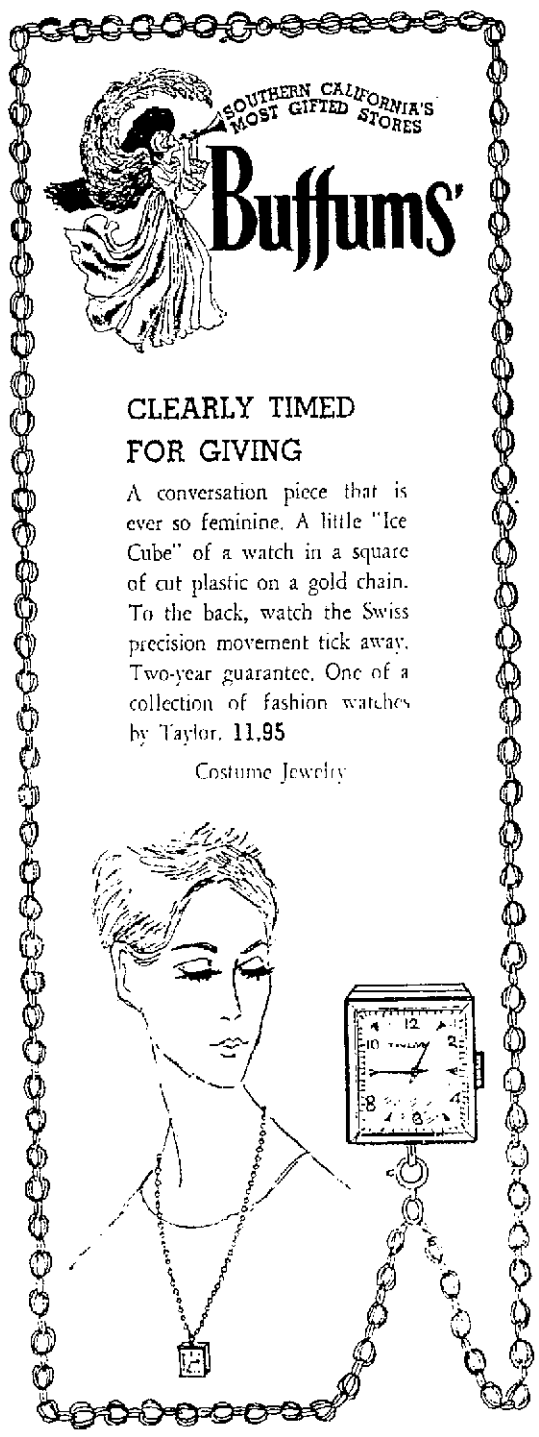

Without one you can't drive a bus for a transcontinental company; work regularly for a large construction firm; even qualify for most apprenticeship programs.

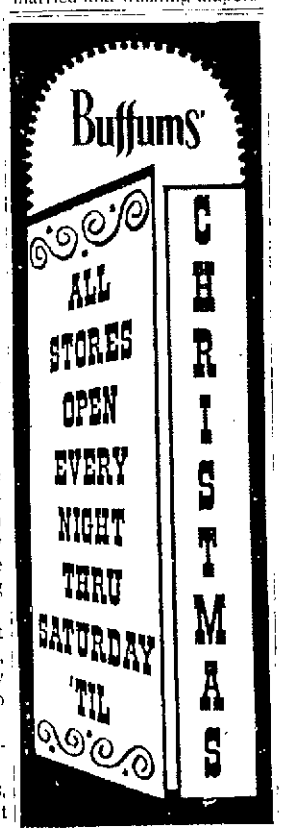

"As to the importance of education for girls, we stress the fact that, today, getting married and washing diapers is no sure way out of the labor force," says Mrs. Davis.

"According to the census, four wives out of every ten did some work in 1959, and one out of every three in 1962.

It seems, in these days, few families can live as well as they'd like on the income of the husband alone, thus women need degrees as much as men do.

August nuptials announced for Amalia Furjanick, E. D. Kearns

Engagement of Amalia Furjanick to Edward D. Kearns was made known to her fellow Bachelorette Club members with the traditional candle ceremony conducted during a recent meeting.

Parents of the betrothed couple are Mrs. Nicolas P. Furjanick, Long Beach, and the late Mr. Furjanick, and Mrs. Walter P. Kearns, Long Beach, and the late Mr. Kearns.

An August wedding is being planned.

GOHLKE-RACINELLI VOWS

Couple wed in home of bride's parents

The new Seal Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Osborne, 1201 Electric Ave., was scene Saturday afternoon for the marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann Gohlke, to Ennio V. Racinelli of Downey.

Honor attendants were Jan Keeler and Norman Parnely.

The bride's wedding attire was an off-white brocade sheath dress and jacket with pink accessories and bouquet.

A champagne reception at the Osborne home preceded the couple's departure for a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and San Francisco. They will reside in Downey.

Mrs. Racinelli received early schooling in Alexander, N.Y., and attended Long Beach City College. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Racinelli, Santa Maria, studied at Los Angeles Art Center.

OPERATION SANTA CLAUS

Assisteens go into toy biz, stage economy sale Saturday

By ELISE EMERY

The price tags are practically price-less.

A big-eyed, cuddly lamb whose music box heart plays a lullaby, 50 cents.

A tricycle with bright blue paint, 75 cents.

A small plastic baby buggy filled with two tiny dolls and other little toys, 10 cents.

More dolls—from infants to sophisticated teen-agers—complete with clothes, 50 cents to a top of $3.50 for a child-sized pre-schooler.

A shiny red fire engine with a bell that clangs, $3.

A collection of tiny race cars, tanks, two jeeps and army men, 4 cents.

An eight-inch doll in gay yellow Peruvian costume and her Italian counterpart, 8 cents each.

BRIGHT BLUE TRICYCLE or play iron with ironing board will be excitedly welcomed by some little boy or girl Christmas morning who might otherwise have no holiday at all . . . through the efforts of Assisteens, including Melissa Buchanan (left) and Diane Green.

THE 400 TOYS have been scrubbed, painted and polished by Senior High Assisteens, teen-age daughters of Assistance League members, as their year-long project, Operation Santa Claus.

The girls will celebrate the first anniversary of the founding of their organization with a one-day sale Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Assistance League Thrift Shop, 414 Locust Ave.

"I'm as much surprised as anybody at the prices," smiled Mrs. B. J. Buchanan, one of the group's coordinators, as she surveyed the mountain of toys at West Long Beach Girls Club, 2640 Santa Fe Ave.

Assisteens have met there the first Saturday of each month to repair and refurbish the playthings.

"The girls had a pricing session last week and agreed to keep the figures to a minimum."

"We're not trying to make a profit," explained Joan Webb, 17, Assisteens chairman.

"We want people with limited budgets to be able to buy attractive toys for their children's Christmas. We just need to make enough to buy materials to get started next year."

"We want to make this an annual sale," agreed Melissa Buchanan, 16.

The 20 Assisteens come from all five Long Beach high schools.

"We've raided our brothers' and sisters' toy boxes and have asked neighbors and friends for donations. Most of us baby sit and the mothers give us toys their children can spare," said Diane Green, 15. "Then we try to make them look like new."

"AFTER ALL, these girls are experts on the subject," Mrs. Buchanan pointed out. "They've just graduated from the toy-playing themselves."

She recalls one girl, now in college and no longer an Assisteen, who last spring brought a doll, lovingly bathed it, washed and styled its hair, made it a bright new wardrobe and looked at her finished work with pride.

Then she asked Mrs. Buchanan impulsively, "Would it be terrible if I took her home? She's been my favorite doll for years. I thought I could part with her, but I just can't!"

Although this is an all-girl project, Assisteens don't hesitate to call on brothers or fathers for help if mechanical repairs are needed.

Everything must be in safe, as well as attractive, condition.

Wearing holiday red and green ribbons in their hair the girls, aided by their mothers, will serve as sales clerks Saturday.

"It's meant a lot of hammering, sandpapering, painting and sewing," said Marsha Milton, 15, "but it makes you feel good to think how happy the little kids will be on Christmas morning."

DEAR ABBY

He's hungry for an image

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What can I do with a husband who takes me often to a lovely restaurant, then hardly speaks to me the whole time.

ABBY

He is so busy trying to impress the cocktail waitress, waiters, and even strangers at nearby tables. He considers himself a gourmet and bon vivant (which he is not) and he tries so hard to appear important to those who serve us.

You should hear him show off his high school French from 30 years ago! How can I let him know how foolish his actions are? To say nothing of his thoughtlessness in keeping busy people from their work, and annoying strangers who couldn't care less. I am too chagrined to sign my name.

Just sign me . . . EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Show me a man who's pompous in public and I'll show you a man who is nothing at home. Your husband is suffering from malnutrition of the ego, and should be treated at home, not in restaurants.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed of my father, I could die. He has been married seven times, and divorced six! All of his ex-wives are living and I have so many half-sisters and brothers, I have lost count.

I went to a priest and confessed that I had been lying about my father, and telling people who didn't know better that my father was dead. The priest said he didn't blame me for lying, but I shouldn't lie any more about it. Now I keep having these horrible nightmares in which I see my father in a coffin with the lid nailed down, and him trying to get out. Please help me. NIGHTMARES

DEAR NIGHTMARES: Your father's marital record is certainly nothing to brag about, but you are not responsible for your father's behavior. If someone asks about your father, tell them the truth. The chances are they will think you're kidding. Those nightmares are probably caused by your guilt-feelings from lying. Forgive yourself, and stick to the truth, and you'll be all right.

The Dr. Max Marks own a home you enter only by elevator.

It's a two-bedroom, sunny, comfortable one with a backyard—not of green lawn—but blue sky and a view that sweeps the shoreline.

For the Marks, it's the perfect place to live.

They are among the many thousands of Americans, who have sold homes and bought apartments.

"When my children were young, I needed (and had) large houses with pools, lots of rooms and huge yards. Now the doctor and I find own-your-own apartment life most practical."

The Marks' 10-flours-up abode is in the 307-foot-high, 16-floor Villa Riviera, 800 Ocean Blvd., a landmark here since 1932.

The advantages it offers over private home ownership, as the Marks see it are: no yardwork, no exterior upkeep, no worries about locking up when they go away, no commuting and an ocean-front, downtown location.

"The doctor moved into the Villa in 1933," says Mrs. Marks, adding in explanation, "ours is a second marriage, both of us were widowed.

"At first he rented—then, later, became an owner," she continues.

"Today, I understand the apartments sell for anywhere from $10,000 to $40,000 according to size. But, after the initial payment, all you owe is your telephone bill—plus a monthly assessment."

The assessment? It takes care of maintenance, of the huge Tudor Gothic structure, plus gas, water and electrical bills.

NOW DAYS, during the big apartment boom, we often think of own-your-owns as something new.

That's not the case. Apartment cooperatives were widespread in the 1920s—the Villa was one when first built.

However, as sometimes is the case, the first tenants didn't see eye-to-eye and the building subsequently was sold and turned into an apartment-hotel.

Then in 1955, new owners took over and, once again, the Villa became an own-your-own with buyers receiving a policy of title insurance with right to use commonly held features such as the lobby, subterranean garage, elevators etc.

"IT'S AN IDEAL place to live for a couple like us," says Mrs. Marks.

"For example, when we went to the Orient, all we had to do was close the door. There was no worry about a garden over-growing or a pool needing to be cleaned and we didn't have qualms about burglars."

While in the Orient, the Marks were entertained royally by Japanese dignitaries who had visited Long Beach.

"They showed slides of their trip—and there was the Villa, our home. To them it was an outstanding landmark of the city."

The Villa, which shuddered through the jolts of the '33 quake without damage, is indeed a landmark—one that's seen more than a few heydays, had more than its share of changes.

For example, in 1953 the Villa, once called "home of the admirals," was decorated with a costly fountain no one could control.

The great fountain sat smack in front of the swank hostelry. Some 120 feet in circumference, it was designed to shoot water up 40 feet in the air, and it did, except, when there was a breeze—and that was often.

Then, unhappily it sprayed across the boulevard, providing the only free car wash in town.

During another era, commercial helicopter flights took off from the Villa's roof.

This venture also ended on a sour note.

Next door neighbors at the Pacific Coast Club complained of the noise and the copters took off for good.

"We're very fond of the Villa, her foibles, her past ups and downs," says Mrs. Marks. "We're finding apartment owning delightful."

Many residences of own-your-own of both co-op and condominium nature agree.

Nationally, the only increase in home building during the past six years has been in apartments—which have quadrupled in number. Many of these new buildings are own-your-owns.

In Long Beach, where there are well over 14,000 buildings, buying into a multiple dwelling is increasing in popularity.

It can be an excellent move.

However, there are risks as well as benefits involved. Anyone interested in such type of home ownership should check-out crucial points BEFORE buying.

Co-op pros and cons

For many, co-op housing is like having your cake and eating it, too.

It offers convenience of apartment living plus advantages of ownership.

But, there can be thistles in this paradise.

Benefits such as elimination of landlord profit, share in equity and freedom from maintenance can be out-weighed by the responsibilities and risks that go with a joint venture.

IF YOU'VE decided advantages of co-op living outweigh disadvantages—and you're on the own-your-own market—the following may help you skirt some financial pitfalls.

1. Check out the backers—size up their records and reputations.
2. If the co-op is already a going proposition, find out how it's been faring—what the monthly charges have been.
3. Be sure all costs are included in the monthly assessment—including debts on principal and interest, utilities, taxes and ground rent.
4. Compare price and services offered with other co-ops in the area. Check whether utilities and heat are individually metered or priced on a flat rate.
5. Have a professional appraiser estimate value of the unit—get his opinion on the fairness of price.
6. Check to see if the building or property is heavily mortgaged. Also ask, does it have reserves for expense of repairs etc?
7. Be sure to figure your personal liability . . . it should not exceed the original investment.
8. Size up the management, the other people involved—are they your kind of people? Does it look like the venture will be run competently—compatibly?
9. Ask to see the by-laws, the membership agreement, the lease form and the rules on withdrawal.
10. Most important, take ALL the papers to a good lawyer; have him check the fine print.

RHEARSING FOR 'MESSIAH': LLOYD HOLZGRAF, ORGANIST; DONALD OGREN, BASS; CARL HOOVER, TENOR; OLIVE CHORLEY, CONTRALTO; JAN GROH, SOPRANO

40-YEAR TRADITION

Chorus to sing 'Messiah'

The Recreation Department Civic Chorus's performance of Handel's "Messiah," a tradition in Long Beach for 40 years, will be given Sunday, Dec. 12, at 3 p.m. in First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue. There is no charge for admission.

Frank Ahrold will direct the chorus of 70 voices and four well-known Southern California soloists in the concert to usher in the Christmas season.

* * * *

LLOYD HOLZGRAF, organist, was first place winner in 1955 in the American Guild of Organists Competition for Western States and was a finalist in the national competition in 1956 in New York. A member of Orange Coast College staff, he toured Europe last year and for 10 years was official organist for the Conference of Methodist Churches of the West. He has been organist for First Methodist Church of Long Beach, and for the past seven years has been at First Congregational Church of Los Angeles. He also is organist for Temple Israel here.

* * * *

SOLOISTS will be Jan Groh, soprano; Olive Chorley, contralto; Donald Ogren, bass; and Carl Hoover, tenor.

Mrs. Groh, a choral teacher with Long Beach Unified School District, has appeared with the Wichita Symphony, the Long Beach Symphony, Long Beach Civic Chorus and the Camerata dei Musici.

Mrs. Chorley, soloist for All Saints Episcopal Church in Beverly Hills, has sung major roles throughout the Southland and performed in opera at Idyllwild Arts Foundation. Twice she has sung at the Bach Festival in Carmel and was soloist in May for the Verdi Requiem with the William Hall Chorale in Pasadena. Locally, she was in Long Beach State College's production of "Ruddigore" which will be repeated elsewhere in January.

* * * *

HOOVER has toured in concert and light opera and in this area has been soloist with the Beach Cities Symphony, the Schola Cantorum and Long Beach Civic Chorus. He is soloist at the Neighborhood Church of Palos Verdes.

During the past 10 years, Ogren has made opera, concert and oratorio appearances in Southern California and has been soloist with the Beach Cities and Brentwood symphonies and for Los Angeles County Museum concerts.

LBCC opens student show

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Long Beach City College Art Club will open a week-long exhibit and auction of student work with a reception from 1 to 8 p.m. today in the college gallery, Faculty Avenue and Harvey Way.

Bids may be submitted for any of the drawings, paintings and pottery on display. Gallery hours will be 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday.

Auction proceeds will be used for a scholarship. Roger Bear, club president, and committee chairmen Shelby Severson, Kathy Murphy and Paul Eastup are in charge of arrangements.

THREE NEW exhibits hang in the Lytton Gallery of Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd.

The "Knud Merrild" show is a 30-year survey of work by one of Southern California's leading artists and is from the collection of his widow Mrs. Else Merrild of Copenhagen and collections in America. Organized by Jules Langsner it includes gesso-wax paintings, water colors, collages, relief construction and works in mixed media. It will remain through Dec. 26.

Also through Dec. 26 will be the "New Talent Purchase Grant Artists" exhibition which presents works by five young Southern California artists, Tony Berlant, Mel Edwards, Llyn, Foulkes, Lloyd Hamrol and Philip Rich.

The third display, "John Paul Jones," may be seen through Jan. 9. It consists of more than 50 paintings and includes abstracts, geometric forms, black portraits and more recent poetically sensitive figures in isolation.

ALSO AT the L.A. Museum from Thursday through next Sunday will be the First International Animated Film Exhibition in the Leo S. Bing Center Theater. Three hours of animated films from 12 nations will be shown. The 15 films represent the animated art form not in the usual cartoon sense but as a medium of adult entertainment.

Showings will be Thursday at 8 p.m.; Friday at 2 and 8 p.m.; Saturday at 8 and 11 p.m. and Sunday at 2 and 7 p.m. Tickets are $2 for museum members, $2.50 for non-members and half price for children under 12.

A TWO-DAY arts festival and auction by the sponsors of Synanon will be held Saturday and next Sunday at the Synanon warehouse, 364 Third Avenue, Venice. Preview will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday with a celebrity show at 3 p.m. The auction will begin at noon next Sunday.

Works will be donated by galleries, collectors and artists. Proceeds will go to Synanon Foundation, Inc.

Intuitive, philosophical mood in PCC show

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Paintings by Dr. Carl Albin continue in an exhibit at the Pacific Coast Club, 850 E. Ocean Blvd., in the Galleria through Tuesday. His work is intense, emotive, expressive, and varied in media, technique, and subject matter.

Albin seems most able to capture an intuitive and philosophical mood in his landscapes and in the Sumi-e (Japanese - style inkbrush) works. Three of the oils are of women, done in reds and oranges; while these are expressive of mood, the basic drawing is so lacking as to be intrusive.

OF THE SUMI-E paintings the brief segment of bamboo stalk with a scattering of leaves really hits the mark. Each leaf is but one stroke of the brush, no mistakes or corrections are possible. The flow of blue and yellow inks blend into a rendering of great feeling.

The same kind of success comes in some rather quick watercolors; one expressionistic rendering is of warships firing. Two of the oils are mountainscapes in the brilliant colors of autumn in which the color squeezed directly from the tube works beautifully.

Eric Pavel to explore 'Paris' scene

Eric Pavel's "Paris," third program in the 1965-66 International Film Series, will be presented by Long Beach City College at five local high schools this week.

The film-lecture opens at 8 p.m. Monday in the Wilson auditorium and will be presented Tuesday at Jordan, Wednesday at Lakewood, Thursday at Poly and Friday at Millikan. Season tickets and single admissions will be available at the box office each night.

Pavel's film explores Paris in the spring and year-round; Paris as the world capital of gastronomy, art and high fashion; the fabled night life of "Gay Paree;" and such perennial tourist attractions as Notre Dame, the Louvre, the Eiffel Tower, the Champs Elysees and the Bois de Boulogne.

Temianka to direct Oistrakhs

David and Igor Oistrakh, father and son violinists, will appear in an all-Bach program with the California Chamber Symphony Dec. 5 at 3 p.m. in the Pavilion of the Music Center.

Henri Temianka, director of the symphony orchestra at Long Beach State College, will direct.

A world famous concert violinist, Temianka is founder of the California Chamber Symphony and co-founder of the Paganini String Quartet.

* * * *

THE OISTRAKHS, celebrated Soviet artists, will appear as an attraction on S. Hurok's Gala International Season.

A limited number of single tickets will go on sale Monday.

Akira Endo to Speak at Salon

Akira Endo, violinist, conductor of Long Beach City College Orchestra and member of the college music faculty, will speak to Long Beach Auxiliary of Southern California Symphony Association Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Assisance League House, Fourth Street and Roswell Avenue.

The personable young musician is always warmly received by the Symphony Salon audiences.

He will discuss the first concert to be played in Long Beach this season by Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. Zubin Mehta will conduct the 8 p.m. program in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Numbers will be Samuel Barber's "Meditation and Dance of Vengeance," Shostakovich's "Symphony No. 1," and Brahms' "Symphony No. 2."

* * * *

MEHTA conducted the Philharmonic Wednesday in the Music Center, Los Angeles, to open the orchestra's 47th season.

Endo, born in Japan, came to this country in 1954, was graduated from Wilson High School and received a full tuition scholarship in music from USC. He received the alumni award as the most outstanding graduate from the School of Music. Currently he plays at the Music Center with the Roger Wagner Chorale, is second violinist with the Pacific String Quartet and performs with the Glendale Symphony.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Wins fame without flame

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

That he knows his kilowatts, there's little doubt. But whether he knows what's cooking on his electric range, there IS some doubt.

Regardless of what's what in the kitchen, however, today's Chef of the Week, G. E. Wilcox, lives better electrically as manager of Southern California Edison Co.'s southern division.

He succeeds "Chef" Charles M. Campbell, who was appointed executive representative for customer services.

Wilcox's progress could be described as electric. Joining the Edison Company in 1949 as a job analyst, he was promoted to senior job analyst in 1954; then three years later to the position of supervisor of organization and procedures department in Los Angeles. He was transferred to Long Beach and the commercial department in 1960, and became Campbell's assistant in '63.

BORN IN BOISE, Idaho, Wilcox came to Long Beach with his family at the age of 12. Franklin Junior, Poly High and Long Beach Junior College, preceded his graduation from UCLA with a degree in business administration.

Wilcox still enjoys boating despite a three-year hitch in the Coast Guard during World War II—22 months of which were spent aboard ship.

Wilcox and his wife, the former Eleanor Hilliard, whom he met at Junior College, have a daughter, Kathy, 16, a junior at Poly.

Though conscientious by nature, Wilcox does seem to speed-up his Saturday "home work" in order to be ready for any sports event to be televised. As far as he's concerned, UCLA can do no wrong.

His avid interest in sports is really a "hangover" from the days when he played an excellent game of both basketball and baseball. Wilcox also has coached two little league teams to championships.

OUR "CHEF" has given as his recipe today a Gourmet Pot Roast. We're told, however, that his favorite "dish" is "cheesecake"!

GOURMET POT ROAST

3½ to 4 lb. Beef Brisket or Chuck Roast
1 pkg. onion soup mix
½ cup red wine OR ½ cup water
1 can mushrooms with liquid

Moisten soup mix with wine or water. Place roast in center of foil and set in roasting pan. Pour soup mixture and mushrooms over roast, and wrap foil around meat to form air-tight package. Roast at 325° —1 hour per pound—(3½ to 4 hours).

To serve, transfer meat to platter and slice thinly across grain. Pour meat juices into pan and thicken for gravy.

G. EDWIN WILCOX

AOPi to party

Alpha Omicron Pi members and their families will attend annual Christmas dinner at 6 p.m. next Sunday at the UCLA Chapter House, Westwood, sponsored by the Mothers' Club. Sorority actives will entertain.

Beauty Advice

". . . I have never yet seen a finer method of improving the complexion. Wrinkles are smoothed, dryness is checked, blemishes vanish and the skin takes on a healthy, youthful look . . ." (Extract from a report by Margaret Merril suggesting the use of the tropical oil of Olay as a powder base.) Most druggists are now able to obtain supplies of this oil which gives glorious loveliness to the skin.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Too young to hold hands?

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have wonderful parents who believe that going steady at 14 is dumb. I agree and I have no desire to go steady, but they think it's wrong for me to even hold hands with a boy.

What's wrong with that? I haven't done it yet, but if I did, do you think I would really be doing something wrong?—FOURTEEN.

DEAR FOURTEEN:

In my opinion there is nothing wrong in walking down the street hand in hand, but then I'm not your mother and I think you should do as she thinks best.

I do think for a couple of kids your age to sit and hold hands is a little silly but not terribly wrong— M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am supposedly going with Charles and have been since I was 10. He is a nice, considerate boy, but he bores me. He has been coming to my house, and I don't know why because I'm not very nice to him. I'm tired of him, but I feel sorry for him.

I am 13 and I can't decide whether to just let him keep on coming around or tell him to leave me alone. What would you suggest? — BORED.

DEAR BORED:

Decisions! Decisions! Of course, at the age of 10 you had no way of knowing how tiresome Charles would be in three years, but then, at age 10 you'd no business with a boyfriend, anyway.

Why not keep on ignoring Charles and one of these days he'll pick up his marbles and go home? Anyway, you're probably just a habit to him by this time and he might just come around for snacks, huh?—M.M.

Safe play may assure contract

Here is another safety play from the new Kay-Silodor-Karpin book on duplicate bridge.

South wins the first heart and plays ace and jack of diamonds. West plays the queen on the jack. You can make an extra trick if East holds the ten of diamonds and you play the king from dummy but if West holds the ten-spot, your play of the king tosses your contract into the ash can.

Their advice, to which we subscribe heartily, is to play safe. Make sure of your contract. Some team may not be in game. Others may be in five or six diamonds. By making sure of ten tricks at no trump you beat all part scores and all diamond contracts, and if diamonds do divide 3-1 you will have tied for top.

Now for a ittle speculation with this hand. Suppose that both opponents follow to the first diamond and that West plays the ten-spot on the second diamond lead.

CAN YOU rise with dummy's king and feel perfectly safe about dropping the queen from East?

The answer is yes unless West happens to be a great player who is gifted with both nerve and imagination.

Such a West player might well play the ten from queen-ten. He would have reasoned as soon as he saw dummy that you as South would play safe in diamonds if he played the queen and would have risked his sure diamond trick in an effort to lull you into going up with dummy's king. So, against such a player you should still make the safety play of ducking.

RESPONSE GREATEST OF ALL TIME

Travelers heed call to far Pacific lands

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

The Pacific's exotic islands, fascinating Down Under world, and mysterious ports in the Orient again are calling the traveler, and the response will be the greatest of all time.

Airlines are stepping up their service to satisfy the demands of the travel hungry. Reservations on the big cruise ships, most of which sail from Los Angeles Harbor, are rapidly being snapped up.

Warren S. Titus, president of the P&O-Orient Lines whose "biggest bloomin' ships" put out with regularity from West Coast ports, sees increased leisure time as firing up interest in cruising.

Californians will figure heavily in the Pacific caper during the next several months. They have the leisure, the money, and an understandable, abiding interest in the Big Blue.

* * * *

FOR THOSE whose leisure is limited, the jets are the answer. As an example, Pan Am speeds its customers nonstop to Tahiti in about eight hours, whereas it takes as many days to go by ship. Other destinations are shortened proportionately.

But the lure of cruising, instead of fading with this kind of competition, is growing to boom proportions and West Coast travelers into the Sunset may choose from three famous companies — American President Lines, which sails into the Orient; P&O-Orient, which links such distant lands as New Zealand and Australia; and Matson, which features cruises through various Hawaiian islands and into the alluring South Seas.

There is, also, a rising demand. for freighter travel More freighters are taking on passengers (for up-to-date information, get a copy of "Ford's Freighter Travel Guidebonk" published at $2.75 by Robert E. Clark, Box 505, Woodland Hills, Calif. 91366).

HAWAII, of course, is the most sought destination in the Pacific. And for good reason. Anyone who wishes to combine a vacation in the U.S. with a feeling of being in a foreign place can do no better than plan a holiday in Hawaii. It is a polyglot of customs, cultures and creeds, and most visitors say its beauty is unsurpassed.

On various Pacific itineraries are these additional destinations:

TAHITI and Moorea, 2,381 miles south of Hawaii, in the Society Islands: an idea lspot for relaxing in tropical atmosphere; heavenly scenery, friendly natives, dancing. Most visitors regret leaving.

BORA BORA, 125 miles northwest of Tahiti, an unspoiled spot which Independent. Press-Telegram travel writer Stan Delaplane calls "the last Paradise." No one leaves it unimpressed.

PAGO PAGO is another dreamy island, in American Samoa. A new hotel has eased an acute accommodations problems somewhat. One of the world's beautiful harbors. The American influence is showing up more and more.

FIJI, Rarotonga and Niuafo'ou: these palm - fringed atolls offer cruises, feasting, dancing, moonlight skindiving expeditions, and tropical greenery. Shopping is a delight. Nadi International Jet Airport is 135 miles from Fiji's capital, Suva.

NOUMEA, in New Caledonia, 700 miles east of Australia: lengthened runways and new jet terminal at Tontouta, 30 miles from Noumea, with daily flights from Sydney, Auckland, Fiji and Tahiti. Skirted by a soft green lagoon that stretches to a wave-busting coral reef, eight miles out. Life and customs are very French.

AUSTRALIA, which increasingly is gripping the imaginations of gadders: biologically and geologically a world unto itself, a land of strange creatures and topsy-turvy plant life. Skyscrapers and endless arid lands. Hauntingly beautiful landscapes and seascapes.

NEW ZEALAND is a country with a little of everything. Some of the earth's most awesome terrain, all loaded with natural wonders —fiords, glaciers and a maze of mountains, lakes and valleys.

CAMBODIA, whose capital is Phnom Penh, a tropical city of golden palaces trimmed with ornate carvings, the gateway to one of the world's most exotic countries.

BALI, a storybook island reached generally by plane from Djakarta, capital of Indonesia. A land of temples. The people are good looking, gracious and friendly. Incredible buys for the shopper, including carvings of

FACILITIES THE BEST EVER

Big season builds up for skiing in West

A big season for snow sports, with emphasis on skiing, is building up in the western states, including areas within easy reach of Southern Californians.

More beginners will get into the act, certainly, but skiing is turning into a family sport, too. In some areas —particularly in the National Forests—there will be outdoor nurseries where, under supervision, youngsters may practice their turns on little skis; smaller or less-active tots may choose to play in supervised indoor nurseries set up for them. There will be ski classes for all ages and a few will have lifts and tows designed especially for children.

Facilities will be the best ever — enlarged ski slopes, modern uphill facilities, lodges and apres ski activities. More chairlifts have been added — everything, in fact, to improve the sport and the comfort of the participants.

* * * *

WITHIN an hour or two from the Long Beach-Orange County snow fans are dozens of fine ski areas. Closest is Mt. Baldy which, in a good season, offers a wide variety of terrain to both beginners and experts. Serving the area are three double chairlifts, a platter pull, and six rope tows. There is a day restaurant and warming lodge at the top of one lift and within five miles of the ski area are lodges with accommodations, dining, dancing and cocktails.

Snow Summit, at Big Bear Lake, has the largest snowmaking operation west of the Rockies which is put into use when there is little or no natural snow. It is served by one double chairlift and seven rope tows, and has a bar and restaurant at the ski area.

Mammoth Mountain, near Mammoth Lakes on the east slope of the High Sierra, is gaining a national and international reputation for its good snow. It has one of the longest seasons in the country.

The Mammoth Mountain area now has six double chairlifts and two T-bars. An 1,800-foot beginners chairlift was installed during the summer, and under construction is a new Bell gondola with a 1,200-an-hour capacity.

* * * *

IN THE AREA, Mammoth Mountain Inn announces plans for a contemplated $15 million resort and recreational complex adjacent to the Inn, with construction commencing next June. It will include 500 additional hotel rooms, theater, concert hall, specialty shops, heated indoor pool, bowling alleys and health spa.

Other areas with potential big draws are in the Lake Tahoe area, Dodge Ridge, China Peak, Badger Pass (in Yosemite National Park) on the west slope, and June Lake over on the eastern slope.

21-day Eurailpass ticket for $99

A new Eurailpass ticket good for 21 days and costing $99 will be introduced Jan. 1.

The 13 Eurailpass countries of western Europe have agreed to maintain these prices for 1966: one month, $130; two months, $180; and a three-month ticket, $205.

The new 21-day ticket makes it practical for the person with average vacation time to use Eurailpass.

Southland cities plan big yule celebrations

Southern California cities will entertain visitors with a Christmas celebration out-of-doors in December. There will be miles of giant lighted trees, two lighted water parades and a Christmas day swim in the ocean, a pageant on the desert, and a lighting display 184 feet high.

Santa Monica becomes the "City of the Christmas Story" with 14 churches constructing life-sized Nativity scenes lighted at night beneath the palms of seacliff Palisades Park. A walking cross of singing young people parades down famed Wilshire Blvd. to the Park the evening of Dec. 6.

Van Nuys takes advantage of the movie and TV studios in its San Fernando Valley for the Bethlehem Star Parade at 3 p.m. Dec. 5. According to the area's All-Year Club, studio experts help design the church-built Nativity floats and help make up and costume the live characters aboard them.

* * * *

BIGGEST Christmas parade in the West is the Christmas Lane at suburban Huntington Park on Dec. 4, of more than 100 movie, radio and TV stars, some 36 bands of 7,500 musicians, floats and riders. As the parade starts at 7 p.m., 100,000 overhead lights and 50 giant searchlights flash on.

Even the horse riders will be light decorated in the "Christmas Spirit" parade Dec. 6 at Oxnard on the Ventura coast north of Los Angeles.

In the same area at Camarillo, Walter Brennan of movies and TV will be master-of-ceremonies and the bands and choral groups will be wearing many native costumes in a "Costumes of Many Lands" parade on Dec. 11.

Light - decorated yachts will parade in the main channel of the Port of Los Angeles at San Pedro the evening of Dec. 18 with a backdrop of home light decorations sparkling 1500 feet up San Pedro hill.

* * * *

AT NAPLES, canal community in East Long Beach, residents will fashion pleasure craft into lighted floats and parade through canals and Alamitos Bay the nights of Dec. 18-19.

The first (since 1920) and most famous of the area's lighting spectacles, the Mile of Christmas Trees, will see about 100 giant deodar trees strung with 10,000 colored lights along Santa Rosa Ave. leading down from Mt. Lowe in suburban Altadena from Christmas Eve to New Year's night.

Tallest spectacle is at Calipatria in Imperial Valley, called the "Lowest Down City in the Western Hemisphere," which has a flagpole 184 feet high reaching sea level and hangs great strings of lights to it, sighted for miles around.

On the desert on terrain similar to the Holy Land, the community of Joshua Tree fashions shops and stores into buildings of Bethlehem and stages a nightly pageant under lights.

WITH NEW LIFTS, LODGES

Utah's ski ranges 'greatest on earth'

Lather a two-mile high mountain range with layer upon layer of what experienced skiers label "the greatest snow on earth." Spend millions of dollars to build the most modern chair lifts, gondola lifts, T-bars and even the world's first underground ski lift to service scenic slopes. Spend additional millions for luxury lodges and more modest family style resorts, fine restaurants and informal spas. Link ski slopes and resorts with jet-age airports, railroad stations and transcontinental highways by means of well-paved, well-cared highways. Combine these elements with some of the finest snow sports terrain in the country and you'll have Olympic — Utah's ski land for the 1965-66 season.

For more than a quarter century, Utah has been widely known as an unexcelled winter sports area for both snow conditions and terrain. The Wasatch Range—Utah's Rockies - extends on a north-south line through the state, spearing snowclouds atop 11,000-feet high peaks. As the westernmost extension of the Rockies, the Wasatch gets snow early and keeps it late, hence the worldwide reputation of Alta, one of the first resorts in the nation to attract an international clientele.

* * * *

NOWADAYS there are a dozen fine ski areas scattered from Utah's northern forests down to a new development in the state's southwest — all easily accessible by direct air routes from such centers of population as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Dallas, Houston, Las Vegas and Phoenix, as well as from such eastern and midwestern points as New York, Chicago Minneapolis, Boston and Philadelphia.

Utah's "proximity skiing" —Salt Lake City with its jetport, rail terminals, hotels, motels shops concerts theaters and night-life is less than thirty miles from most major resorts—has brought new developments and considerable refurbishment at all its ski areas.

Ski Week Jan. 21-30

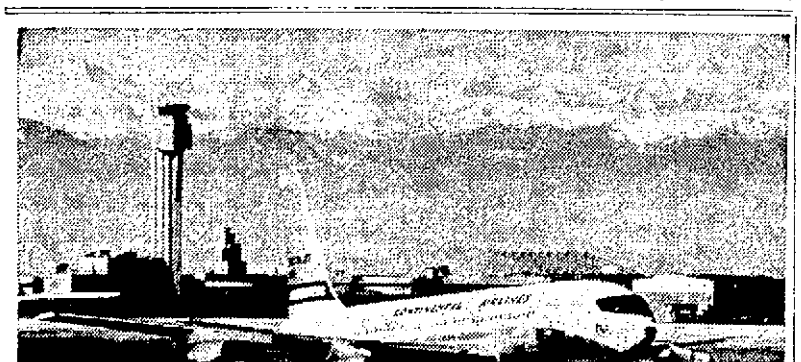

National Ski Week makes its second annual appearance Jan. 21-30.

More than 1,000 ski instructors and ski club members will open the celebrations with torchlight parades on skis at major ski areas.

Following will be special demonstrations of ski technique, exhibitions by ski patrols, wnter carnvals, learn-trols, winter carnivals, learn-to-ski clinics and instruction programs, open house parties, apres ski get-togethers, fashion shows and ski film showings — all at ski areas.

Zurich climbs

A building permit has been issued for a 23-story hotel, "The Delta," to be built in Zurich, Switzerland, with 486 beds, conference rooms, large convention hall, restaurant, new-type shopping concourse and garage for 250 cars.

$150 MILLION SPENDING SPREE THIS SEASON

Caribbean picture's all sun

By Fred Taylor Kraft

The vacation throng is pouring into the sunlit Caribbean by air and by sea and, before the winter season ends next April, these pleasure seekers may set an all-time spending spree of $150 million.

Not that it costs big money to go on a lark on the scores of islands that stretch from Venezuela to the Virgin Islands off Puerto Rico.

It's the numbers.

New ships and more ports of call, explained knowledgeable Travel Weekly, will tax berth capacity during the coming months to a peak of 255,000, a rise of 10%. Some of the ships will be sailing in from the West Coast.

The influx by air also is rising at a giddy rate, many flying out of California. Proof lies in the report of one airline — Delta — which says its travel there from Los Angeles International Airport has jumped more that 200% this year.

* * * *

REASONS are obvious. Nowhere do the warm beaches, with their multitude of water sports, have greater appeal. The Caribbean teems with fish. Eating your way through the score or more most-visited islands, some just being "discovered" by travelers, is a gastronomical delight. The gay dances of the natives uniquely combine rhythms descended from a Latin, Gallic, English and African heritage. Accommodations range from adequate to the finest at every stop.

You may prefer an uncluttered island or the go-go tempo that prevails on such much-visited destinations as Jamaica and Puerto Rico. There are quiet stops—honeymoon heavens—like Saba, Carricou Saint Eustatius, Dominica, Marie-Galante, Monserrat, The Current and George Town, Exuma.

On Anguilla, a British Leeward Island, top-notch beaches and scenery can be enjoyed at a hotel expenditure of $6 to $8 a day, including three meals.

* * * *

GROWING in importance tourist-wise are Trinidad and Tabago, at the extreme southeast end of the West Indian island chain. Rich in flora and fauna is Tobago, the Robinson Crusoe island, and it's off the beaten path of most tour itineraries. Trinidad, busy and fun-loving, is the melting pot of the West Indies.

Dancing is a way of life in Haiti. Folk dances get top billing in the flamboyant nightclubs; and, of course, there is the calypso and the steel drums, standard fare at all stops. Haiti's growing popularity is due, at least in part, to completion not so long ago of a jet runway at the new International Airport outside Port-au-Prince, the capital.

Other charming islands are Martinique, Guadeloupe and Barbados.

* * * *

BUT DON'T pass up Puerto Rico or Jamaica, or Puerto Rico's neighbors, the Virgin Islands. True, these spots draw the most tourists—along with the Bahamas—but again there are reasons. Each has beautiful beaches and posh ocean front hotels. Each has festive nightlife and elegant restaurants. San Juan, capital of Puerto Rico, has gambling casinos. And Jamaica, proclaim travelers who should know, is one of the most beautiful spots on earth.

You'll find free ports for shopping in a number of the islands, notably the Virgin Islands and Jamaica. The U.S. Virgin Islands have a big advantage over all the others: you can bring home $200 worth of duty free purchases and a gallon of liquor. From all others, U.S. Customs limits purchases to $100 (retail value) and one bottle.

English is either spoken or understood throughout the islands, but you can pick several where French is the predominant language, if that's your preference. Others are Dutch, English, or Spanish, and there's one — Montserrat—where descendants of yesteryear's African slaves speak English with a brogue as thick as any found in a Dublin pub.

Said one vacationist after returning from three weeks in the Caribbean: "I could have stayed a year and never been bored a minute."

THE GAY SPRIT of the Caribbean in general, and of Haiti in particular—where dancing is a way of life—is reflected by this troupe in a Port-au-Prince nightclub.

Western ski areas improve facilities

Tahoe area, has built more double chairlifts and opens the season with 14 of them. There are also the relatively new gondola tramway which serves the Gold Coast area, and six platter pulls for beginners. Also new is a lounge for the "brown baggers."

* * * *

SLIDE Mountain, near the crest of the range between Reno and Lake Tahoe, has a new 700-foot double chairlift for beginners. Alpine Meadows, in the Tahoe City area, has a new ski school director. Heavenly Valley has installed its fifth double chairlift, already boasting the biggest aerial tramway in the Far West. Donner Ski Ranch, near Donner Summit, has one double chairlift, one platter and a new rope tow. Soda Springs, just west of Donner Summit, has a chairlift, one J-bar, one T-bar and two rope tows. Twin Peaks is the newest area to go into operation, opening with a double chairlift. It will operate on weekends until Easter.

In the central Sierra are Dodge Ridge with four double chairlifts, one poma, one platter and eight rope tours. China Peak, under new management, is adding a new look in slope grooming and hill maintenance, plus an enlarged lodge. Night skiing will be offered on beginner hill on Wednesdays and Fridays.

* * * *

A POPULAR SPOT for western skiers is Sun Valley, Idaho, which is adding a post-graduate course to its ski school curriculum — slalom racing.

Considerable work has been done to improve skiing at Sun Valley: two new double chairlifts, new runs and old runs cleared, new warming hut and dining room at foot of Warm Springs run, expansion of the Roundhouse, double seating area, and new 900-foot Poma lift on Roundhouse slope.

Colorado, of course, is loaded with ski slopes. Best known, no doubt, is Aspen which claims to offer the most complete ski facilities in the world in its three great areas — Aspen mountain, Buttermilk, and Snowmass - At - Aspen. Chairlifts and T-bars have a total capacity of about 10,000 an hour. Lodges are within easy walking distance of the lifts, along with restaurants and nightclubs.

Then there's the Pacific Northwest. And Canada, naturally, is cashing in on her national snow resources, with a multiude of ideal areas in British Columbia and Alberta.

U.P. Special to Sun Valley

Union Pacific Railroad again will operate its "Snowball Special" from Los Angeles Union Station to Sun Valley, Jan. 8-15 and March 12-19.

Reduced rates for the trips start at $154 and include transportation, chuck wagon meals en route, six nights lodging, six full days of ski lessons, and use of Sun Valley lifts and pool. Reservations are necessary.

More than 15,000 Southland skiers have used the "Snowball Special" since it began operating in 1958.

Gold museum

The world's largest collection of gold objects made before the Spaniards arrived in the Americas is at the Gold Museum of Bogota. According to Panagra (Pan American - Grace Airways), the 8,000 finely wrought earrings, masks, nose pieces, and other pieces made by the pre-Hispanic goldsmiths, are valued at more than $30 million. Star of the show is the Quimbaya vase worked in gold foil, and decorated with repouss', cutting, and bangles.

Rattle & roll

Construction of new establishments and enlarging of the casino at St. Vincent, in the Aosta Valley of the Italian Alps, has ben undertaken by the company that manages the casino.

The contract, which was to have expired on March 31, 1966, has been renewed for 12 years, by unanimous decision of the Aosta Valley Council.

The new facilities will include the building of a new hotel at St. Vincent and the installation of a cable car for Mt. Zerbion.

He hated red

The famous pirate "Bluebeard," who is honored in St. Thomas, U. S. Virgin Islands, by a hotel bearing his name, is said to have been named because of a tonsorial error. The legend, as reported by Pan Am travel experts, is that he hated his red beard and had it dyed black. A few days later a chemical reaction set in and the beard turned a bright indelible blue.

Special tours into Mexico

"Christmas in Mexico" is the special escorted tour offering of Greyhound for travelers who desire a taste of Old World charm and hospitality in the New World during the year-end holidays.

There are three of these "extras" in Greyhound's year-around schedule. There is also a stepped-up schedule from once-weekly to twice-weekly departures during December through April from Los Angeles.

Departure dates from Los Angeles are Dec. 8, 14 and 16. All the features of Greyhound's regular Mexico Escorted Tour are provided on these special vacations, plus numerous opportunities to participate in Mexico's religious, public and private holiday observances.

The economy price tag for the three-week vacation; with twin-share accommodations at only $339.95 from Los Angeles per person. An optional extension to Acapulco is available for only $36 per person on a double or twin basis.

Palm Springs closes in

Palm Springs has moved closer to the Long Beach area. A visitor information office for the desert resort has been opened in Los Angeles by Transportation Consultants, Inc., a West Coast-based travel marketing organization.

Current data on weather, hotel accommodations, recreation, and other information concerning the resort may be obtained by calling the Palm Springs Hotel and Visitor Information Office at Hollywood 6-1626. The office is located at 6290 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90028.

The Palm Springs Hotel and Visitor Information Office will also answer written and telephoned inquiries with appropriate brochures, upon request. Direct telex communication will be maintained between the Los Angeles office and the Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce Visitors Bureau for prompt servicing of inquiries.

Travels with Delaplane

For people trying to make that cheap vacation to Hawaii, this ought to be the answer: Camp on a warm beach.

I saw a beautiful camp ground on the island of Kauai, near the end of the Hanalei Road. Good white sand beach. The camp ground is on grass alongside the beach. Installed toilets. A river with a deep fresh water pool for bathing. A nearby plantation village with a general store for shopping.

Air fare to Honolulu is $200 round trip from the West Coast. Kauai is 30 minutes from Honolulu.

I saw camping gear for rent in the yellow section of the Honolulu phone book. (Better write and have it waiting.)

A bus runs to the end of the island, but not often. Getting to the village for food might be a problem. But you should be able to rent a bicycle in Honolulu. Get one of the fold-up kind you carry like a suitcase if you can. (You can buy them for $89.50.)

And write Hawaii Visitors Bureau, Honolulu, Hawaii for a list of camp sites in all the islands and registration rules.

When I was there at the top of the season there was only one couple camped.

"We are going to Mexico but I am worried about mosquitoes. I am bothered a great deal by their bites."

ON THE SNAKE River in Grand Teton National Park, the boatsmen spray themselves with "Off.." Works for mosquitoes but doesn't bother the little "no-see-ums" you find near the beach. So stay away from beach cottages — they go right through screens.

In Puerto Rico, doctors give shots that take some of the itch out of the bites. And there's a prescription spray-on medicine that does the same thing.

In both Puerto Rico and Hawaii, local people say Vick's Vap-o-Rub is the best thing to take the itch out of the bites.

Mexico has a national spraying program against mosquitoes. Even so, I take the once-a-week pill against malaria.

"Is it true that April is the best month to be in England?"

IF YOU DON'T mind wearing an overcoat. May's the better month. It snowed at Easter one year when I was in London. Average in April runs 45 to 55 degrees.

The English, however, don't look at the weather. They look at the calendar. When it says April, they gets into shorts and bike around in blizzards.

In rating English weather, you must remember that they keep their houses and pubs at about 60 degrees in winter. Our average 70 degree housing feels like the tropics to them.

"I heard there are odd closing hours in cocktail lounges in Australia."

THAT'S CHANGED. Used to be they closed at 6 p.m.—allowing Australians their beloved "5 o'clock swill." They got in a bar and drank beer as fast as possible between 5 and 6. Sydney changed some years ago to a 10 o'clock closing. And Melbourne has now done the same. No closing time if you're in a restaurant. And hotel guests always could get a drink anytime. Same as England and Ireland where food and drink for horse and man is supposed to be on tap for all travelers at all hours.

Overseas travel to jump

Despite President Johnson's "See America First" program, Southern California travel agents expect the number of Americans voyaging overseas to increase 15 to 20% next year.

The bulk of this rise, according to President Anthony Stute of Continental Express and General Manager Noel Houwing of Unitours, will be made of groups or charter tours traveling under the vague title of "affinity groups."

According to travel regulations, an affinity group must be an organization formed for a purpose other than travel. Stute and Houwing, whose companies specialize in this line, both predicted 50 to 60% of the Southern California market will be made up of affinity group travel next year.

Stute gave the example of one group that started three years ago with 3,000 members, 150 of whom joined the travel program. Now the membership is 31,000, and about 2,000 are expected to travel next year.

California is second only to New York in travel of the affinity group type, according to their figures.

The two travel executives also agreed in predicting that:

—A trend away from the "27 countries in 21 days" type of travel will continue.

—Off-season travel will grow as a major attraction for tourists seeking more elbow room and more value for their money.

—An increase in student tours, although most tourists will continue to be middle-aged and older.

NATIVE DANCERS entertain tourists on Bora Bora, an unspoiled island in the Pacific described by one writer as "the last Paradise."

wood, horn and stone, silverwork, weaving and sculpture.

THAILAND, friendly and progressive yet dangerously close to a great war front, Viet Nam. Bangkok, the capital, has its busy klongs (canals), shopping, dancing and nightlife, and good hotels.

INDIA: Already a legend among travelers, a vast land of paradoxes, its mysteries never solved. From Calcutta, most travelers from the Pacific go to New Delhi, Agra and Benares, some as far as Bombay. English speaking, with travel comparatively easy. Sights like the Taj Mahal at Agra leave globetrotters breathless.

SINGAPORE is the legendary "crossroad of the world" whose Raffles Hotel is one of the famous landmarks of the Orient. Easy to get to, with good hotels. There are shoppers who say Singapore's prices are the lowest, period.

HONG KONG is where a fine handcrafted suit is made in less than 48 hours at pipe-rack prices. A melange of races. One of the busiest and most colorful harbors anywhere. Floating restaurants. A skyline dotted with towering new hotels. Cruises and shopping are the main pastimes of travelers.

TAIWAN: This Republic of China is the only part of real China that U. S. citizens can visit. On a flying route, 500 miles notheast of Hong Kong, 1,300 miles southwest of Japan. Lush scenery, a variety of fine food, great works of art, superb shopping. Taipei, the capital, has its share of new hotels.

JAPAN: Kyushu, on APL itineraries, is a springboard to sights in Asia's most progressive and literate country. Sights are endless. Visitors should not miss a cruise on the Inland Sea, and an eye-popping view of the world's biggest city—Tokyo.

PHILIPPINES: Most tourists head for Manila, the capital, but they should not overlook Baguio, the summer capital 180 miles away. Clean and modern, it lies in the center of gorgeous landscapes, has excellent hotels. A must is the central market, local version of a supergigantic supermarket.

KOREA, which has evolved a way of life that is distinct, even among the countries of the Orient. The adventurous visitor who wishes to mix ancient customs with comfortable vacationing heads for lovely Cheju Island, 60 miles southwest of the tip of Korea, where the old way of life can be observed while living it up hunting, fishing, or sunlazing.

Treasure tip

Check the local regulations before you go looking for treasure from sunken ships, advises the American Automobile Association. Florida, for example, requires that you turn over one-fourth of your find to the state. The Federal Government generally frowns on treasure hunting in areas set aside as national preserves.

Newest resort

Playa Azul, on Mexico's Pacific coast, will become the country's newest resort. The Mexican National Tourist Council reports the state of Michoacan is developing beaches, building resort areas and laying out roads to spots previously inaccessible only by boat.

WINTER TRAVEL

B.C. building new ferry

Construction of a new auto-passenger ferry "Queen of Prince Rupert" which next summer will link northern Vancouver Island with the mainland of Prince Rupert is proceeding on schedule, according to officers of British Columbia (Canada) Ferry Authority.

The new service, which will follow "The Route of the Haidas" — a tribe of Indians living on British Columbia's north coast and Queen Charlotte Islands — will give motorists a fast, all-weather route between Seattle, Vancouver, Victoria and Alaska. It will make connections at Prince Rupert with ships of the Alaska ferry system.

More than 150,000 Californians patronized British Columbia ferries last year.

STARS GATHERING FOR INTERNATIONAL

The surf's up in Hawaii

WINTER TRAVEL

By Dorothy Gale Vigil

Hawaii is the surfing capital of the world and December is the top month for surfing buffs.

The 13th annual Makaha International Surfing Championships continues as Hawaii's surfing classic of the year.

SURFERS HIT THE HIGH WAVES in Hawaii, but all visitors enjoy the 50th State's swimming, surfing, and paddling an outrigger any day of the year. (Hawaii Visitors Bureau photo.)

Surfing experts from around the world will vie with one another while riding the incredibly high waves that thunder toward the Oahu shoreline with express train speed.

Visitors are welcome to attend this meet, dates of which are Dec. 18 through 24 and Dec. 26, the day after Christmas. No admission is charged and special buses will run from Honolulu and Waikiki beach.

* * * *

SOMETIMES called "The World Series of Surfing," the Makaha contest has, in the past few years, gone on under ideal conditions. Experts are predicting even bigger and better waves this winter, so that only star surfers will survive elimination heats.

The event will be televised on the American Broadcasting Company's "Wide World of Sports."

A new and promising surfing competition this year in Hawaii is the Duke Kahanamoku Invitational, with the world's best two dozen surfers scheduled to match skills.

* * * *

THE NOVEL angle on this meet is that it will take place on whichever of five excellent Oahu surfing beaches have the best surf when competition days arrive — Dec. 15 and 16. Thus contestants can only wonder whether they will end up braving the crashing waves at Sunset, Waimea, Pipeline, Haleiwa or the world-famous Makaha.

The Duke Kahanamoku Invitational will be televised in color by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Big shows continue to brighten Vegas

If there's one area in which Las Vegas can solidly lay a claim, it's in hanging on to its reputation as the entertainment capital of the world. With no less than five million-dollar extravaganzas, two Broadway productions and three shows starring Hollywood headliners—all playing simultaneously on the three-mile stretch of the famous "Strip"—the slogan can be called anything but empty.

In fact, it becomes almost awesome when you realize that the extravaganzas each parade a cast of more than 50 people, that each of their performers' payrolls range well over $50,000 a week, or that the stage effects run the gamut from fiery earthquakes, rainstorms, live tigers, trapezes, disappearing swimming pools, skating rinks, ship sinkings—all the way to octupus-like stage platforms that swing over audiences' heads.

* * * *

SANDWICHED between these elaborate productions are the individual star shows, where the likes of Harry Belafonte and his troupe, in one hotel, and Juliet Prowse, in another, may be performing almost within earshot of one another's applause.

That's because the usual pattern among the showroom restaurants is to present a dinner show starting about 7 p.m., then a late show at about 11:15 p.m. "Late-late" shows are an additional offering of some of the rooms on Friday and Saturday nights, starting at 2 a.m. There is never an admission charge.

IN DOWNTOWN Las Vegas, a glittering area known as "Casino Center," this lounge type of entertainment really thrives. Here, in more than a dozen neon-emblazoned clubs and two major high-rise hotels, the shows not only are continuous, but feature musical combos, singing groups and variety acts of every conceivable sort. Everything from the Caribbean Limbo to Tokyo Nights plays Fremont Street at least once.

Bridge tourney

Riviera Hotel will host its second annual Masters Bridge Tournament in Las Vegas, Jan. 31-Feb. 4. First prize of $7,500 is the largest ever offered. Total prize money will exceed $10,000.

The total elimination, team-of-four event with I.M.P. scoring, is expected to attract the finest teams in America.

Heartland of Mayaland

Merida is an old Spanish town in the Mexican state of Yucatan — founded in 1542 on the site of the Indian town of Ti Ho — and the traveler who comes here by jet to see the nearby, ancient Maya ruins may be aware of a community life in which overlays of time are almost visible.

The flow of jets in and out of the Merida airport is constant, and growing, due to the area's charms. Pan Am has direct hops from the Southern states and Mexico City, and through its other gateways including Los Angeles.

By road, the Yucatan peninsula is still relatively isolated from the rest of Mexico, but more and more visitors are driving. Combine this method of transportation with the jets, and there is evidence that the worldwide boom in tourism has touched Merida.

* * * *

CIVIC pride has lighted up parts of town with new street lights, and there are several new motels where a knowledgeable interest in the wants of tourists is shown. Rates at the modern Hotel Panamericana start at $10 double. City tours start at $4, including the Maya museum.

THE CATHEDRAL OF MERIDA dominates the view from Merida's central plaza. More and more people are going there to see the nearby Mayan ruins. (Pan Am photo.)

But the old, half Spanish, half Indian town goes its bustling way in tropical sunlight. With a population of near 200,000, it's the largest community in the flat, rather barren countryside.

Heavy Spanish colonial type buildings press in on the narrow downtown streets. Old buses barrel cheerfully up and down the streets, day and night, and for a small fee you can ride one of the "pulpito" hacks drawn by the little Yucatan horses. The local people use them as taxis.

* * * *

ON THE MAIN plaza stands the 16th century cathedral, women before its doors selling religious trinkets; and on another side of the plaza is Merida's oldest home, built for the family of the conquerer of Yucatan, Don Francisco de Montejo.

In the sidewalk crowds are the short Maya women with their round, soft, flat-featured faces. They wear beautifully embroidered white huipil, a simple, one-piece dress, like a Mother Hubbard.

Out of town on the highway to Campeche, begin to appear small thatched-roof huts, built of stone, concrete or mud and sticks, the houses of present-day Mayas —exactly the same as those in which their ancestors lived 1,000 years ago.

Most tourists who go to Merida are en route to see the rains at Uxmal or Chichen Itza. But not to be overlooked is Merida where the traveler may see the cultures of three ages side by side.

Paris popular

Air France regular traffic from Los Angeles to Paris during the third quarter of 1965 rose 25% over the same period last year, according to Edmond Boeri, western region manager. The airline serves the West Coast with all nonstop 707 Intercontinental jetliner service between the two points. Flight frequency is three times weekly.

A CAR TO KNOW . . . A PLACE TO GO

Toyota Tours Lake Arrowhead

By BILL EMERY

Just 70 miles from Long Beach and a mile high in the clean, crisp, clear air of the San Bernardino mountains, Lake Arrowhead awaits with a resort of the four seasons.

We tackled the ascent with a new 1966 Toyota Corona sports sedan borrowed for the weekend trip from Hal Keenum's Imports at 3580 E. Pacific Coast Highway in Long Beach.

The Japanese import has a 1900cc, 4-cylinder engine which develops 90 horsepower and is capable of accelerating to 100 mph in seconds. The powerful four-door compact climbed the grade without once requiring a down-shift. Steering is very positive making for excellent control and effortless driving at high speeds.

The Toyota is equipped with a double barreled down draft carburetor and when you need that extra scat, it leaps out!

With its heavy gauge steel body cushinned in rubber and with five cross members, this compact is the strongest structurally of any automobile in its class. What is even more amazing is the unusual roominess in this sedan. It has ample room in every direction . . . headroom enough for a hat, elbow room and leg room.

The all synchromesh three-speed transmission makes it a fun car to drive and if you prefer, an automatic is available this year . . . and it is really a performing automatic.

The self-adjusting hydraulic brakes with air cooled aluminum steel lined drums on the front wheels is but one of the many advanced features this import offers.

Formed in 1907, Lake Arrowhead is a 780-acre body of clear mountain water three miles long and over one mile wide fed by springs, rain and melting snow. The original developers shunned any show of commercialism and pioneered an Alpine community pitcuresquely complementing the surroundings.

The Lake Arrowhead Development Company continued this project when they began a unique systemized maturity program late in 1960.

Recently completed, the million dollar 18-hole championship golf course covers 137 forest-studded acres and includes 45-acre Grass Valley Lake. The new clubhouse, an $850,000 facility, incorporates 13,780 square feet within a dramatic design. Inside are a pro shop, lockers, sauna baths, two cocktail lounges equipped for entertainment, gourmet dining, snack bar, banquet rooms and a nursery.

Outside is a pool, and tennis courts are planned.

Expansion is everywhere. A new medical center, a cultural center, a West Shore shopping center similar to the Village, a Lake Arrowhead Yacht Club and a new North Shore Marina View Estates development are being engineered.

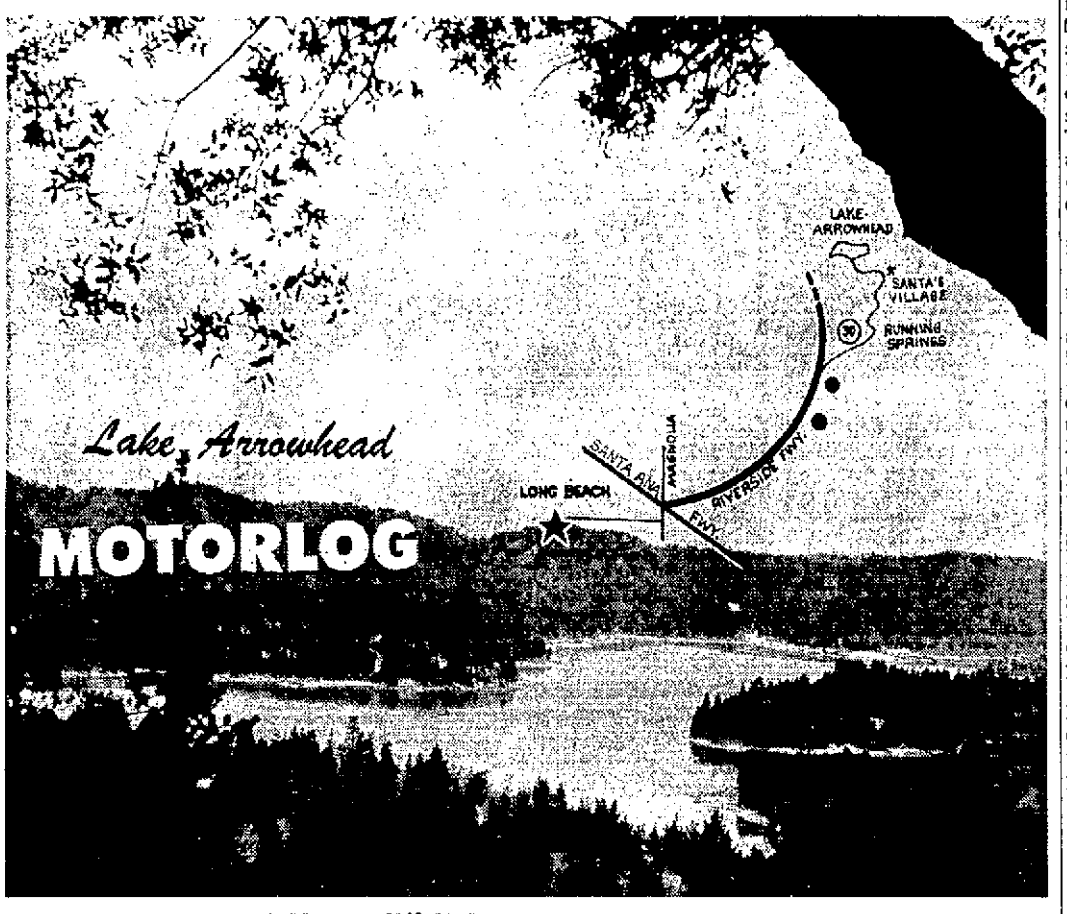

The Lodge, which was recently newly decorated, offers informal luxury in this exhilarating setting. Overlooking the clear lake, it can be restful or recreational depending upon your mood. The four-season Lodge offers swimming, water skiing and boating. In the winter, it's convenient to skiing, skating, sledding and tobogganing. There's dancing in the lounge and the beautifully appointed dining room offers the finest cuisine, wines and beverages while you enjoy an enchanting view across the lake.

Nearby, Santa's Village offers a multitude of attractions to make a visit to this year-around magic forest wonderland a memorable experience. Admission is fifty cents and a dollar with children under three free. Santa is at the North Pole daily greeting the children while Mrs. Claus is busy in the candy shop.

We were greeted by Raggety Ann and Andy, Soldier Brad (who seated himself up front in the Toyota) and Soldier Jack. Mr. Pumpkinhead preferred the other side of the fence in the picture. He played it cautious.

This is a great area to get to know, and the new '66 Toyota is well worth your consideration when you shop for a real performer in the compact class.

Port Gateway to Exotic World

By LARRY LYNCH

What do candied grasshoppers, bales of human hair and a zoo have in common?

At one time or another one or more of each has been shipped through the port of Long Beach.

The zoo, complete with sharp-fanged leopards and a muscular boa constrictor, was shipped to Australia three years ago.

The human hair once was brought in from China for wig manufacture.

The candied grasshoppers are still a small share of the tons of exotic foods that arrive annually, as is more than ever evidenced on delicatessen shelves this Christmas season.

Of the $1.3 billion in cargo shipped through the port during the fiscal year ended June 30, more than $1 billion of it was exotic— at least in the limited sense that it was outbound to, or incoming from, a foreign port.

To be sure, most of the international tonnage through the port is of mundane, though valuable commodities.

By shipping weight the major commodities inbound to Long Beach docks last year were petroleum, steel, newsprint, gypsum and copra. Going out, in order of tonnage, were bulk petroleum, iron ore, potash, coke, grains and scrap steel.

And yet, not all of the significant foreign trade through the port is in raw materials.

Whereas a decade ago many more goods were exported than imported through the port, today by dollar value more is imported mainly because of the rise of Japan as a manufacturing and exporting power.

In fiscal 1955-56, commodities exported here were valued at $274 million compared with $97 million in imports.

In the most recent fiscal year, exports through Long Beach were valued at nearly 20% less than the $569 million in imports.

Tonnage going out is still greater than that coming in. However, manufactured goods weigh less per dollar value than raw materials.

Estimated dollar value of goods shipped in from Japan — television sets, sewing machines, rugs, transistor radios, toys, the list goes on and on—was $218 million in fiscal 1965.

This is more than the dollar value of imports through Long Beach of all European goods, about $152 million, in fiscal 1965.

Interestingly enough, in foreign trade by country the dollar value of goods received here from Japan was exceeded only by the dollar value of goods shipped out of the Port of Long Beach to Japan — $233 million.

In spite of President Johnson's balance of payments efforts, industry abroad still seems more anxious to get a chunk of the affluent American market than local industry is to manufacture for export.

The Long Beach Chamber consistently receives requests from European, Asian and African countries for names of U.S. distributors who might be willing to handle their goods. However, chamber officials say symposiums calling on local manufacturers to develop foreign markets bear little fruit.

Bank Chief Reid to Retire; Ex-Hockey Pro, Medal Winner

R. A. (Bob) Reid, veteran United California Bank executive and vice president in charge of UCB's Long Beach office since its opening here in October, 1946, has announced his retirement from the bank effective Tuesday, Nov. 30.

According to Reid, his retirement plans are indefinite but he will continue to fulfill all of his civic duties and responsibilities.

The list of Reid's civic accomplishments is almost endless, and during the 20 years he has headed the United California Bank office here he has served as a director or an officer of practically every civic organization in Long Beach.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH he is known in Long Beach primarily because of his many activities since coming with the bank here in 1946, his career goes back to the early twenties when he played professional hockey with the Vancouver Millionaires, from whom he was bought by the Boston Bruins, and later acquired by the New York Rangers.

Reid played professional hockey in college while taking time out from the first of December until the middle of March, and then making up his studies in the spring.

Reid attended the University British Columbia where he won every possible letter in college for athletics, starring in basketball, football, baseball, track, lacrosse, rifle shooting, and ice hockey.

* * * *

IT WAS while playing ice hockey that he earned the Carnegie medal for bravery when he rescued a girl skater who had fallen through and was being swept under the ice.

During summer vacations he took three trips around the world before he decided to settle down and became a banker.

Reid's first bank job was junior clerk in the Bank of Montreal. After a short time the Los Angeles Athletic Club wanted him on their ice hockey team, so he came to California.

In 1923 he got a job with United California Bank as a bookkeeper and shortly thereafter was promoted to teller.

While a teller he met Mollie Lary, who has been his wife ever since.

* * * *

IN 1935 HE was promoted to manager of a branch office and later managed various other branches. In 1943 he was made an assistant vice president while manager at the bank's Bell office. His assignment to the Long Beach office came in 1946 and was followed a year later by his election to full vice presidency of the bank.

Before the bank actually opened a branch in Long Beach, Reid worked for several months out of an office in the Heartwell building. He established himself in the community immediately as a willing civic worker.

* * * *

HE IS currently president of the Harbor Board of Commissioners, and is past president of the Kiwanis Club, member of the Navy League, past president of Virginia Country Club and perennial captain of the Virginia Country Club Golf Team, member of the Advisory Board of St. Mary's Hospital, honorary member of the Long Beach Yacht Club, former chairman of the board of the Long Beach Heart Association, past board member of the California Heart Association and Memorial Hospital, past president of the Board of Water Commissioners, and past president of the California Hockey League.

R. A. REID
Colorful Career

Reid says he will continue to honor all of his current civic and charitable commitments and responsibilities but that otherwise his plans for the future are indefinite at this time.

* * * *

HE AND HIS wife celebrated their 26th wedding anniversary Nov. 21. They have lived in Bixby Knolls 18 years and have one daughter, Erilla, and a granddaughter, Ivy, living in Anaheim.

Reid is a native of New Brunswick, Canada, son of a reknowned architect who designed the Hotel Del Coronado near San Diego and the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

BOTH PRESIDENTS-ELECT

Burton E. Smith (left) of Bellflower, president-elect of the California Real Estate Association for 1966, was on hand in Chicago to congratulate his counterpart in the National Association of Real Estate Boards, Jack Justice of Miami Beach, Fla. Justice was elected NAREB president on the final day of the NAREB recent convention held at Chicago.

Schulman's, in New Site

Schulman's Nutrition Center has announced the grand opening at 136 Pine Ave. of its new store, which features a snack bar.

It was in 1926 that Schulman's first had a store in Long Beach, making it one of the pioneers in the vitamin and nutrition field. For the past 25 years, the location has been at 142 Pine.

The new store facilities include frozen food department, gift packs, fancy foods and a health book selection.

The Columbia Store to Close in Downtown L.B.

Isaac "Ike" Sukman, in some ways the father of retailing in Long Beach, last Monday shut the doors of his downtown department store—The Columbia.

And though the doors swung open again before the week was out, the closing was only a sign of what's to come permanently.

* * * *

"WE'RE GOING out of business here and when we've sold all the merchandise and fixtures we'll try and sell or lease the building," the 72-year-old merchant explains. "I don't like it, but I realize this type of business needs someone interested in the business to sustain it. I had a heart attack last December, and the doctors told me I'd have to give it up."

Sukman founded The Columbia in Long Beach in 1920 and built it through the years on the basis of "small-payment" credit.

At the same time he worked activity in civic affairs, helping to found the downtown merchants association and a local credit association, leading fund drives — he still heads the local Red Cross chapter — and winning honors for his work in Jewish organizations.

ISAAC SUKMAN
"Bright City Future"

* * * *

NOW HE'S liquidating the retail store in part because his son Richard, a Los Angeles stock broker, is not interested in the retail business, Sukman says.

The Columbia department store in Lakewood, also owned by the Sukman family, is unaffected by the downtown Long Beach closing. "It's a separate corporation and we've no definite plans for it," Sukman explains.

* * * *

DESPITE HIS store's closing, Sukman maintains a faith downtown "will come back" in the face of the "glamour" of the rapidly expanding suburban shopping centers.

"We have the ocean and the beach. That's one thing they can't take away from. With the city's plans to beautify and clean up the beach, this is going to become a powerful tourist attraction," he concludes.

Sukman was born in Poland, settled first in San Francisco in 1913 and served with the engineers in World War I. He still keeps his army uniform hung in his office closet. Except that he plans to continue his activities in civic affairs, he has no definite plans. "It depends on the doctor," he says.

Industry to Hike Capital Spending 8% Next Year

U. S. industry plans to spend nearly $55 billion on new plants and equipment in 1966, an 8% increase over this year's figure. This is almost four billion dollars more than industry will spend this year and close to $10 billion more than was actually spent in 1964.

This is the major finding of the annual fall survey of Business' Plans for New Plants and Equipment conducted by the Economics Department of McGraw-Hill Publications, and represents the responses of companies accounting for over 40% of industrial employment.

* * * *

COMMENTING on the survey, Douglas Greenwald, chief economist, McGraw-Hill Publications, declared:

"The plans revealed here at this early stage suggest that capital spending will be a stronger plus in the economic outlook than it has been in the past four years. The 8% increase is a considerably larger gain than has been indicated in the previous four fall surveys.

"Since 1961, the McGraw-Hill fall surveys have reported a rising, but unspectacular, level of investment planned for the year ahead. The average increase was 4%."

* * * *

MANUFACTURERS plan to spend $23.7 billion next year for new facilities. This is 9% higher than their 1965 capital investment and five billion dollars more than they spent last year. This group currently plans to spend $22.7 billion in 1967.

Steel is the only major manufacturing industry that expects a decline in capital spending next year. But having spent a record $1.9 billion this year, the 2% drop suggests that the steel industry's capital spending program, which began in 1964, will continue on through next year and well into 1967.

The only other area showing a decline—2% for next year—is the miscellaneous nondurable group. Beyond these two exceptions, all other industries indicate increases for next year with the largest increases concentrated in the durable goods industries.

* * * *

THE GAINS range from a high of 48% planned by aerospace manufacturers to a low of 5% indicated by the stone, clay and glass industry.

Contractors to Meet at Palm Springs Dec. 3-5

Congressman George H. Fallon, chairman of the House Committee on Public Roads, will be the principal speaker at the 11th Annual Holiday Conference of the Southern California chapter of Associated General Contractors in Palm Springs Dec. 3-5.

He will head an imposing list of 10 speakers who will address the conference during the three-day session, according to Byron P. Weintz, chairman of the event.

One of the highlights of the program is expected to be a panel of state and county public works authorities who will present an analysis of the record-breaking volume of public works construction contracts awarded in Southern California during 1965. Current estimates indicate that for the 12-month period new contracts awarded this year will be in excess of $925 million, an increase of more than 75% over last year.

This panel also will present a forecast of new construction volume in this category for 1966.

E. C. Losch, chapter president, says that a record-breaking attendance is anticipated for this year's conference.

Paint Co.'s Earnings Up

TORRANCE — Standard Brands Paint Co. (ASE) achieved new records in both sales and earnings for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, President Sid Greenberg has announced.

Sales increased 13% to $23,784,256, up from $21,082,479 recorded in fiscal 1964.

Earnings after taxes increased 12% to $1,640,495 as compared with $1,466,928.

Earnings per share were $1.34 based on the 1,225,732 common shares outstanding at Sept. 30. Fiscal 1964 earnings per share were $1.21 based on the 1,208,742 com- the end of that year.

Greenberg said, "The company is currently enjoying a very strong level of sales and while fiscal 1965 was a record-breaking year in terms of both sales and earnings, we believe we are in an extremely favorable position to increase our sales and earnings during the current fiscal year."

Full Services Go With Offices at L.B. Center

A new Executive Center now opening in Long Beach is bringing new dimensions to office rental techniques.

Sherman Associates, 4290 Long Beach Blvd., is providing not only offices, but a full range of services for tenants.

Distinctively designed, the air conditioned offices include carpeting, drapes, murals and furnishings.

* * * *

ALSO AVAILABLE for all tenants are a receptionist, conference room, storage lockers, snack room, secretarial service, 24-hour answering service and ample parking.

Marshall N. Finnan, associated director of Sherman Associates, said:

"In providing all necessary equipment and services on an equal share basis for each tenant, his overhead costs are substantially reduced, further increasing his chances of success.

* * * *

"AS WE DEAL with business executives we see the need of this type of service as costs and cost factors of operating a business are his most important problems."

Sherman Associates was started eight years ago by Sherman B. Nathanson, Los Angeles, as a management consulting firm.

"Demand in recent years for executive planning has brought the organization to the point where further expansion has been necessary," Finnan said of the new office units which occupy nearly all of the second floor at 4290 Long Beach Blvd.

Finnan has lived in Long Beach 15 years. His wife is a teacher.

Auto Exec to Attend Conference

J. Robert Hamaker, owner relations manager for Dick Browning Oldsmobile, has been selected to attend a two-day owner relations conference for top-rated Oldsmobile owner relations managers in the Pacific region, according to E. D. Ruth, regional manager for Oldsmobile division of General Motors Corp., Oakland, Calif.

J. R. HAMAKER

Hamaker is one of 12 managers in the region who will participate in the conference, to be held at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco Dec. 14-16 and conducted by the home office Oldsmobile owner relations department from Lansing, Mich.

Purpose of the conference will be to glean additional knowledge about this important phase of customer relationships, from the experiences gained by these 12 top men of the region—ultimately passing this information on to each Oldsmobile agency in the nation, it was explained.

Hamaker lives at 2842 Walker Lee Drive, Rossmoor, and has been associated with Dick Browning Oldsmobile since the first of the year.

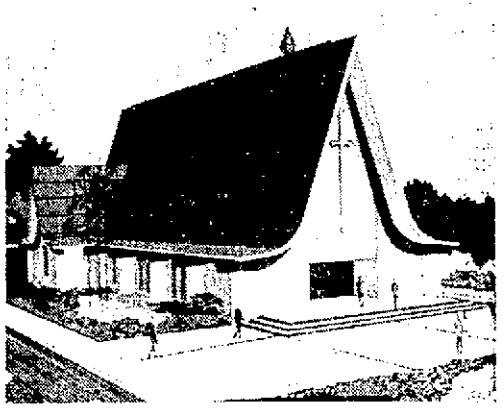

Burton Smith, Ibbetson Get NAREB Posts

BELLFLOWER—Two local realtors have been elected directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, it was announced last week by Ray T. Smith, president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors.

They are Burton E. Smith, who as president-elect of the California Real Estate Association for 1966, also will serve as a NAREB director during the year, and E. Thornton Ibbetson, who was elected to a three-year term. The election took place in Chicago during the annual convention of the 80,000-member association.

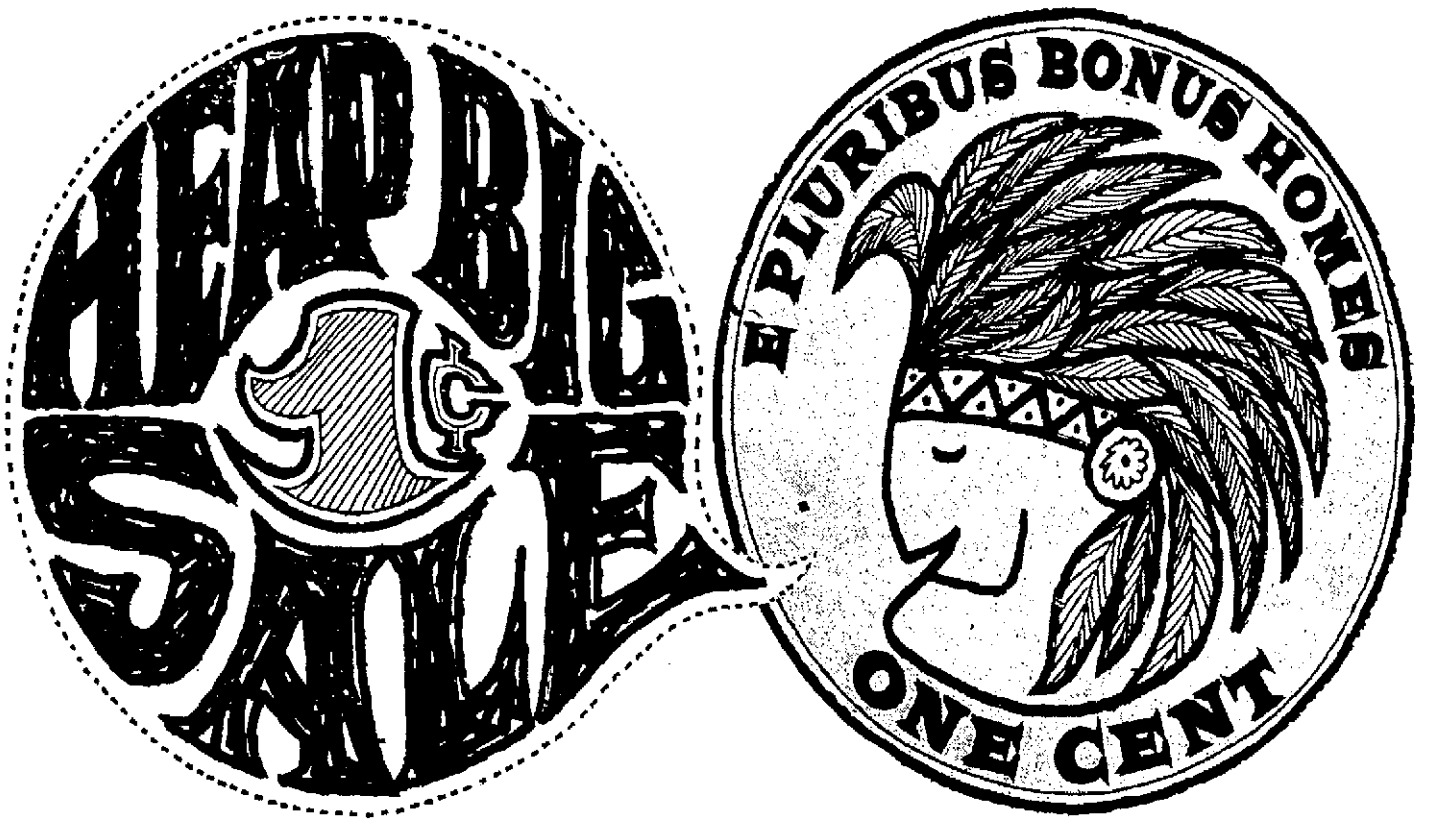

Smith will be installed as president of the California Real Estate Association at a luncheon to be held at the Biltmore Bowl on Jan. 8.

Both Smith and Ibbetson and their wives were in attendance at the NAREB convention, as was Robert Y. Prigmore, president-elect of the Bellflower board, and Mrs. Prigmore.

HOSPITAL AIDED BY UP RAILROAD

Sister Mary Laura, administrator of St. Mary's Long Beach Hospital, discusses the renovation and redecoration of the 10th Street entrance and lobby of the hospital with John W. Padden, center, special representative for the president, Union Pacific Railroad, and Joseph E. Madden, right, chairman of the Hospital Lay Advisory Board. Padden was visiting the hospital to witness the mounting of a bronze plaque in the lobby area commemorating the fourth consecutive gift of $5,000 for a total of $20,000 given to the hospital by the Union Pacific Railroad Foundation.

Construction Jump Seen Next Year

Total construction volume in Southern California during 1966 should show an increase of as much as 5½%, according to estimates prepared by W. D. Shaw, general manager of the Southern California Chapter of Associated General Contractors.

Shaw feels that if residential construction levels off next year to equal the 1965 total, the gains scored by other types of construction would be sufficient to move the total figure upward by a substantial margin.

"Our estimates indicate residential construction should wind up the year 1965 at about $1.8 billion," Shaw says. "This would be substantially under last year, but it still is the largest of any category of construction in Southern California.

* * * *

"NONRESIDENTIAL building will probably amount to approximately $1.4 billion. Military and public building should be about $200 million and heavy engineering construction approximately $900 million.

"On this basis total volume of construction for 1965 in Southern California would amount to approximately $4.3 billion. This would compare with $4.35 billion in 1964."

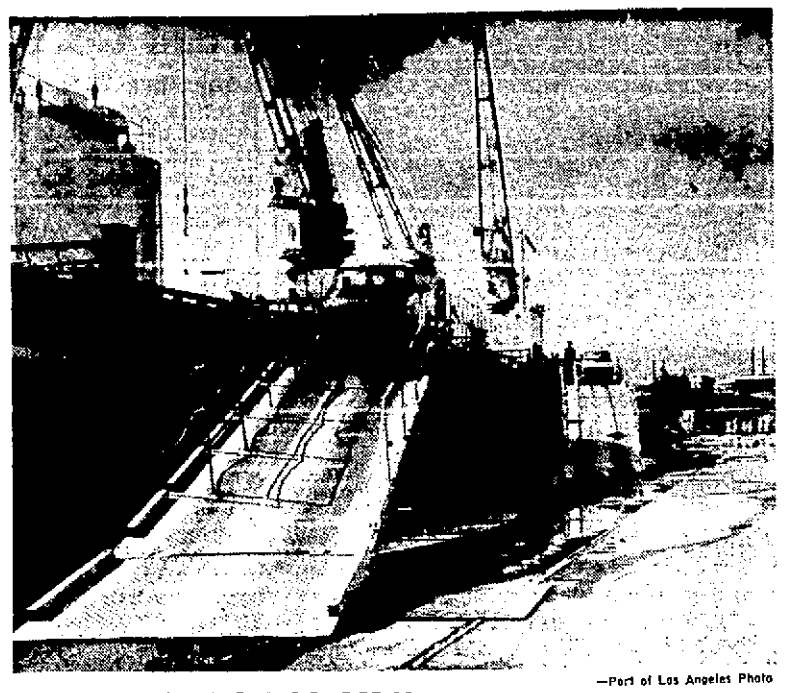

Shaw estimates that for 1966 residential construction will be approximately $1.8 billion, the same as the figure for 1965; nonresidential building $1.45 billion, up 5%; military and public building $210 million, up 5%; heavy engineering construction $1.08 billion, up 20%.

* * * *

THE LARGEST percentage of increase is expected in the heavy engineering category. This will come as the result of the start of construction in Southern California of the California Aqueduct which will bring Northern California water into this area.

It is anticipated that for the next six years construction of the aqueduct together with the Metropolitan Water District distribution system should increase public works construction by around $250 million a year.

"All of the categories of construction handled by contractor members of Associated General Contractors, which includes virtually everything except residential, will be well ahead of 1964," according to Shaw. "Construction total in these categories will probably set new all-time highs in 1965 and could very well set new high marks for 1966."

Plaza Sales Spurt Even as Foundations Go In

With foundations just under way, one fourth of the entire Plaza development in the Bluffs community above Upper Newport Bay has been sold, the sales agents, Bluffs Realty, reported last week.

Priced from $19,995, the Plaza offers two, three and four bedroom homes in a selection of single story, two story and split level styling.

* * * *

THE SPANISH motif homes with tile roofs, entry patios and balconies look out to pool, green area and park. The location also is within a few yards of the just-announced Newport Beach Tennis Club.

Plaza sales agents urged buyers to act quickly for selection as one plan, a four-bedroom two story home, already is near the "sold out" stage. The homes will be ready in early spring, 1966 for occupancy.

* * * *

ALONG with the Plaza homes, the Bluffs community is offering homes in the Riviera section from $26,500 to $34,000 and a limited number of two and three bedroom homes in the Villa section. The Villa homes are for lease.

SPLIT LEVEL, TOO

Attractive split level homes, along with two story and single level homes offer buyers a wide variety at the Riviera development at the Bluffs Community in Newport Beach. Open beamed ceilings, fireplaces, balconies and entry courts have all been appealing to buyers. Prices start at $26,500 with wide choice of location.

Paramount Industrial Unit to Rise

Ground has been broken at the Jackson-Orange industrial tract in Paramount for an 11,000-square-foot, tilt-up, concrete industrial building.

This building was designed by Louis Shoal Miller, of 403 E. Wardlow Road, Long Beach. Svend Birkelund, of 15135 Colorado Ave., Paramount, was selected as general contractor to construct the building.

D. S. MOSS

D. S. Moss, pioneer Paramount investor-developer and owner of the building, said he intends to spend in excess of one million dollars on the development of seven acres immediately south of this building to be leased to industry requiring M-2 zoning in a prime location.

Moss said at the groundbreaking ceremony that due to the demand for industrial buildings in the Paramount area he felt an investment in the industrial future of Paramount is wise.

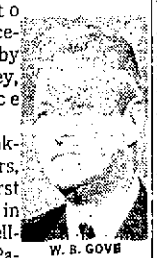

He cited the outstanding cooperation given by the city administration, the local Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Paramount to industry. He also said the completion of the Artesia Freeway and the improvement of Cherry Avenue will be a stimulus to industy to locate in Paramount.

Attending the groundbreaking ceremony were numerous civic leaders, including Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Iliff, John Gallegos, John Verhoeven, Ed Shanley, Svend Birkelund, Louis Spane, Bill Kennedy and Ralph Grove.

Moss has named Orville M. Artz, Realtor, as exclusive leasing agent for the new building.

Name Bank Manager

Walter Bradford Gove has been appointed manager of First Western Bank's Westminster-Midway City Office, according to an announcement made by Homer Kerley, regional vice president.

W. B. GOVE

Gove, a banker for 17 years, joined First Western in 1953, as a teller in the Pacific Office, Long Beach. Since that time he has served in a number of capacities, including installment loan officer, assistant cashier and assistant manager. He transferred to the bank's Stanton Office in 1961, and to Westminster in 1964.

Gove presently resides, with his wife, Ruth, daughter Susan and son Michael, in Westminster.

He is replacing James B. Allen as manager. Allen, because of illness, has taken advantage of the bank's early retirement plan.

Lakewood Man Gets New Post

Lakewood resident Lyle K. Caplinger has been named assistant vice president at Bank of America's area administration department in Long Beach, it was announced last week by chairman of the board Louis B. Lundborg.

Caplinger moves into his new position after serving as administration officer in the area administration department, Los Angeles headquarters.

$2,625,000 Victory Park Deal Made

Mutual Housing Association of Compton has announced sale of Victory Park to Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Co. for $2,625,000.

The transaction was handled by Orville M. Artz, Realtor, with Gerald I. Mallen representing Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Co. and Vic Wolfe for Mutual Housing Association.

Victory Park consists of 67.99 acres with 501 housing units. The property is located on the east side of Wilmington Avenue, extending from Alondra Boulevard on the south to a point 200 feet south of Compton Boulevard with street access at the easterly edge of the property out to Compton Boulevard.

Compton Creek, a channel of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District, forms the easterly boundary.

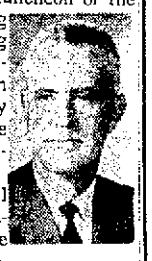

* * * *

THIS HOUSING project was constructed during World War II as a government housing development for defense workers. Upon notice from the federal government in 1946 that Victory Park had been terminated as an active project, the tenants of the project organized a mutual housing association.

It was announced by Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Co. that it has made a land use study of this acreage and it intends to remodel and construct additional units on the property.

McGraw-Hill Exec to Address L.B. Ad Club

Knox Bourne, regional vice president of McGraw-Hill publications, will be guest speaker at a luncheon of the Advertising Club of Long Beach Thursday noon in the Bounty Room of the Reef Restaurant.

KNOX BOURNE

A social gathering preceding the luncheon begins at 11:30

Bourne's speech is titled "Better Than You Think" and illustrates that the general public, and even economic experts, tend to underestimate the vigor of the American economy. It also points out advertising's role in all economic growth.

John Curtis, president of Curtis & Associates, Inc., Long Beach-headquartered advertising and public relations agency, will serve as chairman of the day.

The meeting will be the Ad Club's last before its annual Christmas party on Dec. 16. The public is invited to both affairs, and reservations may be made by contacting executive secretary Helen Perkins at the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Executive Changes Made by United

Two executive changes were announced last week by United Mortgage Servicing Corp., Beverly Hills.

Angelo Mozilo, vice president-manager, was promoted to zone managership. Succeeding him as manager is Gale A. Thomas, assistant vice president.

Mozilo announced that for the first nine months of this year mortgages originated by United increased 31% over the comparable 1964 period. Respective totals were $140.9 million this year and $106.8 in '64 for nine months. Mortgages serviced by United increased 40%.

TOTAL LIVING CONCEPTS

Rain or Shine, Interest Runs High in Surfside 'By-the-Sea'

Recent torrents of rain have not dampened spirits of visitors to Surfside "By-the-Sea," according to Ron Foell, vice president of Security Fore Corp., builders of the new community in Huntington Beach-Newport area.

"We find that reactions of prospective buyers to Surfside are the same, come rain or come shine," observed the builder-executive, "bearing out our recent survey findings that near-ocean location and total-living concepts are still ultra-important to today's home value seeker."

* * * *

SURFSIDE HOMES offer a complete modern townhouse environment, with recreational facilities for the whole family, from cabana swim club to central clubhouse and acres of green-belt area.

The dwellings are designed in comfortable Cape Cod and Colonial stylings and the community is located just 1,500 feet from the Pacific shoreline.

Home seekers have a choice of 10 exterior designs and five floor plans. Color-coordinated interiors feature wall-to-wall carpeting, Travertine tile entries and aluminum windows. Kitchens feature ceramic tile counters, hand-finished cabinetry, built-in range and oven, disposal and dishwasher.

* * * *

EACH HOME has an attached two-car garage with room for workshop and extra storage space.

Surfside Homes present from one to four bedrooms and are available for as low as 5% down. Price range is from $14,950 with monthly payments starting at $116.50, which includes principal, interest, taxes, insurance and maintenance.

Five furnished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to sundown at 8167 Atlanta Ave., just north of the Coast Highway in Huntington Beach.

Will Move Office to New York City

Shell Chemical Co's synthetic rubber division will move its headquarters from Torrance to New York City by the middle of next year, announced J. B. Henderson, general manager.

The move will affect about 30 staff members involved in the division's administrative and planning functions.

The more than 900 employes of the research and technical service laboratories and the rubber manufacturing plant itself will remain at Torrance.

Schools Situated Close to Casa La Palma

Schools of all grades are within easy walking distance of all homes in Casa La Palma, making the new "Balanced Power" residential development in La Palma an ideal location for families with children, according to Ray Patscheck, sales manager.

"Casa La Palma is virtually surrounded by schools. An elementary, junior high and high school border the project. Students can reach their classrooms in just a matter of minutes," Patscheck said.

Spacious three and four-bedroom homes provide ample room for growing families, he added. A two-story, four-bedroom model contains more than 2,280 square feet of living area, while single-story homes also are extremely large. All houses have big closets and lots of storage afea.

Prices range from $24,950 to $29,850, Patscheck reported, with several types of financing, including VA, FHA or conventional available on 30-year contracts.

Large fireplaces are found in the living rooms of some models, while others have fireplaces in the family room. Open-beam ceilings are another feature.

Built-in Waste King-Universal gas ranges and ovens, vent hoods, dishwashers, disposers, hand-stained hardwood cabinets and ceramic tile counter tops are integral parts of all "Balanced Power" kitchens.

Located on La Palma Avenue near Walker Street, Casa La Palma is convenient to major employment centers in Orange County, Long Beach and Los Angeles. Downtown Los Angeles is 20 minutes freeway driving time away.

Casa La Palma is a joint project of two well-known and highly respected southern California homebuilding firms, Frank H. Ayres and Son and Warmington Construction Co. The two companies have nearly 80 years of building experience behind them.

Area Agent Chosen for Anchor Life

Donald A. Coscarelli of Los Alamitos, has been named general agent for this area and a member of the agent advisory board of Anchor Life Insurance Co. of California, the newest life insurance company domiciled in the state.

D. COSCARELLI

Coscarelli is president of DAC investment Company, Inc., 4300 Long Beach Blvd., Long Beach, and of that company's insurance subsidiary DAC Insurance Agency, having headed the investment firm since 1958.

A graduate of West Point Academy, he was an Air Force officer for 10 years, attaining the rank of captain.

Coscarelli has been a member of the Los Alamitos School Board of Trustees for four years, having been a former president of the organization. He was awarded honorary life membership in the Parent-Teachers Association this year for outstanding effects for the community's youth.

Anchor Life was formed by Anchor Corporation, Elizabeth, N.J., sponsor of a $1.5 billion group of mutual funds with more than 250,000 shareholders, Coscarelli stated.

Norwalk Plant Changes Hands

Victor Equipment Co., San Francisco, recently announced acquisition of the Amerloy Division of Teledyne, Inc., of Norwalk.

Purchase price was not announced.

Victor manufactures welding and cutting equipment and has annual sales of more than $16 million. Amerloy manufactures aluminum, stainless steel and copper-based welding rod and wire and has sales of about $1 million annually.

L.B. Realtors to Hear Bank Group Tuesday

Bank of California will present the Tuesday breakfast meeting program of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, according to Barbara Moss, chairman of the day.

JAY GIBSON

The board meets at 7:30 a.m. in the Crown cafeteria.

Jay Gibson, local bank manager and a vice president, will speak on "Long Beach Grows Up" or "Who is the Bank of California and What Will It Do For You."

Nelson McCook, Jr., who was in 1936-37-38 director on the then called Long Beach Realty Board, is vice president and will give a little forecasting into the future. He also was chairman of the city's Economic Development Committee appointed by the City Council in 1960.

Many of you do not realize that this bank is a tri-state bank with a charter.

R. D. Lagerquist, trust officer; Louise Leinenweber, 13 years with the bank; Beulah Harsch, with some 20 years in the escrow field, Evelyn Johnson and Helen Cook representing their escrow departments, also will be on the panel.

Mel Mould Gets Office on NAREB

Melvin L. Mould, Long Beach Realtor, has been elected a director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards for a three-year term beginning Jan. 1, it was announced last week by James C. Hoffman, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

MEL MOULD

The election took place in Chicago during the recent annual convention of the 80,000-member association, Hoffman said.

Mould is one of 35 directors named to represent the 176 local real estate boards in California which are members of NAREB, the Long Beach board being one.

Mould is serving his second term as 22nd District regional vice president of the California Real Estate Association, and is past president of the Long Beach board.

He is the owner of Mould Realty which has several offices in the area and employs approximately 40 sales people.

Mould was born in Pennsylvania, served in the Army—entered as a private and came out with the rank of major in the infantry—and is a former member of the Lakewood Planning Commission.

Packaged Housing

The manufacture of packaged four-room housing units now makes it possible to build motels of 32 rooms or more in record time.

Luxuries in Lake Park

Today's homebuyer is looking for the extra luxury of custom design features, according to Maurice Stanton, salesmanager for Lake Park, the Larwin Company's new Orange County residential community.

"To meet this demand for more luxury," Stanton explained, "our Lake Park homes now boast a number of standard features previously found only in far higher priced models.

"Among them are luxurious wood-grained wall panelling, huge woodburning fireplaces, decorator-designed lighting fixtures, sliding glass patio doors, customized room dividers, built-in TV antenna systems, theatrical medicine cabinets and a host of richly finished cabinet built-ins for both kitchens and bathrooms."

Homes in Lake Park's new Ravenswood section start at $22,350 and may be purchased under FHA, VA Cal-Vet or a new "Lo-Down" conventional financing program with only 10% down, 30-year financing, with no second trust deed or balloon payments.

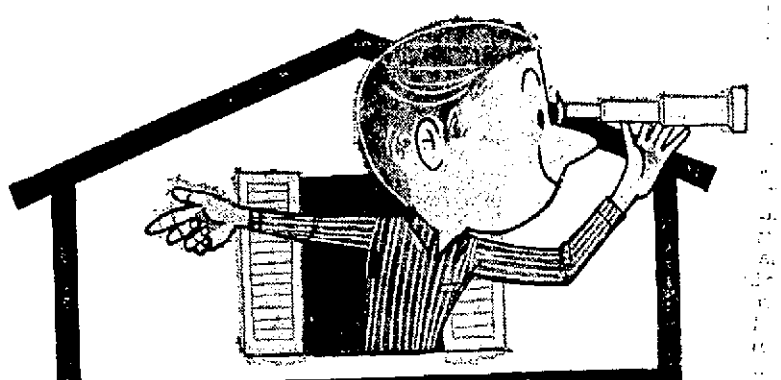

Both one and two-story models are offered in a choice of 20 exterior stylings and five spacious floor plans. . .

Lake Park is minutes from schools, shopping centers, recreational facilities and churches. To reach Lake Park from the Long Beach-Lakewood area, drive east on Carson Street (which becomes Lincoln Street) to the model homes east of Moody Street.

'Premium Fun Area' Proving Popular in Premier Homes

ELEGANT ENTRY
Tiled, raised and railed entry typifies Premier Homes North and South in Huntington Beach. Stairway in right foreground leads to 17x22 fun area. Prices start at $24,750.

The "Premium Fun Area" featured in most models at Premier Homes in Huntington Beach has proved one of the development's most popular attractions, according to sales agent Frank McFarland.

Purchasers of over 150 Premier Homes, sold in Huntington Beach in the past year, have found a variety of uses for the fun area, McFarland reports. These uses range from a playroom to two additional bedrooms. Roughed in plumbing in the fun area allows for either a wet bar or a third bath to be installed at the homeowner's option. The area is fully finished and has a tiled floor.

* * * *

McFARLAND announced an "Immediate Move-In Special" on one of the four-bedroom models with the fun area, for $26,500. VA no down, FHA minimum down and conventional financing are available.

The homes also feature "Total Convenience" kitchens, with double oven, range, dishwasher and built-in mixer-blender combination. Ceramic tile counter tops, hardwood cabinets, a dispenser for foils and papers and efficiency floor plans are also featured.

* * * *

REAR YARD FENCING and front landscaping are included in the purchase prices, which start at $24,750. Custom features include all-copper water piping and concrete driveways.

Premier is presently selling two subdivisions—Premier North and South—from one sales office on Terry Street adjoining the south side of Fantastic Fair Department store and one block east of Hwy. 39. Visitors take Beach Boulevard south from San Diego Freeway one mile and turn left on Terry Street to the model display.

After receiving his formal education at Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania, Daisey had 10 years of agency field management experience in Cincinnati. Later he became director of training with Insurance Research and Review Magazine. He joined PML in 1952 and has since held key posts in agency training and

He was named director of agencies in 1960 and assistant vice president, agency administration, in 1964.

Cypress Orangewood Development Pleases

In a preview showing last week, prospective buyers were taken on a tour of Don Wilson's Orangewood—a new development in Cypress.

The new concept of total-community planning, combined with homes of outstanding quality, proved an overwhelming success, according to Wilson, president of Don Wilson Builders.

The idea of a community park—providing the neighborhood with its own recreational area—is one of the most popular features.

Another is the underground utilities—which assure the buyer of protected and increasing value in his home investment. In the first split and tri-level homes in this area, Orangewood includes another first—a spacious step-down rumpus room—providing the ideal room for family gatherings or informal entertaining.

* * * *

PROSPECTIVE buyers became acquainted with the wide variety of models available. Designed for architectural distinction, the styles range from Polynesian to Colonial. They feature three, four and five bedrooms, with two custom baths.

Living rooms feature custom designed fireplaces and every home has sliding glass doors to outside patio areas. Kitchens feature warm stained-ash cabinets, Texturama tile counters, family snack bars, O'Keefe and Merritt built-in gas range and oven, and Waste King disposer.

* * * *

SPACIOUS ROOMS to accommodate the growing family, quality wall-to-wall carpeting and decorator wall papers are other features.

Landscaping will include front lawns with shrubbery. Sidewalks, decorative street lights and sewers are installed and paid for.

Furnished models are open, with one and two-story homes priced from $24,950, with $995 down. Orangewood may be reached by driving on the Garden Grove Freeway to Knott Avenue, then north on Knott to Orangewood.

San Ysidro Shop Opens

The San Ysidro Shop of Long Beach was opened recently at 3389 Orange Ave., facing Wardlow Avenue.

Betty Grobaty and Marion Oberhauser, owner-partners, have a line of candles, candelabra, books for children and adults and quality religious art.

Bellflower Board to Discuss New Laws

Members of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors will consider new real estate laws at their Thursday morning meeting at the Cerritos College Student Center, Norwalk.

Program chairman Bob Reed said the speaker will be Berton L. Hopkins, director of training at Anthony Real Estate Schools, Long Beach branch.

Push Watson Center Road Improvement

Strecker Construction Co. of Long Beach has been awarded a $419,558 contract to convert 223rd Street, between Avalon Boulevard and Wilmington Avenue, into a four-lane thoroughfare.

The one-mile stretch of 223rd Street borders the $175 million Watson Industrial Center in the Dominguez area of southern Los Angeles.

The current project is part of the County Highway Department program to widen 223rd Street and Wilmington Avenue to handle increased traffic generated by growth in the Dominguez area.

* * * *

CONTRACT for improving a second mile-long section of 223rd — between Avalon and Main Street — was awarded by Strecker last month. The street ultimately will be converted into a major, 4½-mile east-west artery extending from Alameda Street to Normandie Avenue.

Work on the Avalon-to-Wilmington link is expected to be completed by February.

MERCHANDISING AWARD GIVEN
Showcase Homes builder William Krueger and Frank H. McFarland, sales agent, accept special merchandising plaque from Independent, Press-Telegram, presented by Murray McDonald (center) of I, P-T advertising staff. Showcase Homes is a new development at Westminster on Hazard Avenue west of Brookhurst Street. Customers are given wide choice of features and construction options.

'Growing Room' Optional in Newest Showcase Homes

MEDALLION QUALIFIER
Built-in kitchens in second unit Showcase Homes in Westminster feature all-electric appliances and the homes qualify as medallion houses in addition to featuring a room that can be allowed to "grow" as needed.

Bill Krueger, builder of Showcase Homes in Westminster, offers a planning option in the form of a "growing room" in many of his plans—an area that may be utilized as a two or three-bedroom suite, large hobby or rumpus room or den. Eventually, as the family needs change, the area may be redesigned.

Frank McFarland, exclusive sales agent for Showcase, points out another popular feature of Showcase Homes, the Custom Completion Plan which allows buyers to choose from many custom details and planning options. Krueger makes a variety of changes and modifications during construction if they don't necessitate moving bearing walls.

Swimming pools also may be installed and financed on the first trust deed. Buyers may swim in their new pool the day they move into their Showcase Home.

* * * *

MCFARLAND says, "If the buyer decides what he wants done in the 'growing room' under the Custom Completion Plan or wants a pool, the work can be completed immediately and the improvement costs added to the original loan."

Showcase, now in its second unit, offers a good choice of floor plans and exteriors with three to six bedrooms. There are one and two-story homes available.

The built-in kitchens have all-electric appliances and the homes qualify as medallion homes.

The utilities have been placed underground to eliminate ugly poles and wires.

Second Unit Showcase homes sell from $25,950.

Decorated and furnished model homes are open every day at Hazard Avenue and Brookhurst Street in Westminster.

BRONCHITIS Morning Cough

At the first sign of wheezing, difficult breathing or coughing from recurring Bronchial Asthma or Bronchitis, aggravated by air contaminated by smoking, smog, dust and pollens, take quick acting MENDACO. It combats allergy, relaxes bronchial tubes, thins and helps remove thick, choking phlegm. This usually eases breathing fast, allays coughing, thus promoting better sleep. Get MENDACO at druggists. Let it help you.

'Who Shall Live?'

A medical procedure that can be used to save the lives of uremic poisoning victims will be examined during "Who Shall Live?", an hour documentary at 6:30 p.m. today (Sunday), channel 4.

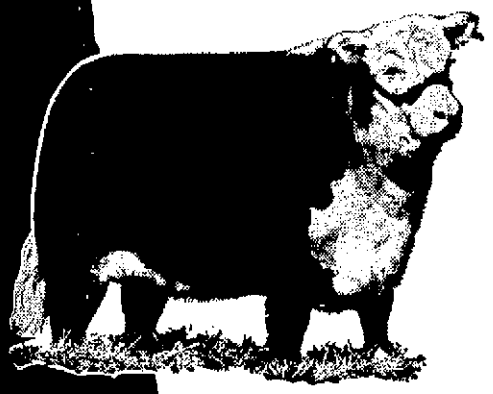

The title stems from the fact that, while there are 100,000 victims, only 100 are benefiting from the medical breakthrough. For those who don't receive the treatment, the kidney disease is fatal.

The program focuses on the Seattle Artifical Kidney Center where 40 patients are being treated at a cost of $10,000 per year for each patient.

The artificial kidney cleanses the patient's blood through a process called dialysis. The procedure was perfected by the University of Washington Medical School in Seattle.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

THE OVER-GENERALIZING, all-inclusive, negating expression goes:

"Product of a broken home."

It is an expression that irritates Dawn Wells.

Miss Wells has the role of Mary Ann on CBS-TV's (channel 2's) "Gilligan's Island" series.

She also is what the over-generalizing, all-inclusive would include, the product of a broken home.

Her parents, Joe Wells, a Nevada hotel executive, and Evelyn, a bookkeeper, were divorced when Dawn was four years old.

"But I never felt like a child from a broken home," she said. "I felt like I had two families."

She has equal praise for both her parents in providing her with a happy, meaningful childhood.

"I never felt torn between them," she said. "They never talked against each other. They never competed for my affection."

There was more of a family feeling in each of her homes, contends Dawn, than there is in many of today's so-called "togetherness" households.

"IT SEEMS TO ME," she said, "that there are too many young mothers today whose main daily objective is to get out of the house.

"Leave the kids at home. Let a baby-sitter raise them.

"Even when there's a picnic, they don't take the children."

Her mother, although she had to work, arranged her working hours so she was home when Dawn arrived from school.

"There never was a time," said Dawn, "when there wasn't a hot meal on the table for me and when there wasn't a linen napkin.

"I always felt a strong sense of family tradition even though there were only two of us at home."

Dawn doesn't think too much either of "the average young woman."

"She's lazy," said the actress.

"Look at my 85-year-old grandmother. She makes her own bread and ravioli. When she's at my place and if we don't have the house cleaned at 9 a.m., she gets nervous.

"Wants to know what we're doing just sitting around."

Taking pot-shots at mothers and young women is not exactly the best way for a striving actress to top a popularity poll.

It's even more hazardous when the actress is not a mother herself.

Which Dawn is not.

IN REAL LIFE, she's been married to actor-agent Larry Rosen since 1962. In video life, she's been portraying "Gilligan's Island's" Mary Ann for two seasons.

The role is that of a young, innocent girl in a group on a desert island.

"It would be a little difficult to write in a pregnancy for Mary Ann," said Dawn.

After the TV series ends, however, Dawn wants to have a series of children, hopefully four.

She's not overly worried her opinions will offend young mothers. If her opinions give second thought to only one mother and that one takes with her children on the next picnic, then Dawn will feel she's accomplished something major.

Further, she doesn't really think many women will resent her.

She has precedence for that belief.

For Dawn is a former beauty-contest winner, Miss Nevada in the Miss America contest.

And very few of the "Gilligan's" series femme viewers have held her beauty against her.

None of the male viewers have objected either.

'Seven Days in President's Life'

Filmed during a very critical period of the Viet Nam war, "Seven Days in the Life of the President," a one-hour special, airs at 8 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 11.

The program, marking the debut of the "March of Time" series, will be repeated at the same time on Monday.

The special follows President Lyndon B. Johnson as he meets with cabinet members, talks with congressional leaders and focuses his power on accomplishment of Administration goals.

It examines his relationship with the White House press-corps and the public.

Repeat 'Korean Legacy' Special

A number of Orange County residents will be seen during a repeat of the 60-minute "Korean Legacy" special at 7:30 p.m. today (Sunday), channel 5.

The program is about couples adopting Korean orphans. Aired originally last December, it won a local Emmy and was cited by the Overseas Press Club for "Outstanding Journalistic Achievement."

During the course of filming the program, Harry Holt, the Oregon farmer who had started the Korean adoption movement, died after a heart attack.

GETTING UP NIGHTS MAKES MANY FEEL OLD

After 35, common Kidney or Bladder Irritations often occur and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent passages both day and night. Secondarily, you may lose sleep and suffer from Headaches, Backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at druggists. Feel better fast.

We're so friendly,

even our cashier, Evelyn Gentry, keeps you smiling!

More likely than not, our cashier is the last person you'll have contact with as you leave our dealership. And no matter how small it is, paying the bill is not the most pleasant task. Yet our cashier's friendly smile and cheery greeting will go a long way toward making it more pleasant. We feel that's the best policy. We appreciate your business and do our best to see that you stay satisfied in your dealings with us. So, next time you're in, take special note of our friendly cashier. The way we figure, if you leave smiling, you'll return to us for future automotive needs.

Uncle Miltie Takes Pay Cut

MILTON BERLE, RITA MORENO
"Trials of O'Brien," 10 p.m. Friday (2)

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Milton Berle, seen only sporadically on television the past five years, is starring in a new movie and galloping back to video in earnest this season.

Most of Uncle Miltie's time recently has been spent on the road—nine months a year—playing night clubs.

"People who never visit clubs asked me when I was going back to work," Milton said during an off-day from "The Oscar."

"I hope they weren't feeling sorry for me."

They needn't have. The comedian was drawing roughly $25,000 per week. Then, of course, there was the $100,000 yearly stipend NBC-TV had been paying him on a contract running from 1951 to 1981.

But Berle chafed at his absence from television. The contract called for exclusive appearances on NBC, and the network appeared to be disinterested in keeping him busy. They paid him for doing nothing.

So Miltie hired a new agent and renegotiated his NBC contract. He took a 40% pay cut, reducing his annual salary to $60,000, but erased the exclusivity clause.

THE RESULT: Berle's TV schedule this season includes Dean Martin's show, "Bonanza," "The Fugitive," "The Man From UNCLE," "Slattery's People," "The Lucy Show," "Trials of O'Brien" (10 p.m. this Friday, channel 2), "The Hollywood Palace" (9:30 p.m. this Saturday, channel 7 in COLOR), Red Skelton and Ed Sullivan.

In the dramatic shows Milton will play straight parts without laughs, just as he is doing at Paramount in "The Oscar."

"I play an agent in the picture," he explained. "Not the cigar-chomping stereotype you see in so many movies. He's a sensitive guy who does a good job in a dignified way.

"This is the first straight role I ever played in a movie, although I've done some dramatic stuff in five television shows."

Berle was nominated for an Emmy several years ago in "Doyle Against the House," a performance that changed the image of television's first major star.

If Berle lost $40,000 a year by changing his contract, he'll earn more than a quarter million dollars for his guest shots and appearances on dramatic shows.

The comedian's most satisfactory bonus, however, is that he will be able to spend almost the entire year at his new Beverly Hills mansion with his son, Billy, 3.

"These are his growing-up years," Miltie explained. "I don't want him to ask who that stranger is who comes in off the road a couple of times a year. That's the important thing. I'll be home with my wife, Ruth, and my son."

Sports Today

AFL FOOTBALL, 10 a.m., in color, ch. 4, has the New York Jets hosting the Boston Patriots, with Curt Gowdy and Paul Christman mikeside at Shea Stadium. (NFL telecasts today are blacked out in L.A. and San Diego.)

POP WARNER Football, 5:30 p.m., in color, ch. 5, finds Jordan Olivar at West Torrance High School for action between the Gardena Rainbows and the Torrance Oilers.

SPECIAL

WHO SHALL LIVE?—Edwin Newman is narrator for a Seattle-filmed probe of the artificial kidney machine, featured recently in a 7-part "Kildare" segment, which could save the lives of thousands if enough were available and if the cost of treatments ($10,000 a year for 3 years) could be reduced. Some of the 100 being treated, from among tens of thousands, are interviewed at 6:30 p.m., ch. 4. The others will die.

RED RIDING HOOD—An original musical comedy by Jule Styne and Bob Merrill tells the children's classic from a new point of view—the wolf's. Starring at 7 p.m., in color, ch. 7, are Liza Minelli (see also Wed. "Ice Capades") as Red Riding Hood, Cyril Ritchard as the wolf, Vic Damone as the woodsman and The Animals as a wolf pack. The wolf's no villain, but a lonely, misunderstood beast searching for a friend.

PACIFIC—Then and Now—Bill Burrud returns to Guadalcanal and other areas of World War II action, contrasting what he saw then with life today. Repeat 90-min. special is at 7 p.m., in color, ch. 13.

KOREAN LEGACY—Dana Andrews is narrator for a reprise of the Emmy award-winning documentary of Oregon farmer Henry Holt, who brought eternal hope to Korean waifs, and met his own untimely death during a pilgrimage reported at 7:30 p.m., ch. 5.

MARCH OF TIME—Premiere. An intimate study of Lyndon B. Johnson during one hectic week of decisions and crisis is the first in a monthly series of 8 hours produced by David L. Wolper in association with the editors of Time & Life, to screen at 8 p.m., ch. 11, with a repeat Monday at the same hour. Mobile camera crews trail the President's daily movements, shooting candid, unstaged meetings with subordinates and high-echelon policymakers. Voice-over commentary for the July-filmed hour is supplied by LBJ.

JULIE ANDREWS SHOW—In her first major TV special, the Oscar-winning actress joins Gene Kelly and the New Christy Minstrels in a musical color hour at 9 p.m., ch. 4. Highlights are a "family tree" publication number with Julie and Gene humorously portraying various ancestors, and a game in which each tries to guess what sung the other is tapping with his feet.

SPECIAL

YOUNG PEOPLE'S Concerts—9th season premiere. For his first of four concerts taped at the Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall, Leonard Bernstein draws an analogy between the structure of atoms and music—one created by particles, the other by notes and intervals. To illustrate the 7:30 p.m. hour, ch. 2, he leads the New York Philharmonic in the first movement of the Symphony No. 4 by Brahms, the fourth movement from the Symphony No. 4 by Vaughan Williams, and the Prelude to Act III of "Lohengrin" by Wagner. (Season's second concert, Dec. 14, explores the sound of an orchestra.)

MERV GRIFFIN—A full 90-min. show from Spain, at 11 p.m., ch. 11, offers filmed segments from the U.S. Embassy, a ranch in Casulle, Madrid's famed Plaza del Toros, and the location sets for three movies—"Funny Thing Happened on Way to Forum," "10:30 P.M. Summer" and "Dr. Zhivago." A tour of the capital winds up the show.

SPECIAL

A SLICE OF SUNDAY—The violent world of professional football as seen by a player's wife is the subject for a KNXT special at 10 p.m., in color, ch. 2. Redhaired Sue McKeever, married for 5 years to Rams' tight end Marlin McKeever, introduces the program, filmed on location at various NFL stadiums, and narrated by Aneta Corsaut (Andy Griffith co-star).

BATTLE for the Iadrang Valley—A CBS News special report on the fiercest action in the Viet Nam war to date is reported by Morley Safer at 10:30 p.m., ch. 2. Four camera crews recorded action in the Iadrang Valley, and Safer assesses the significance of the encounters, and the import of the new battle technique of the North Vietnamese. (The postponed look at the Watts riots gets the 10 p.m. hour next week.)

Pan and Fan Mail

It was a welcome relief, to say the least, not to have seen Red Skelton's TV wife clobber him on the head these past few weeks.

He must have plenty of headaches from the blows he receives. Why doesn't Red sock his mate for a change?

I am not alone in voicing my opinion of how stupid and boring that part of the program is.

I could switch to another channel, but I like Red and hate to see him made a fool of by some female. Surely the script writer could think of something more amusing than that.

Mrs. Muriel Fry, Long Beach

Madame, many is the man that has been made a fool by some female.

* * * *

I would like to say a good word for "Wagon Train."

I was very disappointed when the show didn't return this fall and I'm going to miss seeing the whole group. I did enjoy the stories of the treks to California.

I have watched them for so long, I almost felt like I knew them. The stories were different each week and it didn't matter if you missed one — I always picked it up on repeats the following summer.

Sorry it's finished.

Mrs. E. Ross, Long Beach

No more treats from the treks.

* * * *

I would like to know when "Lost in Space" will go off the air, if it does. And would you please tell me what ratings this program has?

Mike Arehart, Lakewood

"Lost in Space" hasn't been exactly setting the world on fire. On the other hand, most of the ratings have found it in a safe place among the top 40 shows. I don't think it will get lost this season and there's a fair chance it will be back for a second run.

* * * *

Do you know if "Secret Agent" will be back next summer?

Elizabeth Connery, Long Beach

Summer is just around the corner for "Secret Agent." The series starts again at 8:30 p.m. this Saturday, channel 2.

Children's Movies

KHJ-TV (channel 9) has purchased 13 color movies for children.

Among them are "Santa Claus," which won best-family film honors in the San Francisco Film Festival, and "Littlest Angel," a dual winner at the Venice Film Festival.

SPECIAL

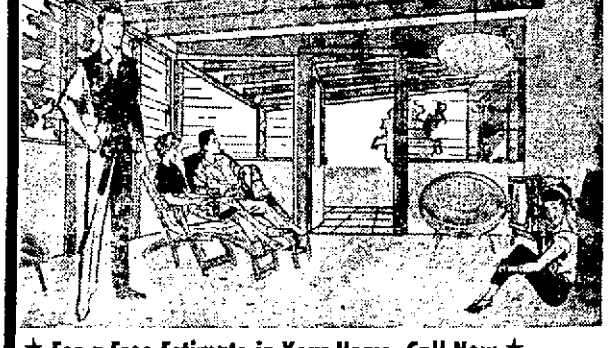

BIOGRAPHY OF JFK— The moving story of the life and career of John F. Kennedy is told in films with his father, his family, with colleagues and world leaders, narrated by Cliff Robertson, personal choice of the late President to portray him in "PT 109." At 8:30 p.m., ch. 13, hour features an original music score by David Rose.

ICE CAPADES OF 1966— Arthur Godfrey dons his ice skates for the first time in nine years to act as host to highlights of the 26th edition of the famed ice show, in a salute to the world of entertainment. Non-"gay blades" Liza Minnelli and Roger Miller are singing guests during the 9 p.m. color hour, ch. 2, with 7 human and one chimpanzee (Spanky) stars, plus 72 regular cast members, taking part in segments saluting Broadway, opera, the circus, ballet, the recording industry and Hollywood, plus "Holoholo Mokupuni," a Polynesian interlude. Show was taped in August at Atlantic City.

Our Methods Are Better! The Cost for the Best Is Less Than You Think.

Scientific rug cleaning is a highly technical process and technical knowledge is of prime importance. "Home remedies" merely promote rapid soiling. Our process makes your carpets SOIL-RESISTANT. It builds an invisible barrier against dirt. The result—carpets stay clean, up to 5 times longer. Our skilled personnel are trained to do the work efficiently, quickly, economically and effectively. Carpets dry overnight.

TRIALS OF O'BRIEN — Neilsen's 13th-from-the-bottom-rated (22.5) series moves in to the Friday hour at 10 p.m., ch. 2, to replace the third-from-the-cellar (16.1) "Slattery's People." Opener in the new time slot could turn the trick, starring Milton Berle as a baggy-pants burlesque comedian charged with murder, with Rita Moreno as his two-timing exotic dancer wife, Hal March as the other man who topples out of a closet on-stage with a knife in his back, Danny Dayton as a "second banana," Ann Corio as a stripper and Virginia Wing as a dancer-comedienne. And Peter Falk, as O'Brien, represents Berle in the murder trial. (Uncle Miltie, seen all this week with Mike Douglas, returns Saturday as host of the Hollywood Palace, and again next Monday on "The Lucy Show.")

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews of Recent TV Programs

Program: "Salute to Stan Laurel," aired last Tuesday on channel 2.

As a variety special, this hour touched all bases, included a couple of strike-outs and several foul balls.

Host Dick Van Dyke pleasantly handled his emcee chores and had his studio audience doubled over with laughter in a monologue illustrating why people laugh at others' pain. A two-bagger.

Bob Newhart, in monologue portrayal of a children's show TV host, commanded his young charges to blacklist a sponsor who had dropped him. A triple.

Buster Keaton and Lucille Ball in a pantomime about a park and a policeman were merely passable. A single.

Audrey Meadows played the heroine in a spoof on "The Perils of Pauline" serials of the good old days. There was one scene during which Miss Meadows was about to lose her head to a buzz-saw.

Using silent-screen techniques, her emotions were audibly displayed to the audience. The flashed caption read:

"Did James Bond really start this way?"

Miss Meadows was superb as was the content of her skit. A home-run.

By contrast, Cesar Romero, Tina Louise, Leonid Kinskey and Louis Nye were wasted in overdone trivia about making silent movies. Foul balls and then a pop-out fly to the infield.

The worst of the special, a strike-out, originated with Phil Silvers, a man who ordinarily could bat in the clean-up spot.

Somewhere along the way, Phil mistakenly got the idea that this was a "Salute to Phil Silvers." He came across all ego.

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

The best moments of all were the film clips from the old Laurel and Hardy films, slapstick in the classic tradition.

Critic Cynthis Lowry of AP

Program: "National Citizenship Test," aired last Tuesday on channel 2.

The questions touched on such matters as how many years a senator is elected for, whether the President is head of the legislative branch, the names of the two senators in one's own state (41% of the national test sample couldn't name either), search warrants, double jeopardy, the right to bear arms, the fifth amendment, prayer in schoolrooms, citizens' arrests and the rights of dissenters to attack our Viet Nam policy, talk about the over-throw of the government and denounce organized religion.

The only question I got wrong concerned census takers—I thought I could refuse to give them information if I wanted to, and the notion still appeals to me.

SPECIAL

G-T 7 LAUNCH—Astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell are due to leave the pad at Cape Kennedy at 11:30 a.m. for their 14-day mission, including a rendezvous today with the second-stage booster and later (Dec. 13) rendezvous manuevers with the G-T 6 capsule. Color coverage is planned on all networks, with pre-launch activities beginning as early as 9 a.m. (ch. 4). NBC plans split-screen telecasts during the morning's Penn State-Maryland grid clash.

CHRISTMAS PARADE — The 19th annual Christmas Lane Parade from Huntington Park will receive live 2-hour coverage starting at 7 p.m., ch. 5. Stan Chambers and Dorothy Gardiner co-host the event, which this year has as its theme "Christ in Christmas."

SHINDIG! — The famous jazz and blues festival at Richmond-on-Thames, England, is seen in a 2-part color tape today and Thursday at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7. Jimmy O'Neill hosts, with today's segment including the Animals, the T-Bones, the Brian Auger Trinity, the Moody Blues and Georgie Fame.

SECRET AGENT—Return premiere. The British-produced series starring Patrick McGoohan moves into the 8:30 p.m. hour, ch. 2, vacated by the shift of "O'Brien" to Friday. Opener guestars Griffith Jones as a British official stationed in Paris, and being blackmailed by an international ring. Security agent John Drake finds the case fraught with international implications. (Another British series, "The Saint," is due for a network hour next season.)

LAWRENCE WELK— A special Currier and Ives edition of the musical hour recreates the colorful American era depicted by the two famous lithographers, with scenes set on sleighs, at a park bandstand, on deck of a clipper ship, a formal ballroom, on the steps of a stately mansion and in a 19th century drawing room. All the cast are costumed in the finery of the era at 8:30 p.m., in color, channel 7.

COVER GIRL

Mary Poppins, a new doll so authentic you'll think she flew right out of the Walt Disney film that inspired her. This foot-tall doll with "bendable" arms was specially sculptured to resemble actress Julie Andrews in her Academy Award-winning role. From the doll's rooted hair, which is fashioned in a bun, to her high black shoes, she's dressed just like her motion picture prototype. Her outfit even includes doll-size copies of Mary Poppins' wondrous umbrella and magical carpet bag. Among additional costume changes available for the doll are a party dress with matching bonnet, nanny's work dress and apron, as seen in the film. Made by Horsman Dolls, Inc. And the new arts have come to many other toyland items.

NEWSWEEK

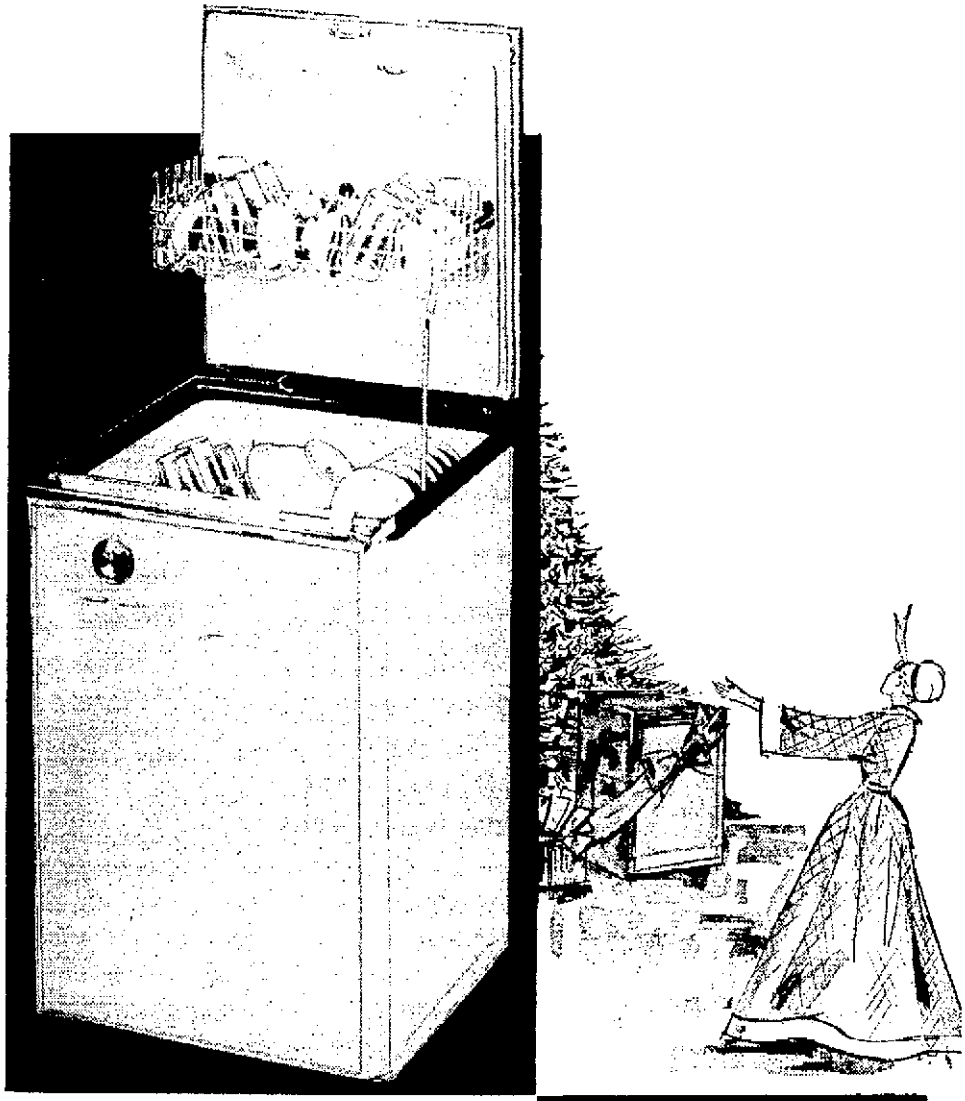

When Jerry Rockwell offers an opinion on toys, the toy industry listens. And who is Jerry Rockwell? He's the brother of the famed artist Norman Rockwell and as well known in his field as the artist is in the world of illustrators. For more about brother Jerry and his views on toyland read "This Santa's Too Busy to Grow Old," by Jerry Hall, in next week's Southland Magazine.

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residences until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglas FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking or peeling.

Fiberglas, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather, and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

EVOLUTION OF A YULETIDE TREE

March of the Christmas Dolls

By Maymie R. Krythe

CHRISTMAS trees have moved along with progress ever since Martin Luther set up a simple, candle lighted tree long ago to delight his children, and the forms of this seasonal decoration are varied and delightful, none more so than that enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Miller, 3920 Lime Ave.

First set up in 1963, the Millers' version of Christmas tree has now become an annual custom in their home. It is about eight feet tall and is mounted on a circular base, four feet in diameter. A little koala from Australia is clinging to the pole that forms the trunk of the tree.

FROM THE tip to the sides of the base are different kinds and colors of fancy tinsel ropes; and in between these are seen strings of colored lights. The circular base is covered with cotton to give the effect of snow-covered ground. And on it dolls dressed in costumes of different lands appear to be walking in pairs around the circle.

Mrs. Miller, an elementary teacher in the Los Angeles School system at South Gate, became interested in foreign dress several years ago when she took up folk dancing with the Long Beach Recreation Department. Then she started her hobby of collecting dolls in their native costumes. Friends have contributed to her group; but she added many others when she traveled in several European countries while on sabbatical leave.

Also she and her husband collected other dolls when they visited his native land of Austria. He was born near Vienna and has fond memories of the Christmas trees his family set up, and on which real candles burned.

MILLER MUST be given credit for the plan to feature the collection of dolls from all around the globe. The project presented a problem as the figures could not be seen under the drooping branches of a regular tree. So he conceived the idea of an artificial tree where the costumed dolls could be properly displayed and enjoyed.

It is interesting to see this distinctive lighted Christmas tree, as a whole; also it's interesting to study the individual figures that make up the complete picture. There are several dolls from Germany — one from the Schwarzwald, the beautiful Black Forest, wears the familiar dress, with full skirt, apron, and wide hat with the characteristic red pompons of her district. Another German doll is about a century old; and an English doll of the same age has a flowered print dress that still, after many years, retains its original gay colors.

From Hong Kong and the Orient come dolls in gay kimonos; there's a Chinese woman in bright blue, also a Japanese with a wide hat and colorful garb, that presents an attractive picture. A Mexican couple catches the eye, for the husband wears an out-size hat and striped serape, while the senora's native dress is if vivid hues.

IN CONTRAST is a pair from Greenland wearing garments made of real fur. The man carries a small seal in his arms; and his wife's necklace reveals how rich the husband is. Some dolls from Peru are worth noting. One carries a baby on her back, while the man has a bundle of wood on his shoulders. Both wear the big round hats of their country, high boots, and costumes of heavy woven wool.

There's a pair of dolls, too, from the Island of Malta, the man sports a red stocking cap, while his partner has a black one and cape of same color. A French couple from the Loire River region in native dress walks near a pair from Holland. The woman models the well known Dutch lace cap, while the man is garbed in baggy trousers and wooden shoes. An American Indian squaw in native dress contrasts strongly with a lovely bride from Malta. The latter looks charming in a ruffled white lace dress and wedding veil.

Two unusual dolls, only one inch tall, in crocheted costumes are about 100 years old and have arms and legs that actually move.

There are also Italian tarentella dancers and Spanish flamenco performers. One of the latter holds her castanets and is garbed in a blue dress with white polka dots.

Dolls of many lands parade on a revolving platform within "branches" of this "tree."

THERE ARE also dolls from Switzerland and the Scandinavian countries. Some very interesting examples are from the fishing town of Nazare, in Portugal. The girl doll wears the required seven petticoats, which you can count if you wish. The men of this town carry their money in tasseled stocking caps, and wear Scottish plaid shirts. It is said that many years ago some men from Scotland were shipwrecked near here and the survivors settled on this coast.

This outstanding tree at the Rudolph Miller home revolves by means of an electric motor; and the movement heightens the spectacle as the figures apparently move around the circle. Since the dolls represent many different lands, and are happily joining together in the unusual Christmas scene, this modernistic tree is a distinctive symbol of global friendship, with peoples of varied nationalities uniting to celebrate the world's most important religious holiday.

If Mrs. Miller's mother, Nina Cuthbert Jackson, one of Long Beach's early distinguished residents, could see this modern Christmas tree, she would find it a great contrast to the one her daughter enjoyed as a child. For in their yard the Cuthbert family had an evergreen, which each year they carefully dug up, and took into the house, where it was adorned with various items in true "Good Old Days" fashion.

LAST OF HER KIND AFLOAT

Sea Veteran to Sail Again

By Frank H. Black Jr.

THE OLD LADY—last of her kind afloat—is going to sea again.

After having been tied to a pier in the Port of Long Beach the past 10 years, the 275-foot, 4,000-ton Lumberlady is now getting an overhauling at the Craig Shipyard for duty again on the high seas.

The veteran Pacific Coast steam schooner was sold recently by Owens-Parks Lumber Co. to the Ensenada firm of Rucusos Consolidados de Mexico. A survivor of the Battle of Tarawa in World War II, she will be used to transport volcanic aggregate from San Quentin in Baja California to San Diego and Long Beach.

In 1918, the Lumberlady, along with six sister ships, was built for the Argentine government at Ecorse, Mich., on the Detroit River by the Great Lakes Engineering Works. But the ships were not delivered to the Argentines because during this country's second year of participation in World War I an agency of the U.S. Shipping Board seized all vessels in shipyards.

AFTER THE WAR, the Lumberlady—christened the Cottonplant—was sold to a private firm and she steamed out on her maiden voyage across Lakes Erie and Ontario, through the locks of the Welland Canal, down the Saint Lawrence River and to her first port of call at Beaumont, Tex.

There she loaded out a cargo of square timbers for England.

Over the next several years, the Cottonplant carried lumber and general cargo out of Gulf ports to Europe and South America. When she was sold to a Pacific Coast lumber company, her name was changed to the F. A. Warner.

Then another change of name took place when the ship was sold to the Coos Bay Lumber Co. Her third name was the Lumberman.

In 1940 she was sold to Owens-Parks and renamed the Lumberlady.

A MAN WHO has seen much of the Lady over the years is Capt. C. E. Berry, marine superintendent for Owens-Parks in the Port of Long Beach. He saw her arrive in Beaumont on her maiden voyage in 1919, was with O-P when she was purchased in 1940 and saw her many times during World War II, sailing under the lengthy title of the United States Army Transport Lumberlady.

"During those war years, the Lady hauled general military cargo — from beans to bullets — between Hawaii and various South Pacific battle fronts," Capt. Berry said. "She even hauled barges loaded with supplies."

He added that the Lady saw a lot of action in the war and was in "the thick of things" during the famous Battle of Tarawa in November, 1943.

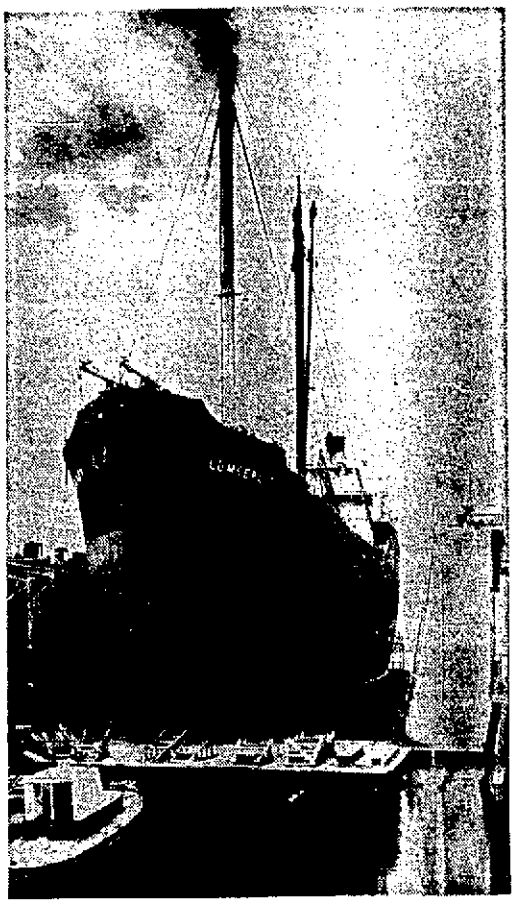

Not a fast ship by today's standards, the Lumberlady had a top speed of 10 knots plus during the war years. "I was told that her speed depended on how scared she was. If things were real hot and she was really scared, she'd move along at 11 knots or so," Capt. Berry said.

THE ARMY returned the Lady to Owens-Parks in 1946. Capt. Berry said she underwent extensive repairs and then was put back on the lumber run between Oregon-Washington and Long Beach.

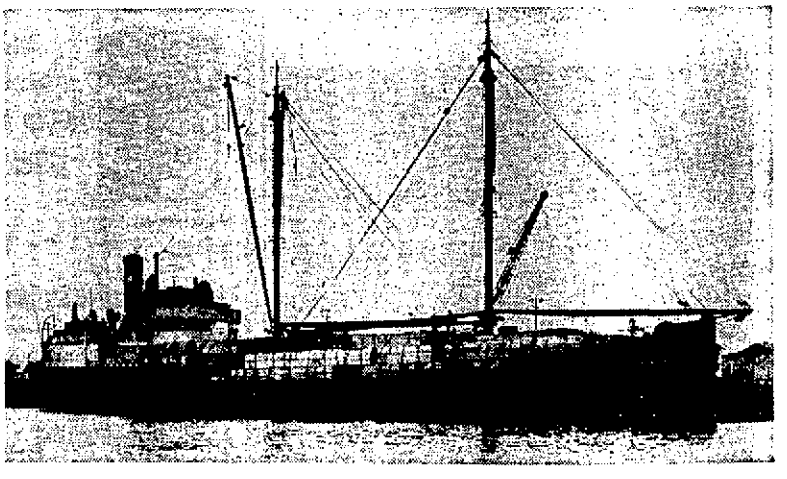

In 1955, she was taken out of service because it would have been too expensive to change her power plant from steam to diesel and to fit her out with new lumber-handling equipment to make her competitive in the lumber trade.

According to Capt. Berry, before World War II there were more than 100 steam lumber schooners working the Pacific Coast. "Now she is the last steam schooner on the seas," he said.

Just as she first started out carrying the vital building material, lumber, the old Lady is going to sea again to carry a vital, new building material for myriad construction projects in Southern California.

Veteran steam schooner Lumberlady is being readied in dry dock to go back to the sea after a period of retirement. She served in World War II and long in the coastal lumber service, as shown in peacetime photo below.

Push-button marionettes in many characters are easy for young hands to manipulate.

New arts have come to toyland

Op, Pop and Poppins

Lazy Daisy is 24 inches of cuddly canine that tots, teen-agers and college-age collectors find irresistible. She has super-shaggy coat, "bedroom" eyes, hair curlers and—well, she's fun. Pussycat, Pig and Puppy Dog (below) vie in toyland for "op" honors. There is also an elephant.

By John Ronson

THE NEW ARTS have come to toyland. You may not see giant soup cans on toy store shelves, but one look around will reveal how op and pop art are reflected in the new toys for Christmas.

Little charm dolls, for example, wear clothes with op art patterns. Stuffed animals, in pop art fashion, are "tattooed" with colorful tapestry designs all over their bodies.

Favorite characters abound in dolldom. There's a supercalafragilisticexpialidocious Mary Poppins doll, looking just like Julie Andrews in her Academy Award-winning role; a Patty Duke doll, which comes wih an autographed photo of that teen-age Academy Award winner; and a new Cinderella doll set, featuring interchangeable heads and costumes so that the doll can be transformed from scullery maid to belle of the ball and back again. A "glass" slipper is included so you can be sure she's the real Cinderella.

"Pose-able" limbs, rooted side-flip hairdo and two-piece casual outfit are features of Patty Duke, TV star who's now a doll star, too.

PLENTIFUL are new high fashion dolls and hair fashion dolls, whose coifs can be dyed almost any color, or changed with stylish wigs and wiglets. But the fashion vogue doesn't change Raggedy Ann and Andy. Now in their second half century of popularity, those favorites with the red yarn hair and shoe button eyes have newly designed night clothes, but they are made of old-fashioned cotton flannel and have sleeping caps to match.

New baby dolls walk, wave, sleep and awaken automatically.

Virtually all of the better known spies have come in from the cold to the warmth of the Christmas spirit in toyland. There are James Bond and The Man From U. N. C. L. E. games and guns, and a vast variety of other secret agent paraphernalia to satisfy the playrooms' counter-espionage corps.

STILL MORE realism is evidenced in the rugged steel cars and trucks which now make powerful motor sounds without the use of batteries.

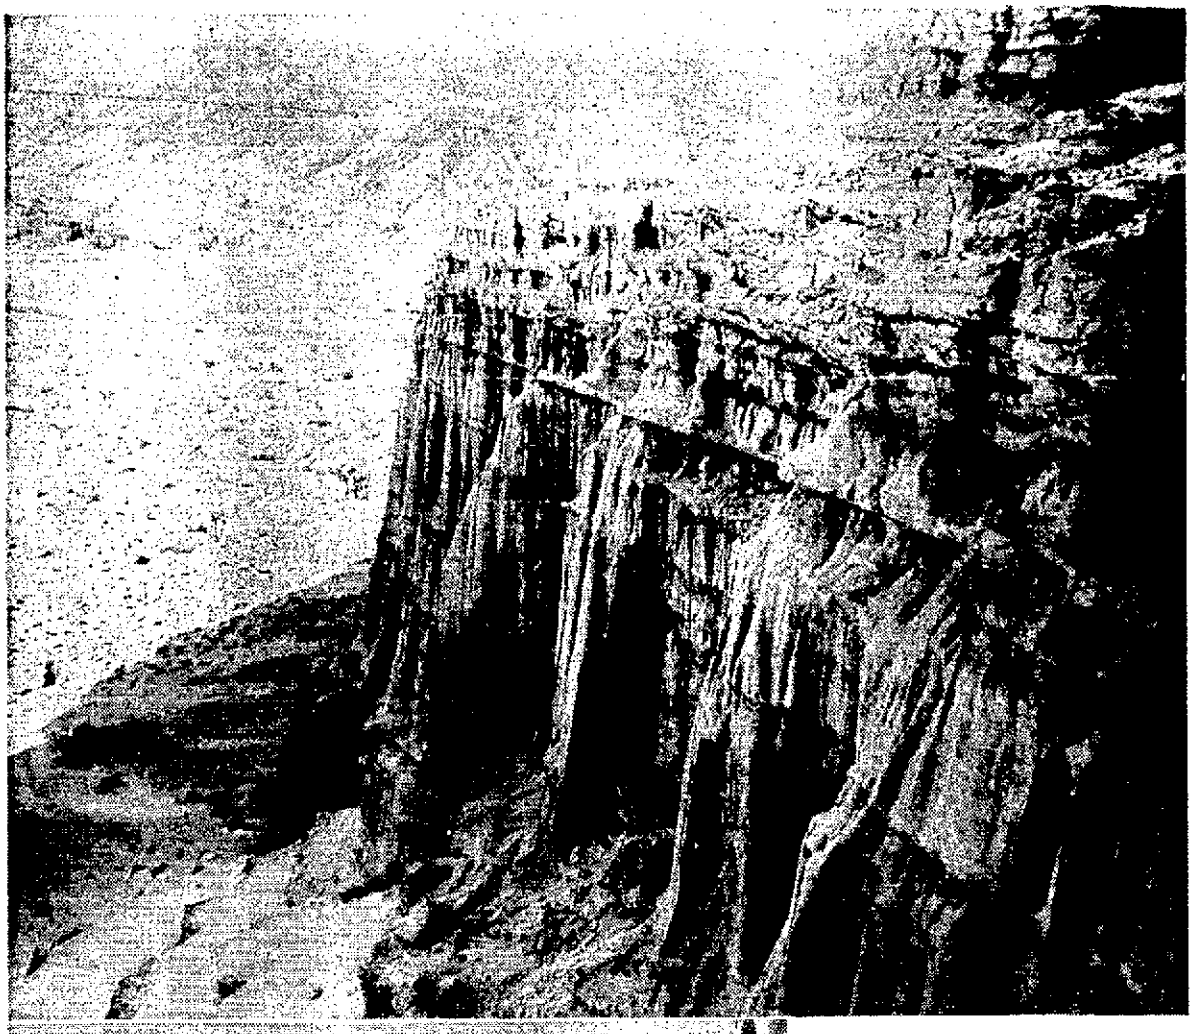

There are tigers in toyland, too. Some are made to ride on, others to cuddle and sleep with, and still others to dress up bikes and trikes.

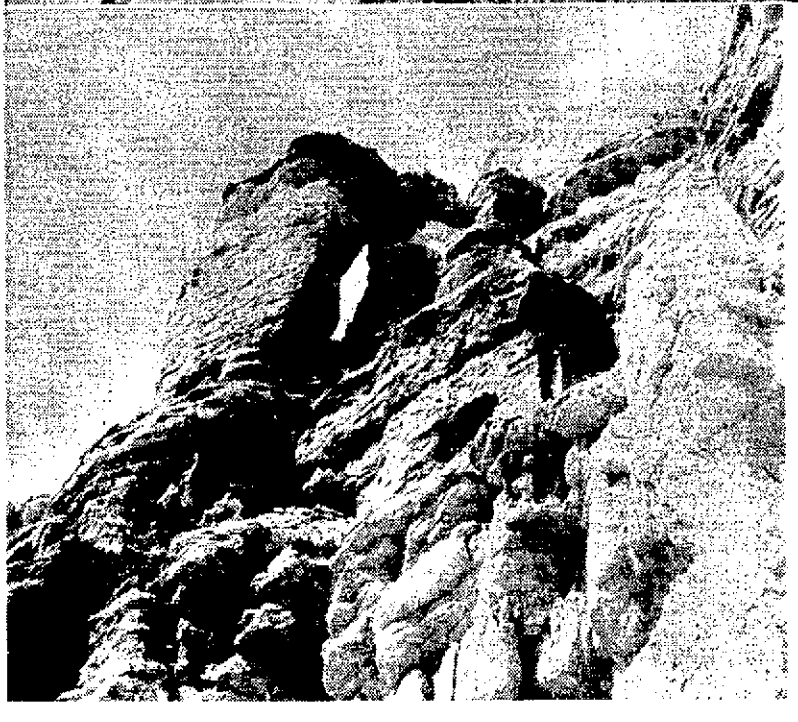

For those youngsters who have everything? How about a "mink" stuffed animal? You can choose from bears, puppy dogs and pussycats. Each has had his fluffy coat "tipped" to give it that warm, luxurious, mink-y look.

Sculptured Castles in the Sun

By VI CHAMBERLAIN

Spectacular formations abound in Red Rock Canyon, desert area northward 175 miles from Long Beach. Photographers, rockhounds, motion picture companies and nature lovers find the canyon of special interest. Above, formation known as "The Citadel" guards the surrounding terrain. Left, the "Closed Cathedral." The aperture can be imagined to be a religious figure with arms outstretched as if beckoning gently. Formation is believed to have been caused by an earthslide.

ONE NEED not see "The Acropolis," "Buried City," "Temple of the Sun," and other forms of ancient and modern architecture. About 175 miles from Long Beach, one may view such wind-and-sand sculptured castles, temples, cathedrals, sphinxes, domes, spires and gargoyles in rainbow-splashed Red Rock Canyon.

John L. Von Blon, who wrote considerably about the area, is credited with being among the first to discover the valley which is 15 miles long.

The predominance of red pigment in the formation of the weird cliffs, determined the name of Red Rock Cayon.

Photographers, geologists, rockhounds and motion picture companies find the area of special interest.

VOLCANIC mud twisted, swirled and fashioned by water, sun and dry winds, has created eerie pillars, arcades and figures; making this a miniature Bryce Canyon.

Indian pottery and oher artifacts have been found in one of the caves where prehistoric monsters once lurked. William Mulholland, chief engineer of the Los Angeles Aqueduct, once found a petrified bone of a sabre-toothed tiger there. It is now on exhibit at Exposition Park Museum in Los Angeles.

Joshua trees and yuccas punctuate the reddish-brown sand gorges. And in the springtime, blue, white and gold wild flowers mantle the lower region, fringed by scarlet "Indian paintbrushes." Baby-blue eyes and the infrequent Magenta Mariposa lilies contribute a colorful mosaic to the grandeur of the landscape.

SHUTTERBUGS click ecstatically and artists or daubers alike try to capture the mystery and beauty of the canyon on canvas.

The '49ers passed through the canyon after leaving Death Valley on their way to Los Angeles or the Mother Lode country. Today, following the same route but skimming off from high-speed Highway 14, gem-seekers park their campers or take a jeep or Honda in search of semi-precious stones such as opals found in the confines of this fantastic citadel.

Centuries-old fossil beds lie virtually unexplored, intriguing the imagination of those who thrill to adventure and relics of bygone cultures.

Desperados and fierce bandits "holed up" in the shadowed recesses of a group of rocks named "The Acropolis" by an early explorer. From this headquarters, black-masked robbers sprang out to pounce upon the hapless drivers who freighted gold through from the Gerro Gordo Mine at Owens Lake to Los Angeles, in early days.

WESTERN MOVIES and spectacular films with desert or wildly unique backgrounds are shot against the backdrop of Red Rock Canyon.

Efforts are being made to dedicate the area as a state park so that all may enjoy the peculiar figures carved by nature; and to preserve for future generations, the relics and historical gems that may be uncovered through controlled and scientific endeavors. No definite decision has been made as yet but the State Resources Agency is to be requested to make a study.

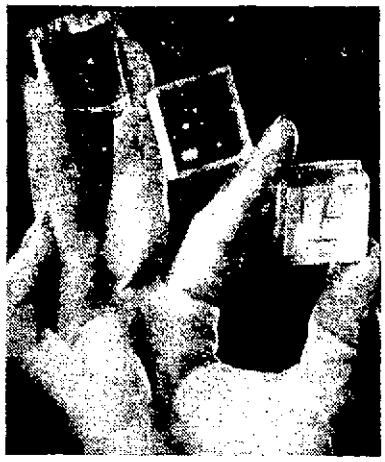

Although there are no public campgrounds or accommodations in the canyon at this time, tourists and desert folk picnic in the romantic protection of rocks known as "The Pillars of Hercules," "Pan's Pipe Organ" and many other groupings; some listening perhaps to the dire wail of a stray coyote as the moon appears. Or perhaps shivering as a dry wind shricks through the stark multicolored columns and pillars.

A pleasant drive from Los Angeles on Highway 14 (old Highway 6) takes one through Mint Canyon, past Palmdale, Lancaster and Mojave; then about 35 miles north to the canyon.

SCIENCE ON THE MOVE

The 'Educated' Beam

The laser, capable of radiating light hotter than the sun's surface, is creating its own demands by demonstrating its capabilities in many fields, including medicine.

By ED MATOVICH

Experimental laser range finder developed by Autonetics Navigation Systems Division successfully fixed distances up to 15 miles in tests on Mojave Desert. Left above, spots and plumes are etched inside polystyrene, glass and plexiglass samples by laser's intense beam of light. A lens focuses laser's light at a point inside the sample, creating a fracture and damage effects yield data on performance characteristics of experimental lasers. Left, the author monitors crystal laser's output when fired through amplifier.

AHH—THE eight-legged Venusian is in the center of the target screen, and at a range of only 11 million miles.

Change the laser controls, press the energy release button, wait a few seconds, and, there! He's been vaporized, never to trouble our space lanes again.

Sound like something out of Buck Rogers? Yes. But many a man on the street has been misled to believe the fledgling laser will soon be turned into an interplanetary weapon of mass destruction.

I must confess, at North American Aviation's Autonetics Research Center laboratory in Anaheim we have accidentally killed a fly or two. But there have been no human volunteers.

It is true, laser beams may some day prove useful in long-distance weaponry, because there is no curved trajectory to consider. Before that day comes, certain problems must be solved, and the laser will have long since made major radar, communications, medical, welding and tooling contributions.

THE LASER is a sophisticated flashlight with an "educated" beam.

Ordinary light "glows" to help us see because it has many waves which reflect in many directions. Laser light, emitted by a crystal rod or gas tube, has one wave length and one direction.

The result is a pin-point beam hotter and brighter than the sun's surface.

The first laser was developed only six years ago, but technological advancements needed to make it useful have been rapid.

A high-power pulsed laser already has been used in an eye operation, re-attaching a retina through formation of scar tissue with the laser beam. If a more practical laser could be made (present-day devices use high voltages and arch-discharge lamps, which occasionally explode), there is little doubt that it could be used for microcauterizing diseased areas, "welding" severed nerves, and perhaps for micro-surgery, cutting tissue by vaporizing rather than by scalpel.

AND THE LASER is being used at Autonetics in some intriguing studies. Combined with special optics and other devices, it produces three-dimensional TV-type pictures, recognizes and identifies specific words on a printed page, and measures distances up to 20 miles with extreme accuracy.

While laser theory is simple, the working art represents a combination of theoretical and experimental physics, chemistry, metallurgy, optics, electronics, and systems engineering. It is not difficult to see why practical understanding of the laser and associated equipment has just begun to develop.

Scientists have discovered that many exotic elements such as europium, and gases such as helium and xenon have lasing qualities. But no single laser can combine all the attributes necessary to all possible applications.

A great deal of work is being done to improve laser materials and devices, with an estimated 500 groups in the U. S., including several dozen in Southern California, engaged in research. Immediate problems include increasing power yields, pulse energies and flash frequencies.

AT AUTONETICS we have improved laser lenses, rods, couplers, and Q-switches. Our researchers also have produced a giant amplifier which radiates a 160,000,000-watt beam, and are working on a new high-powered continuous-operation laser structure, and nuclear power sources.

Lower power density lasers have been developed that can weld exotic metals. Relatively high initial costs and low production rates of such welds are limiting factors. But there are always specialized applications where cost is secondary and, using a poor pun, it is here the laser may shine.

For the near future, radars probably will represent the largest single practical use of the laser. They will be used by aircraft to determine range and velocity, avoid terrain and spot overhead obstacles, and by space vehicles for rendezvous and docking operations.

Continuous low-power gas lasers open up another field which Autonetics is considering—communications.

The amount of information which can be carried on an electromagnetic beam is directly related to the beam's frequency, which ranges between a trillion and a quadrillion cycles per second.

THEORETICALLY, all the radio, FM, television and telephone conversations in the United States at any given moment could be carried simultaneously on a single gas laser beam. But generating light beams is one thing; harnessing them to carry signals is another.

It is true the laser cannot move into a ready-made market as the now-famous transistor did not long ago. Rather, it must create its own demand by demonstrating its capabilities. It is doing just that.

We don't pretend the laser is a logical cocktail party topic. But we certainly welcome public interest. With a lot of work and a little luck, perhaps we can make the interest justified.

(Editor's Note: Author Matovich is a senior research engineer at North American Aviation's Research Center at Anaheim.)

This Is a Laser

Six years ago Physicist T. H. Maiman pumped a series of light impulses into a cigarette-shaped ruby rod. A beam narrower and more intense than any known by man was ejected.

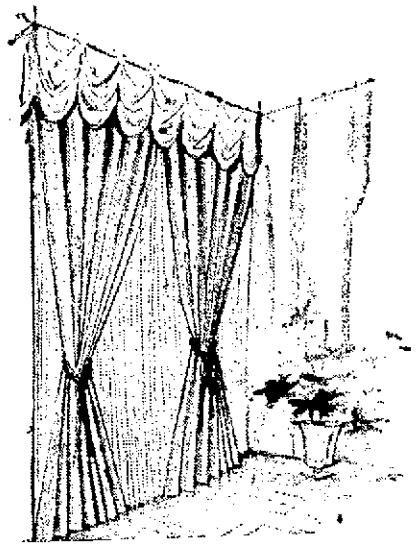

Scientists were quick to spot potentials of the coherent beam-producing device, now known as the laser (which stands for Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation). Beams of light theoretically could transmit messages, weld exotic metals, cut through materials neatly and accurately.

Development of the laser has been termed one of the great scientific break-throughs of our time. The following article describes some of its seemingly limitless applications.

Symphony in Blue

By Stella George

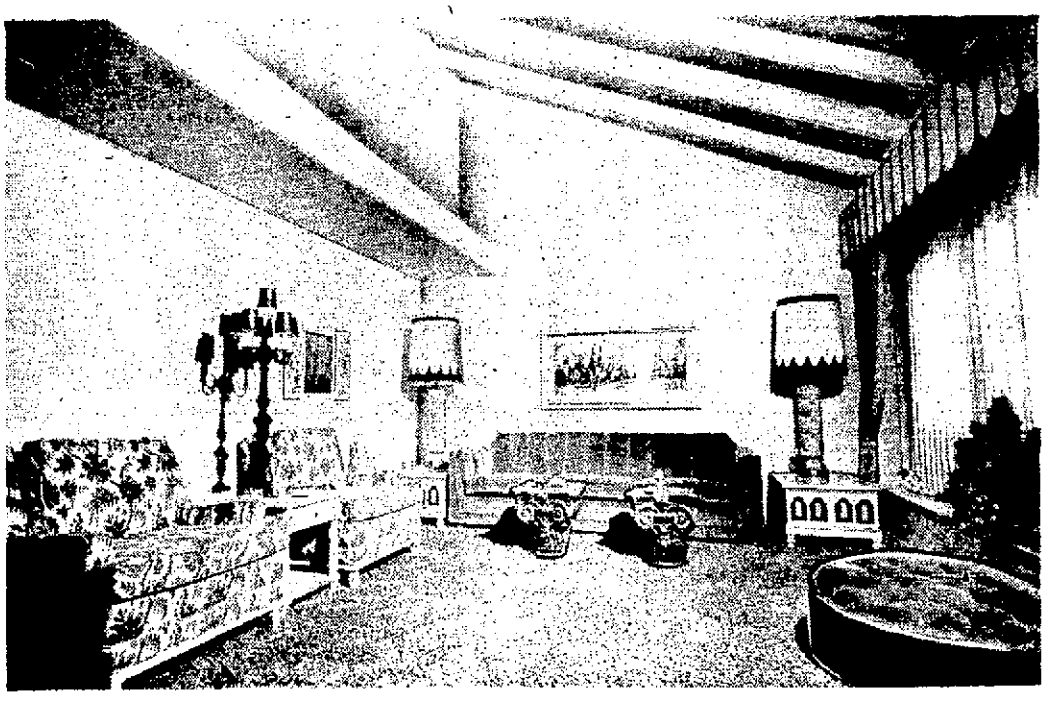

TONES OF blue create a symphony in color in the Los Alamitos residence of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gormley and family, 12141 Chianti Ave.

Changes have been made in the dwelling to the extent that other residents of the area with similar homes are scarcely able to recognize the basic structure. Professional touches were given by Howard Voien, interior designer.

Major structural changes and additions include the building of a new bedroom, a den, and a passageway to both.

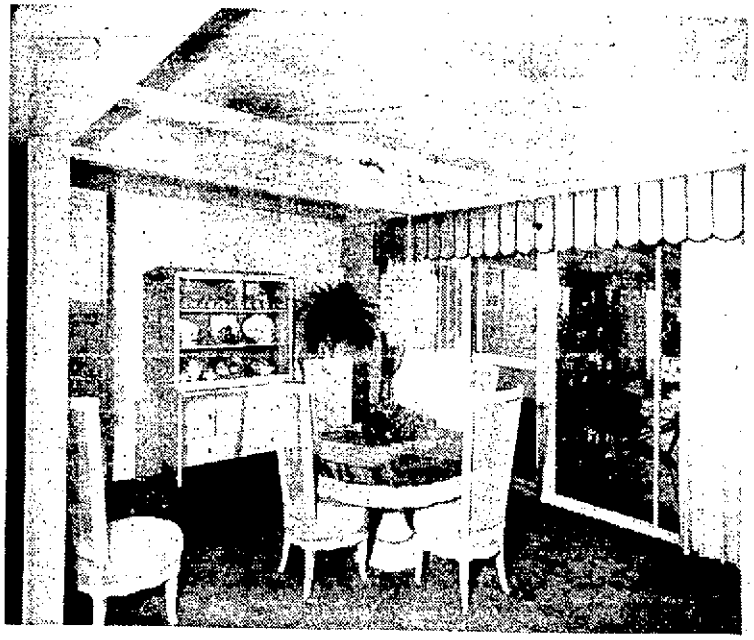

Establishment of an entry was achieved by placing a filigree screen separating the living room on the right from the entrance area. A low chest with a mirror above are at the wall to the left.

CARPETING in the living quarters is thick wool turf in a shade of Wedgewood blue. Various tones of blue predominate throughout the rooms, each blending with or enhancing another shade. The sofa at the far end of the room is royal blue. Handsome lamps at either end have white shades accented with light blue and darker blue velvet trim. Twin lounge chairs have a blue and white floral design. A silk velvet ottoman is of plum shade. Backing the fili-

Blends of blue predominate in the color scheme of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gormley and family. Top, family's much-used den is one of additions made to the original house. It enjoys access to the pool. In the center is a view of the living room—sofa and chairs in blue, ottoman in plum and the lamps with blue velvet trim. Right, a view of the exterior approach to the home.

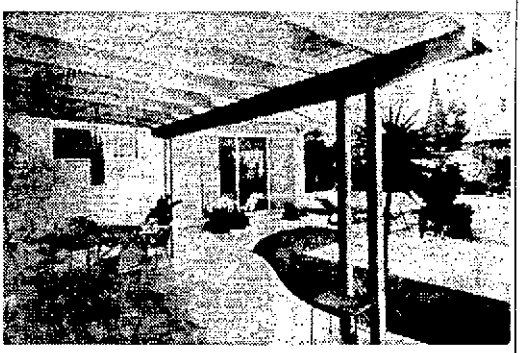

What was originally intended to be a family room is now a formal dining area. Table is of continental height, chairs are done in blue.

—Staff Photos by JOE RISINGER

Patio area is, in effect, two sections but united. One, left, is poolside and the other, below, is a covered extension of the house.

gree divider is a love seat done in green with the woodwork finished in antique blue. Colorful hanging lamps above can be seen through the divider.

Two coffee tables in front of the sofa are replicas of Corinthian columns. Draperies are blue over white curtains. The valance is scalloped, trimmed in blue velvet, an original design by Volen.

The family room area (adjoining the kitchen) has been transformed into a formal dining room. A crystal chandelier sheds dim, flattering light over the round, low, continental height table. Imported Italian chairs are high backed, upholstered in sky blue. A small console hangs on one wall, the former finished in antique gold. The rooms view a patio and blue pool in the rear garden. Blues in various shades, with many touches of green are carried out in the patio furniture.

ORIGINALLY, there was an open bar at one end of the kitchen which separated the far end of the room. Antique white doors now hide the bar; however, the doors may be opened when desired, and on the kitchen side all bar equipment is ready for service. Below the bar on the living room side is a hidden stereo unit. Speakers are placed strategically throughout the house and patio, those in the living room hidden above one of the low ceilings.

The master bedroom is pink and pretty. Carpeting, walls, spread and accessories are in pink. Furniture is antique white as are shutter doors which enclose large closets.

Sherri, 7, has her room done in shades of orange and persimmon. Her spread is gay with butterflies, and a canopy tops her bed. The room is not large but there is space for her piano, chests of drawers, stuffed toys, and even a tiny desk and chair.

Douglas, 15, has a room furnished to masculine tastes. Carpeting is olive-green, and he even has a large, comfortable leather chair in which to relax when time permits.

Pamela, 17, enjoys a room done in blue and green tones. The bedspread has blue and green stripes to match the canopy overhead. All important feminine accessories — even a hairdryer — are at hand. All three bedrooms appear much larger than they actually are because of the well-chosen and well-placed furniture.

THE DEN is a combination family room, den, study, all-purpose rumpus room and "relaxation" room. It overlooks the patio through glass doors. The sofa is upholstered in olive and blue, and, again, blue tones predominate. A comfortable leather chair has no label on it; however, one glance discloses that it is reserved for father Gormley. A desk and chair are across the room from the sofa. Built-in closets and cupboards are on either side of the window (across from the patio.) Draperies are soft white with blue trim above at the valance line. Accessories include such treasures as an original painting by Bruce Hill — three dimensional, in shades of blue and green.

The Gormley home is living proof of what can be done to a tract home to make it appear custom designed throughout. It is a home that glows with personality and color.

Tantalizing Cherry Duckling

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

DELICIOUS roast duckling makes any dinner a special occasion. It's world famous for its elegance and versatility with accompanying foods.

This tantalizing cherry duckling with spicy almond rice is a practical suggestion for Sunday family dinner and is sufficiently elegant for a buffet for guests.

The combination of orange rind and allspice provides a fresh piquancy to the rice and almonds, lending a unique flavor to the cherries. The slivered almonds add a pleasing crunch to the spicy rice.

Depending on the number of guests and their penchant for cherry duckling, a second quartered duckling can be kept in reserve conveniently in the kitchen to replenish the chafing dish on the buffet.

A molded salad, prepared in advance, hot rolls, coffee and a light desert further simplify the preparation and serving of this delightful buffet.

To quarter a duckling, use a sharp knife or poultry shears. First cut lengthwise along the backbone, and then turn the duckling over and cut through the breast bone. Finally, quarter each half of the duckling midway between the wing and leg.

Cherry Duckling With Spicy Almond Rice

1 frozen duckling (4½ to 5 pounds) defrosted and quartered
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1 can (1 pound) pitted red sour cherries in water
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup uncooked rice
¼ cup slivered almonds
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
½ teaspoon allspice

Wash and drain duckling quarters. Sprinkle ½ teaspoon salt evenly over duckling quarters. Brown both sides of quarters in oil, turning as needed to brown evenly. Drain cherries, save juice. Pour ½ cup cherry juice and onion over duckling quarters. Cover; cook slowly until duckling is tender, about 1¼ hours. Remove duckling from pan. Drain off excess fat. Blend cherries and remaining juice, sugar and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; add to pan drippings. Cook stirring constantly until thickened. Cook rice as directed on package. Melt butter or margarine; add almonds and brown lightly. Add cooked rice, orange rind and allspice; mix lightly. Serve duckling on rice and top with sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Roasted Duckling With Cranberry Orange Stuffing

1 frozen duckling (4½ to 5 pounds) defrosted
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped onion
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup cranberries
½ cup sugar
½ cup orange pieces, drained
½ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
4 cups (½-inch) bread cubes
6 to 8 orange slices for garnish, optional
Whole cranberries for garnish, optional
Watercress or parsley for garnish, optional

Wash and drain duckling, dry skin gently with paper toweling. Sprinkle body and neck cavities evenly with ½ teaspoon salt. Saute celery and onion slowly in butter or margarine until tender but not brown. Add cranberries and sugar; cook slowly until skins of cranberries begin to break. Stir in orange pieces, juice and rind. Add bread cubes and remaining ½ teaspoon salt; mix carefully. Stuff duck cavities loosely with stuffing mixture. Skewer neck skin to back. Cover opening of body cavity with aluminum foil and tie legs together loosely. Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F) until meat on drumsticks is tender, about 3 hours. Serve plain or garnish with orange slices, cranberries and watercress or parsley. Yield: 4 servings.

On the Water

With just about everyone on or in the water these days, here are a few hints for protecting your camera from water hazards. Don't leave it lying around the boat. A sudden pitch or roll can send it flying into the scuppers or worse, overboard. Do keep it handy where you can grab it for that sudden picture opportunity. A good way, if you own the boat, is to fasten a suitable plastic or wooden box to the bulkhead or some other convenient spot. With the lid on, it will keep the water out; it can't get loose unless the boat upsets, and it's always at hand.

When taking pictures from a motor boat never rest the camera on any part of the boat if the boat is running.

COIN ROUNDUP

Canada Types

By Maurice M. Gould

A COMPARABLE situation to that which presently exists in American coin collecting has now taken place in Canadian numismatics — the trend toward type collecting.

For many years the U. S. collector simply filled out his board by date and mintmark, and this method brought many millions of new collectors into the field. But each succeeding year witnessed a sharp rise in the prices of all numismatic material, until the point was reached where the average collector could not afford to complete his sets.

A series of coin boards and holders was even issued for dates only, leaving out the mintmarks, but this method, too, has proved costly; the trend naturally veered to type coins.

THERE IS a boom at the present time in U. S. type collecting. Five or six years ago, when I first saw the definite trend toward this field, I predicted that type collecting would be the popular numismatic mainstay of the future.

Sideview Token

We can now observe the same situation developing in Canadian coin collecting. The completion of the regular Canadian series is becoming too costly for the young, average collector, and the natural course is to turn to type collecting. During the next few years, type coins will become more and more popular, with various albums being issued to aid the collector in reaching his goal.

What is a type coin?

This is one coin selected from an entire series, such as a Canadian small cent. The least expensive of each ruler, in the finest condition possible, is used in making a type set. In this way, the rare and scarce dates are avoided.

A type set is both historical and informative, and adequately depicts the history of any nation's coinage.

AS MORE and more of these coins go into permanent collections, they will become increasingly difficult to obtain and will show a regular increase in value. They are the finest potential for a well-rounded investment, as well as the real pleasure of numismatics.

The time to begin your Canadian type set is now! I look for the Canadian type coins to mount steadily in value and, in some cases, shortages will certainly develop.

Of special interest are the coins such as the 1858 20-cent piece; this denomination was issued for a period of only one year, and many have been melted down and mutilated over the years.

Canadian silver dollars, by types, have already become quite popular, and the demand has been strong for this entire series.

It will be necessary to settle for coins which are not in uncirculated condition in the Victoria series, because they are becoming more and more difficult to obtain.

ONE PHASE which should not be overlooked is the collecting of coins of the provinces. For example, only one coin was issued for Prince Edward Island, the 1-cent piece of 1871. Four hundred thousand were struck, and while this coin is easily obtained in ordinary condition, it is scarce in top condition. Foreign type collectors of the world greatly value this coin.

The same applies to the coins of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

A collection of type Canadian Tokens is both historical and unusual. The "Sideview Token" of the Bank of Montreal, issued in 1938 and 1839, is one of the most sought-after tokens in Canadian collecting, and comes in the half-penny and penny denominations.

Even the collectors of the 1890s were always looking for these desirable pieces.

TO ORDER the "Coins of Special Value" booklet, send 50 cents with name and address to Coin Roundup, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. Allow three weeks for delivery.

BOOK REVIEWS

Californians and Poet Frost

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

BOOKS about Robert Frost will be legion. When the big parade to the publishers' presses begins, in its ranks will be found volumes ponderously pedantic, dolorously didactic, and there will be thoughtful works of scholarship with probing insights into Frost's poetic craft. There will be boring books and exciting ones.

Louis Mertins' "ROBERT FROST: LIFE AND TALKS — WALKING" (University of Oklahoma Press, $7.50) is the first of the exciting ones. It will be a gold mine for all future writers on Frost, and for all who have loved Frost's poetry. It is so obviously a labor of love that it infects the reader with the same emotion. To paraphrase the classic movie plot, it is a case of boy (or rather young man) seeks autograph, boy wins autograph, and boy, at the same time, wins a lifelong precious friendship.

That friendship began in 1932 when Mertins, then living in Long Beach, sent one of his poems to Frost — object, the great poet's autograph. Frost, visiting his son in Southern California, gave not only the autograph, but "an immediate kinship," which was to last to the end of Frost's life. In the 30 years the book records, Frost revealed much of himself. Mertins and his wife visited the poet frequently, in Monrovia, in Boston, Hanover, N.H., and at Amherst. On Frost's visits to California (it will come as a surprise to many that this is his native state) he stayed with the Mertins.

What manner of man was Frost? There were so many facets to this surprising man, and there are so many facets in the way in which Frost revealed himself to the Mertins! In a review such as this we can only flash a handful of nuggets from the gold mine presented us by Mertins.

"Frost loved to talk, and he loved to walk, and he was always happy when he could combine the two. He often mentioned the term 'Talks-walking' . . . Those who knew and understood the poet will agree that his 'Talks-walking' with those he called his friends stand alongside the recorded conversations between Plato and Aristotle." Hardly that, but one can pardon the exaggeration engendered by Frostian enrapture, and agree that Frost's "thinking aloud" will captivate generations of readers.

Frost's love of the land, of the trees, of the flowers, of all nature lead his great friend Mertins to say: "In an age when the classics were familiar, Robert would have been likened to Pan. He was of the very essence of the Arcadian deity-Pan truly with us, everywhere and forever . . . I never talked with him without my heart likening him to the god of the woods and the fields . . . Lovers of trees, lovers of the land—Pan he is and will be."

Of Frost and religion: "There never seems to have been any criticism of his nonattendance at church. The undeniable goodness of the man seems to have disarmed completely whatever critic might have excoriated him for this matter of default in things spiritual. To Frost, religion was not a matter of some creed 'made to order' but a vast, elemental possession of the human soul."

Ivory tower poet? Not the Frost, who teaching at Methuen, Mass., tackled the problem of some "toughies" in class. "They were a pretty savage gang . . . I remember one day I started to punish one of them. He turned on me with an open knife in his hand. I was pretty rugged and soon had the knife." A superior asked if Frost wanted the boy sent to reform school. "I didn't want to spoil the boy's whole future and I said so."

Humor, says Mertins, "was always a staple literature of the poet's idle hours." "Some of Mark (Twain) is as funny as anything ever written," he told Mertins, "especially I have in mind the first half of Connecticut Yankee. That's the sort of fun-making that makes you fall out of your chair."

This was a man of exquisite poetic beauty and at the same time of Yankee down-to-earthness. Before one has, with regret, laid down the book, one inevitable comparison looms up, one "twin" to Frost presents himself — Thoreau. And as Louis Mertins puts it: "Henry Thoreau and Robert Frost . . . both were reincarnate Gracco-Romans who might have written, the earlier, "Walden Pond," the latter, "North of Boston," "on papyrus a century or two before Christ. Here were two men of today—their day—writing for the many men of tomorrow — any tomorrow."

A TITLE LIKE "THE MULE ON THE MINARET" (Farrar, Straus, $6.95) is worth half the battle to any writer. Alex Waugh's tale of intrigue, his first novel in six years (a long wait for a prolific writer) lives up to the title's promise.

There were many men War I, still very young, with their skins intact, and for whom there seemed to be no place in World War II. Noel Reid was seemingly one of them. But the British army sent the history professor to Beirut. Back in England there are a wife and a couple of children, to whom he has been the soul of devotion. In Beirut he is caught up not only in spying and counterspying, but in the web of beauteous (of course) Diana Challis.

Oxford graduate Nigel Farrar is there, too, engaged in forcing Levantines to spy for Britain. He loves Annette, a rich and (of course) lovely Lebanese.

Then too there are Eve, young English girl, breaking from a background of conservatism; the young Turkish student Aziz; the old army pro Johnson, whose tragedy is that he sees no place for himself in civilian postwar England. There are these and many more emotional casualties of the war, but all play their parts, big and little, in winning the war in the Middle East for the Allies. And speaking of old pros, Alec Waugh retains his standing in the best sense of the expression.

Whence the title? An Arabian proverb says "A man who takes his mule to the top of a minaret must bring it down himself."

THE SUCCESS of Isabelle P. Buckley's four schools in Los Angeles attests convincingly to her philosophy of earliest possible training of children through the old-fashioned theories of firm discipline and training in routine, responsibility and concentration.

Mrs. Buckley's second book on her teaching methods, "COLLEGE BEGINS AT TWO" (Whiteside - Morrow, $4) refutes many concepts of progressive education. She believes that although all children are different, all should be taught phonics in reading and, too, how to think, rather that what.

For parents, "indulgence is out, discipline is in," and a controlled routine of courtesy, good habits, duties and religious faith must be established in the home so teachers can teach in the classroom.

The book includes a commentary on the school curriculum and a subject-by-subject rundown.

Recipe of the Week

SOMETHING different in a pie is this week's prize-winner in the recipe contest, winning $5 for Mrs. Porter Poston, 430 E. 31st St., Wilmington, Calif. The recipe:

Autumn Frozen Praline Pie

1 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
¼ cup light corn syrup
½ cup margarine
½ cup dark brown sugar (packed)
½ cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 cup milk or half and half

Blend cream cheese and corn syrup until smooth. Combine margarine, sugar and chopped nuts in a pan, bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Gradually add to the cream mixture and stir in the milk. Pour into the short-bread crust and garnish with pecan halves and freeze.

Shortbread Crust

1 cup all purpose flour — 1 egg
1 tblsp. sugar — ¼ cup margarine

Combine flour and sugar and cut in margarine, add and mix well. Press onto the bottom and sides of an 8 inch layer pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 20 minutes. Cool.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipe along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

If you serve a dish that friends rave about, submit the recipe to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine. It may win a $5 "Recipe of the Week" prize.

HOW BUSH PICKERS COLLECT CHRISTMAS GREENERY

By Karen Smith

THE HOLIDAY season is "bustin'" with greenery used for Christmas decoration, and especially for floral arrangements that make up some of the loveliest gifts for milady.

The language of greenery was much in use among the early Greeks and Romans, who represented the important events in their lives with plants. The olive branch symbolized peace; the bay was the poet's crown; the oak was the patriot's crown. But probably the bush pickers who harvest greenery for Christmas arrangements don't think of these things. And many have never even seen the blending of greenery into floral arrangements to give the fresh, natural look. To most, collecting plants is a job that assures them of a little income when it is most needed.

THERE ARE both large and small companies that hire bush pickers to go into several designated areas on the Pacific Coast owned by private landowners such as lumber companies and by the U.S. Forest Service. Some companies conduct classes in cutting techniques, as plants are not to be pulled up by the roots or needlessly harmed in any way.

Bush pickers include men, women, and children. They must be hardy people who are not afraid to go into dense woods on dim trails that are tangled and often wet. Some families work together, but not a few rugged individualists travel alone with packs and sacks. The greenery, which includes sword fern, salal, huckleberry, Monterey and beach pine, pepperwood, cascara bark, redwood boughs among other items, is transported by trucks and cars to be weighed in where shipments are packed.

THERE ARE, of course, persons other than regularly employed bush pickers who collect various plant parts for use at Christmas time. For example, at the nonprofit, nonsectarian Boys Republic in Chino, the youngsters make Christmas wreaths for sale to keep the farm-school going. All during the year, they go on field trips to collect hard pods from such plants as the jacaranda, flowering eucalyptus, Italian cypress, etc. These are dried, drilled, wired, then stored away until material from companies employing bush pickers is available.

Science for You

By Bob Brown

PROBLEM: Surface tension.

NEEDED: Two toothpicks, a bowl of water and a small piece of soap.

DO THIS: Place the toothpicks side by side on the still water surface and they tend to move together. Touch the soap to the water between them, and the toothpicks move apart.

HERE'S WHY: The surface of the water acts like a very thin rubber sheet. This is called surface tension. Soap and many other substances will reduce the surface tension. If the soap is placed between the toothpicks the surface tension there is reduced, allowing the greater surface tension effect on the outside of the toothpicks to pull them farther apart.

Two collections of these experiments are available under the titles "Science Circus" and "Science Circus No. 2." They may be seen in libraries or bought at bookstores or from the author.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Respiratory Aid

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

AN EXPERIMENTAL vaccine against a serious respiratory disease in young adults and children has shown promise in its first human trials.

The vaccine protects against primary atypical pneumonia, once known as "virus pneumoniae. This disease is caused by a virus-like microbe, Mycoplasma pneumonia. This germ accounts for 10 to 50% of pneumonia cases among college students, military recruits and prisoners. It also has been linked to throat and ear infections.

The new vaccine was well tolerated in preliminary studies among 36 human volunteers, according to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association. It produced a significant rise in antibody level in 25 to 30 volunteers (83%). (Antibodies are disease-fighting molecules.)

A BRIEF program of regular, graduated exercises is beneficial in the treatment of boys suffering from moderate to severe asthma.

Doctors, reporting in Pediatrics, say the physical fitness program consists of callsthenics, relays and games, and tumbling.

Mothers of the boys say that there has been a marked reduction in the number and severity of asthmatic attacks and that emotional upsets have decreased significantly.

EXPOSURE of males to radar may play a role in appearance of mongolism in their offspring, new research indicates.

Mongolism is a congenital disorder marked by mental deficiency.

A four-year study of 216 Baltimore families turned up the puzzling finding. Each of the families has a mongoloid child.

When these families were contrasted with a group with no mongoloid children, researchers found more radar exposure to the fathers of the mongols. The fathers were exposed to this type of microwave radiation during military service.

The research was conducted at Johns Hopkins University and reported to a meeting of the American Public Health Association.

TWO FRENCH surgeons warn of the subtle aftereffects of decompression sickness.

Amateur skindivers, they say, should be made aware of the long-term dangers that may stem from a single faulty decompression that leads to an episode of the bends.

Crippling joint diseases, affecting the shoulder and hips, may appear years later. And such disease is totally unresponsive to treatment.

Bone changes similar to those seen in severe degenerative joint disease affecting two or more joints may not show up for four to five years, the surgeons say.

At the first hint of diving injury, divers should give up deep descents, the doctors say in a report in Medical World News.

TWO SEPARATE studies show that administration of gamma globulin (a blood fraction) at time of surgery does not protect against possible subsequent development of serum hepatitis.

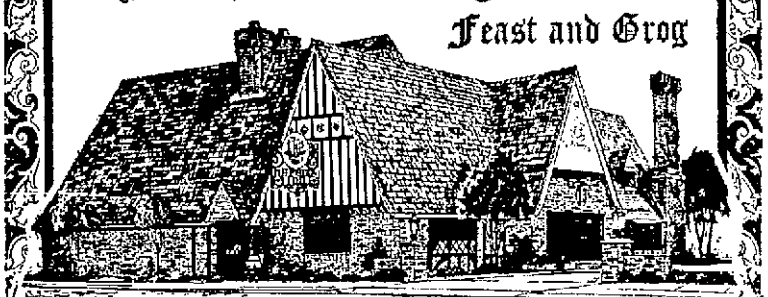

Serum hepatitis is liver inflammation stemming from virus-contaminated blood used for blood transfusion. It had been thought that gamma globulin, rich in antibodies, would thwart the hepatitis organism.

'Obediently Yours'

By Eleanor Avery Price

SOUTHERN California Dog Obedience Council presents its Top Dog show today at Northridge Park, Reseda Blvd. south of Devonshire, Northridge. The cream of well trained dogs from many clubs will be exhibited in what, if you see it, might be the turning point in your relationship with your own dog. You just won't want to stand around and wish your dog was better behaved and less of a nitwit. You'll see it is possible to have him obey you and still be happy and still love you.

Pictured today is a Shetland sheep dog, American and Mexican Ch. Title Page C.D.X., owned by Lydon and Clare Lippincott, members of Orange Empire Dog Club and Club Canofil de Baja California. Your dog may not win such impressive titles, but he can be a better dog. If you are healthy or someone in your family is active, then get the pet into an obedience class, outdoors among people who want to be your friends.

AND DON'T worry about your dog being too old. If he is well and peppy, he can still learn. The late Blanche Saunders, known as Miss Obedience, told the story of Jo, a Dalmatian that never had a lesson until age 10 years. By age 11, the dog completed Utility Dog Tracker, making her the third dog in obedience history to earn this advanced degree in a year's time. And the owners had never before trained a dog!

Breeds of large dogs can go into obedience classes by age six months. Shy dogs and biters need help even before that age, otherwise they may be difficult to handle when they finally do get put into a class.

In a novice class, your dog will learn to heel on leash (turn, stop, slow, go faster, etc.), stand for examination, heel off leash, come when called, do the long sit of one minute, and the long down of three minutes.

IN AN OPEN class, the dog learns to heel free, drop on recall, retrieve on flat, retrieve over a high jump, do a broad jump, do a long sit of three minutes with handler out of sight, and a long down of five minutes with handler out of sight. The high jump is the heighth of the dog at his withers to a maximum of 72 inches. (Some breeds must go over several murdles.)

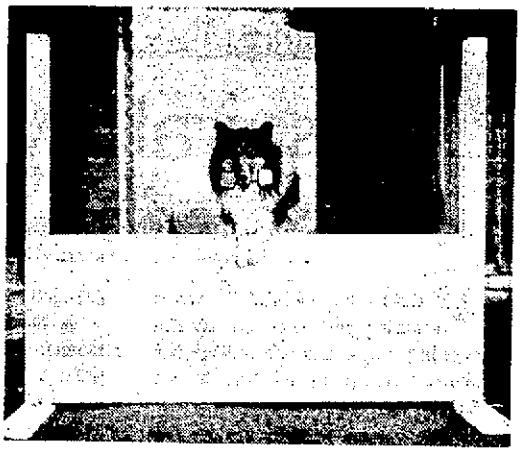

In a utility class, the dog learns scent discrimination on wood, leather, and metal. He learns to seek back to find certain articles. He learns to obey hand rather than voice signals. He follows through in directed jumping. And he learns to stand for group examination with his handler a way at a distance.

Tracking is more complicated, requires plenty of room. The dog learns to locate humans lost in the woods, search out and find objects dropped along the trail and even follow the scent of a criminal.

JEWEL CITY Cat Club has a show today at Glendale National Guard Armory; dog show at Tulare County Fairgrounds.

Valley Empire Cat Fanciers will have a show December 4 and 5 at Del Webb Town House, Fresno.

CALIFORNIA Turtle and Tortoise Club is trying to get a Long Beach chapter started. Anyone interested may telephone Mrs. Thelma Hyatt, HArrison 9 5163. Such a branch would meet with other chapters at semiannual get-togethers and at a show in April.

Christmas Place Cards

By Ruth C. Ikerman

IF YOU have need for place cards at the holiday season, here are simple ideas which call for a minimum of time and material, and which make attractive seasonal souvenirs.

Buy small candy Santa Claus figures, wrapped in foil. These come in several colors, and the red, gold, silver, green, make a good assortment for your table. Cut 3x5 manila cards in half, and paste the small Santa onto the card. He lies down flat, as if resting from his labors, and does not stand up unless you want to prop the card against a glass. With red crayon write the name of the guest and preface it with "Merry Christmas."

Use another white card as the basis for inserting plastic candy canes in red and white. Cut two small slits, one near the top and the other near the bottom of the card, and then insert the cane down through the top one and up from the bottom slit, so it will rest flat on the card. Or attach a tiny but real candy cane by means of transparent tape.

A BRANCH of plastic poinsettias can be cut into individual blossoms and one fastened to each place card. Buy a strand of plastic holly and cut it in inch long pieces, using each fragment at the top of the place card, instead of at the side as customary.

Inexpensive white toy birds with red beaks make conversational pieces for place cards at a family dinner including children. Write the name on a white card and tie it with a golden cord around the bird's neck.

Start with a plain graham cracker and turn it into a package by writing the name of the child across this with a frosting tube. Or just frost the cracker and sprinkle onto it bright candies, using cinnamon red hots to make the initial of the child.

REMEMBER to make good use of pens which write in gold or silver. There is something magic about seeing a name in a treasured color, and "lucky pennies" can be attached to such cards.

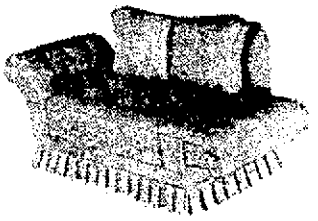

Never forget the easy place cards available in an average sheet of gift wrapping paper. With scissors cut out the snowmen, angels or ice skating children. Write names of the guests in contrasting ink across the bodies of the figures, or make tiny squares of paper, and write the names in contrasting crayons and paste on the cut-outs.

Individual place cards can be fun to make, and assure the family holiday guests of a warm welcome.

Happy Snow Family

Marianna Gaba poses with happy members of a Snow Family that will brighten yule scenes.

By Steve Ellingson

NO MATTER whether we live in the south, or the north, snow is an integral part of Christmas. Otherwise, how could Santa get around with his sleigh? Since snow is such an important part of Christmas and since everyone wants to achieve a beautiful holiday setting in their yard, we created the Snow Family pictured with actress Marianne Gaba. No matter what the temperature, here is a family that will last, not only for days or weeks, but for season after season. A more cheerful, gay and lighthearted family you never did see. They'll add a dazzling touch to your yard and boost the holiday spirits of your whole neighborhood.

Father Snow is more than five feet tall, and of course, Mother Snow, the two youngsters and dog are all in proportion. Each is printed in bright and waterproof colors. Like billboards, they will withstand severe outdoor weather and last for many seasons. You may place them on your roof as well as in your yard. Because of their light colors, they show up well at night time when lights are turned on them.

MAKING THE Snow Family is certainly easy. All you need to do is glue the large pictures to plywood, then saw them out. After that they are ready to go on display. Complete directions come with each set.

To obtain the Snow Family pictures No. C-6 send $5 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellington, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

PRACTICE AT 5 A.M.

Diligence Pays Off!

By Scott Cory

A MYSTERIOUS quest for the chalice of knowledge jerks Harold Stokes out of bed at a bleak 5 a.m. and keeps him going strong until late in the night. Between school and music, scouting and church, this light, soft spoken youth has little time to waste.

Now a Jordan High School graduate, Harold is beginning to reap the benefits of his nonstop way of life. He was honored by being the only student in his school's 30-year history to achieve 800 on the college entrance exam (CEEB) — a perfect score. He also became the only student from the city of Long Beach to rank among the top 25 money winners in the 51st Annual High School Chemistry Contest. With 717 top students from 102 Southern California high schools participating, the honor was gratifying.

THESE AND many other accomplishments would not have been possible without his years of preparation. While other boys were playing with tin soldiers and toy cars, Harold was playing with numbers and words. Today he studies advanced math books just for relaxation.

As Harold began climbing the ladder of grades his teachers recognized his enthusiasm and always urged him on toward higher goals. He was picked the outstanding citizen of the 7th grade, and the top science student of the 9th. A full list of his awards and honors would read like the lengthy pedigree of a true champion.

Faced with the hustle of city life and the temptations of youth, he has not always found it easy to keep up his rigid schedule. He had to force himself out of bed long before sunup for a lonely hour of piano practicing. The times are not rare when he has caught himself dozing between the more slothful notes. A special softening pedal was installed to keep the music from disturbing his sleeping family.

From 6:30 to 7:30 he attended a religious class at his church, and then began school at 8. His interests ranged through science, mathematics, language, and history, where his straight A average usually kept him a jump ahead of the rest of the students. Harold seemed to be filled with an unquenchable thirst for chemical knowledge.

Harold Stokes starts his day off at 5 a. m. with a lonely hour of practice at the piano.

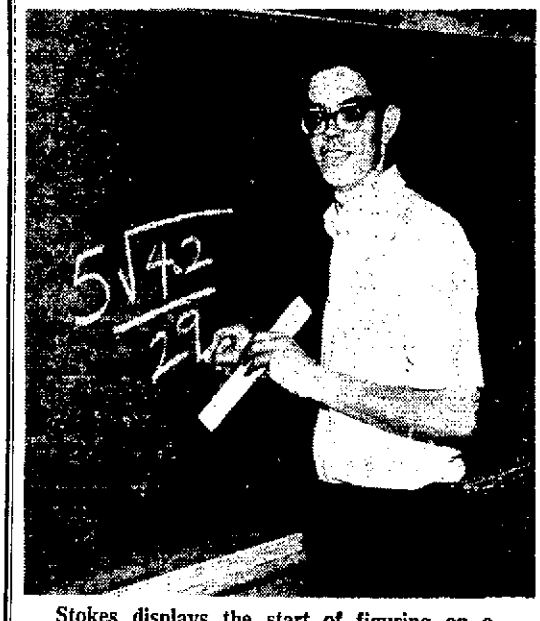

DURING HIS senior year he was hired by the school as a paid teacher's assistant in chemistry. Most kids took a lunch sack to school, but not Harold — he took one home; a brown lunch bag, bulging with bottles of residue from the day's work; given to him by his teacher to continue his experiments at home. He proved, to his family's dismay, that it does not always take a match to shoot off fireworks. He did it with one drop of water and a mixture of powdered chemicals, in the middle of the floor.

Harold usually returned to his music after school, and as if nimble fingers weren't enough, he developed fancy foot work playing the organ for an hour each day. He has starred in two solo piano recitals.

Just in case Harold might have had a little slack time, he took up scouting. He's a Life Scout now, and also serves as assistant scout master in Troop 56.

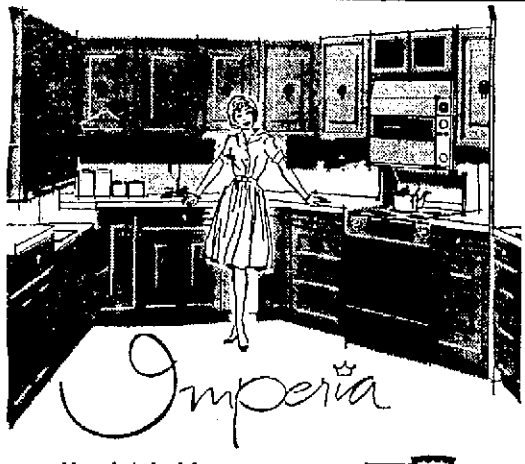

And with future years now merging with the present, he knows that his long hours of hard work and study have not been in vain. He has competed in exam after exam, and always scored among the top. Harold was tested in physics competition with top students from all over Southern California and ranked 30th. As a result he became eligible for scholarships from 9 different colleges, including Caltech.

Harold received many cash prizes and numerous scholarships, but accepted tuitions and fees from Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. Whatever changes university life makes in his routine, it is certain that the self discipline already learned will hold him to a schedule of continued improvement.

Stokes displays the start of figuring on a problem such as brought him perfect score.

Beauty and Fun

Each autumn the fruits of the gourd vines color in bright yellows, oranges, creams and greens. The little gourds are widely used for ornamental purposes, heaped in bowls or used in charm strings together with the seed pods of many other plants.

Gourds also may be used for bird houses, dippers or darning eggs. Or, for fun, may be made into birds, as in the photo above, or painted with faces. Lettered gourds are used as place markers at the table. Plan to plant gourd seeds next spring for fall use.

YOUR GARDEN

Irish Heath Brightens Winter

By Joe Littlefield

DABOECIA cantabrica or "Irish Heath," a native of Western Europe, is a low growing evergreen shrub with white or pinkish-purple blossoms that look like lily of the valley flowers. The heather-like foliage is shiny rich green, with gray underside. The happy news about this shrub is that it grows to about two feet, in sun or partial shade, blooms for about six months, starting in late May or June and continues on through October. The petite look of the shrub gives the appearance of being a perennial plant whereas it is a hardwood shrub and it stands cold down to 10 degrees above zero.

Daboecia, like the heathers, needs a peaty soil to grow and thrive. Gardeners must mix half of pre-moistened sphagnum type peat moss with half of the soil that was dug to make hole for the shrub, also same type of peat-soil mixture if desired as pot or tub specimen plant for patio or porch.

GARDENERS may cut the white Irish heath flowers for small flower arrangements indoors, spraying the blossoms with lily of valley perfume.

Guests, familiar with lily of valley fragrance, temporarily may be fooled by the perfumed blooms.

The heathers are desirable winter blooming shrubs with small foliage like the daboecia, but leafage is dull green color, the flowers very small but in dense masses, in colors of pink or rose. They, too, need the peat-soil mixture to grow well.

Recently, while at a garden clinic at a nursery, I met M. R. Bapple of Rialto, retired from the plastics manufacturing business, who adds his helpful share to Christmas festivities.

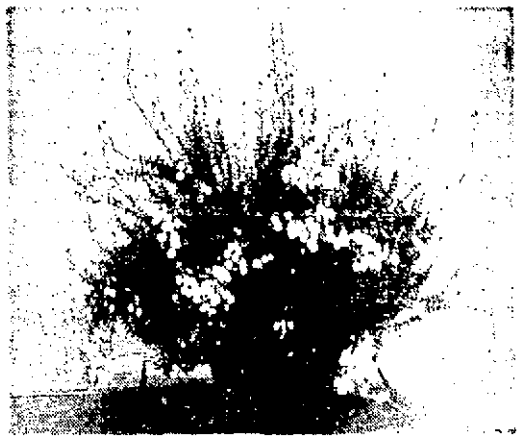

HE FOUND his fixed retirement income wasn't sufficient due to land taxes continually rising on his acreage, so he and Mrs. Bapple decided to supplement their income by developing a Christmas tree farm!

He purchased young sequoia saplings from forest nurseries, planted and grew them on to saleable size, with Mrs. Bapple's assistance. They have been growing the trees for five years, grow 5,000 annually which they sell.

Christmas tree shoppers, (visitors welcome, too) for live Christmas trees come in family groups from various parts of Southern California, look over the growing trees, take bamboo stakes that have measurements on them like yard sticks do, measure the size of trees they want, estimate their cost per foot, tag them, and pay a deposit on them.

THE BAPPLES continue to grow them, hose the foliage to wash off dust and smog. The customers come back a few days before Christmas, pay the balance due on the trees, cut them and take them home. The larger trunk trees are cut with Bapple's power saw. The largest sequoia he has sold was a 14-footer to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana. The tree stumps grow new trees, and Bapple has sold as many as three re-grown trees from the same stump.

Purchasing trees extends their useful life and they are more fireproof because they are much greener.

Irish Heath bears blossoms similar to lily of the valley. It is hardy in the sun or cold.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply in this column.

MISS RULE: Please give brief data on NASH—F.N., Downey.

NASH is qualified as being based on the phrase "Atten-Ashe" describing the ancestor's home "at the ash-tree" in 12th century Britain. Atten-Ashe was converted to Atnash, then to Nash in the 1300s. William Atten Nash is recorded in Writs of Parliament at that time. The Nash armorial shield is blue, emblazoned with three silver ravens.

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on VITALE and VITELLI — M.V., Westminster: V.V., Long Beach.

VITALE, an Italian name of great antiquity, developed from the Latin word "Vitalis" describing the ancestor as "man with great vitality." The Vitale armorial shield from Milan, Italy has a black eagle on a gold background. VITELLI, although similar in spelling, is from the baptismal name Davide (David in English) meaning "beloved." Davide was altered to the nickname Vide, then Videlli and Vitelli, using the suffix "-elli" for "young or little." The Vitelli shield has two black calves one above the other on a gold backing.

MISS RULE: Would you give data on CARON—J.C., Garden Grove.

CARON, a famous French surname, developed from the Roman Latin word "Cara," which became the French "Car-on," meaning young, well-liked one. An alternate origin, the Latin "Caroncula" described "Worldly one." There are 15 coats-of-arms for Caron. The basic shield, granted as early as 1497, has three gold coins on a blue background; across the top is a gold stripe.

MISS RULE: Please explain RUCKER—G.R., Long Beach.

RUCKER had its inception in Germany as the 13th century hero - warrior name Ruck - hardt translated as "powerful one with a raven's wisdom." The raven was symbolic in medieval times, of great knowledge and wisdom. The Rucker shield is red, decorated with a double-headed silver eagle.

MISS RULE: Would you analyze VAN SITTART — H.M., Long Beach.

VAN SITTART of Holland, formerly Van Sittert, combines "Van," meaning "descended from," with "Sitt-Hart," signifying "victorious, powerful one." The Van Sittert armorial shield is silver, decorated with two horses and six bird wings.

MISS RULE: Would appreciate data on MAYFIELD — T.M., O.M., H.M., Long Beach.

MAYFIELD of England began in the 1200s as "Maegfelde," deciphered as "Warrior's field or property." The Mayfield family armorial shield is red, emblazoned with an ermine cross.

MISS RULE: May we have the background on KISSLING, KISSLER, KISSINGER — B.T., Westminster; A.K., D.K., Long Beach.

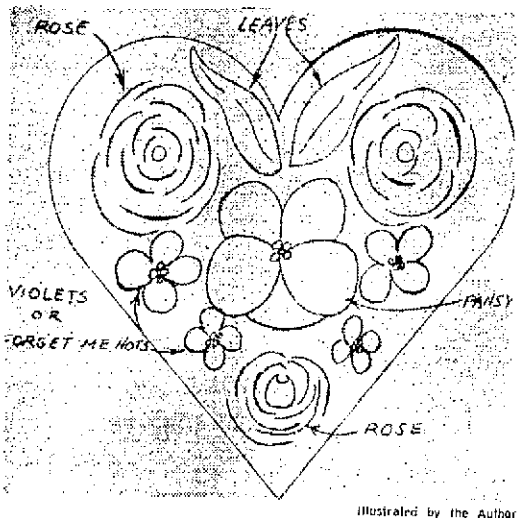

KISSLING was conceived in Germany as "Giesel-Ing" deciphered as "wand bearer's descendant." KISSLER, formerly "Giesel-Her" meant "wand-bearing warrior," while KISSINGER denoted "son of Kissler." "Giesel" or "wand bearer" represented a ruling personage who held a wand of authority. The Kissling armorial shield from Nurnberg is silver, decorated in the center with a green rosebush bearing three red flowers, growing out of a green mound.

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on EVANS—D.E., R.E., Long Beach; W.U. Compton.

EVANS is recorded as the ancient Welsh source word "Ieuanc" meaning "young man." Evans has been recorded in Montgomeryshire, Wales, since the 11th century. The family founder was Llewellyn Aurdorchog, Lord of Yale. The Evans coat-of-arms has a rampant gold lion centered on a blue shield. American descendants include Samuel, Abiather and Benoni Evans, of Connecticut who all served in the Battle of Lexington, 1775, at the start of our Revolutionary War.

Candy flowers in a heart-shaped box make a gift.

By V. Mynock

IF THE flowers on the birthday cake are too pretty to eat — don't!

The candy flowers are sometimes hard, such as the market-shelf variety, but the ones Aunt Suzie makes are simply out of this world in varied shapes and hues.

Making a collection of these dainty confections can be fun if they're air dried till hard and placed side by side in a heart shaped box you may have saved. Cover with transparent cellophane or plastic wrap to keep out dust and most important, moisture. Secure behind with Scotch tape. Stand up on the china cupboard shelf or mantle.

SOME FROZEN cakes come in a metal pan with a transparent cover. These pans may be used by wadding colored or plain tissue paper in the bottom to bring flowers up even with the plastic lid so they'll stay in place.

Aluminum pans for frozen pies may also be used, again using the transparent wrap as a window. Two holes may be punched in the bottom edge for inserting a ribbon hanger and hung on the wall. Several together make a colorful display.

What a sweet garden to present to an appreciative friend or relative! No watering required.

MOST OF the fortune cookies opened by guests at the Leilani restaurant, 5236 E. Second St., Long Beach, contain innocuous little messages, such as "You will embark on an interesting trip" or "Choose your friends carefully."

When I dropped in one evening recently, I was served a cookie containing two messages. One said "Invest your funds wisely," while the other offered this this startling declaration: Soviet Russia is run by rat finks."

DON MAY

Fortune Cookie Message?

The second message, implying that the cookies had been baked by Chinese involved in the ideological war with Russia, was a plant, of course. It had been inserted by the Leilani's owner, Don May, a lively host who likes to amuse his friends with intriguing innovations. Some of his original ideas are quite delectable, such as the Chinese noodles used as croutons in his American salads and the tiny Chinese pea pods served with his teriyaki steaks.

Don is also famed in Belmont Shore for the vast quantities and varieties of Cantonese specialties served with his Celestial Dinner ($9 for two persons). This dinner begins with pu-pu, the term for a de luxe collection of appetizers. Included are Hawaiian barbecued ribs, barbecued tenderloin, ru maki, egg roll, shrimp, sui mai, ha gao and a fine soup. Next comes diced breast of chicken cooked with mushrooms, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts and almonds; barbecued pork with Chinese peas and chicken livers; pineapple boneless duck with wonderful Mandarin sauce; fried rice, almond cakes and aromatic imported tea.

The Leilani, tropical in decor, also has family style Cantonese dinners, priced from $5 for two persons, and complete American dinners from $2.75.

SUNDAY TREAT—Nothing in the entire gourmet scheme of things seems to blend more perfectly than chicken and wine. That's one of the reasons why the coq au vin rouge (chicken cooked in red wine) is such an exquisite treat the way it's prepared at Alfred Restaurant, 700 E. 45th St. near Atlantic Avenue in Long Beach. It's served for $3.75 daily and Sunday on a table d' hote dinner including superb hors d' oeuvres, soup or salad, potato and beverage. Many other select continental and American entrees are also featured.

Q. I would like to know why the college professors and intellectuals who voted en masse for Lyndon Johnson feel so little warmth for him.—Emily Smith, Evanston, Ill.

A. In many academic and intellectual circles Johnson is regarded as basically a political creature, clever and calculating but undereducated and undercultured, ruthless rather than reflective, imperious by nature rather than inquiring, a manipulator rather than a manager, a resourceful politician without root convictions. This assessment may be entirely wrong, but the President as yet has been unable to wipe clean from the mirror of public opinion his image as a wheeler-dealer. In view of his Presidential accomplishments to date, however, history no doubt will treat him kinder than many of his intellectual contemporaries.

Q. The Charles Chaplin-Sophia Loren movie, has it started yet?—George Goldstein, San Jose, Calif.

A. Starts in London in January.

Q. Who is tightest with a nickel—Sean Connery, Gene Kelly, or Fred MacMurray? Is it true that none of these actors will pick up a check?—L. R., Hempstead, N.Y.

A. All three are notoriously thrifty men, but understandably so. Each comes from a family where there was very little money. Each on occasion has been known to pick up a check.

Q. Joseph P. Kennedy is a multimillionaire. He owns the Merchandise Mart in Chicago and heaven knows what else. Admittedly Francis X. Morrissey has been of great political help to the Kennedy boys. Why doesn't Joseph P. Kennedy show his gratitude by placing Morrissey on the family payroll just as he's done with several of his sons-in-laws? Why embarrass Sen. Ted Kennedy by having him support Morrissey for a federal judgeship when truthfully there are such large doubts as to Morrissey's qualifications? The old man couldn't get Jack Kennedy to nominate Morrissey. Why should he push it off on Ted?—J. M. O'M., Boston, Mass.

A. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has sent the challenged nomination back to the Senate Judiciary Committee. It was not thought that Morrissey's nomination would arouse the national interest it did. It may well be that in the Kennedy private interests there is no available position for a lawyer with Morrissey's qualifications. It is highly doubtful whether President Johnson will resubmit Morrissey's nomination to the Senate next year.

Q. Who is the most influential and powerful woman in Soviet Russia? — Clara Miller, Buffalo, N.Y.

A. One possibility: Yekaterina Furtseva, minister of culture.

Q. I read that John Derek will never give Ursula Andress a divorce to marry Jean Paul Belmondo. Why not?—Jan Henreich, Atlantic City, N.J.

A. French actor Jean Paul Belmondo, married, is in no position to marry anyone.

Q. In the Goldwater defeat of 1964 how many Republicans in the House of Representatives lost their seats? —T. Upton, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. At least 38.

Q. Harry Belafonte's wife, white or Negro? Herb Jeffries' wife, Tempest Storm, white or Negro? Walter White's wife, food editor Poppy Cannon, white or Negro?—D. J., Mobile, Ala.

A. All three wives in question are white. Poppy Cannon is White's widow.

Q. Now that Jack Benny no longer has a TV show of his own, what is he doing? — Frank Gershorn, Yonkers, N.Y.

A. He is making personal appearances, filling guest spots on other TV programs.

Q. How does Hollywood feel about the Leslie Caron-Warren Beatty alliance?—Linda Sue Marsh, Greensboro, N.C.

A. There is a belief that Miss Caron, unwise in affairs of the heart, six years older than Beatty, will be unable to make the alliance last.

Q. Is it true that the late President Kennedy would not hire a girl as his secretary until she agreed to give him scalp massages?—Annie Lee Wayne, Detroit, Mich.

A. Not true. His secretaries gave him scalp massages, a practice originally recommended to him by his father. But masseuse abilities did not comprise a requisite for the position of senatorial or Presidential secretary.

Q. Where will Bob Hope take his troupe this Christmas—Santo Domingo or Vietnam?—Vivian Blanco, San Bernardino, Calif.

A. Vietnam.

Q. In the battle of Dien Bien Phu in which the Viet Minh, the Communists, defeated the French, weren't the French army generals guilty of great stupidity? Isn't that the truth as to why the French lost in Vietnam?—Arthur Gordon, Troy, N.Y.

A. The stupidity of the French military in 1954 was criminal. Thousands of Frenchmen lost their lives because their officers were incompetent, inefficient, shortsighted, guilty of miserable judgment. In choosing to make a stand at Dien Bien Phu, a few miles from the Laos frontier and close to the Chinese border, General Navarre was guilty of one of the most stupid and costly blunders in the history of modern warfare. Cold or no cold, I've saved all year for Jamaica. Contac® saved the day.

Why take sneezes, sniffles, and a stuffy nose on vacation with you? Take Contac instead.

Just one Contac capsule the morning you leave will help you feel (and look) better all day. Another at bedtime helps you have a peaceful night's sleep. There's good medicine in Contac—over 600 tiny "time pills" to help relieve your cold symptoms. Some work right away—others wait till later. Altogether they keep working for up to 12 hours.

Of course the best thing to do is keep your cold at home. But when something special comes along that you can't bear to miss, you'll be glad you have Contac.

It's at your pharmacy.

THE SPACE RACE FOR PEACE

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

One day recently, when a homeowner on remote Wallops Island, Va., answered a knock on his door, he found a swarthy man standing there with a rug over his arm. In English, the stranger explained that he had been admiring the homeowner's front lawn. It had just the right Eastern exposure, the man said, and he would like to use it to face Mecca and make Moslem devotions five times a day.

The Virginian's initial reaction was one of shock, but when he heard the man's explanation, he quickly granted the unusual request. The stranger was a Pakistani scientist from the Wallops Island rocket-launching site. He was working on a joint U.S.-Pakistan space research project—one of 70 such co-operative space ventures in which the U.S. is engaged.

The incident dramatized a little-known side of the space race—and of the quest for peace. Today, the headlines go to U.S.-Soviet competition in space and to cold war and hostility in world affairs. Yet in both space and international relations, competition is the exception and co-operation the rule. In the year of the Cuban crisis, for instance, while the U.S. and Russians spent several days calling each other names, more than 600 meetings were held at which the two countries agreed to co-operate.

PREPARING THE BLUEPRINT

Tomorrow, a special White House conference will highlight this movement toward nations working together. As the climax to International Co-operation Year, proclaimed by the United Nations at the suggestion of the late Indian Prime Minister Nehru, committees of prominent Americans from such fields as health, arts, atomic energy and education will report to President Johnson on international co-operation in their specialties in the past ten years and suggest new ways to co-operate in the future. The conference is expected to produce a blueprint to help nations work jointly against the world's problems.

In preparing the blueprint, the conference could well take a leaf from what has been done in space research. More than 150 men and women scientists from all over the world have worked with the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Four international satellites—in which the U.S. has furnished the rocket and handled the launch while the other nation has designed and built the payload—are now in orbit. Fifteen nations have collaborated with NASA in low-altitude "sounding" projects.

Perhaps the most important partnership has been with the Soviet Union. The two nations are exchanging vital weather information obtained from space satellites, also plan to publish a joint review of research in space biology. The U.S. also recently joined with India in a rocket project in Thumba, in the southern part of that nation. After the project was completed, India turned the range over to the UN for use of all members. A U.S.-trained launch team will execute space firings from there—including our own.

PROJECT BEGETS PROJECTS

Co-operation can also beget other co-operation. Recently Argentina completed a rocket range, then asked the U.S. and Brazil to join in space projects. Next the Argentines proposed that all nations along the 75th meridian of longitude—which runs through Montreal, Philadelphia and western South America—join together in weather reporting.

And one unexpected dividend of space co-operation is in the people-to-people field. You see it best at Wallops Island, where scientists from all nations have been adopted by the community. Recently a group of Italians were there 14 months training to launch their San Marco satellite to study air density. They became favorites in the town, addressed civic clubs, played bridge with local residents, gave lessons in Italian. When the satellite was finally launched, everyone in town turned out. They pronounced it a beautiful shot.

Co-operative space study projects among nations, obscured within the complex realm of science, are too little known and appreciated. Yet not only are they adding to our knowledge of the universe, but they are proving again that nations can live and work together in peace and harmony.

HIGHER SPEEDS ARE COMING:

DO 100-MPH HIGHWAYS MAKE SENSE?

by E. D. FALES JR.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

How fast do you want to drive your car? At 65 miles an hour? 80? 90?

It's a question you'd better start thinking about because—like it or not—you may soon be going a whole lot faster. Speed limits recently have leaped from 50 to 60 and 65 in many states. But 20 states already permit 70, and five have recently stamped an okay on 75 miles an hour on certain sections of the new Interstate Highway System.

Now it seems that even this is just a beginning. A committee of state engineers recently voted to make designs available for 80-mph roads—"if any states want them." You may see 80-mph postings on some new Interstates within three years. Some engineers say 90-mile limits may follow within another six or seven years.

Dramatically topping all this is a proposal by a committee of experts for the first American 100-mph highway. To be called the "Century," this road would run nearly 500 miles, from Boston to Washington, D.C. Engineers say it is quite feasible as a means of coping with the "automobile explosion" now beginning to clog Eastern roads. The proposal, drafted in part by the safety experts of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratories at Buffalo, N.Y., is in the hands of the Department of Commerce and of Congress. And the Century is being discussed in Washington as possibly the next step beyond the 41,000-mile Interstate System, which will be completed in 1972.

All this thrust for greater and greater speed comes as a shock to many drivers. I know, because I've been talking to them on the road. A few welcome the idea of speeds from 80 to even 140. The majority are frightened of the idea. An increasing number, I have found, are beginning to hunt out quieter old roads for refuge from the roaring torrent of cars and trucks attracted to the big pikes.

Yet there is something to be said for high speed and high-speed highways, engineers maintain. It's true that as speed rises above 50 mph, the rate of fatal accidents skyrockets—if anything goes wrong. But in designing the fine wide Interstate roads on which little can go wrong, engineers have slashed the death rate far below that on slower roads.

Moreover, a 100-mph highway could be engineered to get rid of such hazards as glare from oncoming headlights and fast lane-changing in roaring traffic that now plague us.

THE CENTURY

On the Century, for instance, you will find:

No jalopies. Right from the start, old worn-out cars will be barred — thus eliminating one great cause of death.

All cars traveling at the same speed. No one will rush up behind you in your lane and pull out, then cut back in. The highway will have one flat speed—minimum and maximum.

No trucks. You'll no longer have to jockey between "moving mountains." And truck drivers will no longer have to swing around you. Instead, trucks will have their own high-speed "Super Freightway"—free of cars.

Here's what driving the Century at 100 will be like—the good and the bad points: You'll enter at a gate and show a special speed license. Age won't be a barrier, but a bad "repeater" accident record will. Your car will get a quick automatic safety test. You'd need a powerful engine, beefed-up brakes and special "speed tires" like those now used on police cars.

OVERRIDE

First you'll find yourself on a "slow road"—speed limit 80. This is for local traffic. Then you'll take a 90-mph ramp to the 100-mph lane. A radio voice "override," interrupting any program you may be hearing, will guide you, tell you when to increase your speed to 100.

Then suddenly you'll be in the full-speed "chute." It will be a roomy lane, wider than today's. There will be flat, easy shoulders, no ditches, culverts, poles —nothing to hit. You won't be in danger of colliding with other cars because you'll all be spaced an equal distance apart.

Small electronic "sensors" in the road will send out a buzz if you get too close to the fellow ahead. And if he slows down—even to 90—warning lights on his car roof will flash, while a buzzer sounds in your car. Thus another great cause of death—the rear-end collision —will be all but eliminated.

Stray animals will be fenced off the road. You'll be warned when to slow for rain or snow. Headlight glare and fog collisions will also be eliminated.

Even if your car should go out of control, special new safety devices, like soft plastic "bushes," will catch and cradle it.

Your great problem? Monotony. For 100-mph driving will be deadly dull. No time to watch scenery. No people, no towns. Every mile will look alike.

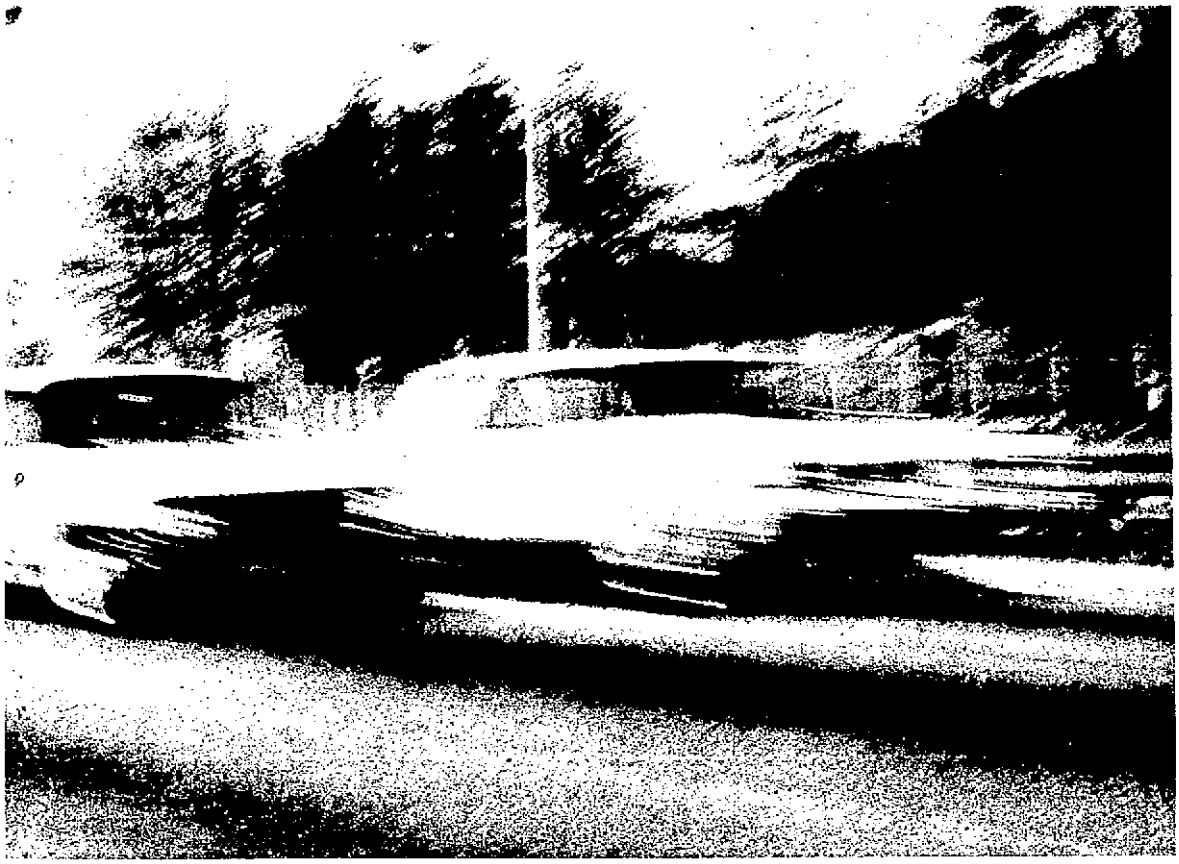

But the super-safe, super-speedy Century is off in the future. Eighty- and 90-mph driving on ordinary highways is just around the next curve. Here is what you should know about it:

The death record on the only U.S. road that now posts an 80-mile limit,

WHAT MEN—

Mrs. Evelyn Showers, Newport News, Va.: "If the tires wouldn't blow out I'd be in favor of it. I like the idea of getting to distant places faster by car instead of airplanes. I'm afraid of traveling by plane."

Going up: Auto speed limits are getting higher on U.S. highways, soon may hit 100 mph. Do American drivers want to go that fast?

the Kansas Turnpike, is horrendous—twice as bad as on the 70-mph Ohio Turnpike and six times as bad as on the 70-mph Maine Turnpike. No one is sure why. One theory is that 70 mph is the point beyond which an older car simply cannot be pushed. A second theory says it's because of tires, which can take a sustained 70 but may stretch and come off the rims at 80. A third blames Kansas's level terrain. Drivers, this theory holds, misjudge distance, causing rear-end collisions. Finally, it's acknowledged that much traffic on the pike goes not 80—but 90 and up.

In spite of this bad record, national safety experts say 80-mph driving isn't that dangerous in one of Detroit's better cars, on a good super-road and in light traffic.

3 "MUSTS"

But 80 mph will call for a special new brand of driving. The keys to this are:

- You must drive "alone" –never in a cluster of cars.
- You must plan far ahead—and never get within "hitting distance" of another car. Some of the nation's top drivers, at speeds over 60, try to surround themselves with a "turnpike cushion": no car closer than a quarter-mile ahead, none alongside and none closer than ten car lengths behind.
- You must drive so you never need brakes. A single hard "panic brake" application at 80 can wreck you.

And fuel consumption will go up sharply in 80-mph driving. If a 1000-mile trip today costs you $17 for gas, the same trip at 80 may cost $35. And at 100 miles an hour you'll shell out $50 or more.

What effect will "speed-driving" have on you psychologically? Very little. On 80-mph roads you may get something called "vision pulsing" at night — the regular passing of guard-rail posts. But even that may be eliminated by use of irregularly spaced posts. Your main problem may be slowing down. After a long run above 80, psychologists recommend coffee—or a stop for "deconditioning"—before you drive on ordinary roads again.

But does anyone really want to go that fast at all? Where is rising speed getting us?

Columbia University's eminent traffic psychologist, Dr. James Adams, says it's making us tense, appeals to what he calls the "high-tension" type. Dr. Adams is frankly against it. For most of us, he says, 70 is the limit of safe driving.

And yet other psychologists and engineers disagree. Some say driving at 80 and above, which seems so dangerous, will one day be as easy as driving at 60 today. A few years ago a lot of people thought we'd never be driving as fast as a "mile a minute."

But as cars change, new controls develop and roads improve, some say speeds will always increase. "It's man's nature to go faster and faster," says one engineer. New York University's Prof. W. J. Toth sums up: "This generation seems to be setting a top speed of 70-75. But the next generation will go higher. It seems inevitable." CONTINUED ON PAGE 9

AND WOMEN—SAY ABOUT TRAVELING 100 MILES AN HOUR

Woody Bob, Hershey, Pa.: "Everybody is going 70-75 miles an hour half the time today. Yes, I'd go faster, even up to 140 mph in a car that would do it safely. But I wouldn't go fast through scenic country."

Mrs. Lillian Robbins, New York City: "I've visited Europe, where there are no speed limits, and the accident rates over there are absolutely fantastic. I'm against anything that permits people to go faster."

Patrick T. Clark, Charlotte, N.C.: "I hope we don't go any faster. A 60-65 mile an hour limit is fine, just fine. Anything over that and I think people start to lose control; and at that point anything can happen."

Revolutionary new detergent from Procter & Gamble

New heavy-duty BOLD®! goes beyond clean...beyond white... all the way to bright

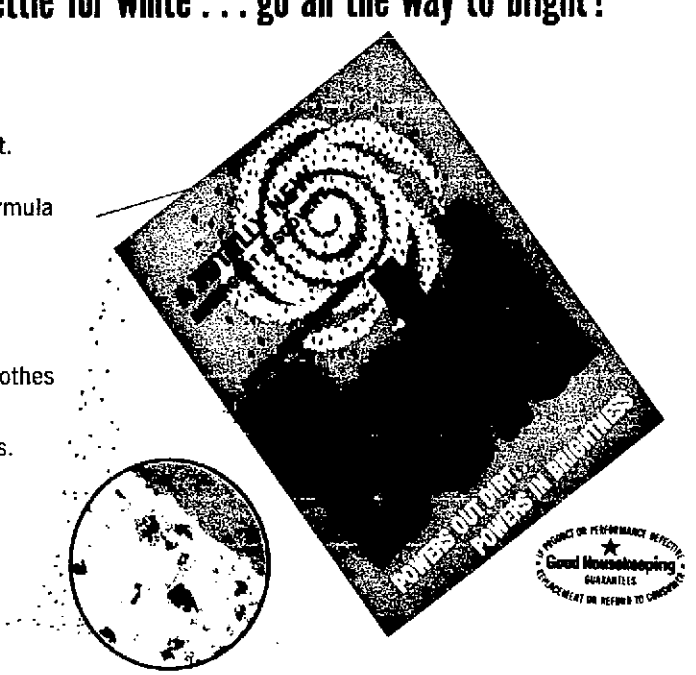

Now, don't settle for clean . . . don't settle for white . . . go all the way to bright!

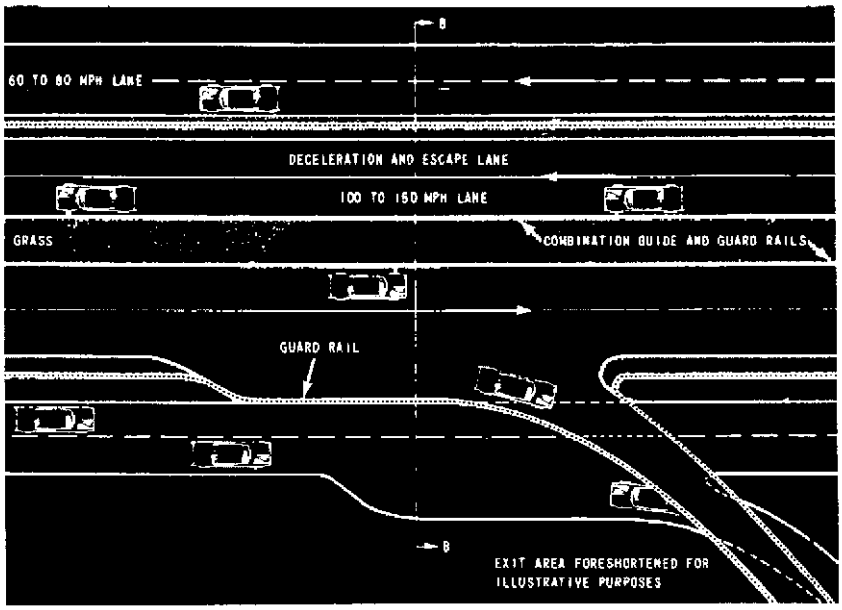

Now you can get the most beautiful wash of your life with Bold, the new heavy-duty detergent with power to go beyond clean, beyond white, all the way to bright.

In all detergent history there's never been a power formula like Bold's. Bold is so new it even looks different. It's loaded with power granules. Blue ones. Green ones. You only see them in Bold.

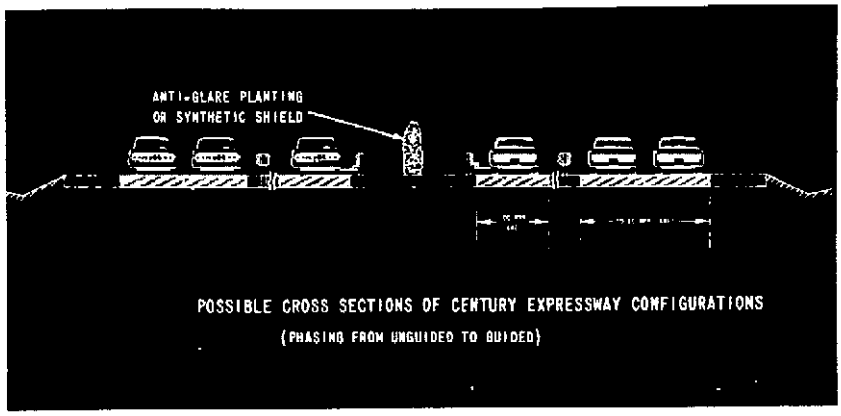

Bold is so powerful it doesn't just get dirt out, it gets clothes bright. You get not just whiter whites, but redder reds, greener greens, stripier stripes . . . even blacker blacks.

So don't settle for just a clean wash, or white wash. Get Bold, with the power to go beyond clean, beyond white, all the way to bright. See for yourself why Bold has been granted the Good Housekeeping Guaranty Seal. Bold! New from Procter & Gamble.

Proposed 100-mph highway is depicted in these drawings. Express road would include acceleration and deceleration lanes, single super-wide express lane for traffic hitting 100 to 150 mph.

Century in cross-section shows built-in safety features. Planting between lanes would cut down glare. Guard rails would separate traffic. Lanes would actually be wider than shown.

THE WORLD'S FASTEST ROADS

GERMANY'S AUTOBAHN

ENGLAND'S "M.1" MOTORWAY. No speed limit. Sports cars sometimes cruise at 100-120 miles an hour. Good average speed for ordinary cars: 70.

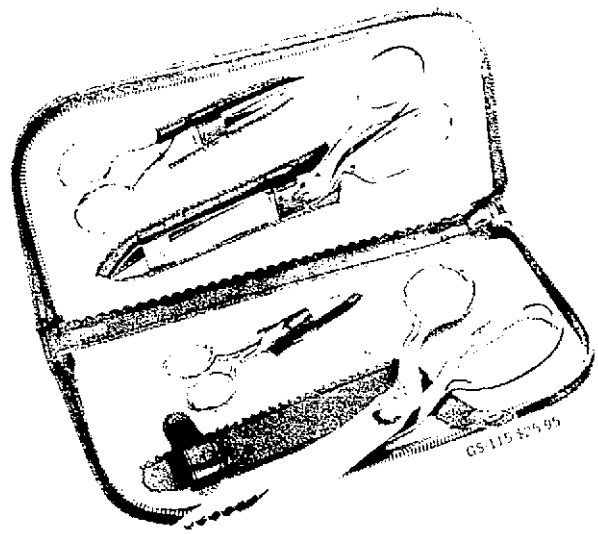

ITALY'S NEW AUTOSTRADA DEL SOLE ("Highway of the Sun"). No limit. A few cars go 90 mph, some faster.

GERMANY'S AUTOBAHN. No limit except 60 mph postings at one or two spots. Cars go fast: 60-80 mph. Sports cars sometimes cruise above 100.

U.S.: KANSAS TURNPIKE. Originally 65-mph limit. Now 80. Average speed of all cars is about 67. Some go 90. (High fatality rate—four times U.S. turnpike average—may be due partly to fast use of cars that are not suitable for speeds over 60.)

U.S. INTERSTATE SYSTEM ROADS. Most speed limits are between 60 and 70. These are the world's safest roads.

A DIPLOMAT'S WIFE GOES TO WORK

by LLOYD SHEARER

Thai beauty, Marayet Andriane, daughter of one diplomat and wife of another, will make screen debut in The Sand Pebbles. Marayet hopes to make two films a year.

HOLLYWOOD.

Paris, Geneva, London, Washington, Rome—in diplomatic circles these are recognized as swinging towns. The people in these cities are sophisticated, the restaurants are gourmet, the clothes are haute couture, the society is cultured, the life is cosmopolitan, the climate is temperate.

This is not true of Bangkok, Thailand, where Marayet Andriane was raised, daughter of a diplomat—her father was Thai ambassador to the Scandinavian countries—and where she now lives, wife of Jacques-Louis Andriane, director of administration for SEATO (South East Asia Treaty Organization).

As the 25-year-old wife of a French diplomat, Marayet finds life in hot, steamy, humid, tropical Bangkok not particularly exciting. "To tell the truth," she confides, "it consists mostly of giving and attending dinners and cocktail parties, of welcoming various members of the diplomatic staffs, of living in a tight little world. I was educated in Switzerland, so that I don't have too many friends of my own age in Bangkok. I have no children. There are only a limited number of charities I can work for, and in many cases female work is frowned upon—so you can see how happy I am to get a job as a film actress, to come to Hollywood where everything is exciting, mostly because it is new to me."

In one of the casting gambles of the year Marayet has been chosen to play a prostitute in The Sand Pebbles, a novel of gunboat diplomacy on the Yangtze, set in the 1920's. She was chosen by Robert Wise (West Side Story, Sound of Music) no small judge of talent, "because she's photogenic, sexy, beautiful, innocent-looking, intelligent, and she fits the role." Also because she's only getting $5,000, the Hollywood equivalent of peanuts for her work in the film.

Marayet landed the choice role because she happened to be in the right place at the right time. "I was in Paris," she recalls, "attending a round of parties with my husband. That's one of the advantages of being married to a French diplomat. One gets to go to Paris on holiday.

"At some party a gentleman approached and asked me if I were an actress. He turned out to be Edward Legry, a Frenchman in charge of the Paris office for 20th Century-Fox. I said, 'No,' and he said, 'Would you like to be one?'

"It's a very old line, used mostly by lecherous Italian diplomats, and ordinarily I would have paid no attention. But Mr. Legry seemed most sincere. He said that Robert Wise had bought The Sand Pebbles, a best-seller which had won the Harper's Prize, and was looking for an Oriental girl. Would I submit to a test?

"I asked my husband's consent," Marayet narrates, "and when he said yes, I went for the test. Some while later Mr. Legry said, 'You have to go to Hollywood for further tests.' I finished all the tests, and they gave me the part. I play opposite Richard Attenborough, Steve McQueen, and Edgar Bergen's daughter, Candy, and it's simply a marvelous role. We're shooting the picture in Taiwan and Hong Kong and Hollywood, and I hope it is opening up a whole new life for me. My contract calls for two films a year, and if I could spend six months in Hollywood and six months with my husband in Bangkok—that would just be heaven."

WHAT ABOUT HER HUSBAND?

Would it also turn out to be heaven for her husband? Would not a successful film career interfere with a successful marriage already nine years old? Would it not prove only a half-time marriage?

"I don't think so," Marayet avers, "because my husband is primarily interested in my happiness. And I am also interested in his. I am sure that while I'm away, filming The Sand Pebbles, he will miss me dreadfully. But in my absence I have recommended three young women, family friends. I chose them myself. These three young women will look after him in my absence. That's another advantage of being married to a Frenchman. Where women are concerned, French diplomats are highly adaptable. This is particularly true of my husband. He will be lonely for me, of course, but in the presence of other women his heart will not break. And besides, I shall always come back. You see, we love each other truly. For us, a film career is just an interlude."

With husband, Jacques-Louis Andriane (r.), Marayet greets French ambassador to Thailand. Husband will stay in Bangkok while she makes film in Hollywood.

Easy repairs: A new adhesive for fixing chipped or broken glass and ceramic items requires no mixing, does not run, holds parts on contact, usually eliminates need for clamping. And it can withstand freezing and boiling temperatures. 98¢. Dow Corning, Dept. PP, Midland, Mich.

Portable dryer: With this electric dryer (above), you can dry up to 2 lbs. of sweaters, scarfs, lingerie, baby items. It weighs 10½ lbs., is easy to move from room to room and take along on trips. Gentle tumbling action dries nylons in 10 minutes, and the 140-degree heat is safe for fine fabrics. In white, white-pink or white-blue. $39.95 in stores. Udico Electric Co., Dept. PP, 1801 S. Olive St., Los Angeles, Calif. 90015.

Car-powered air pump: Here's a pump (above) that works from your car cigarette lighter socket and can blow up an air mattress in seconds, inflate inner tubes, toys, even large rubber boats and outdoor pools. It draws no more current than car radio, has sealed bearings, nylon pistons, never requires oiling. $9.95. Gloy's, Dept. PP, 11 Addison St., Larchmont, N.Y.

Make-it-yourself mini-bike: You can build this one (above) starting with an old bicycle frame and using a standard bicycle seat or a special seat for two. With a 2¾-hp engine, it can go 30 mph. Step-by-step plans, with photos, construction details: $2. Engine and parts also available. Details: Gilliom Mfg. Co., Dept. PP, 1109 N. 2nd St., St. Charles, Mo. 63301.

Electric candle: Pick up this battery-powered light (above) and it goes on like a brilliant candle. Put it down and off goes light. It's useful as bedside light, adornment for table or sideboard and in emergencies. It works on 2 C flashlight cells, has switch to keep light on. In chrome, gold, black with gold flecks or white with gold flecks. $3.95. Delta Electric Div., Novo Industrial Corp., Dept. PP, Marion, Ind.

Shrinks Hemorrhoids New Way Without Surgery

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both — Relieves Pain — Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

My Favorite Jokes

by Bob Hope

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ever since Leslie Towne Hope left his birthplace, Eltham, England, he has looked for new worlds to conquer. First as a dancer, then as a boxer, finally as a stand-up comedian in vaudeville, Bob Hope has always been on the go. Today at 61 he has all the money he will ever need, is in fact one of the wealthiest men in the world, but continues to entertain "because I just wouldn't know what to do if I didn't make people laugh." A fixture on TV with his anthology series and his comedy specials, Hope also makes films and special appearances. His greatest source of personal satisfaction is derived from playing servicemen's camps. During World War II he toured dozens of military installations both at home and abroad, continued the same tireless routine in the Korean War, and only a week ago finished his final preparations for a Christmas jaunt this year to Vietnam. Herewith some of the favorite jokes he's told to servicemen the world over:

At Midway Island: "I want you men to know that this troupe is going to stop at Wake Island. We were there before a few years ago with Jayne Mansfield. She wore a pink ermine bikini when she went in swimming. The island has been tilted ever since."

At Wake Island: "We're on our way to Vietnam. The Defense Department has tried everything else there . . . so why not us?"

In Korea: "Of course you fellas know why I'm here. I forgot to take the Goldwater sticker off my car."

In Korea: "I can hardly wait to take Les Brown and the boys to Vietnam. If the Cong wants guerrilla warfare they're going to get it."

In Seoul: "Everywhere we go we get a great reception. They think it's Secretary McNamara with shutdown orders."

With the 7th Infantry: "We had a wonderful trip coming over here considering the plane they gave us: It took off from a kneeling position."

Camp Casey, Korea: "This is my fifth trip to Korea. The first four times I didn't believe it. I just came back to see how they've rearranged the mud."

In Okinawa: "We were on our way to Vietnam but some chicken was dragging his feet so we stopped here to refuel. I hope the PX has my shoe size."

In Bangkok, Thailand: "I understand this is one of the oldest civilizations on earth. There are even people here who remember Crosby as a boy."

In Korat, Thailand: "They have trouble with Red Chinese infiltrators here. This morning a fortune cookie followed me for half a mile, and it was ticking."

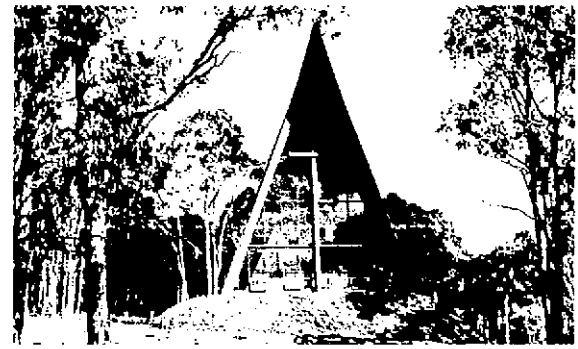

In Bangkok: "Thailand is one of our staunchest allies. That's what our ambassador told me when he shoved me back on the plane."

In Vietnam: "Hello, advisers. Welcome to Sniper Valley. What a reception I got at the airport just now. Our soldiers thought I was a replacement . . . If there are any Viet Cong in the audience, remember, I've already had my shots . . . Vietnam is a very democratic country. Everyone gets to be president . . . Yes, sir, they say the enemy is all around us but I'm used to it with my kind of act."

In the Philippines: "It's nice to see so much harmony between the sailors and marines here. Each working side by side to get transferred somewhere else."

On Guam: "Guam is a very strategic base for us. It's our lifeline station in the South Pacific, the last chance to get tax-free booze."

International Airport, Los Angeles: "We really had a ton of security in Vietnam, Secret Service men following us everywhere, MPS with submachine guns, fully armed helicopters, and that was just to keep the GI's away from the girls. I spent more time under the bed than a nervous bride."

Timbertop project: Students helped build chapel opened last year.

Prince Charles, shown deplaning at London airport, is a center of controversy following recent decision to have him attend Australian prep school that stresses rugged outdoor activities.

A SCHOOL FOR PRINCE CHARLIE

What has chopping wood, mowing lawns, pick and shovel and garden work to do with educating the future king of Great Britain? This question has raised a great hue and cry in both Parliament and the British press since the recent announcement by Buckingham Palace that Prince Charles would spend part of the current school year at Timbertop branch of Greelong Grammar School in Australia. As shown in these pictures, Timbertop, located in bush country 116 miles northeast of Melbourne, offers students a Spartan regimen of work and play in addition to a strict academic program. The Prince's day will start at 7 each morning, end at 9:30 each night and include compulsory cross-country runs, weekends of hiking and camping in the open and similar rugged outdoor activities. The 17-year-old Prince will be at Timbertop for a single term, February through April. Social life at the school is nil, with no television and few radios. The idea is to foster in students complete self-reliance, a princely idea—even for a real prince.

Timbertop students are kept busy clearing up grounds, mowing lawns, tending furnaces and feeding school's livestock. Each day calls for periods of study, outdoor work and exercise.

A tug of war is engaged in by Timbertop students in lieu of organized games. During entire school term boys see no footballs or cricket bats, instead are expected to use materials at hand and make up their own entertainment.

Frosty Chocolate Log

BY BETH MERRIMAN PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Looking for something new and delightful to serve at a children's party? Try this luscious frosty chocolate log made with crisp puffed rice, nuts, marshmallows and chocolate. Fill the center with a favorite flavor ice cream, and you've got a treat that will gladden the hearts of your young guests.

FROSTY CHOCOLATE LOG

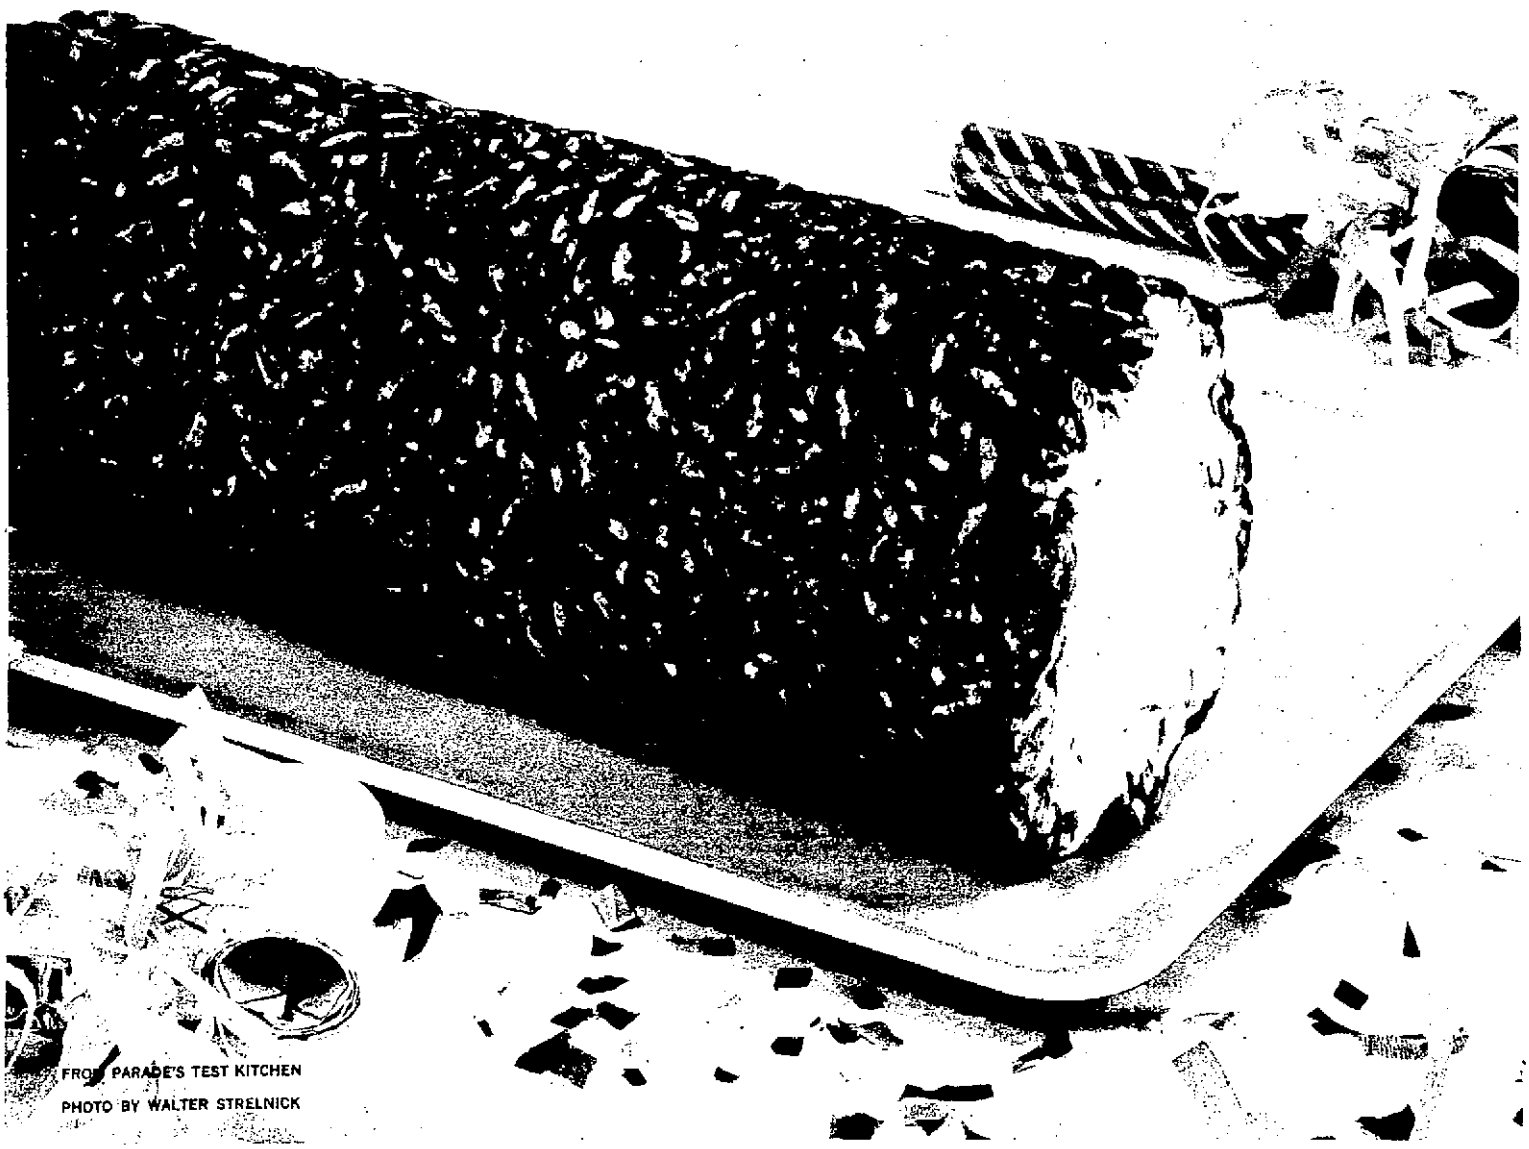

4 cups puffed rice
½ cup chopped nutmeats
28 large marshmallows
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 quart ice cream, any flavor

Heat puffed rice in shallow pan at 350° for 10 minutes. Pour into large greased bowl; stir in chopped nutmeats. Combine marshmallows, chocolate and butter in top of double boiler. Heat over boiling water until melted, stirring occasionally. Stir in vanilla. Pour marshmallow mixture over cereal and nutmeats, stirring until all kernels are evenly coated. Follow illustrated steps shown at right. 1. Butter hands and, working quickly, shape mixture around well-greased rolling pin. Chill until firm. 2. Remove rolling pin, being careful not to break chocolate shell. Fill hollow center with ice cream. Freeze until firm. 3. Let stand at room temperature a few minutes. Then slice crosswise with sharp knife.

WHAT'S NEW IN CHRISTMAS WRAPS, PUSSYCAT?

by ROSALIND MASSOW
WOMEN'S EDITOR

Take the tiger out of the tank and put him under a tree this Christmas. Cat wraps are the newest and most charming method of "belling" a present—and they are easier than you suspect. All you need is holiday paper in solid colors and small pattern designs, a pencil, cardboard, a pair of scissors, glue, pipe cleaners and lots of ribbon. Take a good look at the photo above and copy the ideas, or create some flossy cats on your own. First you wrap the gift in the usual way, then glue on eyes, whiskers, nose and ears; or cut a cat's face out of cardboard, cover with Christmas paper and glue eyes, nose and whiskers to that. Strips of ribbon serve as whiskers, satin-tone ribbon as the shaft of the nose and colored paper as eyes and tip of the nose. To add legs, use empty cardboard tubes found inside rolls of gift paper; cut down to size, then cover with paper. Whether you go Alley or Persian, your cats are certain to become the pampered pets on Christmas morning.

CREDITS: CAT WRAPS CREATED BY TIE-TIE RIBBON CO. EXCLUSIVELY FOR PARADE.

How to make a wrapped cat

Box present and wrap in small print designed paper. For ears (1) cut 3" triangles from same wrapping paper, fold down center line, fold bottom and glue to box top. For eyes (2) cut out three sets of circles of colored paper—cutting largest (black) with pinking shears to achieve eyelash effect. The middle circle should be white, the eyeball should be green or gold. Ink in a dot for pupil in small-set circle. Nose and mouth (3) are made of black paper in design shown. Glue on pipe cleaners or narrow strips of ribbon (4) for whiskers and tape prepared bow between ears.

BISHOP WALSH: SILENT MARTYR

A RED CHINESE PRISONER, HE CELEBRATES A GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY NEXT WEEK

by RAYMOND KERRISON

In his cell in Shanghai, behind the towering brick walls of Communist China's biggest political prison, Bishop James Edward Walsh will awaken early on December 7.

An elderly, frail man, he will fill the day as he has a thousand and more like it since 1960, when he was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment on trumped-up charges of spying.

He will have a plain breakfast, make up his bed, tidy the cell which he shares with a Chinese bodyguard. He will step outside twice to exercise in the compound between the concrete blockhouses. He will allow himself the luxury of three or four cigarettes. And perhaps read a little poetry.

But most of the day he will pray. It is the only thing he has left. For at least three hours he will count off silent Rosaries—for he is permitted no beads—on his wizened fingers.

"I have become a man of many Rosaries," he wrote in a recent letter to his family in Cumberland, Md.

December 7 will mark the 50th anniversary of Bishop Walsh's ordination to the Roman Catholic priesthood, an event so rare and majestic that, as in marriage, it is cherished by its celebrants and regarded as golden by everyone.

But for the bishop, a former Superior-General of Maryknoll, America's leading Catholic missionary society, this anniversary will be of incomparable significance. It will commemorate the event that led gently, and perhaps unsuspectingly, into a life of unspeakable hardship, violence and suffering.

It led to 40 years in China, made him one of the most distinguished clergymen in the nation, subjected him to a decade of nerve-jangling harassment and then deposited him in a cell to endure a living martyrdom.

THERE IS NO BISHOP

If he were home, Bishop Walsh would celebrate this anniversary with grandeur, panoply and festivity. In prison, he will have nothing. Not even a card. The Red Chinese consider his religion unnecessary. Indeed, they do not even recognize it. A lifelong friend once scribbled "best wishes" on a plain card and addressed it "Bishop James Walsh." It was returned, undelivered, because the Chinese said they knew no one named Bishop James Walsh.

Bishop Walsh will not be permitted to celebrate Mass or receive Holy Communion, both of which have been denied him since 1958. He is not allowed even the simplest sacramentals, such as a Bible, a breviary or a rosary.

The bishop has two links with the outside world. Packages of food, toiletries and cigarettes are sent monthly through the International Red Cross. "Please don't send me meat or fish," he says. "These heavy items are beyond my capacity. The lighter food is very welcome—coffee, cheese, a little candy."

The other link is an exchange of letters each month alternately with his elder brother, William, and sister Mary. No one else in the family may communicate with him, except at Christmas and on his birthday, when all his brothers and sisters and close relatives add their signatures to a card.

If the range of correspondence is excruciatingly narrow, it is no less prized by the bishop and his family.

Bishop Walsh has never been a robust man—he barely makes 130 pounds—but he has the constitution of an ox and the fortitude of a saint. He is 74, but his health has held fast against years of privation and indignities. His handwriting is firm, his humor intact.

He does not complain and does not seek his release. He accepts his fate with the resignation of a man who has surrendered his will to God. "While no one likes to be confined," he once wrote, "I am not unhappy here and I leave the future entirely in the hands of God."

Bishop Walsh's cell is in the prison hospital, not because of ill health but, according to the Chinese, because of his age.

Bishop Walsh first went to China in the fall of 1918. When the Communists seized China in 1949, he was the executive secretary of the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai, a clearinghouse for all the Church mission and cultural activities in China.

For the next ten years he lived through what the American Catholic hierarchy has termed the worst persecution of Christianity in its 2000 years. Bishop Walsh was denounced in all the familiar epithets—"traitor," "stooge" and so forth.

Priests around him were arrested, imprisoned, tortured, shot or deported. His telephone was tapped, his confessional invaded, his sermons recorded verbatim. He was awakened at all hours of the night for interrogations. He suffered intimidation, economic reprisals, police raids and a ferocious campaign to discredit his name.

The ordeal failed to break him. In desperation, the regime urged him to leave. He refused. "Our good friends," he said stubbornly, "will have to throw me in or throw me out. What does it matter in the case of an old fellow in the sere and yellow leaf like me? To put up with a little inconvenience at my age is nothing; it seems like a privilege to me."

They threw him in. In October 1958 he disappeared from his rectory and was neither seen nor heard of again until March 1960, when Peking announced his cruel sentence. What happened in that "limbo" remains a mystery, but on the basis of other case histories, it is not unreasonable to assume an attempt was made to brainwash him into renouncing the Vatican and joining the state's "independent" church.

Because of his age, Bishop Walsh's 20-year term amounted to a death sentence. Its harshness appalled the U.S. government, Protestant and Jewish leaders, Buddhists, Moslems and Taoists, newspapers and foreign governments, all of whom condemned it as an outrage. The Maryknoll Fathers said that if love was a crime then their bishop was indeed guilty.

Why did Bishop Walsh stay in China when the Reds offered him a free and easy passage out? Could he not have been of more value to his own society and the Church if he had transplanted himself, say, to Latin America, where the shortage of priests is critical? Was it sheer cussedness that held him?

Bishop Walsh stayed on for the most simple reason: love and loyalty.

There was another reason. He explained, "There is some good, I think, in giving the Chinese a little help or encouragement, if only a moral gesture."

Events since have confirmed the wisdom of his choice. Serge Lentz, an editor of Paris Match, the French magazine, who recently came out of China reported that Christianity had been so thoroughly uprooted and stamped upon there was hardly a trace left.

SURVIVAL SYMBOL

If this is true, complete victory will escape the Communists as long as Bishop Walsh remains there. He is the symbol of Christianity's fight for survival in China. His voice is silent, but his sermon is eloquent.

As such, Bishop Walsh is an acute embarrassment to the Reds. Rumors swept Hong Kong some months ago that his presence weighed so heavily on the regime that he would be released. The U.S. government, through its ambassador in Warsaw, presses Bishop Walsh's case, along with that of three other American prisoners.

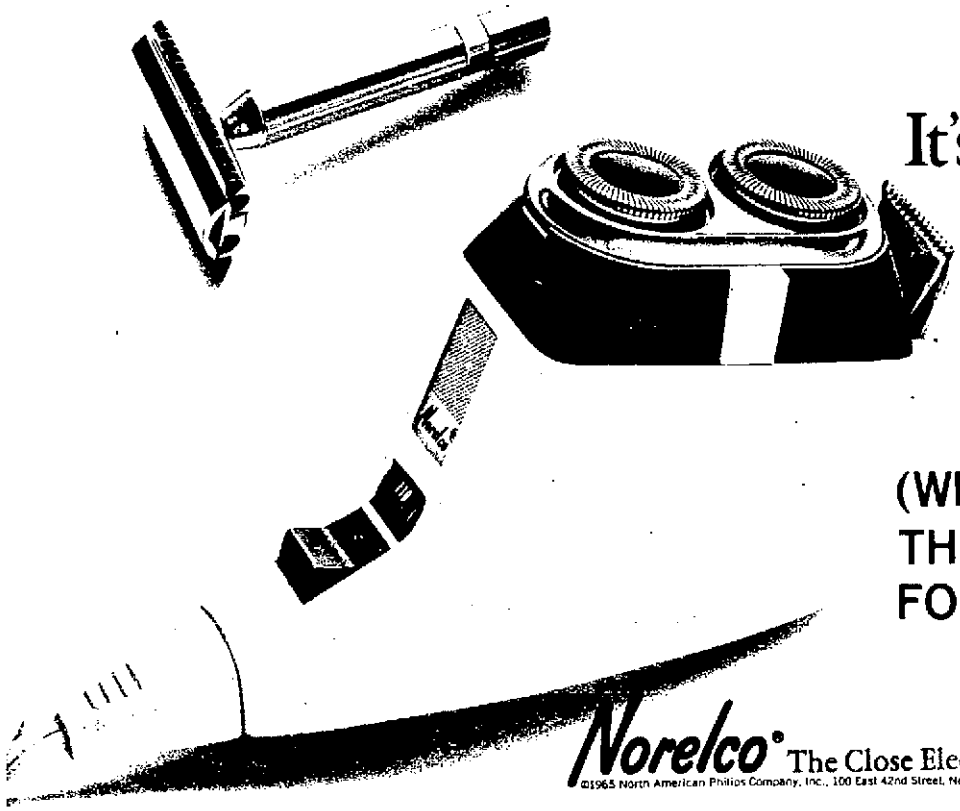

Nikita Khrushchev, the former Soviet Premier, promised President Eisenhower during his visit here in 1959 that he would do his best to intercede for the bishop. None of these efforts has borne fruit, and since the Chinese tend to make prisoners serve their full terms it is unlikely Bishop Walsh will be released before the expiration date: October 17, 1978. He will be 87—if he survives.

So he edges toward his golden anniversary, a rather forlorn figure, isolated from the world, separated from his family, unaware even that two schools bearing his name are rising in Cumberland and at Kowloon, the gateway to Red China.

The world may pray for him but not pity him, for, as Longfellow wrote:

The holiest of all holidays are those
Kept by ourselves in silence and apart;
The secret anniversaries of the heart.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF THE VOLUME OF MAIL, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

MINIMUM AGE. What should be the minimum age for girls to marry throughout the world? A United Nations committee on marriage has recommended age 15. Most of the Western nations agree, but Saudi Arabia claims 15 is too long to wait. Mr. Jamil Baroody, Saudi Arabian delegate, objects to a fixed international age. "In many tropical countries," he points out, "girls are mature at 12 or 13." Physically, that is.

LONG WAR. According to foreign intelligence sources our war in Vietnam is going to be long, nasty, and costly. The French, who pulled out of Vietnam in 1954 -- first white army to be defeated in Asia since the Russo-Japanese War -- predict we will have to stay at least ten years. The British feel we will have to stay just about as long as we have to stay in South Korea. Possibly 20 years or longer. Blair Seaborn, a Canadian diplomat who visited Hanoi last month, says he found no Viet Cong interest in negotiating on terms acceptable to the U.S. The Viet Cong cannot get it into their heads that there is a great difference between the French and the Americans. They got the French to give up after ten years, feel that opposition to the war in Vietnam will grow in the U.S. to the point where Johnson will give up the fight. They know little about Lyndon Johnson. Military men overseas believe that the U.S. will have to pour more troops into Vietnam -- possibly one million -- or resort to strategic nuclear or heavy conventional bombing of Hanoi and North Vietnam. Sooner or later, should the Viet Cong agree to negotiate, U.S. occupation forces will be necessary to enforce a cease fire, a stalemate, a peace treaty.

PRESIDENTIAL FEVER. When Bill Scranton, governor of Pennsylvania, finally agreed to run for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1964, many veteran politicians cracked, "Too little, too late -- Goldwater has it sewed up." They were right. It looks now, however, as if the Presidential virus implanted in Scranton two years ago has begun to grow. In the past few weeks Scranton has made 50 or more speeches, most of them outside his state, helping Republican political candidates on all levels, mending fences, winning friends. He refuses to comment on the 1968 Presidential campaign, but at this writing William Scranton and Richard Nixon are the Republican front runners.

NUNS IN STYLE. Nuns are back in style -- at least in film land. The Sound of Music with Julie Andrews, possibly the most profitable film ever turned out by 20th Century-Fox -- its potential gross is $65 million -- may have triggered the revival. Columbia has just finished shooting Life with Mother Superior which it has retitled The Trouble with Angels. It stars Rosalind Russell, Binnie Barnes, Hayley Mills and Gypsy Rose Lee. In this one

DEBBIE REYNOLDS

ROSALIND RUSSELL

Gypsy plays the dancing teacher at the convent. MGM is filming The Singing Nun with Greer Garson and Debbie Reynolds, also preparing Mother Cabrini. In addition, two foreign film-makers, Luis Bunuel and Jacques Rivette, are preparing respectively, The Nun and The Nuns. And ready soon for release is the Italian import, The Little Nuns.

EARLY HEART DISEASE. American men develop coronary disease at an earlier age than the men of any other nation. The peak age for men in this country suffering from angina pectoris is 42. In other countries it is 52. Angina pectoris is a pain in the chest frequently radiating to the arms, caused by a spasm of the coronary artery of the heart. Why should American men fall victim to angina sooner than their foreign contemporaries? Dr. E. Grey Dimond of the Scripps Clinic in La Jolla, Calif., offered four possible reasons at a recent meeting of the California Academy of General Practice: (1) the stress and strain of life in America, (2) the competitive society, (3) the lack of exercise, (4) the American diet. "The only other nation," says Dr. Dimond, "which offers a similar pattern of high, aggressive, competitive, frenetic, anxious living is West Germany. And in that country more and more men are suffering from more and more coronary disease at an earlier age. Soon they will get down to our level."

WORKING MOTHERS. Last year there were 25 million women workers in the U.S. About 9.5 million were mothers with children under 18 years of age. Most of these mothers work because they have to. Either their husbands do not earn enough to support their families, or the women themselves are family heads. Half of all families headed by women live in poverty. More than 80% of the nation's working mothers have husbands living at home. About 17% of these women are married to men whose income is less than $3,000 per year. About 10% of America's working mothers are nonwhite. The statistics come from the recently released U.S. Department of Labor leaflet, "Who Are the Working Mothers?"

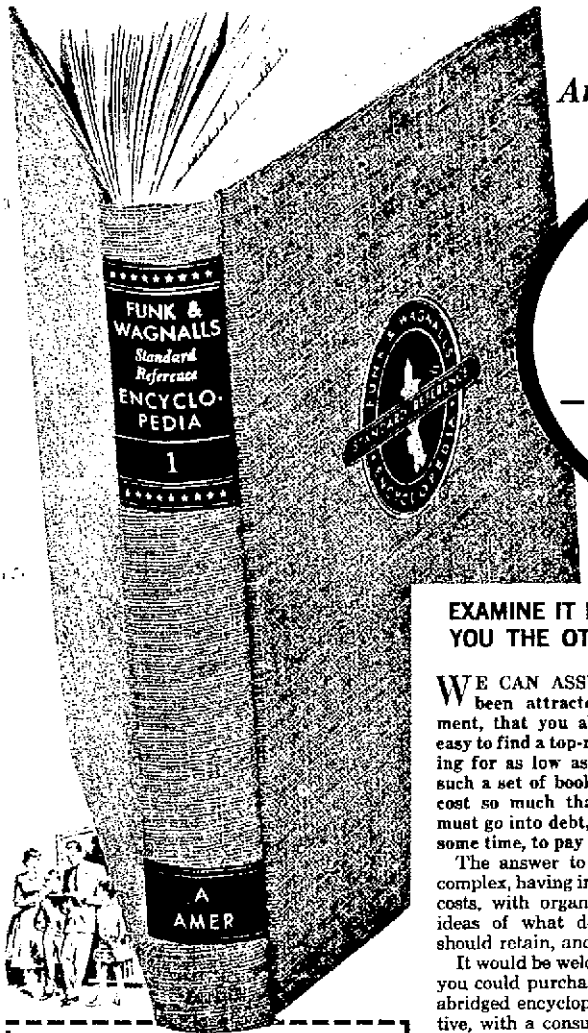

MAIL FRAUD. Each year the public is bilked of more than $1 million through mail fraud. Most firms in the mail order business are scrupulously honest, but several gyp artists set up companies during the Christmas gift-buying season only to cheat the gullible. Be careful of land stock purchases via mail and various sex devices supposedly designed for "rejuvenation." Only a few weeks ago after months of painstaking work, postal inspectors caught up with a pair of sharpies who were selling worthless sex rejuvenators out of a Hollywood post office box. Henry Montague, chief postal inspector, says if a company is unknown to you or is offering a suspicious bonus gimmick, it's a good idea to investigate it before sending off your money. Write to the Better Business Bureau or the Chamber of Commerce in the city where the company has its headquarters. Many publications vouch for the honesty of their mail order advertisers, but some do not.

Doesn't This Unusual Offer Make Good Sense?...

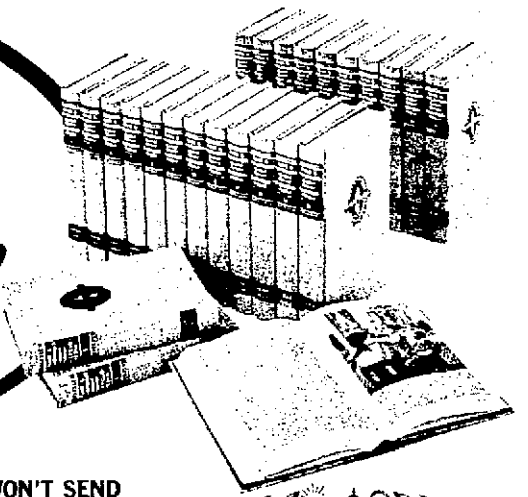

WHY SPEND $200 TO $300 FOR AN ENCYCLOPEDIA?

TODAY, THIS WORLD-FAMOUS SET CAN BE YOURS AT A FRACTION OF THAT AMOUNT!

And You Build Your Set, Volume by Volume, and Pay as You Go

Send For Volume 1 —IT'S FREE!

EXAMINE IT FOR 10 DAYS. IF NOT SATISFIED WE WON'T SEND YOU THE OTHERS. VOL. 1 IS YOURS TO KEEP EITHER WAY.

WE CAN ASSUME, since you have been attracted by this advertisement, that you already know it is not easy to find a top-notch encyclopedia selling for as low as $200 . . . Why should such a set of books, however wonderful, cost so much that the average family must go into debt, or mortgage itself for some time, to pay for it?

The answer to that question is very complex, having in part to do with selling costs, with organization, with old-time ideas of what detail an encyclopedia should retain, and other factors.

It would be welcome — wouldn't it — if you could purchase a big, complete, unabridged encyclopedia, really authoritative, with a consulting and contributing board second to none, recommended by highest authority not only for use in schools and libraries but especially for home and family use — at a price you can really afford? It would be more than welcome, we are sure, since such an encyclopedia could be a superlatively important aid for you and your family socially and in business, and for your children at school and college.

SUCH AN ENCYCLOPEDIA DOES EXIST!

Yes, the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia — in twenty-five big, beautiful volumes in its latest School & Library Edition, expensively made to the rigid specifications demanded for school and library books — is yours at a SMALL FRACTION of what these other encyclopedias cost.

And we'll give odds that, although it is just as scholarly, it will prove better for your needs than any other — easier to read, to understand, more attractive in every way for more frequent use.

OUR UNUSUAL PROPOSAL

We will send you the first volume of the set for free, gratis, as our gift to you, to prove what we are saying.

No, you need not return the volume ever, or pay us anything for it. All we ask in return is that you drop us a card if, after examining this volume, you decide you do not want any others.

If, several weeks later, we have not heard from you, we will ship you Volumes 2 and 3 of the set, and then two more volumes each month thereafter, as they come off press, until your set is complete. (Yes, you always have the right, at any time, to cancel any further shipment of volumes.) And we bill you for these two volumes shipped you each month and you pay only AFTER you receive them. Your credit is good with us.

SEE THE FREE BOOK BEFORE DECIDING

The price? Only $2.79 per volume, plus 21¢ mailing cost for each. Yes, far less than even a popular novel. But that is not important now. You will want to see the book first — see with your own eyes what it is truly worth.

But please give us the same courtesy we are rendering to you, and do not ask for the free volume unless you intend to give sincere consideration to our really unusual offer.

However, if you do think you would like to own a great encyclopedia, at an almost unbelievably low price, then send off the coupon at left as soon as you can. A brochure with other details concerning the full set will accompany your free Volume 1.

ARMY OF DISSENT: 25,000 on Capital Peace March

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — An army of dissenters marched at the White House and rallied in the shadow of the Washington Monument Saturday in a massive protest against the United States role in Viet Nam.

Peace placards glistening in a warm November sun, they paraded in slow-moving circles on sidewalks around the White House, then marched to the monument.

There they heard march leaders demand a Viet Nam cease-fire and a negotiated end to the war against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas and their North Vietnamese allies.

Police estimated that 25,000 people joined the six-hour protest. March organizers claimed between 40,000 and 50,000 people were on hand at the monument rally.

Their signs ranged from simple calls for negotiations and peace—the tone favored by march sponsors—to demands that U.S. troops withdraw and denunciations of President Johnson.

There were scattered scuffles and at least eight people were arrested in clashes between the peace pickets and their critics.

Among the men arrested was George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the American Nazi Party. Police said he scuffled with demonstrators after wrenching a North Vietnamese flag from one of them and tearing it apart.

At the monument grounds, a motorcycle-riding band of counter-demonstrators heckled the marchers and police said they arrested the leader of that clique. They ushered the rest of the group away from the audience.

One trouble spot was on the Pennsylvania Avenue sidewalk, where Communist sympathizers waved the gold-starred flag of the Viet Cong guerrillas.

Two men were taken away by police after they wrestled a Viet Cong flag to the ground. "There are people dying over there and you let them fly that thing," one of them said as police led him to a waiting patrol wagon.

At another point when Viet Cong flags were unfurled, counter-demonstrators quickly moved in to surround them with American flags. That was the tactic recommended by Sanford Gottlieb of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, the march coordinator.

Most of the marchers were quiet and good humored. Some brought along their children.

While the pickets paraded, a delegation of their leaders conferred for 90 minutes with Chester Cooper, an aide to White House adviser McGeorge Bundy.

There weren't many people in the White House and executive office building to confer with. President Johnson is at his Texas ranch.

When the delegation emerged, Gottlieb reported Cooper reiterated an administration suggestion that they write letters to North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong, asking them to agree to unconditional negotiations.

He said the peace marchers refused. "This is not acceptable to us, to simply call for unconditional negotiations when North Viet Nam is being bombed," he said.

"He wanted us to become sort of negotiators on the side with North Viet Nam," said Socialist leader Norman Thomas.

"I can't say that we got very far, except we both agreed that we were sincere."

Arcadia, El Capitan Bands Tie for Top 'Review' Prize

By ART VINSEL

Two bands tied for the coveted Mayor's Trophy Saturday for the first time in the 25-year history of the All-Western Band Review in Long Beach.

Identical prizes will be awarded to Arcadia High School and El Capitan High School, which chalked up 95.9 points each for the sweepstakes trophy.

Thousands of persons turned out in 70-degree sunshine to witness the colorful pageant, in which 6,700 bandsmen and marchers participated.

Competition was stiff in the review — one of the best known of its kind in the Southland — and final scores for the 30 different band units ranged between 95.9 and 87.35 out of a possible 100 points.

A second tie highlighted the Class AA division for large schools when Pasadena and Anaheim deadlocked at 95 points each.

Only a few paces kept one of the bands from emerging as sole winner, judges said, because each was penalized one point for moving along too fast. Band directors were to decide possession of the winner's trophy by a flip of the coin.

ALL-TIME HIGH FOR YEAR

U.S. Spending Will Top $105 Billion

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — Federal spending will rise above $100 billion for the first time in U.S. history in the current fiscal year and President Johnson will present the first $100-billion-plus budget to Congress in January, White House sources disclosed Saturday.

Sharply increased costs of the Viet Nam war and other factors have pushed up spending estimates to a record $105 to $107 billion, for the fiscal year ending next June 30, the sources said.

Budget Director Charles Schultz was said to expect a federal budget deficit ranging between $7 and $8 billion for the same period. Figures supplied by sources close to the President indicated that the deficit could climb as high as $10 billion.

President Johnson has been informed that federal revenues, swollen by the nation's general prosperity, may exceed $96.5 billion for fiscal 1966—also a record.

Last January, Johnson predicted revenues $94.4 billion during the fiscal year that began last July 1, and a deficit of $5.3 billion.

Johnson a year ago estimated that 1966 fiscal year spending would be $99.7 billion.

He now has directed cabinet members and federal agency heads to begin pruning their next budget requests.

Sources said the "hee" is on the cabinet chiefs and administrators to bear down in the next few weeks and do the job that Johnson did last year in cutting requests.

The sources gave the following picture for the multibillion-dollar increase in spending:

The cost of waging the war in Viet Nam, the big buildup in American forces and the military pay raise have raised the defense budget $3 to $4 billion above the $49-billion estimate of last January. The Viet Nam war is costing $750 million a month.

Congress approved Johnson's request for another $1.7 billion for Viet Nam needs last summer. He will ask for another supplemental appropriation in January.

A second factor in the boost in spending was higher outlays for farm-price supports, higher interest rates, a $480-million federal employes' pay increase and a half-billion-dollar rise in veterans' compensation and pensions.

Higher interest rates on federal securities pushed up U.S. spending by about $500 million to $12 billion for interest payments on the national debt.

1 Erie Ship Safe, Other Fights On

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The Coast Guard reported Saturday night that the Allison, one of the two ships being pounded by high winds and waves on Lake Erie, had reached the port of Buffalo safely.

However, a second ship, the Avondale, continued to ride out the storm in winds up to 50-miles-an-hour and 28-to-30-foot waves while at anchor southwest of Port Colborne, Ont., the Coast Guard said.

The two ships carry a combined crew of 70.

The Coast Guard said the 440-foot-long Allison, a converted World War II Liberty ship, had docked at Buffalo at 5:30 p.m. The vessel had been anchored west of Port Colborne waiting for the Welland Canal, closed early Saturday because of the winds, to reopen for traffic.

* * * *

BUT the wind and waves snapped the freighter's anchors and it began drifting helplessly in the lake. But before Coast Guard vessels could reach the freighter it had regained control of the situation and reached Buffalo unassisted.

The Allison had 38 crewmen.

Meanwhile, the Avondale, a 500-foot-long freighter with a crew of 32, had requested Coast Guard assistance after reporting broken deck plates in the engine room and loss of steam.

The Coast Guard said the Avondale was at anchor about 26 miles southwest of Port Colborne and had later reported restoring some of its steam.

A Coast Guard officer said the freighter was able to keep the strain off its anchor chains, to keep them from snapping.

Grand Jury Hits County Financing by Leaseback

By DON BRACKENBURY
I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

The "sale-lease-back" plan used by Los Angeles County to finance capital projects, and which now totals $161 million in commitments, is detrimental to taxpayers, the County Grand Jury has charged.

In a letter to county supervisors, made public today, the Grand Jury urged that existing leases be renegotiated, and that supervisors make an "in-depth review" of this type of financing.

Under the plan, the county enters into an agreement with the Board of Retirement of the Los Angeles County Employes Association. The retirement board uses its funds to construct the building, then leases it to the county with an option for county purchase.

Such agreements now cover about 20 separate projects, including the $29-million Hall of Administration and the $11.6-million New Hall of Records in Los Angeles Civic Center; six golf courses, five court buildings and the men's central jail.

"The investigation made by this Grand Jury reveals that the methods and procedures used in accomplishing the construction of capital projects using this type of financing are subject to severe criticism and, therefore, may not be in the best

Fire Bomb Terror in Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — African terrorists Saturday night hurled bottles of flaming gasoline at a bus in a Salisbury suburb. Arsonists also set fire to a tobacco warehouse.

The only reported victim of the attacks was an African child on the half-filled bus, who was badly burned on one arm. Thirty other passengers escaped injury. The fire bombs were thrown at the bus in the suburb of Highfield.

Volunteer firemen quickly put out the warehouse blaze in suburban Msasa Siding after a number of bales of hay caught fire.

Elsewhere, in the suburbs, three buses were showered with stones by African youths in another protest against the rebel white-ruled government of Premier Ian Smith.

Editorial Pages Near 'New Look'

Starting Monday you will find an exciting new look on The Independent and Press-Telegram editorial pages.

Most obvious will be the new six-column format designed to enhance eye-appeal, improve readability, increase volume of material and add flexibility.

Intensive research and in-depth discussion of subjects of important local interest by staff members will be stepped up sharply. When events warrant, the entire editorial page will be devoted to an exhaustive analysis of a single vital issue.

Bright new features will include Storymakers, capsulated biographies of people and places in the news; We Salute, a tip of the editorial hat to deserving personalities; and Reporter's Notebook, articles drawing on the special knowledge and background of our own staff members.

Editorial opinions and familiar syndicated columnists will remain clear, frank and forceful as always.

Readers of The Independent will find three of their favorite columns in a new location starting Monday.

L.A.C. Says by Larry A. Collins Sr., George Robeson and Ben Zinser all will be grouped for reading ease on Page B-3, the page opposite editorial.

Zinser's column will be found in The Press-Telegram, too, on the page opposite editorial starting Monday.

Mrs. Kennedy Is Hit by Sargent Shriver

FAIRHAVEN, Mass (AP) — Poverty War Director Sargent Shriver, husband of Eunice Kennedy, ran into another Kennedy woman Saturday — but she was not related to the famous family.

The meeting was completely accidental.

Shriver was driving west on U.S. Route 6 and collided with a car operated by Mrs. Frances Kennedy, 41, of Acushnet, at the end of a bridge leading to New Bedford.

The 50-year-old Shriver said he was not injured and Mrs. Kennedy told police she was "just shaken up."

AIRCRAFT WRECKAGE ON SNOW-COVERED HILL

Crash of this chartered DC3 twin-engine transport plane shortly after takeoff from Salt Lake City Municipal Airport in snowstorm killed all 13 persons aboard early Saturday. Plane was scheduled to pick up more passengers at Provo, Utah, en route to afternoon football game at Albuquerque between Brigham Young University and New Mexico teams. (Story, Page A-13.)

L.A.C. Says:

A Bit of Sophistry

According to a Washington news story, 200 top U. S. officials have passed a "conflict of interest test," including the President. The chairman of the Civil Service Commission and chief presidential adviser on personnel handled the tests. He says all came off with clean records, having no conflicts of interest. It caused me to look up the definition of "sophistry," which is, "deceptively subtle reasoning or argumentation."

It is hard to understand how such tests can be of value when the President's own conflict of interests have been so widely publicized. His long-established monopoly of radio and TV in the Texas capital city of Austin is a glaring example. Such monopoly was established when he was the Democratic leader in the Senate. It is estimated to be worth $15 million. Monopoly is possible only by rulings of the FCC, whose members are appointed by the President.

During the nine years prior to his exposure, Bobby Baker was the close associate of Sen. Johnson. It has been shown how Baker gained an estimated $2 million fortune using his influence as secretary of the Democratic majority. On his appearance before a Senate committee, he repeatedly took the Fifth Amendment to escape incriminating himself. The Baker case has been "swept under the carpet" by official Washington. It is apparent too many senators and administrative officials did not want his testimony.

It is an example of the low opinion these officials have of the people's intelligence to brazenly report no conflict of interests under these circumstances. The Civil Service head says, "This is the first time anything of this nature has been done—I think this is a healthy innovation in dealing with the conflict of interest problem."

The President's position is supposed to be cleared because his family has placed all its holdings in a trust. But the trust is headed by a man who was a part of the Johnson enterprises for many years. It must also be recognized that as the trust increases in value it increases the Johnson fortune—which will revert to him when the trust is ended. It is doubtful any government decisions will be harmful to the trust as long as Mr. Johnson is President. When he retires from office it reverts to him and his family.

The only way the stigma on the President could have been removed would have been for the FCC to end the monopoly—or for the President to end all ownership of the properties. But that did not happen and apparently will not. It is, in my opinion, pure "sophistry" for his government officials to now say such tests are made for all officials. If the leader accepts such condition as ethical for himself—how can we expect other public officials to act any differently? If this seems a severe criticism I ask, how does the reader feel about it?

This same callousness was demonstrated by the state legislature this year, voting fabulous pensions for members who may lose their offices because of reapportionment. It is reflected in the several county tax assessor scandals over the state whereby they have received payments for under-assessing large properties. It was disclosed last year when the state controller was shown to have received over half his campaign funds from estate appraisers whom he appointed. It raises the question of the people's attitude. Have they, too, reached a point where they are willing to accept such "sophistry" as a part of our social, economic and political outlook?—L.A.C.

Retired General Dies of Gunshot Wound

The death of a retired Army major general who lived in Palos Verdes Estates was declared suicide by the coroner's office Saturday.

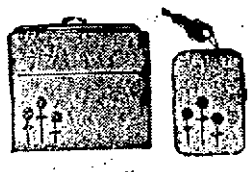

Palos Verdes Estates Officer Roger Sherwin, on routine patrol, found the body of Ivan L. Foster, 69, a veteran of two world wars, lying in the 1500 block of Via Talamantes shortly after 8 p.m. Friday.

A .45-caliber pistol with one bullet expended was found near the body of the victim, who organized California's National Guard Reserve First Division during the Korean conflict. Foster enlisted as a private in the Illinois National Guard in World War I, and was awarded the Medal of Verdun for his participation in that battle.

Police said Foster had left a note for his wife, Frances, in their home at 849 Rincon Lane. His son, Air Force Lt. Col. Ivan L. Foster Jr., was summoned home from a base in Texas.

Funeral arrangements are pending at White and Day Mortuary, Rendondo Beach.

Russ Say, U.S. Denies, Refugee Who Fled to Alaska Detained

The Soviet Union has protested that Gregory Sanapushkin, one of two Russians who defected in Alaska is being prevented from returning, but the U.S. State Department says it is not true.

"If these people want to return to the Soviet Union they will be permitted to do so," said Joseph Reap, State Department press officer, Saturday.

He recalled that U.S. Coast Guard officials had made arrangements to return the two men to Soviet territory after they landed near Wales, westernmost point of Alaska, last Aug. 7 in a walrus-skin boat and said they wanted to return to their homeland, but then they changed their mind, Reap said.

"At no time," he added, "have we denied access to the two men by officials of the Soviet Embassy and they had several meetings in Alaska with the men.

"It is firm U.S. policy to accept requests for asylum from refugees from communism."

97, Buys Yacht

Purchase of the late sportsman-playboy Horace E. Dodge Jr.'s mansion and lavish yacht Delphine by his mother, 97-year-old Mrs. Anna Thomson Dodge, was disclosed Saturday in Detroit.

Attorney Douglas Leo Paterson, executor of Dodge's estate, said Mrs. Dodge paid the estate $200,000 for the yacht, once valued at $2.25 million, and $325,000 for the 28-room mansion.

The balance of a $600,300 total transaction covered other properties.

At a 1964 court hearing on her son's properties Mrs. Dodge had expressed a sentimental interest in the yacht, Paterson said.

Dodge, a son of the late auto pioneer Horace E. Dodge, died in 1963. He was in his 60s.

The Delphine, a magnificent 257-foot vessel known as the largest steam yacht in the country, is berthed at East Matunuck, R.I. She once carried a crew of 48 men. She has facilities for 18 passengers.

The hosts were Redemptorist Fathers who do social work in Manacapuru, a town of 3,000 about 50 miles upstream from Manaus on the junction of the Amazon and Manacapuru rivers.

Radio reports from Manacapuru said Kennedy, his wife, Ethel, and party arrived aboard the packet Percival Farqhar after a leisurely trip up the broad river.

Amnesia Ends

For 17 years amnesia darkened the life of John Christopher. Then he remembered he had a brother.

"At first I thought maybe I was losing my marbles," he said Saturday. "Then I kept remembering other things."

That was six weeks ago, he recalled in a telephone interview from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Christopher of Salisbury, Md.

In the background were heard the excited voices of the Christopher family — including John's wife, their seven children, and 23 other relatives — preparing for a Thanksgiving dinner two days late.

Christopher, a 45-year-old product-design engineer from Huntsville, Ala., disappeared in 1948 from his Eastern Shore home.

He said he still doesn't remember how it happened.

Grand Jury Hits Funding by Leaseback

interest of the taxpayers of this county," wrote Peter F. Schabarum, Grand Jury foreman.

The jurors charged that "excess rentals" have been paid to the Board of Retirement and should be returned to the county. They described "excess rentals" as those in excess of payment which would amortize the project, based on actual cost, plus interest at 4.5%.

In the case of the Hall of Administration, the Grand Jury said that if the county exercises its option to buy the building in 1980, "the optimum date to purchase," it will have paid in excess of $1.3 million over the original cost of the project, not including normal interest.

"In other words," Schabarum wrote, "the Board of Retirement, at the time of repurchase by the county, will have received its original investment back, the prescribed 4.5% interest, plus a total bonus in excess of $1.3 million."

The jury charged that this method of financing "does not permit complete public exposure to the justification for construction of a project."

It added that the system does not permit "easy public access" to terms and conditions of the agreements and to plans, and asserted "a case could be argued that some of the projects approved and built do not represent a mandate from the electorate."

The Grand Jury also charged that by "arbitrarily entering into this type of financing," the county does not "expose the project to the market place" to determine if other financing may be available at less cost.

"In recent years, comparatively little effort has been made to obtain financing through submission of a bond issue to the voters," the letter asserted.

* * * *

AGREEMENTS between the county and the Board of Retirement are subject to criticism that they are negotiated at "less than arm's length basis," the jury said.

A review of leases on county facilities, when compared to those used in private enterprise, "can only lead to the conclusion that there are agreements between the county and the Board of Retirement not apparent in their lease arrangements," the report said.

The Grand Jury letter warned that the long-range capital improvement program for the county "portends a tremendous expenditure of the taxpayers' dollars, as well as the assumption of large, long-term obligations to repay the funds required to construct the improvements contemplated in this program."

Schabarum said the purposes of the Grand Jury letter are:

—1. To correct certain inequities that are extant in existing leases with the Board of Retirement.

—2. To stop what appears to be a wholesale and indiscriminate use of this type of financing without an objective review of other available methods.

—3. To forestall future criticism that will surely come when current budgets have to be increased to provide funds to amortize the obligations incurred.

Car-Leasing Expanding by Leaps, Bounds

By GEORGE ERES

The name of the game is car leasing and every year more and more individuals are playing.

Out of an approximately 8-million-a-year passenger-car market, car-leasing now accounts for about 1 million, and estimates of growth run from a conservative 20% of the total sales to over 50%.

It's a game dealers have not gone into on a large scale in the past, but more of them are taking a hand in self-defense.

Leasing is just another method of merchandising. Some dealers use the "tool"; some don't. In addition, there are individual leasing firms and individuals in the car-lease business.

One of the strongest advocates of leasing for dealers is Sam Lee, of Los Angeles dealer and lease consultant, who publishes "Lease News."

Profits Dealer

Lee cites these advantages to the dealer:

It makes it "possible for the dealer to make a profit on the auto-finance end that he can't unless he sets up his own finance company — a profit which now goes to a bank or finance company."

Allows the dealer to hang onto his "cream puff" business — the doctor, the lawyer, the high-placed executive who now consider it a status-symbol to lease.

Provides an outlet for surplus merchandise.

Provides a steady flow of good used cars.

Enables a dealer to handle car makes other than those he is franchised to handle.

Credit Tight

Lee does not see the leasing business taking more than 20% of the market. The immediate limiting factor is that the credit requirement is tougher than for purchase.

"The very nature of the leasing business is an attempt to fit depreciation and interest costs, and in some instances maintenance as well, into a specified monthly payment," says Lee. On the high-priced cars, payments may run about $150 a month — obviously the credit rating of the leasee is important.

And, asks Lee, "Will the leasee pay a $300 or $400 deficiency if one is created?"

Two basic types of contracts are offered: the "closed" or "walkaway" and the "open."

Contract Forms

The "closed" contract sets up a specific monthly payment. If the car is turned in at contract's end showing only "normal" wear and tear, that ends the deal for the customer. He may have been required to put up a deposit to cover more than "normal" repairs and he may get this refunded. Independent appraisal may be specified to forestall argument.

The open contract may require the leasee to pay the difference between what the dealer can sell the car for after it is returned and the total of payments made.

(Unusually low advertised monthly lease terms should be investigated by the prospective leasee. This type of contract may call for a "balloon" payment —a large sum as the final payment).

The leasing business has thrown the industry "out of gear," says Newton McLaughlin, manager of the Long Beach Motor Car Dealers Association.

A Problem

"Leasing firms buy in huge volume. They move in at the start of a model year and take large numbers of cars from the factory. This creates a problem for the dealer," he said.

"Then every two years (usual term of a lease), there is a dumping of these cars in large numbers, depressing the market in used cars. Some time ago in Long Beach, a dealer bought up a large number of used cars from a rental firm and saturated the market, depressing trade-in values and causing a consumer loss. In order for the buyer to get a better deal, he had to go out of the area."

McLaughlin says the "closed" type of lease agreement is dangerous for dealers and the industry.

"If the market is depressed, the dealer takes a bath."

Revolution

If leasing grows to where it is handling the major portion of the car output, McLaughlin says, buying and selling as we know it today in the industry will disappear. Leasing can be operated out of a small office—the auto row as we know it may disappear.

To the customer, leasing has some advantages—especially in always driving a mechanically good car—but, as in anything else, it depends on the deal. A lease in itself is no guarantee of anything. The only sure way of knowing what you're getting is to shop around and compare deals.

Most firms which lease will give you figures.

The things to watch in addition to the monthly payment you are expected to make are:

—1. Is a deposit required? Is it a "true" deposit—returnable?

—2. What fees are charged as the "down" payment in addition to first and last payments often required;

—3. The capitalized cost of the auto. Prices of units do vary at various concerns. If you decide to buy the leased car at the end of the contract, the difference between payments and the cost of the unit is what you will have to pay. Obviously, a signed commitment showing the depreciated value over 12, 18 and 24 months is the way to travel.

—4. Lessee should be aware that the advertised monthly payments do not normally include other costs involved in either leasing or buying. For example, insurance is required, tax is required.

ON taxes, the lessee may save a few bucks over outright purchase. The 4% sales tax on the monthly payments basis works out at a saving from the amount paid in outright purchase.

As far as deductions from taxes for use of autos in business are concerned, it's the same for lease or purchase.

One Advantage

If you're sharp with a buck and know how to invest it, there is the advantage of no large down payment in leasing. You might put the down payment into the stock market and make it work for you.

There is one factor that lease customers should be aware of: interest. Lease rates do not show interest. According to Lee, lease firms should be "careful that interest rates not be shown as a separate item on a lease transaction, but that they be lumped into the monthly rental rates."

Most customers do not familiarize themselves with the question of interest on cars. They accept the fact that they must pay interest at so much per year.

The law allows as much as 13% per year on auto financing.

It Adds Up

However, the interest is figured on the total cost of the loan for a contract period. So say you are paying 7% per year on a three-year loan the interest totals 21%.

The lessee should be aware of percentages used to figure the monthly reserve and rental fee. These figures are basic in fixing the monthly rate.

Whether there is an advantage to leasing or outright purchase depends on the kind of a deal you can get. They vary. The only way to know for sure is to compare the figures.

License Worries for Young Motorists

By VINT MADER

The critical events in a young person's widening life include certain thrilling little milestones like the first date, first shave or cosmetics, and the first drivers' license.

However, owing to a certain change in the California Vehicle Code some young folk and their parents have been more critical than thrilled when they went for that driving license.

Because the state legislature enacted an amendment last summer, the Department of Motor Vehicles has had to set up regulations that make some applicants bring proofs of age to secure a license, says Howard Link, manager of the Long Beach DMV office.

This has brought troubles for a considerable number of persons who are under 22 and harried parents and license examiners, says Link. He readily admits he doesn't know which legislator fathered the new law or what is the basic intent behind it.

—Staff Photo

Frances Hanstein, 17 (left), of 5349 Abbeyfield St., presents her birth certificate to interviewer Alma Helm at Long Beach office of Department of Motor Vehicles. Looking on is Julie Raymond, 17, 46 Sicilian Walk. New drivers' license law requires age proof from those under 22.

* * * *

THE crucial change is in CVC Section 12802 that covers signing and swearing to the truth of statements by all applicants, with parental verification in the case of minors, into which the legislature inserted the words ". . . and the applicant shall submit such evidence of age as the department may require."

Noting that "it could be an awful problem" if the clause were interpreted to require evidence from everyone who secures or renews a license, Link said Sacramento officials of DMV worked out with legislators an age group under 22 and a list of acceptable documents for trial when the law took effect Sept. 17.

"Driver education teachers are apparently putting the point across very clearly," Link said, "but a good many students even from those classes arrive here unequipped, although they were no doubt fully informed of the requirements."

So here's how it may go sometimes, with a parent or guardian led on at the scurrying pace of the teen-age world:

The adult and a minor keyed up for peak performance under the scrutiny of a road-test examiner approach a window at the DMV office to complete the "red-tape" part of the application.

The interviewer there asks for one of the documents on the "accepted" list for evidence of age.

Faces fall—and the license-seekers depart to return another day, the adult perhaps fuming at "bureaucracy" for having wasted a trip when other important tasks are neglected and having got a teen-ager out of school early.

* * * *

NOT all the disappointed applicants are minors, of course. There is that group of 21-and 22-year-olds, technically adult, but still required to provide the age-evidence.

They can come up with some unique stories, problems and complaints, say Link and Eugene Lathrop, senior examiner of the Long Beach office.

For example, a youth from farthest Down-East New England or Deepest Dixie whose birth records are at some fishing village town hall or small parish church may object vehemently about the time and toil involved in trying to get a copy.

Totals of all the disappointed and irate have been averaging about 50 a week at the Long Beach office alone, the officials say.

For those affected, who don't want to be disappointed, the DMV list of "acceptable documents which may be used" is: birth certificates, baptism documents, transcripts of school records that confirm birth date, armed forces documents, and licenses that were issued with profile photos to minors and are being surrendered for licenses with full-face photos by those reaching majority age.

* * * *

OTHER documents that are acceptable include foreign driver's licenses when birthdate is shown, visas, passports and immigration documents that show birth date and California licenses that have become damaged, but still have legible birth date.

However, draft cards of the Selective Service System are among documents that DMV cannot accept.

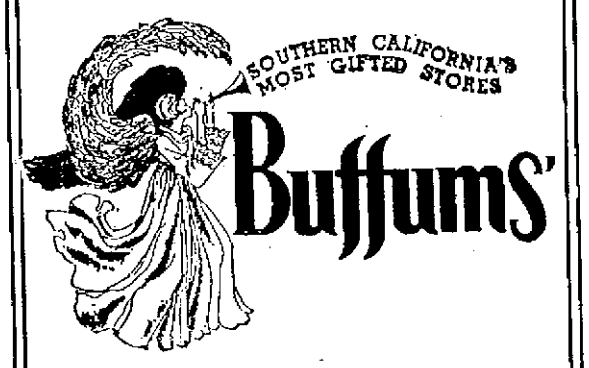

In an age that grows more complex and demanding, it seems no longer enough to reach the age of majority and be a full-grown young man or woman—at least for DMV, you must prove it as well as be it.

In the words of the reflective poet (A. E. Housman, 1859-1936) the young license applicant may say:

"And I am two-and twenty,
And Oh, 'tis true, 'tis true."

Catholics, Protestants Drafting Book of Worship

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Representatives of the Roman Catholic and Presbyterian churches, ending a two-day meeting, said Saturday that a common Book of Worship and Bible Study may be a reality before the end of next year.

Spokesmen for the groups reported basic agreement on tentative drafts for the proposed book, which they agreed would serve as a guideline in the hope of bringing them closer together.

The meeting, second in a series of conversations initiated by the American Catholic Bishops' Commission on Ecumenical Affairs, was attended by 30 persons, about equally divided between Catholic and Presbyterian theologians and lay leaders.

In a statement, they said they looked forward to joint worship on all levels from local to national "in view of the common bond in Jesus Christ between the two faiths."

* * * *

THEY ALSO proposed concrete steps toward Christian unity.

Spokesmen for the two groups said the basic drafts of the Common Book of Worship and Bible Study presented more of a "crossfire of theological divergencies than of insurmountable obstacles."

The joint committee announced a time calendar for the book:

—Preparation of a final text in January.

—Approval by the full unity delegations in early May.

—Approval by the Presbyterian General Assembly, which meets in mid-May, and by the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Conference, or of its Ecumenical Relations Committee, by late Fall.

Officials agreed that because of its official nature, the fruitful results of the interfaith agreement points toward one of the most historical steps in bringing Catholics and Protestants together on a lasting, nationwide basis, since the reformation split of four centuries ago.

Viet Cong Says Yanks Freed to 'Honor' Protests

Combined Wire Services

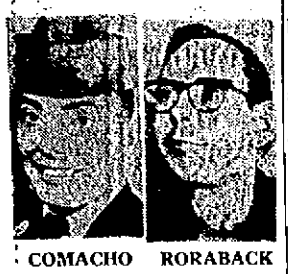

SAIGON, Sunday—The Communist Viet Cong clandestine radio announced Saturday night that two American sergeants held prisoner for two years had been released. But an American spokesman said early today there was no report of the men being turned over to American or allied forces.

The Viet Cong said the two were being released in honor of anti-Viet Nam demonstrations in the United States. The announcement came as thousands of peace pickets marched in front of the White House in Washington protesting U.S. involvment in the war.

The broadcast identified the two as Sgts. George E. Smith and Claude E. McClure, two of the more than 50 American servicemen in Communist hands in North and South Viet Nam.

SMITH McCLURE

COMACHO RORABACK

* * * *

ACCORDING to American records, Smith is from Chester, W. Va., and McClure from Chattanooga, Tenn.

Smith and McClure were among four Special Forces men captured Nov. 24, 1963, when the Communists overran the Hiep Hoa Special Forces camp, 27 miles northeast of Saigon.

One of the other two was Sgt. Isaac Comancho of El Paso, Tex., who last August became the first American to escape from Red captors.

* * * *

THE FOURTH man, Sgt. Kenneth Roraback, also of Chester, was executed on Sept. 26 in revenge for the firing-squad deaths of Communist agitators.

Mrs. Rita McClure was advised at her home in Chattanooga of the report of her husband's release. She said quietly:

"Oh, my God! I hope it's true! I hope it's true."

Mrs. McClure said she has heard nothing from her husband since his capture. They were married in July, 1963, 10 days before McClure left for Viet Nam, and she has been living in Chattanooga with her family since then.

* * * *

SMITH'S mother, Mrs. Lucille A. Potts, learned at her home in Chester of her son's reported release and she said:

"I just thank God and hope it's true!

"I've been to church the last three mornings and prayed that George could be home for Christmas.

"I won't be at ease until he's back under U.S. control."

* * * *

EARLIER this year a Russian newspaper printed a letter, allegedly written by Smith, which contained praise for the Viet Cong and said, "I'd like this testimony of an American, who was a witness to the barbarisms we are committing in South Viet Nam, to help our brothers get out faster from this cursed and unnecessary war."

Mrs. Potts said at the time that her son had volunteered for duty in Viet Nam, and he "couldn't have written such a letter in his right mind."

Muscovites Cheer American 'Boris'

MOSCOW (AP) — An initially chilly audience warmed up at the close of the opera "Boris Godunov" at the Bolshoi Theater Saturday to cheer American bass, Jerome Hines in the title role.

The tall American took five curtain calls after receiving flowers on the open stage. The audience laughed when he kissed the forehead of the short doorwoman who brought out the flowers. Hines is on his second singing tour of the Soviet Union. From Moscow he goes to Kiev.

VIET CONG FLAG IN WAR-PROTEST MARCH
Walter Teague of New York carries Communist-starred banner as newsmen interview him in Washington's mass demonstration "for peace in Viet Nam." He and fellow Viet Cong sympathizers complained that pro-American groups tore or stole some Red flags. Cuban flag is in center background of picture.

Army of Dissenters on March at White House, 25,000 Strong

Dr. Benjamin Spock, chairman of the protest, reported.

Thomas said the delegation told Cooper the marchers want a halt in the bombing of North Viet Nam, a presidential bid for a cease-fire agreement, and administration declarations that the National Liberation Front — the Viet Cong — would be represented in any negotiations, and that the United States will pull out of Viet Nam after a settlement is reached.

Gottlieb and the march sponsors did their best to keep the signs and demonstration moderate in tone, even suggesting authorized slogans for the pickets.

They weren't altogether successful. One cluster of about 30 marchers walked along chanting:

"Hey, hey LBJ

"How many kids have you killed today?"

A handful of Negroes walked along carrying signs which proclaimed them members of the Deacons, a militant Negro defense organization. "Klan Beware, Deacons Here," one of them read.

March Day dawned gray and rainy, but despite the drizzle there were pickets on the Pennsylvania Avenue sidewalk hours before the demonstration formally began.

Their number swelled as the morning wore on, and the sky cleared into a warm, bright day.

Truckloads of printed signs were on hand for the marchers. "Steps to Peace: Stop the Bombings," they read, "Stop the Bloodshed," and "War Erodes the Great Society."

March monitors wearing orange armbands kept the pickets moving in half-block circles, and tried to weed out bitterly worded signs that went beyond the phrasing authorized by the sponsors.

There was a gaudy banner in blue and red which caricatured Johnson and called him a hypocrite. There were the Viet Cong flags. "McNamara, Get Human," one placard read. "The U.S. is the Aggressor," said another.

There were ironic notes, too. A U.S. Army bus, from Ft. Meyer, Va., stood by in Lafayette Park as the first aid station.

A uniformed soldier watched the picket line and shook his head. "I have never seen anything quite so silly," he said.

Marchers held aloft placards proclaiming their hometowns. There were signs from San Jose, Calif., from Chicago, from Ballston Spa, N.Y.

There were counterpickets, too. Columns of police sought to keep them away from the main demonstration. They marched across Pennsylvania Avenue. "To Hell With Communists and Communism," one of their signs said.

Among them was a man wrapped in chains, dragging a wooden hammer and sickle. "Bomb Hanoi," read his sign, topped by a small U.S. flag.

And there was a picket from the American Nazi Party, his street corner shielded by police, his sign reading:

"Free Gasoline and Matches for Peace Creeps."

A foreign car rolled down Pennsylvania Avenue and, as it passed the picketers, the sun-roof opened and a woman held aloft a sign saying "Peace Finks Go Home."

REP. GEORGE BROWN

Viet Peace Speech by Southland Solon

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON—Neutralization of Southeast Asia under a United Nations peace-keeping force and a six-point program for ending the Viet Nam war were advocated by a Southern California congressman at Saturday's anti-Viet Nam War rally here.

Rep. George Brown, D-Monterey Park, urged U.S. support of a neutralist organization composed of both Viet Nam, Cambodia, Laos, Thailand, Burma, Malaysia and "other Asiatic nations who might later seek to join."

Brown, the only government official to address the rally, on the Washington Monument grounds, said any member nation should be free to select its own form of government "without interference from its neighbors, or any great power."

* * * *

"I suggest that each member of this organization commit itself to renounce military force in its relations with all its neighbors, and that (the members) receive in return the protection of a United Nations peace force—and the guarantee of its security by all the great powers, both the Communist and non-Communist blocs," said Brown, who is serving his second House term.

Brown also suggested that the U.S. give economic aid to the troubled area through a Southeast Asian Development Bank, and that the U.S. "make a 10-year pledge of support which would be at least equal to what it has expended in this area the last 10 years."

He urged that other nations do likewise.

Brown made his proposal for a neutralist organization after offering a six-point program for ending the Viet Nam conflict. He said the United States should—

1. Call for a cease-fire throughout Viet Nam, whenever the other side is ready to accept it, and announce that it is halting the bombing of North Viet Nam for an indefinite period of time.

2. Halt the introduction of additional men and material and ask the other side to do the same.

3. Reiterate its support for a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam based on the principles of the Geneva Accords of 1954—including the eventual withdrawal of all foreign military forces, a prohibition against alliances, the peaceful reunification of Viet Nam and self-determination for the Vietnamese people.

4. Declare its willingness to negotiate with all concerned parties, including the Viet Cong—a primary combatant.

5. Declare its willingness to accept as part of the settlement a representative new government in South Viet Nam, selected through a free and fair election supervised by the United Nations.

6. Declare its support for a United Nations peace force to supervise the cease-fire, provide for peaceful establishment of a new government in South Viet Nam, protect the rights of all citizens and protect the neutrality of North and South Viet Nam."

Brown stressed that the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong should also issue declarations cited in his third, fifth and sixth points.

Although Brown had top billing of the half-dozen speakers at the rally, the crowd's reception for him was less enthusiastic than for Norman Thomas. The old Socialist got a standing ovation before he even began his emotional, rambling talk.

Brown was often applauded moderately, but there were scattered boos when he said that "representatives of our government are seeking to open the door to negotiations in a multitude of ways."

Arcadia, El Capitan Top Review Bands

Lakewood High, largest on the roster with 3,850 pupils, Parlier, a San Joaquin Valley school with an enrollment of only 360.

Police said no incidents marred the yearly event, although review officials reported one girl became ill and had to be taken to a hospital for treatment.

In addition to judging of bands, drum majors, majorettes and majorette teams were given prizes.

The evening awards ceremony in the Municipal Auditorium was supplemented by announcement of winners in the California State Baton Twirling Championships held in conjunction with the review.

Many weary young strutters completed the trip down Ocean Boulevard with their high school bands, then entered state championship competition immediately thereafter.

Winners of the 1965 All-Western Band Review by divisions were:

CLASS AA: Anaheim and Pasadena, Grossmont, Montebello, Santa Monica.

CLASS A: Mt. Miguel, Helix, Loara Saxon (Anaheim), Norwalk, Monrovia.

CLASS B: El Cajon Valley, Baldwin Park, Glendora, Savanna (Anaheim), San Mateo.

CLASS C: Hilltop, Monte Vista, Granite Hills, La Canada, Tulare.

CLASS D: Dos Palos, Castle Park, Santana, Chula Vista, Selma.

CLASS E: Coalinga, Chowchilla, Tranquillity, Orosi, St. Augustine.

MILITARY DRUM MAJOR: Tom Peacock, Savanna (Anaheim), Bruce Van Dale, Glendora; Larry Cooper, Loara Saxon (Anaheim).

MILITARY DRUM MAJORETTE: Cheryl Wilkinson, Azusa; Sally Kates, Grossmont; Eileen Penman, El Cajon Valley.

TWIRLING DRUM MAJOR: David Hoffman, Los Banos; James Williams, Santa Monica; Bryan Reeves, Covina.

TWIRLING DRUM MAJORETTE: Nancy Rios, Montclair; Diane Nakamitsu, San Mateo; Pat Frederick, Norwalk.

MAJORETTE TEAM: Merced, Hilltop, Los Banos, Glendora, Dos Palos.

California State Baton Twirling Championships were awarded to boys and girls in senior through juvenile divisions. They included:

Senior Girls: Diane Nakamitsu, 16, San Mateo; Christine Dorian, 16, San Lorenzo; Barbara Schneider, 17, Whittier; Jane Proud, 16, Chino, and Pat Wagner, 16, Bellflower.

Boys' division winners were Mike Gray, 16, San Diego, senior boys; Pat Gray, 12, San Diego, junior boys; Michael Cruz, 8, Cupertino, juvenile boys.

Other girl winners were Becky West, 13, Ontario, junior girls, Debbie Sue Porter, 9, Oceanside, juvenile girls and juvenile strut; Diane Nakamitsu, 16, San Mateo, senior strut, and Carol Moss, 14, El Centro, junior strut.

'Where's Action' Bought for Warner Film

Stan Margulies has been assigned by Jack L. Warner, president of Warner Bros., to produce the company's motion picture version of the forthcoming novel, "Where's the Action?"

Margulies now has three productions in preparation for Warner Bros. The others are based on Norman Mailer's novel, "An American Dream," and Jean Kerr's play, "Poor Richard."

"Where's the Action?" was purchased last week by Warner Bros. The unpublished first novel was written by Bruce Douglas Reeves, a 24-year-old San Franciscan. New American Library will publish the book in fall of 1966.

Cong Battalions Maul Government Troops

QUAN DAO TENG, Viet Nam, Sunday (AP)—Four Viet Cong battalions badly mauled a government regiment Saturday after it had beaten the Communists in an earlier battle.

Reinforced by North Vietnamese regulars, the guerrilas machine-gunned all government troopers who responded to a surrender call during the fighting on a French-owned rubber plantation, 35 miles northwest of Saigon.

Two of four government battalions were beleieved to have suffered heavy casualties. American advisers to the 7th Regiment of the Vietnamese army were said to be among the dead and wounded.

Ten C123 transport planes evacuated the most severely wounded Saturday night.

A Vietnamese military source said 400 Communists had been killed. U.S. sources said such confusion prevailed that it was impossible to get a reasonably accurate count of the enemy toll.

L.A. Peace March Not Very Big

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—An estimated 1,000 marchers paraded from Pershing Square to MacArthur Park Saturday in a demonstration to coincide with a larger anti-Viet Nam policy march in Washington, D.C.

Police said there was only one incident during the "walk for peace in Viet Nam" along Wilshire Boulevard.

Two men grabbed a sign away from a girl marcher and were arrested on a charge of battery. Officer John Gehlsen identified the two men as James O'Rourke, 46, and Hershal Gifford, both of Los Angeles. Gehlsen said the two men had been heckling the marchers before the incident.

ASKS PRESIDENTIAL POWERS BE TRIMMED

Report Proposes Revitalization of Congress

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress should install information computers, trim presidential powers, alter the Supreme Court and start "thwarting, hampering and opposing" the executive in exercising its check-and-balance power.

These were some of the proposals for 'revitalizing Congress contained in three studies sponsored and published today by the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research. Nine other reports are to follow.

Dr. Lewis A. Dexter, a visiting lecturer in sociology at the University of Maryland, said there is a "real danger of Congress becoming too 'nice' as an institution in this era of "consensus" government.

He observed that the last five presidents were men of "considerable prudence" and then added:

"But suppose, which is by no means impossible — a couple of fire-eating chief executive men with the worst features of Andrew Jackson; suppose, for that matter, a president who treated Mexico and India as Lyndon Johnson treated the Dominican Republic; or suppose just stupid and unimaginative presidents, then many of those who now deplore check - and - balance would thank God for the Congress."

Dr. Kenneth Janda, assistant professor of political science at Northwestern University, said automated information processing systems would give congressmen fingertip "recall information that would help voting decisions," analyses of public documents and studies of constituents' interests.

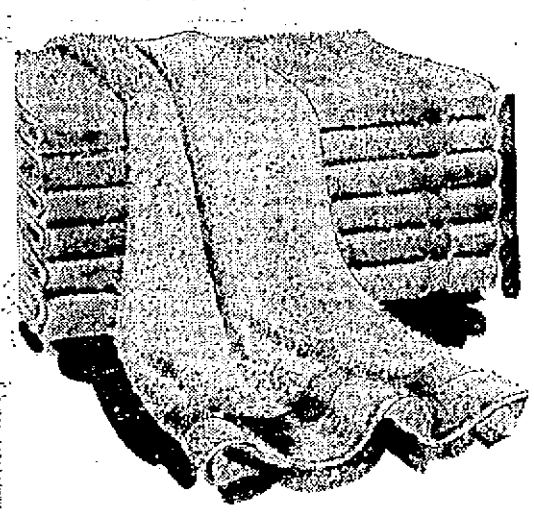

He estimated the cost might be kept under $300 million, and be worth it.

* * * *

THE JOINT committee on Organization of Congress, now considering new legislative reform proposals, has heard other testimony on computerizing information for the lawmakers.

QUAKES DISCOUNTED

Bid of California as Atom-Cracker Site Still Strong

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
I. P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON — California's bid for a huge atom smasher is unshaken by Midwestern claims that the state's earthquakes make it unsuitable for the $300-million facility.

So says Dr. Paul McDaniel, director of research for the Atomic Energy Commission and the man coordinating the evaluation of sites proposed in the 85 bids being considered by the federal government for the giant research center.

McDANIEL

Dr. McDaniel clears up the earthquake question in an interview with The Independent in which he discusses some of the specifics of the general criteria put forth by the AEC for a site.

Selection of the site has become a highly charged political issue with areas in virtually every state hoping to get the 200-billion-electron-volt accelerator, which is perhaps the biggest piece of pork to come down the pike in several years. A final site selection may not be made until after next year's elections.

* * * *

DR. McDANIEL, a lean, graying scientist who denies that he's gotten any particular political heat in the site-evaluation task, acknowledges that the general criteria established by the AEC last year have been broadly interpreted, sometimes through rose-colored glasses.

Dr. McDaniel, who points out that one factor will be weighed against another in evaluating sites, gives the following clarifications of some of the general criteria set forth by AEC:

Geology—Earthquake activity is not overriding, assuming a site were not directly over a bedrock fault. California's seismic activity was a big point in a presentation made recently by 13 Midwestern governors, but the Midwest was shaken by a temblor shortly after they made their pitch.

A minor earthquake would not impair the accelerator seriously because the huge machine would be moved uniformly. To be avoided is terrain in which the doughnut-shaped ring might settle out of horizontal uniformity, since even a few thousandths of an inch distortion in the ring would necessitate costly adjustments.

Ideally, AEC would like a site on a deep, solid block of granite with an even overburden of soil deep enough to provide the 35 feet of dirt necessary to shield the facility.

"Unfortunately, God didn't make the land like that, McDaniel says.

Climate—Important largely because of design, construction and maintenance costs. Extremely cold, humid climates would necessitate additional insulation and enclosure of the ring and its appurtenant buildings. Relatively low humidity is desirable to facilitate evaporation of water for the accelerator's cooling system, which will use up to 4,000 gallons of water a minute.

Transportation—The site should be within an hour's driving time of a major airport.

Just how critical is this factor is indicated by the fact that high-energy physicists last year made about 4,000 one-day trips to existing accelerators. Thus, a transportation layover of an hour or so could cause a great waste of highly valuable scientific manpower.

One facet in evaluation of this factor will be the home bases of the physicists expected to be using the accelerator. The largest concentration is Chicago, 150, followed by New York, 105; Boston, 110; San Francisco, 78 and Los Angeles, 67.

Community—This is the stickiest wicket of all, because of the esoteric factors beyond the basic need of a city of at least 50,000 population with adequate available housing.

The less-tangible aspects include "proximity to a cultural center that includes a large university that will provide intellectual and cultural opportunities for staff and families." Community pride being what it is, this facet of the criteria probably has been the most broadly interpreted.

"There are only about 100 living people capable of designing this accelerator and only a few hundred capable of using it. While we don't treat them as prima donnas, it's obvious that they must be attracted to live and work in the area selected. Many such individuals are attracted to an area because of its cultural and intellectual activities."

Red Chinese Lose Tunisia Backing

TUNIS (AP) — Communist China's heavy-handed diplomacy has lost her another influential friend in Africa and helped defeat the latest move to bring Peking into the United Nations.

A serious crisis in China's relations with Tunisia has brought the two countries to the verge of a diplomatic break and has cost China the prestige victory of recognition by a simple majority of the U.N. General Assembly.

Tunisia's outspokenly pro-western president, Habib Bourguiba, for years demanded Peking's admission to the world body. In 1963 Chinese Premier Chou En-lai visited Tunis and obtained Bourguiba's agreement to establish diplomatic relations.

* * * *

BUT AS THE Chinese sought to exploit the newly found friendship, Bourguiba became increasingly alarmed by their penetration attempts in Africa and their blustering efforts to dominate all the Afro-Asian world.

After long taking a position of nonalignment, Bourguiba abruptly changed position in Viet Nam. Almost alone among African leaders, he blamed the Viet Nam war on Chinese Communist ambitions.

In an interview with the French magazine Realites earlier this month, Bourguiba denounced Red Chinese leaders as madmen resembling Hitler who were leading the nations into a third world war.

"Any concessions to them would only raise their unlimited ambitions still further," the Tunisian leader declared.

* * * *

In the U.N. General Assembly Nov. 18, Tunisia's abstention helped swing the balance in the critical vote on China's admission to the United Nations. A two-thirds majority would have been needed to bring China in, but the moral victory of a simple majority would have given Peking a prestige boost.

The General Assembly tied 47-47 with 20 absentions and thus rejected the resolution called for Red China's admission. If Tunisia had voted yes as in previous years, the resolution would have won a simple majority.

HEIRESS OUT OF HIDING

Anna Maria Hitz Bierschenk, 18, heiress to millions, Saturday emerged from hiding in Caracas, Venezuela, long enough to have picture taken with husband. Almost all her life she had been center of custody fight between mother, who was awarded legal custody, and father and father's kin. Mother, in Washington, D.C., had reported her missing and wants to hear from her personally that she is all right and happy with Ulrich Bierschenk, 25, whom she introduced to newsmen as her husband. She said she gave birth to a daughter Nov. 2, asked to be let alone.

Three New Legal Codes Being Drafted for State

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Plans for drafting three complete new codes to replace California's ancient penal code, which was adopted in 1872, were announced Saturday.

The announcement was made by Arthur H. Sherry after the first meeting of the advisory board of California's Penal Revision Project. Sherry is director of the project.

Work is going forward, Sherry said, on the drafting of a Criminal Code, Code of Criminal Procedure and a Corrections Code to replace material now contained in a single code.

The Correction Code will contain all of the various provisions now scattered throughout the California statutes relating to the operation of prisons, county jails, probation and parole services.

* * * *

THE PROJECT was authorized by an act of the legislature which established a 10-man joint legislative committee under the chairmanship of Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville.

The advisory board is composed of experts of the bench and bar who will act as a consultative body to the committee staff and the legislature.

Members are Gregory S. Stout of the San Francisco Bar; Judge Folger Emerson of the Alameda County Superior Court; Arlo Smith, chief assistant attorney general; Keith Sorenson, district attorney of San Mateo County; Jay Ballantyne, Tulare County district attorney; Judge Lewis Drucker, retired Los Angeles County Superior Court judge and former chairman of the Adult Authority; Richard Buckley, chief public defense, Los Angeles County; and Edward L. Barrett Jr., dean of the school of law, University of California at Davis.

The advisory board heard reports from Sherry and the committee staff on the progress of the staff work over the past several months on such topics as arson, homicide, kidnaping, sentencing and corrections.

* * * *

GRUNSKY announced that he was working on the formulation of a Citizens Advisory Committee to act as "a sounding board" of public opinion. He indicated that the committee would be composed of a Northern California and a Southern California section of approximately 40 persons in each section.

The citizens committee will assist the advisory board and the legislative committee in determining public reaction to various proposals for change in the criminal laws.

Workers Hit Each Other's Pocketbooks

EDISON, N. J. (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. afternoon shift was prevented from entering the plant Saturday by a group of morning shift employes who were apparently seeking "revenge," a company spokesman said.

He said a small group of morning shift employes blocked the entrance and forced the plant's 1,300 afternoon shift employes to return home, causing them to lose a day's wages.

Apparently, the spokesman said, the action was to avenge a similar blockout Wednesday by afternoon-evening shift employes that prevented morning shift employes from earning holiday pay.

The dispute began when a group of employes asked to be paid earlier than usual before the Thanksgiving holiday, he said. When they were told it was impossible, they refused to leave the plant.

Finally, he said, they left the plant but stayed in the parking lot and refused to allow the morning shift to report for work.

Set Viet War 'Debate-Ins'

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — College students are planning a series of 'Debate-Ins" on the war in Viet Nam at campuses across the country on Dec. 7, the conservative organization of Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) said.

Tom Huston, national chairman of the group, said YAF members would debate representatives of Students for a Democratic Society (SDC), which opposes U.S. involvement in Viet Nam and has helped organize many student protest demonstrations.

'Eve' Girls Score Over The Peepers

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Girls at a Dublin factory ended a strike Saturday after employers agreed to alter a transparent plastic door they installed on the ladies' powder room. The strike lasted a week.

The trouble began when officials at Eve of Dublin, Ltd., an underwear factory, had a wooden door torn down and replaced it with a plastic one. The management said the girls spent too long in the powder room smoking.

The 150 girls said the new door was transparent, and the ladies' room was visible from outside.

After the girls walked out the Workers Union of Ireland held talks with employers. Under agreement reached Saturday the employers said they would cover the lower portion of the door.

The girls return to work Tuesday.

Boy Gets Picture of President

If 11-year-old Richard Hester seems unusually chipper these days, there's a darn good reason for it, his friends at Bret Harte Elementary School will tell you.

Five weeks ago, Richard, of 5865 Walnut Ave., sent a letter to President Johnson, accompanied by a drawing he did.

Well, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hester hasn't quite been himself since he got a reply from the White House last week.

* * * *

"IT TOOK them a month to answer me," the blond, green-eyed sixth grader said the other day, "but I'm sure happy they did."

In addition to receiving a picture of Johnson, Richard got a booklet on the White House and a nice note of thanks from the President's personal secretary, Juanita D. Roberts.

In his own letter, Richard had asked for a picture of the President.

"Please have it little-sized," he had written. "I would really be happy to get it."

* * * *

THE PICTURE wasn't quite as "little sized" as he had hoped, so he won't be putting it in his photo album. But he has bigger plans: he intends to take the 5-by-7-inch photograph and frame it.

"I'm going to put it up in my room," he declared proudly.

Richard's drawing for the President, by the way, showed the Statue of Liberty, the White House, the Capital building, and the face of a quarter. A large order for a small artist. But Richard managed to set them all on the one sheet of paper.

Which shouldn't have surprised the President really, as Congress does it all the time—that is, pack a lot of little things into what initially was a single piece of legislation.

Name Indian Health Trio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appointment of three new members to the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Indian Health was announced by the public health service.

They are Dr. Cecil Legriel Wittson, Omaha, Neb., dean of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine; John D. Dressler, Carson City, Nev., chairman of the Inter-Tribal Indian Council of Nevada, Inc.; and Cato Valandra, Rosebud, S.D. president of the Rosebud Sioux Tribal Council.

The next meeting of the nine-member committee will be held Dec. 6-8 in Phoenix, Ariz.

GOP Chiefs Urge Gifts for S. Viets

WASHINGTON, (UPI) — House Republican leaders called on Americans today to help fill a 100-car trainload of food, medical supplies, toys and clothes for distribution as Christmas gifts to the South Vietnamese.

"We believe this program should be a convincing answer to the thoughtless mob of demonstrators who are advocating that we turn Viet Nam over to the Communists," the GOP leaders said in a statement.

The gifts, which also may include household supplies, tools, and other useful items, will be collected during a cross-country train trip originating here Dec. 15 and terminating on the West Coast. The collection then will be shipped to Viet Nam for distribution by U.S. troops.

* * * *

THE NONPARTISAN project is labeled ACTT (Americans' Christmas Train and Trucks). It is sponsored by Young Republicans, Young Democrats and the national Junior Chamber of Commerce Organizations.

A statement urging "wholehearted participation" in the project was signed by Reps. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House GOP leader; Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, GOP whip; Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican conference; John J. Rhodes of Arizona, chairman of the House GOP policy committee; and Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the House Republican campaign committee.

BROWN TELLS GOAL

Education Gets LBJ Top Priority

PASADENA (AP) — "Education tops the list" of the fundamental goals of President Johnson's Great Society and the Democratic Party of California, Gov. Brown said Saturday night.

"Excellence in education. That is the first goal of this administration," Brown said in prepared remarks before the 47th Assembly District Democratic Dinner. The Los Angeles County lower house district has been a Republican stronghold.

Brown, expected to announce his candidacy for re-election in January, said that next year his administration "will go to the people with our record and our program . . . we will take action and plan for the future."

LBSC Has Week for Coeds

Crowning of "Diamond Jim" Friday night will climax "Women's Week" which starts Monday at Long Beach State College.

Coeds will select Diamond Jim from among eight candidates in campus-wide voting Thursday. The winner will be crowned at the Diamond Jim "turnabout" dance in the college cafeteria.

Diamond Jim candidates are Joe Bleakley, Chris Canaday, Steve Case, Gaylord Daniel, Bob Kaltenbach, Bob Kline, Ken Mayers and Lee Spath.

Purpose of the week, according to the college, is to further ideas about women and to foster new friendships among women students and the women faculty members.

* * * * *

OPENING EVENT Monday is a noon lecture by Mary Lou Burnett of the Patricia Stevens Modeling School in Lecture Hall 51 on "How to Be Feminine in a Masculine World." Miss Burnett will be the honored guest at a 1 p.m. tea.

Diamond Jim campaigning will continue throughout the week. Wednesday noon the candidates will perform in skits in front of the college bookstore. A student-faculty potluck dinner will be held at the cafeteria at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Friday noon three members of the faculty will answer impromptu questions concerning women in a panel discussion in Lecture Hall 151. The panel includes Dr. Kenneth Shanks, Dr. Hugh Smith and Dr. David Dressler.

Theme for the 9:10 p.m. to 1 a.m. dance is "Holly-Daze." Diamond Jim will be crowned at midnight.

Government Strike Ends in Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Some 200,000 government workers ended their strike Saturday when the government agreed to a budget that will provide salary increases for its employes next year.

The proposed salary raises will boost the budget from 8 billion pesos to 13 billion pesos, a rise of about $200 million.

The workers, who struck early this week, had asked for a 48% increase and the government counteroffer was a 25% hike. The cost of living has increased 55% in the first 10 months of 1965.

The 300,000-member Central Workers Union staged a 24-hour strike Wednesday in support of the government workers and the combined walkout virtually paralyzed Uruguay.

Kuwait Sheik Sworn as Ruler

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Sheik Sabah as-Salem as-Sabah took the oath as the 12th ruler of Kuwait Saturday and promised to continue the foreign and domestic policies of his elder brother, Abdullah, who died Wednesday of a heart ailment, Kuwait Radio reported.

The broadcast said Sabah paid tribute to "the remarkable achievements" of the late ruler who used Kuwait's vast amounts of oil money to modernize the tiny sheikdom.

The new ruler was sworn in at an extraordinary session of the National Assembly, the broadcast said.

U.S. CRAFT DENY CONG ACCESS TO KEY AREAS

Pacific Mine Force Staff Chief Tells of Operations Off Viet

By BUCK LANIER
Naval Affairs Reporter

The belief that one nation's navy can control the seas is a fallacy, according to Capt. Frank N. Shamer, chief of staff, Pacific Mine Force.

"Denying to the enemy use of a selected area for a period of your own choosing is the precise goal," Capt. Shamer declared.

The former World War II submariner pointed out that the Mine Force's "Market Time" operations off Viet Nam was a prime example for the U.S. Navy.

"Our minesweepers and coastal surveillance vessels now are denying the Viet Cong access to the coastal area to infiltrate spies, guerrillas and run supplies. Our stop and search methods on all junks and related craft gives us 100% effectiveness, too," he declared.

The chief of staff picked up an unusual souvenir when he was engineering officer of the USS Seal — Japanese bottom paint on his submarine.

The boat was rammed while firing on a convoy, but he managed to escape in a way submariners like to escape — dry.

"There sure was a lot of rice and beans to get off when we surfaced," the captain said.

Capt. Shamer admitted he was partial to the "small ship Navy" because of the "spirit, attitude and group identification."

He pointed out, too, that minesweepers have a ticklish material problem since everything must be nonmagnetic.

"This creates special procurement problems, too," he said. "Some parts are not available readily and in many cases it takes unusual self reliance by the crew to keep operable."

He came to his present assignment from Paris where he served as chief of the joint plans branch of the Plans, Policy and Operations Division, Headquarters, U.S. European Command.

Capt. Shamer was in Long Beach at the beginning of his naval career aboard the cruiser USS Tuscaloosa in 1937 and nearly got back in 1956. He had been ordered to report to Mine Division 7 but a last minute change sent him to commander-in-chief, Atlantic, Norfolk, Va.

Long Beach duty did come up again in 1959 when he was given command of the fleet oiler USS Pasumpsic, for 13 months.

Capt. Shamer has seen plenty of changes in Long Beach, "all for the positive, and plenty between 1960 and the date of my return this summer."

He received the Silver Star for the service on the Seal, the Navy Commendation Medal with Combat V for service as commanding officer of the USS Queenfish and the Submariners Combat Pin.

Bread Strike May Spread Over Britain

LONDON (UPI)—The Labor government Saturday was faced with the possibility that union bakers would extend their bread strike throughout England and Wales.

Everything appeared to depend on the decision of the 12-man executive of the 32,000-member bakers' union, which meets in Birmingham this afternoon.

The strike resulted in long lines outside baker's shops for most of the week in Wales and the Midland regions of England. A supporting strike started Friday in the Greater London region spread the bread famine to the south.

Teacher of English Assails Colleagues

BOSTON (AP) — The way English is being taught to high school students who are slow or only average learners is shocking and shameful, the executive director of the National Council of Teachers of English said Saturday.

James R. Squire said, "I cannot believe that American society will support such indifference and lack of concern about the English programs for almost half of our students so evident in this country today."

In a prepared report on a national study of high school English programs, Squire said:

"If I speak bitterly, it is because I know we can do better . . . for teachers of literature not to present literature, teachers of composition to ignore composition, teachers of language to ignore all we know about the social dialects of their pupils—seems to me shocking and shameful."

He noted "little attempt to introduce intellectually stimulating learning, an absence of imaginative literature and excessive reliance on the technological, the scientific, the mechanical; a much greater use of routine drill books, workbooks, and 'canned' duplicated lessons.

"Indeed, again and again, we found the same teacher performing brilliantly with her honors students, performing dully and dismally with the dullard an hour later," he said.

Calif. Crop Receipts to Set Record

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Federal estimates of California's 1965 gross agricultural cash receipts indicate a record figure, Gov. Brown said Saturday.

"Our earlier forecast that California's farm product value would equal or exceed the $3.6 billion record set in 1964 is being borne out," Brown said.

Brown said his statement was based on a recent report from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service.

California's cash receipts from farm marketings are running 2 per cent above 1964, according to the federal report covering the first nine months of the year, Brown said.

Brown said the federal report shows that the value of California crops is only slightly ahead of 1964, while livestock and poultry are up 5%.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

13 Killed in Plane Bound for Game

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A two-engine football charter plane groping its way through a snowstorm struck one hill and crashed into another southwest of Salt Lake City early Saturday, killing all 13 persons aboard.

Wreckage of the Edde Airlines DC3 splintered 500 yards across a canyon beyond the two hills. Bodies were scattered, most of them burned beyond recognition. Only the tail section and a sheared-off wing were discernible in the charred ruins.

Searchers tagged 12 bodies and said the remains of the 13th possibly were among the others.

The nine passengers and four crew members were en route from Salt Lake City to Provo, 35 air miles south, to pick up more passengers for a flight to Albuquerque, N.M., and the Saturday afternoon Brigham Young-New Mexico football game. No football players were aboard.

The victims were: T. R. Gledhill, 43, Salt Lake City businessman; Dr. Tony Dalton, Dr. Gordon Lewis, Dr. Marion Probert, Dr. Bernard Kritchfield and Dr. Roger Parkinson, all Salt Lake City physicians; Garth Edde, 45, the pilot; Kenneth Myers, co-pilot; Norma Jenkins, stewardess; Diana Edde, 17, daughter of the pilot; Salt Lake City attorney Richard Wilkins, deadhead pilot Calvin Higgs and J. Peterson. All were from Salt Lake City.

10,000 N-Warheads in Europe

PARIS (UPI)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara told a meeting of NATO defense ministers Saturday the United States has more than 10,000 nuclear warheads assigned to its strategic forces or stockpiled in Europe.

He said this number would be increased by 20% within the next six months.

"This will represent a doubling of nuclear weapons strength in Europe over the past five years," McNamara said.

After the meeting, McNamara left for Saigon for an on-the-spot visit to Viet Nam battlefronts.

New Opposition for De Gaulle

PARIS (AP)—A vigorous Kennedy-type campaign by handsome Jean Lecanuet has thrown shivers of fear into the supporters of President Charles de Gaulle, with the French presidential election only a week away.

LECANUET

Government ministers have started a vigorous counterattack and their main target is Lecanuet.

Gen. De Gaulle, after announcing that he would not take part in the political maneuvering and would make only one brief address before the voting, has decided to go on television Tuesday night.

He also will speak on Friday when the campaign for the Dec. 5 vote closes.

No one expects Lecanuet to win, or even to finish in second place, but his raids on the Gaullist centralist stronghold could—if the trend continues in the final week—leave De Gaulle with less than 50% of the total vote.

This would force a second round of voting Dec. 19, with only the two top candidates left on the ballot.

Some sources close to De Gaulle have hinted the haughty 75-year-old general would consider this an affront on his dignity. They say that rather than take part in a run-off election, De Gaulle would retire.

Vatican Treasures Recovered

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Police said Saturday a sharp-eyed gardener led them to a field where he found three of the four treasures stolen Friday from the Vatican library. The find included two manuscripts considered priceless.

The manuscripts of 14th-century humanist Francesco Petrarch and 16th-century poet Torquato Tasso were wrapped in a package and undamaged. A replica of the crown of St. Stephen, less valuable, was slightly bent and some of the small stones in the crown had been pried out.

Still missing was the fourth item stolen -- a crystal box containing the bloodstained pages of an address Ecuadorian President Garcia Moreno was holding when he was assassinated in 1875.

Cafe Burner Held for Murder

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — A teen-ager who was refused service at a Providence nightclub was charged with murder Saturday for a fire at the club that killed one man and seriously burned eight other persons.

Police said three teen-agers were refused service Friday night at Fiore's Cafe. The drinking age in Rhode Island is 21. Later that night, authorities charged, the three returned to the cafe and set it on fire in reprisal.

Vincent R. Iacobucci, 18, pleaded innocent in Sixth District Court to both murder and statutory-burning charges. The case was continued to Dec. 9 for hearing.

Gales Lash Northeast

CHICAGO (AP) — Gales on the tail of a major storm lashed the northeast Saturday after dumping heavy snow near the north-central border and loosing tornadoes in the Midwest.

Buffalo, N.Y., Airport was raked with gusts up to 59 m.p.h, and power failures hit South Buffalo and Lackawanna as well as other portions of the state.

Forty and 50-mile winds in the Watertown, N.Y., area tipped over a house trailer, and felled trees and limbs, snapping utility lines.

Anti-Smoke Drive Makes Converts

LONDON (AP)—The British government believes its propaganda against cigarette smoking, now three years old, is beginning to make converts. It claims a trend likely to lead to a steady drop in consumption of cigarette tobacco.

The tobacco industry is skeptical, but such a claim by government markedly dependent on revenue from tobacco is obviously not made lightly. The government gets 3 cents in tax every time a Briton lights a cigarette.

"We seem to have made a very definite impact on the nation's thinking habits about cigarettes," said a spokesman for the Ministry of Health.

"We believe we have partly demolished the thought barrier which saw cigarette smoking as a natural and harmless function.

"Whereas the term 'nonsmoker' once tended to identify a person as a crank or faddist, this no longer seems to be true.

"There is now a lot of good will among the public to reduce cigarette smoking. And a high proportion want to see more publicity about the possible evils of cigarettes."

* * * *

BRITONS bought 115.2 billion cigarettes in 1963, 114.4 billion in 1964.

Sales of cigars have risen from 390 million in 1962 to 590 million last year.

The Ministry of Health sees a shift to filter tips and the growing popularity of cigars as strong indications that the public is growing wary in its uses of cigaretts. Half the cigarettes sold are filter tips. People seem to regard the filter as some sort of safeguard, although this has never been stated by the tobacco companies.

The tobacco industry admits that British and American official reports linking cigarette smoke and cancer have had an affect on cigarette consumption. But, the industry maintains that the major reason for falling sales is the increased cost of smoking due to higher taxation.

With four hikes in tax since 1960, a pack of 20 cigarettes now costs 78 cents, 60 of which go to the government.

The Customs and Excise Department estimates that revenue from tobacco sales this year will reach a record $2.95 billion. This is 105 times more than similar revenues of 1900 and sufficient to meet total annual government expenditure on education.

* * * *

SO WHILE it campaigns to destroy the cigarette the government has the country's biggest vested interest in its continued existence.

The money it is spending on its anticigarette drive this year is, by comparison, a puny sum—$327,000.

The program started in a muted way with the aim of establishing nonsmoking as the norm of behavior for teen-agers. Popular national heroes such as soccer stars were depicted as abstainers, in a series of comic strips and cartoons.

A survey showed that teenagers were cynical toward the campaign mainly because their elders were not exhorted to quit smoking cigarettes.

* * * *

SO THE ministry has gone over to a national poster campaign and taken time on television to persuade adults to stop.

A one-minute TV film which the ministry believes had an impact showed a surgeon sitting at his desk and saying:

"Most of the patients I see here in hospital with lung cancer and with bronchitis, and many of those with heart disease, ruined their health by smoking cigarettes. Of course, they didn't know that cigarette smoking was dangerous, but we do know now and it's rather worrying that so many people go on taking this serious risk.

"Besides, many people can stop much more easily than they think.

"And we know that when people stop smoking their health begins to improve, even if they've smoked for years . . ."

NEXT GIANT STEP—MARS

Nuclear Powered Spacecraft in Works

By GEORGE SKELTON

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—While an American on the moon is still five years away, a group of engineers have spent $780 million on the next giant step: a vehicle to carry man to Mars and beyond.

By contrast, the project makes the trip to the moon look like a simple walk around the block.

The Mars vehicle will be nuclear powered. A nuclear spaceship will be faster, more efficient and more economical than present chemically-fueled vehicles.

"You might say it gets more miles per gallon," says Dr. C. C. Ross, vice president of Aerojet-General Corp., prime contractor for the machine. With Westinghouse as a partner and with 60 subcontractors, Aerojet has been working on a nuclear rocket engine since 1961. Research on the idea started 10 years ago.

* * * *

ROSS FIGURES taxpayers will have spent $2 billion, roughly $10 for every man, woman and child in the nation, on "Nerva" (Nuclear Engine for Rocket Vehicle Application) by the time it is launched. So far, $780 million has been spent and the result is an engine —on the drawing boards.

It will be tested next month when Nerva is fired 90 miles northwest of Las Vegas, Nev., at Jackass Flat —near the atom bomb test site.

"We're confident," says Ross, manager of Aerojet's nuclear rocket program. "We've tested and retested everything. We don't see any problems."

* * * *

ROSS SAYS it probably will be 1982, however, before Americans — eight of them—set out for Mars, 35 million miles away. When they do, it'll take them 220 days (over 7 months) traveling at speeds of 74,000 to 92,000 miles per hour to get there. They'll spend two to three weeks on the planet, about half the size of earth, then return — making a roundtrip of well over a year.

By contrast, the moon mission—hoped for 1970—will last a total of 7 days. The three Apollo astronauts, boosted by chemical rockets, will whirr through space at "only" 17,500 mph.

ARE NUCLEAR rocket engines safe?

"Our policy is to treat the engine as if it were a bomb," Ross says. "However, the engine under no conditions will ever perform like a bomb.

* * * *

ABOUT 4,500 people currently are working either directly or indirectly on the project. Next month's test will be a "Breadboard." That is, all engine parts will be tested, but spread out separately from their regular alignment. This is to permit scientists to more easily study each individual unit.

The first full "configuration" test, with all components in their rightful place, will be held late next year. A "hot" vertical test, with the engine upright, will be staged in early 1967. The initial flight is tentatively planned for 1975 or 1976.

Pick New Director of Health

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Dr. Lester Breslow of Berkeley has been appointed California's new director of the State Department of Public Health, Gov. Brown announced Saturday.

Breslow, 50, replaces Dr. Malcolm H. Merrill, who resigned effective Nov. 1 to take a federal post in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

* * * *

DR. BRESLOW is recognized throughout the nation and internationally as an outstanding doctor, medical researcher and expert on health care programs," Brown said.

Breslow's appointment, subject to State Senate confirmation carries a salary of $26,000 a year.

Breslow, a Democart, has been with the department since 1946 and has been chief of the Division of Preventive Medical Services since 1960.

* * * *

BRESLOW was director of the study for the President's Commission on Health Needs of the Nation in 1952.

Brown said his selection was made from a list developed by the nation's leading doctors and medical leaders and coordinated by Dr. John Porterfield, head of medical and health services at the University of California.

Disneyland Award Unit Meet Due

The six-member committee named recently to decide which organizations share in $28,000 posted for this year's Disneyland Community Service Awards will begin work Tuesday.

Dr. Daniel G. Aldrich Jr., chancellor of University of California Irvine, called the work session as chairman of the selection committee.

Since the committee was announced last September with the posting of a record $28,000—about twice the cash grants last year—25 Anaheim groups and 117 from elsewhere in Orange County have filed notices of intention to compete for awards.

* * * *

ALDRICH said that notices of intent to be considered for grants must be filed by Dec. 31.

There will be 23 cash awards. The $28,000 is divided into a $5,000 top honor, and other awards ranging down to $500. Two $2,500 awards and four of $1,000 each are reserved for competition among Anaheim groups. The others are open to any charitable, philanthropic or service organization in Orange County.

Irvine Library Plans 5-Story Addition

A five-story addition will be made to the library building at the new University of California Irvine campus which opened last month.

The structure will double the size of the library's 61,000 square feet, but will quadruple the book capacity by innovations in shelving and arranging, according to librarian John E. Smith. The library now has 100,000 volumes.

The $1,460,000 addition is expected to be completed in late 1968, indicating that bids may be asked in the summer of 1967.

Latin Guerrillas Lauded in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban government has reiterated its support of antigovernment guerrillas in Venezuela and Colombia.

A statement signed by Defonse Minister Raul Castro, Fidel's brother, called the guerrillas in the two countries' models of the anti-imperialist struggle. The statement was sent to Moscow for a reading before a youth meeting there and published in Havana Saturday.

Newport Ford Jobs Up

Engineering employment at Ford's Aeronutronic at Newport Beach jumped 20% in the past two months, as heavier emphasis was placed on meeting contractual obligations of the research and manufacturing firm.

Dr. Robert S. Carlson, director of engineering for the aerospace firm, said that 300 engineering personnel were added to increase the company's total to 1,500 engineers —about half of its total personnel of 3,200.

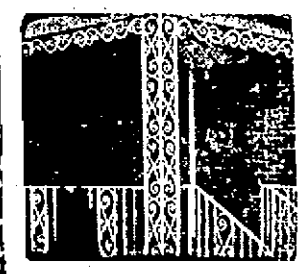

Aeronutronic has 85 prime contracts with the Department of Defense and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

English Like Yank's Fish, Chips

SGT. REYNOLDS AND SPECIALTY

By THOMAS A. REEDY

HUNTINGDON, England (AP)—For three years, Dick Reynolds did his daily chores as a veteran master sergeant of the United States Air Force at the Alconbury Field near this central England town.

His offtime was spent slaving over a hot frying pan.

Then he took his 20-year retirement pension and settled down.

Now it's paid off:

The 43-year-old Yank from Muskogee, Okla., makes some of the best fish and chips in town. His shop, the Tip Top, is thronged all day. He has bought another and expects to open it up, spic and span modern, in a few months.

A half mile away, he relaxes evenings in a bright new American-style home with his English wife, his 15-year-old son and 11-year-old daughter.

"It's a great life," said ex-Master Sergeant Richard J. Reynolds.

During his flying career, Reynolds fell in love not only with an English girl but with the English way of life.

He determined to take his retirement in England.

That's when he took his course in frying fish and chips, centuries-old traditional dish of the poor but tasty enough when done right for the epicure. He trundled over to Essex County whenever he had spare time to learn the trade from his father-in-law and help out, to boot.

In his spare time, he put his carpentering talents to work on building a small shop on the outskirts of Huntingdon.

One day, up went the sign "Tip Top — Fish and Chips."

He's never looked back since.

"I've been planning this venture for years," he said. "I've always wanted to have a nice fish and chip shop in England when I retired. I like the English way of life. I like meeting people and serving them. I chose fish and chips because it is the traditional English dish. I let my wife name the bar and she is a director. I plan to open a Tip Top fish restaurant up the road later on."

with MALCOLM EPLEY

IT WAS a week of happy reading elsewhere in the U.S. as Southern California, sustaining its reputation for things big and dramatic, provided the nation's front pages with boxcar headlines about a "weather disaster."

Jack Drown, the magazine sales tycoon, was in Chicago on business and said the stories displayed there gave the impression our whole area populace was fighting to stay alive in a sea of mud and water. If he hadn't been through this before, he would have feared for his home atop the Palos Verdes hills.

As usual under such situations, we've been getting calls from people around the country inquiring about the safety of their relatives.

It's not that the reports which go out of here were filled with error. They were basically correct, but the collection of sensational facts was just enough to make people believe the worst about what was happening. And people around the country like to believe the worst about Sou. Cal., which usually has the lion's share of the best of it.

AS TO mis-impressions from the news, another local traveler, Mgr. George Badenhausen of Harriman-Jones Clinic, says the U.S. is getting a bum deal from the news disseminators in Europe.

"While I was in Europe," says Geo., "I was amazed to hear our domestic news garbled and twisted by the government's propaganda machine in England. The British Broadcasting Co. — 100% owned and controlled by the state — is doing us about as much good as Tokyo Rose did in World War II.

"The BBC is actually manufacturing its American news to strengthen Britain's sagging socialism. When you listen, you find yourself wondering if you're hearing about the same country you left a few short hours ago."

The U.S., which boasts the world's biggest conglomeration of public relations experts, never seems to do a good image job for itself abroad.

IT SEEMS like the wrong time to mention it—the supply of the birds having been badly decimated in the last few days -- but I'm told that a turkey gobbler makes an admirable "watchdog."

Dr. Lawrence Kundis, the state college engineering prof., said he knows of people in various parts of the country who depend on the gobblers to "gabble" warnings about the arrival of strangers.

He imparted this bit of fascinating knowledge just as he and I and some others were picking over the last remains of what could no doubt have been a fine watchdog.

LONG BEACH residents have a chance to extend the hand of hospitality in an unusual way as a result of the visit here of the Australian Guided Missile Destroyer, HMAS Perth. It's at the Naval Station on a training mission and will be here at Christmas time.

Capt. Morton Lytle, the Naval Station cmdr. here, says the Perth's enlisted men would be thrilled to spend Christmas day in a home with tree, turkey and the works.

There are about 200 Australian sailors who could participate in such a program. To be sure we don't overlook U.S. sailors, also far from home, Capt. Lytle suggests that maybe some local families would be glad to have two men — one American and one Australian — for Christmas dinner.

Anyone wishing to volunteer to play Santa Claus in this great way can contact Capt. Lytle, USN, Naval Station, Long Beach, or call his office. Clint Furrer, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Armed Services Committee, thinks it's a great idea, and so does this dept.

BRIGHT DAY ADDS SNAP

7,000 'Strut Stuff'

Independent-Press-Telegram
SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1965

Downtown Long Beach came alive with the sound of music Saturday as nearly 7,000 high school students participated in the 25th Annual All-Western Band Review, marking its silver anniversary.

The brassy din of 76 times 76 trombones echoed from billboard to apartment house facade as the colorfully costumed marchers strode down Ocean Boulevard from Falcon Avenue to Magnolia Avenue.

Bright sunshine and warm weather drew many spectators to the review and some basked in bermuda shorts while others clustered in the cool shadows of tall buildings.

Staff Photos
By BOB SHUMWAY

Wave upon wave passed as the pageant unfolded. From the Azusa Aztecs to the Tustin Tillers they came, clad in Scottish tartans, Indian feathers and silver sequins.

Among the band units entered was one from Selma Union High School, which has marched down Ocean Boulevard's six-lane parade route every year for the past quarter-century.

Los Banos High School drum major David Hoffman endeared himself to the crowd when he paused while leading his 96-member band and rendered a snappy salute to the reviewing stand.

He went on to win first place.

Nearly four hours after the classic began, the 62-member Bellflower High School band brought up the rear of the parade and Ocean Boulevard was turned over once again to automobile traffic.

Spectators gathered up campstools and cushions and departed, leaving papers, pop bottles and other litter to mark the route.

The 6,700 bandsmen swarmed over the downtown area, looking for empty restaurant booths or counters. There was a bit of hand-holding to be seen among a few boys and girls in different uniforms.

"These kids really worked their hearts out for this," beamed one review official.

The youngsters who had paraded and serenaded throughout the afternoon returned to Municipal Auditorium for a little entertainment of their own. What was it?

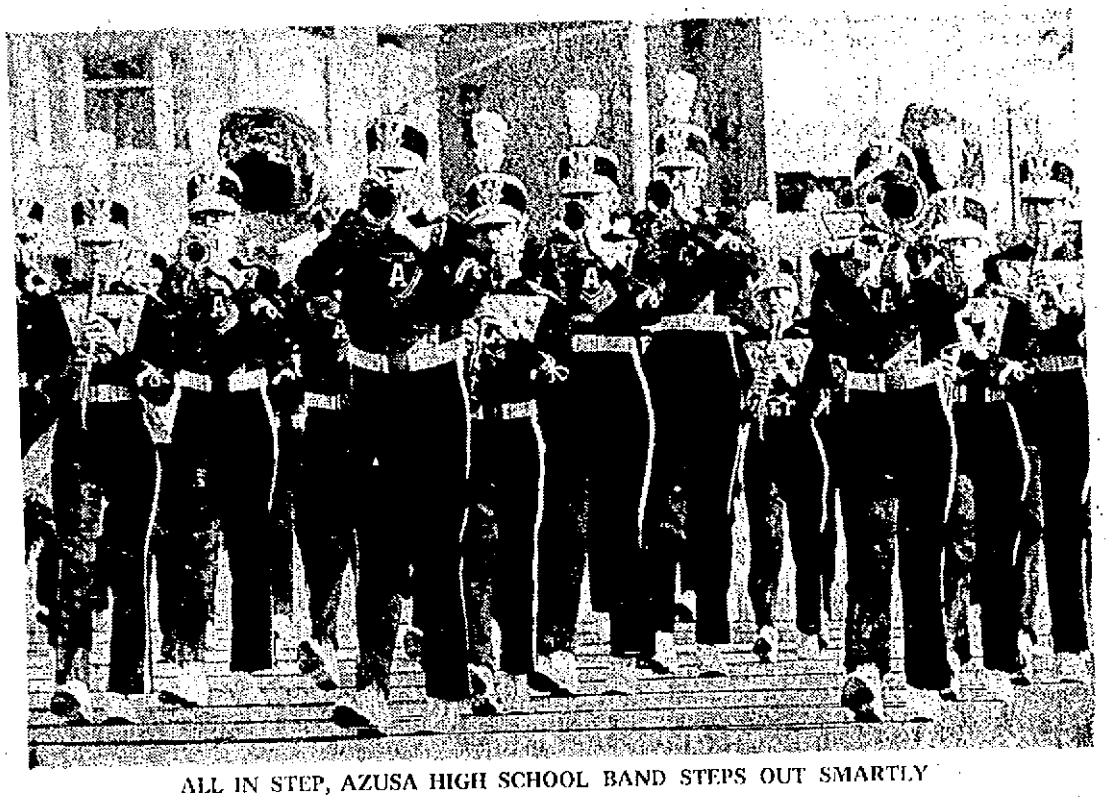

Music and dancing.

What are drum majorettes made of?

They're made of little girls like Lori Roe, 4, of 21424 Budlong Ave., Torrance.

Lori's mom took her to the 25th Annual All-Western Band Review Saturday and the youngster was hooked the first time she caught sight of silver sequins and high-topped, tasseled boots.

She began practicing right there on Ocean Boulevard with first a rather tentative pirouette, then a few proud, high steps.

Now, just give her about 12 years.

A Body Blow to the Colleges

THE STATE COLLEGE SYSTEM received a body blow in the recommendation of the State Coordinating Council for Higher Education that professors receive a 6.6% pay hike. The trustees had recommended a 11.2% increase.

At the same time the council recommended an 8.1% increase for University of California professors.

This is not fair, and so far we have heard no reasons for widening the salary gap between state college and university professors. The university already has substantially higher salaries. Full university professors draw 21% more than those in the colleges.

BOTH SYSTEMS on the undergraduate and lower graduate levels teach the same subjects. It seems quite logical that their faculties should be comparable in academic qualifications and should receive comparable pay.

As it now stands, the state colleges are having difficulty in acquiring qualified personnel. Some students were rejected this year because there were not enough teachers.

The university now carries out certain functions beyond the scope and purpose of the state colleges. It provides the training toward degrees in medicine, law, sciences and other learned specialties. Perhaps teachers of such advanced disciplines deserve special salaries.

IT IS DIFFICULT to see, however, why a sophomore taking European history at California State College at Long Beach should have a professor who is paid substantially less than his counterpart at UCLA.

The effect of this discriminatory action is to make recruitment of qualified academic personnel more difficult at the state colleges and to force embittered professors to look for jobs where the pay is better. It is a questionable economic policy to build a high-cost system and staff it with low-paid professors.

The state colleges serve an important function in California. They provide higher learning for the upper one-third of high school graduates. They give future business and community leaders the essential knowledge and culture to fulfill their roles. They give our civilization the kind of men and women needed for further progress.

This is also what the university does on the undergraduate level. Why then should the university get the lion's share of the salaries?

A Challenge to Civilians

MEN AND WOMEN of the U.S. Navy and Coast Guard have added an even brighter chapter this year to their long record of generous support for the fund drives that finance community services in the Long Beach area.

From the Navy and Coast Guard units based in this area have come more than $190,000 for the combined federal campaign. Funds from this campaign go to the United Way agencies, the Red Cross and a number of designated health and welfare agencies. United Crusade, the financing effort for a large number of these agencies, will get around 70% of the Navy-Coast Guard contributions, giving United Crusade a strong push toward its big goal.

When it is recognized that much of the money from the service people goes to agencies from which they do not directly and personally benefit, the contributions become an outstanding example of unselfish giving.

AND THEY BECOME a clear-cut challenge to the civilian community. We surely cannot let these people, virtually all of them based here temporarily and thousands of them at sea, do better by our community services than we do ourselves.

If civilians give as cheerfully and generously as the Navy and Coast Guard, there will be no question of adequate financing for the vital community health, youth and welfare agencies supported through the combined campaign.

And we should leave nothing undone that will show the community's appreciation as opportunities arise to offer cooperation, hospitality and a friendly hand to the military people in our midst.

Reds in Open

EDITOR:

A few years ago a law was passed requiring Communists in this country to register with our government. Then along comes the Supreme Court and voids the law on the contention that the law is un-Constitutional. This has been the procedure time and time again.

This has prompted the American Communist Leader, Gus Hall to state; "Now we can come out into the open." When will the people ever realize that all is not well within our government power-structure? Years ago, a politician said something I shall never forget when he said; "The people have a short memory." How true and how sad.

The real danger comes from those extreme liberals within our own borders, who fraternize and patronize our known enemy. It's high time each of us take a personal interest in politics and know more of what's going on.

Probers Given Ring-Around on Automated Phone Calls

SACRAMENTO — Phone firms give you ring-a-ding-ding public service on most requests.

But that doesn't include queries as to whether automatic calling devices are making an unwarranted intrusion on the sanctity and privacy of the home.

From The I.P-T State Bureau

Confronted with questions from a legislative investigator, phone representatives either have begged ignorance or given cooperation grudgingly on tracking down automated phone-sales gadgets.

One person, informed of the pending legislative investigation, even hurled an implied threat.

"Don't legislators use the phone for campaign purposes near the election," he said. It is a credit to the integrity of lawmakers that the investigation still is under way.

* * * *

PHONE MEN are delighted to give you the time of day. Or they'll provide the area code for Signal Hill or the address of your second cousin in Newark, N.J.

But for all they hold dear at good ole Bell Tell, please don't ask them to look into the commercial automatic calling devices. That is hitting below the belt!

The concern over automatic-calling devices that pester home-owners first was expressed last August by Chairman Joseph M. Kennick of the Assembly Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

* * * *

KENNICK declared war on "fiendish black boxes" on reading that the Public Utilities Commission had learned of the development of an automatic-calling device that phones back if there is no answer.

Such a machine could have the capability also of replacing the call if you hang up on the recorded sales pitch before it is completed. "You could become a captive in your own home," Kennick figured.

Subsequent investigation revealed that the device referred to by the PUC no longer is being manufactured, according to research by Phillip H. Schott, the committee's consultant.

However, Kennick wanted to explore all automated phone-call devices on the market. And this is where his staff ran into trouble.

* * * *

PACIFIC Telephone representatives maintained they did not have a complete file on such devices, though they did hand over some newspaper clippings.

In other words, the largest California phone firm isn't even able to say what phone accessory devices are on the market. Or, it didn't want to say.

The committee investigation thus far has been stalled by this sort of phone-company indifference.

Kennick has vowed — if necessary—to subpoena the automated phone devices so the committee can study them at a future hearing.

Committee consultant Schott has now widened his investigation outside phone firms to track down the offending gadgets. If you have information on the automated phone-calling devices, phone Kennick's office at 432-5473. Please do your own dialing, however.

DUCK RACIAL ISSUE — The Democratic-controlled Assembly took pains to see that no racial issues linger from the autumn special session. Quietly killed so it wouldn't come up for a vote was a second resolution praising Los Angeles Police Chief William Parker and other public officials for their job in the Watts riots. An earlier Parker resolution also was scuttled.

* * * *

INTEREST TEST — State officials thus far have taken a ho-hum attitude on a federal government requirement that the top 200 federal officials must obtain a conflict-of-interest clearance. There is no comparable state program, and the state's conflict-of-interest laws have many loopholes.

SMOGGY FUTURE — Assemblyman Charles E. Chapel, R-Palos Verdes Estates, says former smog czar Smith Griswold has been discounting the possibility that car anti-smog devices significantly will reduce air pollution.

Picking Successor for Bundy Will Be Big Decision for LBJ

WASHINGTON—It is one of the signs of the somewhat goofy times in which we live that one of President Johnson's most important upcoming decisions deals with filling a vacancy in a job most people never hear of from one end of the year to another.

It now seems quite likely that McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for national security affairs, will leave that job around the first of the year to become president of the Ford Foundation.

More people have heard of Bundy than had heard of any of his predecessors. He has not been wholly the prey of that passion for anonymity which at one time was supposed to be the sole distinction of presidential assistants. It is a safe bet, though, that few of those who have heard of Bundy could say what his title is, and that 999 people out of 1,000 lack the faintest idea of what the job is.

* * * *

YET THE JOB is of first importance. This particular special assistant is the closest and most continuous link between the President of the United States and the rest of the world. He has to be a sort of one-man National Security Council, open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Unlike the secretary of state, he is only a few yards away from the President's desk. In periods of crisis he may sleep, if at all, in his office in the cellar of the west office wing of the White House.

One of Washington's favorite parlor games just now is guessing who might succeed Bundy. Some of the guessing takes the form of proposing names of persons favored by the guessers. This correspondent has a candidate, who would undoubtedly be the best man for the post. His name shall remain secret, because Mr. Johnson might have this same man in mind and would certainly exclude him from consideration if his name were to appear in print. This would be bad for the country, and would deprive readers of these dispatches of one of their best "reliable sources."

* * * *

HOWEVER, the name of the new man is less important than what the choice will reveal about how Mr. Johnson wants the job done.

The special assistant for national security affairs, who is sort of dean of faculty for the high officers who sit as the National Security Council, occupies an extremely delicate position. Unless he is awfully careful, he can get his lines terribly tangled with those of the secretary of state, who is never likely to forget, however even his temper may be, that he is the senior cabinet officer and the one directly charged with the conduct of foreign affairs.

Yet in some ways, the special assistant holds a place in the line of authority superior to that of the secretary of state. He is in many instances the last stop, or the last relay point, for information coming from the whole intelligence community, or from the Pentagon, or from any other part of the government with responsibilities abroad, to the President.

* * * *

OR, ON SOME occasions, his desk may be the launching pad for presidential authority as it radiates out into state, the Pentagon, and other "national security" elements of the executive branch. He is a vital conduit in the flow of advice and opinion to the President in such matters, and to an extent determined by his individual initiative, subject to the President's wishes, can easily become an adviser on his own. And, for that matter, he can likewise become an originator of action in the President's name.

There are two ways of doing the job. One is to have it occupied by a large personality, perhaps a name, who becomes a sort of deputy president in foreign affairs. The other is to have the job done by someone totally lacking in public identity, but steeped in the subject matter, knowledgeable in the bureaucracy, sound of judgment and capable of giving advice when asked. In an ideal world—i.e., one designed according to the specifications of this correspondent — the second is vastly preferable. If the President chooses somebody nobody ever heard of, there can be, within this school of thought, unrestrained applause.

Moderation at Disadvantage in Slugfest With Extremism

I. P-T Political Editor

MODERATION, by definition, is not the best weapon to use in a slugging match with extremism. But it has an inexorable strength in America — a vitality in numbers and reason to prevail despite an occasional tactical defeat.

This, in essence, is the explanation Republican leaders are giving for the Nov. 17 election of 32-year-old George J. King Jr. as president of Long Beach Young Republicans and for a belief that he or the group won't last long in their present roles.

* * * *

KING says he hasn't belonged to anything but the YR group in the last two years and has moderated his views. But he was given a year's probation after pleading guilty to illegal possession of a machine gun; belonged once to the John Birch Society; California Rangers and to the Signal Hill American Legion Post discredited for anti-Semitism. Assemblyman C. George Deukmejian said King admitted to him by phone last week that he is anti-Semitic.

GOP leaders aren't standing still. Deukmejian called on State party chairman Dr. Gaylord Parkinson. Parkinson asked and was promised a report by state YR President Mrs. Floy Archer, of Whittier. The matter of King's election here is bound to be brought before the county YR group Dec. 7.

J. K. (Ken) McCall, chairman of the Long Beach area's 32nd Congressional District division of the Los Angeles County Republican Central Committee, says the reaction against King in GOP ranks "has been violent. It's distressed everybody. It caught us by surprise because we thought the club had almost disintegrated. They did not communicate with us or attend our meetings. We thought they were a dead issue."

* * * *

McCALL SAID the local Central Committee will meet with county YR President Jerry Alexander Monday or Tuesday if possible to see what can be done at that level.

"Then," said McCall, "I intend to call a special meeting of the Central Committee here with the idea of withdrawing the local YR club's recognition by the Republican Party."

Woodrow W. Baird, a member of the GOP Central Committee and chairman of the local unit of the new, moderate California Republican League, was "upset but not too surprised" at King's election.

"People who seek the middle road," said Baird, "generally do so because nothing looks all black or all white to them. So it's hard to argue with those who take these strong, black and white positions. You're not willing to say he's absolutely wrong, but he's perfectly willing to say you are."

* * * *

BAIRD made it clear his views on extremism applied to those of the left who are embarrassing the Democratic Party in the same manner "that we are being embarrassed by this matter."

State Vice Chairman Kurt Hahn of the state's other new, moderate organization, Alliance of Republican Voters, was busy in Stockton at week's end doing some repudiating of his own against a "Birch-front organization called the Keep America Committee."

The committee, said Hahn, "is actively involved in a massive nationwide propaganda campaign to tab Christmas seals as unAmerican" through an "anti-Semitic literature distribution."

A copy provided by Hahn suggests the seal sale is an effort to foster "the un-American mental health program . . . It doesn't take a brain to figure why Jews plug Christmas seals when they hate Christ and the name Christmas."

Solon's Knife Job on Economic Aid Chief Is Whopper

WASHINGTON—When Eugene Foley was put in charge of a multi million-dollar program to aid economically depressed areas, he found that his first project would be in his own office.

Foley, undersecretary of commerce for economic development, got congressional authorization for $130,000 for an eight-person staff to set up the program.

From The I.P-T National Bureau

But Foley did not count on Rep. John Rooney of New York, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee for the Commerce Department. Rooney slashed Foley's appropriation from $130,000 to $50,000, leaving Foley with a staff of two secretaries.

Because Rooney's reputation has been made from his sharp cuts into the State Department budget, his knife job on Foley's budget was a surprise.

Those in the know claim that Rooney went after Foley because the former Small Business Administrator refused to hire a Rooney crony in his EDA office.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS who praised the appointment of S. Dillon Ripley as head of the Smithsonian Institution are beginning to have second thoughts.

Referring to Ripley as "the empire builder," they point out that he has already taken a sizable chunk of the United States Information Agency's budget and is now in charge of all foreign exhibits. The USIA staff for foreign exhibits has moved lock, stock and barrel into the Smithsonian's natural history building.

Other Ripley projects are aimed at the Department of Agriculture, the National Park Service and the National Gallery of Art.

Because the Smithsonian traditionally is immune from congressional inquiries, officials fear he will get control of their pet projects.

They argue that Ripley has enough to handle at the Smithsonian which has an annual budget of $30 million without taking on the rest of the capital.

IT'S STILL A LITTLE EARLY to spread the word around, but there's one honey of a job about to open up for the right bear. And like many cushy human-type jobs, it's in Washington, D. C.

The job is that of acting as a prototype for the U.S. Forest Service's champion fire fighter, Smokey the Bear, whose poster image urges Americans to help stamp out forest fires.

The present Smokey lives at Washington's National Zoo, but he's approaching old age. Rescued as a cub from a New Mexico forest fire, the present Smokey is 15 years old, which is roughly comparable to a 45-year-old human.

The Forest Service recently disclosed that the original Smokey has failed to produce an heir, even though a mate moved in with him two years ago.

So now, the foresters are looking for the right cub to become the next Smokey. And they say they aren't even particular if he's a Democrat or a Republican as long as he can learn how to pour water on a campfire.

TAKE HEART, FOR NOT ALL government documents are couched in dull gobbledygook. Consider the report of a National Labor Relations Board examiner who pondered variant testimony in a case before him:

"It is as though there were two distinct versions of Uncle Tom's Cabin. While both versions agree that Liza sped rapidly across the ice, one version has her fleeing from the onrushing scoundrel whereas the other places her in this position because she enjoys winter sports."

Special China Flown From England for Princess

WASHINGTON — Princess Margaret doesn't know it, but special English china was flown across the Atlantic for use at the White House during her official visit. It took some strenuous transatlantic phone calls, some quick transatlantic air freight, and some transporting of samples to Texas by airplane to do it. But it was done.

What happened was that before Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon were to arrive, Pat Derby of the White House staff rushed into the pottery fair in Georgetown and asked for an English design of boullon cups called "Hunt Club." This is an inexpensive copy of English Wedgwood, cheaper but more decorative. The White House needed a quantity in a hurry.

Miss Derby wasn't sure of the size, pattern, or other details, so some samples were given her which went to Texas by the next plane for Lady Bird's scrutiny. The following day the samples were returned and the choice confirmed.

But the required number were not in stock in Washington. Nor were they in stock in New York. However, the New York importer telephoned the factory in England, and the bouillon cups were rushed by air from England to Georgetown and delivered to the White House just before Princess Margaret arrived.

Actually, the imported china was not of England's best—in fact, wasn't even china, but a type of earthenware used in middle-class British homes for family use while the best china is kept in the china closet for more important occasions.

Note—The imported china didn't cost the White House any more than if purchased in Washington. The importer was delighted to pay telephone and transportation costs.

EFFORTS of the far right to penetrate the Republican party continue to be successful despite the opposition of such moderates as Sen Thruston Morton, Ky., former GOP National Chairman.

Last week in California, George Joseph King, Jr., son of Admiral J. J. King, was elected president of the Long Beach Young Republicans, despite a previous arrest for selling machine guns, and membership in the right wing California Rangers which advocates training for guerrilla warfare.

When convicted in 1963, King denied that he had been a member of the California Rangers, though he had a Ranger's membership card in his wallet signed by William Gale, then commander.

King was an early section leader of the John Birch Society but was considered too racist for the Brichites. He claimed the Birchites did not "face up to the race issue." In an interview with Sherman Williams of the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, King said it was "a moot question as to whether he was expelled or resigned from the John Birch Society."

King explained that there were two groups on the far right—the moderates, who discuss Zionism but avoid the Jewish problem, and the hard core, which blames the Jews for a so-called "international conspiracy." He placed himself in the latter group.

This is the man who now has been elected president of the Long Beach Young Republicans.

Note—The American Legion dissolved the charter of the Signal Hill Legion Post because of its affiliation with the California Rangers.

SMUGGLERS operating out of Puerto Rico have been dumping American cigarets, beer, cosmetics and other contraband on the Dominican black market. They ship the contraband ashore at night in small boats, thus evading import duties which the Dominican government sorely needs to pay its bills.

The lost revenue also comes out of the pockets of American taxpayers, who are making up the Dominican Republic's deficit. The authorities are also alarmed over the possibility that the smugglers may find it even more profitable to sneak arms to rebels.

Declaration of War Seen as Peril to Safety of U.S.

(c) P-T National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The John Birch Society and U.S. Senator from Oregon, Wayne Morse, have at last agreed on an issue in the nation's capitol. Both called for a declaration of war against North Viet Nam.

However, the liberal Morse and the right-wing Birch society substantiated their position with widely differing contentions.

The Birch Society argument is that the only way the United States can "win" in Viet Nam is by total annihilation of the enemy.

The Oregon Democrat often tells the Senate to declare war on Viet Nam when he isn't telling them the U.S. should negotiate with the Viet Cong and withdraw from the war-torn country. Morse decoders explain that his pro-war speeches are aimed at having a congressional debate on Viet Nam that Morse hopes would show a repudiation of the President's policy there.

* * * *

REGARDLESS of who advocates declaration of war against North Viet Nam for whatever reasons, the administration vehemently opposes such action.

Officials point out that considerable escalation in the war would be inevitable.

"A declaration of war would make it very difficult for the Soviet Union and Red China not to go to war on North Viet Nam's side," an administration source said.

A State Department aide put it stronger: "If we actually declared war then China and the Soviet Union would have to come in on North Viet Nam's side . . . they would have no other choice politically."

While no public treaties between North Viet Nam, Red China, and the USSR exist which call for specific action if the U.S. declared war, there are mutual assistance pacts between the three countries.

* * * *

THE EFFECTS of a U.S. declaration of war on our relations with friendly foreign countries could be "disastrous," a White House official said.

"For one thing it wouldn't look very good for a big country like the United States to declare war on a little country like North Viet Nam.

"We would be formally subject to charges of unprovoked aggression and hauled before the United Nations General Assembly," he pointed out.

A State Department official said that countries such as Canada, India, and Japan who quietly support our Viet Nam policy now would be forced by political expediency to condemn U.S. aggression.

* * * *

IF THE United States did declare war on North Viet Nam, there would be these consequences at home:

A declaration of war automatically activates thousands of statutes concerning federal power over private industry, according to a Defense Department legal advisor.

* * * *

ONE MILLION reservists would be called immediately into active duty. Terms of enlistment would be automatically extended to six months after the war is ended. Hundreds of inactive World War II military bases now used for job corps camps or civilian purposes would be recaptured by the military.

Present control of communications (such as newspapers and television) would be "considerably enlarged." And the civilian economy would come under the control of the President.

* * * *

"THIS MAY all be true," argues the Viet Nam hawk, "but still our soldiers fighting in Viet Nam would get benefits they aren't now getting."

Administration officials disagree. They argue that soldiers fighting in Viet Nam get the same benefits as their counterparts in World War II and Korea (which was a United Nations "police action" and not a declared war):

1. Wives, widows, and children of men wounded or killed receive the same benefits as those whose husbands and fathers were wounded or killed in World War II or Korea.

2. Soldiers actually engaged in fighting receive "combat pay" which is comparable to the "overseas pay" of 20 years ago.

3. Soldiers in Viet Nam receive tax benefits not available to their colleagues in Germany or Fort Ord. The tax benefits were made possible by present declaration of a war zone in South Viet Nam.

4. Soldiers in Viet Nam have free postal service.

5. Soldiers are eligible for all military honors and medals.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has pointed out again and again that "we (the United States) have all the tools at hand to fight in Viet Nam without declaring war."

He has said that the Defense Department can get all the weapons and men it asks for without a declaration of war.

The question of the consequences of a declaration are probably academic anyway.

A staff member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee recently expressed doubt whether the committee would even hold hearings on such a resolution under the present circumstances in Viet Nam.

He pointed out that Congress did pass a joint resolution in August, 1964 which "essentially gave the President a blank check in Viet Nam." The resolution, passed in the wake of the bombing of U. S. ships in the Bay of Tonkin, promised congressional support "in whatever action the President feels necessary to protect U. S. forces in Viet Nam." He said that Congress has not considered a declaration of war against anyone since it passed one on Dec. 8, 1941.

What does a declaration of war mean?

"It implies an overall hostility and desire to crush the enemy totally," a State Department official said.

"You reserve a declaration of war for deep personal challenge to the United States," another said.

They added that "it might be somewhat precipitous for the U. S. to declare war before South Viet Nam does."

Finally they made it quite clear that the declared policy of the U. S. forces in Viet Nam is to assist the forces in the south to counter aggression from the north.

"And when you look at it that way, the whole debate is a phony issue and totally nonsensical," the State Department official said.

THEY LOVE THE HEAVY DEW, THEY DO

Rain, Rain, Go Away? Not Radish Growers' Refrain

By DICK EMERY

Rain makes cool radishes. And cool radishes bring top prices.

So the Dominguez-area farmers around here who are growing 1,000 acres of radishes just love the rain.

A spokesman for the farmers watching the rain poured on his 75-acre radish patch this week, said the perfect radish can be grown only with plenty of water.

"Too dry, and the radish gets hot, too hot. Once the tender little radish has sprouted in the ground, rain is its friend. With rain it grows fast and cool and becomes a perfect radish!"

The spokesman, long identified with Dominguez truck farming, asked not to be named, but claimed "so far, this rain has been worth $10,000 just to my 150 acres.

"Half my crop is radishes. The rest is onions, cabbages, turnips, beets and lettuce. They like rain, too.

* * * *

"THE ONLY damage is to seeds not yet germinated, in newly seeded plots. Standing water may seal the surface over the seeds, and they won't sprout. We only get 20% or 30% of the crop in those plots, from seeds which float to the top and germinate.

"That loss is nothing compared with the good this rain is doing for us."

His estimate of the value of the rain, so far, to Dominguez-area farmers ran about $66 per acre, some $132,000 for the 2,000 acres now planted hereabouts. Half the crop is radishes.

"Rain and radishes work like this," he said. "In summer, from the time you plant the radish seeds until you pick the radishes, 30 days is perfect. The radish grows fast, with plenty of water from irrigation.

"Then comes this time of year, with plenty of nice rain, not so much hot sunshine, you get 40-day radishes—perfect. If they take longer to grow, from not enough rain, not enough sun, they get flavored too hot—no good.

"Come January and February, that's the time for 60-day radishes. Cool weather, not much rain, but if they're ready in 60 days you have good radishes which bring top price."

Radishes and other salad vegetables grown in Dominguez fields are harvested the year around and are shipped all over the country as well as to local markets.

START WEDNESDAY ON DAISY AVENUE

Christmas Tree Lane to Turn on Lights

One of Long Beach's most colorful holiday attractions, the Daisy Avenue Christmas Tree Lane, will turn on the lights at dark Wednesday for a four-block-long spectacle of tableaux and novelties combining the religious and Santa Claus themes.

Each evening for two weeks the decorated center island between Hill Street and Pacific Coast Highway will broadcast seasonal hymns and carols.

Then on the evening of Dec. 4 Santa Claus will arrive to be welcomed by Marvin Marker's Junior Concert Band. Santa will appear thereafter every night until Chirstmas Eve.

Also featured nightly from Dec. 15-24 will be concerts by church choirs, the P-TA Mother Singers and the Municipal Band. Performances are scheduled from 7 to 8 p.m.

* * * *

CHRISTMAS TREE Lane is divided into two sections, with some new attractions this year. One section, dedicated to children, is a sort of elongated workshop in which Santa and his helpers turn out fanciful and sometimes humorous products of the season.

From 20th Street to Hill Street tableaux pay homage to the story of the Nativity. At the end is a full-size depiction of the stable in Bethlehem with life-sized figures surrounding the crude crib. A bright star will shine overhead.

The unique Christmas spectacle is sponsored by the city of Long Beach and the West Side Lions Club. Electricians and structural workers in the Public Service Department create many of the displays. Heading the creative team are Harry Morrow, one-time designer for Disney, now a painter in the department, and Glen Howe, a carpenter.

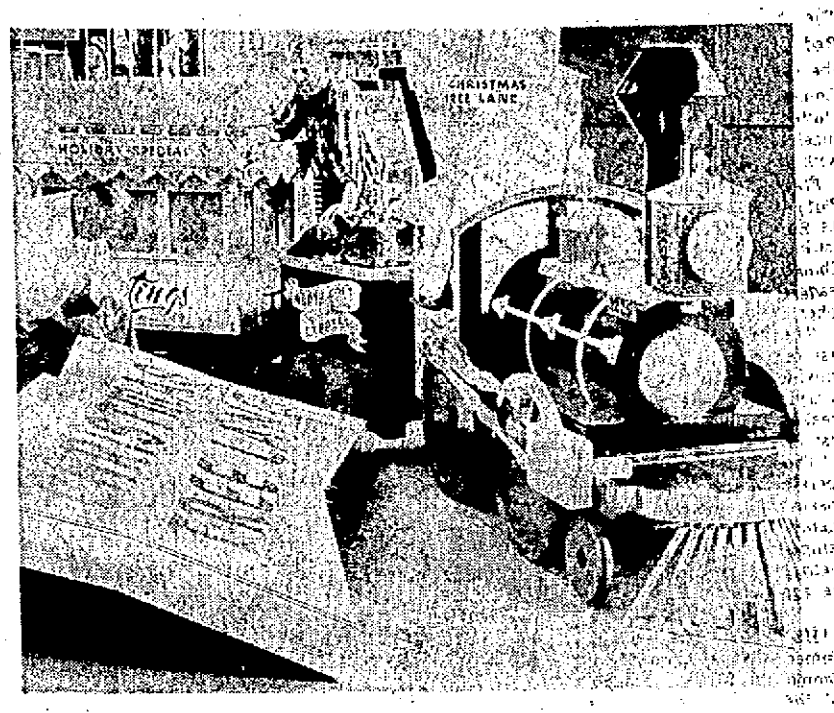

Their latest creation for this year is a toy train, the North Pole Express, complete with freight and passenger cars, a caboose and steam locomotive with a tender loaded with coal. The engineer, naturally, is Santa.

* * * *

THE SETTING is a long center island of evergreen deodars which become a row of lighted Christmas trees.

Property owners adjoining the lane share in the celebration. Houses become snow-covered and yards are filled with snowmen, Santas, reindeer and angels.

Originated in 1954, the lane has been renewed every year since by a committee working with the late Councilman D. Patrick Ahern and more recently with incumbent Sixth District Councilman Emmett Sullivan.

LANE'S LATEST ATTRACTION

Bids Asked for Grove Post Office

Bids for construction of a new post office in Garden Grove have been asked by the Post Office Department for Jan. 6, when they will be opened at 3 p.m. in San Diego.

W. A. Warner, real estate officer for the department, said the new facility will be of 48,488 square feet of inside floor space, have 2,925 square feet of platform and 98,000 square feet of parking space.

Congressman Richard T. Hanna, D-Huntington Beach, said that the government will take a 20-year lease on the structure, which will be at the northwest corner of Nutwood Street and Stanford Avenue, and that it will have option for six five-year renewals.

Negro Educator to Speak at L.B. Teachers Meeting

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Koontz, first Negro to hold a major office in the National Education Association, will address the Teachers Association of Long Beach Dec. 9.

Mrs. Koontz, president of the NEA Department of Classroom teachers, will speak at 4 p.m. in the Boyd High School auditorium.

A special education teacher of Salisbury, N.C., Mrs. Koontz was recently appointed by President Lyndon B. Johnson to a three-year term on the National Advisory Council on the Education of Disadvantaged Children.

Widely traveled, she represented the NEA in West Berlin in 1962. Last year she visited the Soviet Union to attend the Dartmouth Conference—a series of informal conversations with Russian citizens on ways to improve relations between the two nations.

She also was a member of the North Carolina Governor's Commission on the Status of Women.

Soviet Says China Hurts Viet Cause

MOSCOW, Sunday (AP) — The Soviet Union accused Red China today of hurting the cause of the Vietnamese Communists and helping the United States by Peking's refusal to form a united front with the Kremlin.

Pravda, Soviet Communist Party newspaper, carried in its Sunday edition the hardest-hitting attack on the Red Chinese since the new Soviet leadership took over in October, 1964.

"The developments of the last few months have shown convincingly that imperialism is trying to capitalize on the weakened unity of Communist ranks," Pravda said.

"Those who refuse to cooperate and turn down proposals for joint actions against the aggressors are hampering the struggle of the Vietnamese people and help the aggressor."

* * * *

THE Soviet statement claimed that a majority of Communist Parties throughout the world side with the Kremlin. China claims that more than 90% of the world's people agree with its position, regardless of what parties or governments say.

"The majority of the Marxist-Leninist parties calls for the closing of ranks of the Communist and entire liberation movements, despite existing difficulties, and for a resolute struggle against the common imperialist enemy," Pravda said.

"In the past year, the Soviet Communist Party has time and again proposed to the Chinese leadership that they come out together on highly important specific issues.

"Unfortunately, the Soviet Communist Party and other Marxist-Leninist parties met with no positive response from the unity action of Communists."

* * * *

PRAVDA said support rendered to the Communist cause in Viet Nam "is the touchstone of how this or that Communist Party fulfills its international duty."

"The Soviet Union is providing and will provide all the necessary assistance to the heroic people of Viet Nam," it added.

Pravda declared that the United States and its friends were trying "to capitalize on the weakened unity of Communist ranks." It said that Peking, by turning down "joint actions against the aggressors" are hurting the Vietnamese Communist cause.

The statement predicted that the division in the Communist world will be healed, saying: "There can be no doubt that the present difficulties, engendered by attempts to split its ranks, will be successfully overcome."

Auto Crash Victim on Critical List

A 70-year-old woman remained in critical condition Saturday night from injuries suffered in a two-car crash in Newport Beach which killed a Long Beach woman and injured four persons.

The head-on collision in the 5800 block of Pacific Coast Highway Friday killed Nellie A. Rigney, 65, of 3835 Cherry Ave. Her husband, Harold, received minor injuries and their daughter, Virginia, 25, was reported in satisfactory condition at Hoag Memorial Hospital.

Still critical was Ana Thompson, who with her husband, Ernest, 76, both of 1235 W. Balboa Blvd., Newport Beach, were taken to Hoag Memorial. Thompson was reported in fair condition.

Tito to Liberate 105 Prisoners

BELGRADE (UPI) — President Tito Saturday proclaimed an amnesty for 476 prisoners on the 20th anniversary of the founding of the Yugoslav Communist state.

The Yugoslav president announced 105 imprisoned Yugoslavs will be freed on Monday, the anniversary of the Nov. 29, 1945, establishment of postwar Yugoslavia. The others will have their sentences eased, he said.

GILLETTE

Super Stainless Steel BLADES

What's so super about it:

1. It stays stain-free, long after the others turn into stained steel blades.
2. It has none of the tiny, hard chunks in the steel that can mar the smoothness of your shave.
3. It has a thinner, glob-free coating along the edge. Again, a more comfortable (and closer) shave.

GILLETTE has eliminated the flaws

that, until now, plagued the makers of stainless steel blades.

The result is a longer-lasting blade, a smoother and closer shave.

Rehiring of 2 Men Ordered

By CHARLES SUTTON

A Long Beach excavation firm has been ordered by the federal government to reinstate two employes it assertedly fired for filing overtime pay claims with the state.

In a ruling handed down by a three-member panel of the National Labor Relations Board, the B & M Excavating company of 5842 Cherry Ave. also was ordered to pay the men back-wages from the time they were discharged.

The panel, acting on behalf of the whole board, affirmed a ruling issued Aug. 2 by trial examiner Howard Myers in a case involving Donavan and Robert Van Over, both members of Local 606 of the Teamsters Union.

* * * *

MYERS, in his ruling, said the two brothers were fired last January by company president Richard H. Brazil because they filed overtime claims totaling $12,000 with the State Labor Commission, and because they refused to agree to return the money if the commission ruled in their favor.

Myers also cited portions of Donavan Van Over's testimony in which Brazil allegedly asked Van Over to perjure himself before the state commission in connection with another case involving an overtime claim. Brazil categorically denied the charges.

He testified that he never asked any employe to testify falsely at a wage claim hearing. He said he never threatened anyone with discharge if the person filed a wage claim.

He also asserted he never threatened to fire anyone who accepted back-pay under a state commission ruling, and that he never promised anyone any favors for returning awarded back-wages.

Myers, however, after listening to both sides, ordered the company to rehire the two men and "cease and desist" in its alleged unfair labor practices.

In its slightly amended ruling, which upheld Myers' basic findings, the labor board panel took pains to explain why the excavation firm fell under federal labor law jurisdiction even when it did not engage in interstate commerce.

* * * *

BY itself, the panel indicated, B & M might not be subject to penalties under the law, but because it belonged to the Engineering and Grading Contractors Association, and because a member firm of the association had performed over $50,000 worth of services out of state last year, A & M could properly be said to fall under the act.

Moreover, said the panel, the alleged overtime violations came under sections of a contract between the contractor association and the Teamsters Union.

ALL DIVISIONS

Late Score on Crusaders

Public employes' division continued to lead and the professional division to trail all others in the Long Beach section of the area United Crusade campaign Saturday. Long Beach stands at 80.1% of goal.

Zooming to 128.8% of goal, the public employes' unit has raised $4,169 in the drive for funds for United Way agencies and the Red Cross.

Here's how the divisions stand in Long Beach:

Advance Gifts (Val Cassaday)	93.3%
Big Industry (John Hunt)	69.1%
Small Industry (Harry Jordan)	61.4%
Public Employes (Barney Walczak)	128.8%
Schools (George Geiger)	84.4%
Professional (James Hayes)	51.7%
Residential (Mrs. Robert Fox)	89.8%
Business (Harvey Freeman)	83.6%

Community Campaign Chairman Jess Grundy pointed out that all funds should be reported by Dec. 7, the date of the countywide report meeting.

Navy, Coast Guard and other federal employes' contributions are not counted in the Long Beach figures, but apply to the areawide goal.

DAUGHTER ADMIRES DAD'S NEW MEDALS
Laurie, 14, Beams at Major Warren H. Gustafson

3rd Marine Air Wing Cites 8 Viet Heroes

Their heroism under enemy fire in Viet Nam won medals Saturday for seven Marines and a Navy doctor, honored at formal ceremonies at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station near Santa Ana.

Major Warren H. Gustafson of 2525 S. Salta Ave., Santa Ana, was awarded the Legion of Merit and the Distinguished Flying Cross, for separate actions in the embattled Asian nation.

He displayed "exceptionally meritorious conduct, heroism and extraordinary achievement in aerial flight against the Viet Cong," according to the citation read by Maj. Gen. F. E. Leek, commanding the 3rd Marine Air Wing, to which all are attached.

Major Simon J. Kittler of 13722 Lindle Lane, Santa Ana, was awarded two Distinguished Flying Crosses "for vital resupply and medical evacuation missions" that saved "numerous lives."

Navy Lt. Curtis G. Graham of 1162 N. Harding St., Orange, and Marine S. Sgt. James M. Boone Jr. of Vallejo were awarded Bronze Star medals for "their heroic efforts in the rescue of five wounded Vietnamese soldiers under small arms fire."

DFC medals also went to the following:

CWO William W. Barber, of Corona, "for participating in an emergency medical evacuation and troop withdrawal of an isolated patrol ambushed and surrounded at night."

CWO Carl D. Hamilton, of Little Rock, Ark., "for attempted rescue of a downed U.S. Navy pilot who was in the water off the Viet Nam coast."

WO Frank V. Ball, of El Toro, "for participation in a pre-dawn emergency medical evacuation of a Vietnamese patrol under heavy enemy fire," and to

Sgt. Floyd W. Miller of Billings, Mont., "for his action behind his gun in an assault helicopter, and, though wounded, he tended the wounds of a companion."

Stars Just Right for Exciting Staging of Emotional 'Tosca'

By DANIEL CARIAGA

Friday night, exactly three weeks, and 18 generally cool performances after its disappointing opening night at the Pavilion of the Music Center, the San Francisco Opera's 29th Los Angeles season finally caught fire.

Surprisingly, the opera was Puccini's much-maligned melodrama, "Tosca," that old-fashioned thriller which so often disappoints us because one of its three principals is less than convincing.

* * * *

THIS time around, however, the stars were right for a believable, exciting and tear-producing "Tosca."

Marie Collier, the Australian soprano who conquered Los Angeles last year with an unforgettable Katerina Ismailova, and repeated the feat this season with her Minnie, is the worthy successor to the greatest Tosca of our generation, Maria Callas.

More than that, her singing surpasses, in every detail of beauty and inflection, the Callas Tosca. Her voice, the ideal bel canto instrument, the like of which has not been heard here since the last appearances of Sutherland and Simionato, makes sounds that are as expressive as they are glorious.

She is also a beautiful woman, and completely feminine (which is not the same thing). For the first time, this operagoer found believable Tosca's ability to drive Scarpia to distraction and Cavardossi to B-flats. Collier's Tosca is irresistible.

Jess Thomas' Mario suffered in no wise from sharing the stage with this Tosca, or from following, by three weeks, that other tenor in the same part.

* * * *

ON THE contrary — he matched Collier's performance at every point, with an intensity that befits, but so seldom befalls, Cavaradossi. And he made the other tenor look like a slob.

Compare Thomas' Cavaradossi to Cordelli's? Of course I will. Thomas looks better, sounds better, acts better, and, most important, sings better.

The duet in Act I was aflame with emotion; so convincing were the lovers that one felt embarrassed to be watching them. Puccini, who was second only to Wagner in his genius for putting love on paper, would have bravoed this couple.

In Act II, Thomas' off-stage screams were frighteningly believeable; and when he reentered, singing "Vittoria, vittoria!" we were ready to go to war with him. Incidentally, Correlli's "Vissi d'arte," achieved the same level; for the first time in my memory it sounded, not like an aria, but like a prayer.

The rest of the cast maintained this high standard. Only Piero Bellugi's conducting, though more positive than before, seemed sometimes tentative.

* * * *

ALAS, Thursday's "La Boheme" was tentative most of the time. George Jenkins' 1958 sets are still handsome and spacious (I still miss the tree in Act III, however), but time has been less kind to last decade's voices.

Renata Tebaldi is still a sympathetic Mimi who makes occasional beautiful sounds, and causes tears to flow at "Donde lieta." Yet anyone even slightly familiar with the voice at its peak, when it was unfailingly lovely, large, and easy, must be disappointed in it now.

And what a shame that any tenor should reach, in his public career, the point where he must sing "Che gelida manina" down a half step.

The other principals, Marie Collier, Raymond Wolansky, Joshua Hecht, and Richard Fredericks, were excellent.

Cabbie Shot by Bandit Is Recovering

A taxicab driver, shot through the neck by a bandit, was reported to be in satisfactory condition in Gardena Hospital Saturday night.

Frank D. Vallone, 44, of 21190 Van Deane Ave., Torrance, told police he was shot by a man he had picked up around 4 a.m. at the Horseshoe Club, 14305 S. Vermont Ave. Vallone said the man robbed him of $22 before shooting him.

The gunman apparently tried to call an ambulance for his victim, but because of a jurisdictional mixup Vallone didn't get help until someone else found him two hours later.

Harbor Area AA Schedules Meet for Next Sunday

Alcoholics Anonymous will hold a public meeting next Sunday in the Exhibit Hall of the Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

The Harbor Area Service Committee of AA is sponsor of the free meeting.

Dr. Jan Janniches of Huntington Beach will speak on some of the medical aspects of alcoholism. A judge and an AA trustee from New York will be featured also.

A local spokesman said this was the first of a series of open meetings this winter.

It Is Yuletime at Lakewood

Bullock's Lakewood store officially launched the Christmas shopping season Friday by unveiling a display of traditional Yule trees from six other nations.

A luncheon was held in the store's Laguniita Room to fete the foreign consulates whose assistance was solicited to promote the "Around the World at Christmas" theme.

Pretty models dressed in native costumes stood by the trees as the guests were taken on a tour of the displays.

Under each of the trees, decorated like those in Spain, Brazil, Great Britain, Denmark, France and Italy, was a Nativity scene.

Those present at the luncheon included Raul de Smandek, consul of Brazil; A. C. Karsten, Danish consulate general; Bernard Wilcox, British consulate general; Robert Jany, assistant commercial counselor of France; Luciano Morra, assistant Italian trade commissioner, and Alvaro Moliner, chancellor of the consulate of Spain.

WEEK IN REVIEW

Highest Viet Toll Bared

Combined Wire Services

The nation's Thanksgiving week was sombered by announcement that 240 American fighting men were dead in a week of fighting in distant Viet Nam.

The toll was nearly three times higher than any previous weekly listing for the conflict. It raised the fatality total for the war to 1,093.

The 240 battle deaths, resulting from bloody clashes in Ia Drang and Chu Pong, nearly matched the total death list of four years of U.S. fighting in Viet Nam from 1961 through 1964. It was about that of the weekly American fatality average in the Korean War.

* * * *

THE 240 Americans didn't give their lives cheaply. The U.S. Military Command announced that during the same period, Communist casualties amounted to 2,262 dead and 136 captured.

A personally anguished President Johnsun sent a Thanksgiving message of appreciation to the troops in the foxholes of Viet Nam.

He told them that in their prayers to God, the American people ask "that He watch over you and give you strength."

The Chief Executive told the military men under fire: "Today we raise our voices in a single prayer of thanks for your courage and your dedication.

* * * *

"AND THAT is the most powerful voice of all."

As the human price of defending free Viet Nam went up, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced he would fly to Saigon to make a new appraisal of the situation. At the same time, a House appropriations group planned to go to Viet Nam Monday to assess future military demands.

One of the latter group, Rep. Robert Minshall, R-Ohio, said he has been told that the administration will ask Congress in January for an emergency appropriation of about $15 billion to cover the cost of fighting.

At week's end, there was another development underscoring the serious turn of the war. Two nuclear-powered U.S. warships—the aircraft carrier Enterprise and the guided missile frigate Bainbridge — took up stations with the U.S. 7th Fleet, ready for action against the Reds.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, said of the days that lie ahead: "It involves a long conflict and we must be prepared to accept this."

* * * *

THERE WAS a spate of stories about the possibility of peace talks in the news throughout the week. To close diplomatic observers, they seemed to hold no promise.

The State Department confirmed reports that last month Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Communist Romanian Foreign Minister Cornelieu Manescu had discussed the Viet Nam situation at a dinner meeting. But stories that Romania had offered to mediate the war were quickly denied and discredited.

Even more dampening was word from the Far East that North Viet Nam Premier Ho Chi Minh had reasserted his demand that all U.S. forces withdraw from South Viet Nam before any peace settlement could be considered.

THE UNITED Nations General Assembly's leading committee voted 91 to 0 in favor of holding a world disarmament conference, with Red China invited. To the surprise of many, the United States voted in favor of the resolution. The committee vote virtually assured that the General Assembly will approve the conference, but that still leaves the conferees a long way from the conference table.

The next move is up to Red China. In preparation for the talks, China will have to disclose its views on world peace. That may be what the United States hoped to accomplish by its vote.

THE FIGHT grossed $3,870,000 and practically nobody liked it, except the professionals. Cassius Marcellus Clay, 23-year-old heavyweight, sometimes known as Muhammad Ali, toyed with a 30-year-old heavyweight named Floyd Patterson for 12 rounds, until the referee stopped the bout.

Some 7,402 people who paid to witness the exhibition in Las Vegas, the 460,000 who watched it on closed circuit television around the country, were stunned by the ineptitude of the challenger. Most came away with the feeling that Clay would be champion for a long time. He emerged as a magnificent fighter, in the prime of his career, and as a highly unpopular champion.

That's what the pros liked. Said one: "The more obvious he becomes, the more they'll look for a white hope, a Holy Grail, and that is very good for our business."

READING from the typewritten page in her hand, Princess Margaret intoned in a high, soft voice: "This for us is a very sad moment." She spoke for herself and her husband, Lord Snowdon, departing after a gay, 21-day visit in the United States.

Then the party, including personal hairdresser, maids, footmen and pilot, boarded BOAC flight 490 for Bermuda, en route back to London.

At the end there was one sour note. Women's Wear Daily, the fashion trade newspaper, said the Princess was "a schizophrenic mixture of chic and sheer fashion disaster." It said her styles were "too old and too matronly" and that her mink coat was "motheaten, ratty."

SOME TIME Thursday night burglars broke into the Vatican Apostolic Library and made off with priceless art treaures. The loot included the original manuscript of "Il Canzoniere," by Petrarch (1304-1374); a manuscript by Tasso (1544-1596); an exact copy of the crown of St. Stephen, first kin of Hungary, and a box of relics of Garcia Moreno, assassinated Aug. 6, 1875, when he was President of Ecuador.

Pope Paul VI was reported to be deeply grieved by the theft, the first major one in the history of the Vatican.

The loot was recovered in a field Saturday.

FRANCE became the third nation of the world to enter the space race on its own this week. Charles de Gaulle's defense ministry announced in Paris Friday that a small satellite was put into orbit from a French testing ground in the Sahara.

The Italians, the British and the Canadians have conducted successful space launches but in cooperation with the United States. The significance of the French feat is that France now joins the United States and Russia as a nation which has entered space unassited with its own rockets and scientists.

BY THE simple expedient of reading a proclamation over the Léopoldville radio, Gen. Joseph D. Mobutu, 35, named himself President of the Congo. He sent a letter to his good friend, Joseph Kasavubu, explaining that Kasavubu was no longer President. The general canceled next spring's elections, and said he himself would be President for the next five years.

It was said that the general acted to break a political stalemate between Kasavubu and Moise Tshombe, who had been fired as Premier by Kasavubu Oct. 13.

TO THE SOUTH of the Congo—in Rhodesia, where Prime Minister Ian Smith has proclaimed the country independent of Britain—an explosion blowing up an electric system pylon lent a fresh urgency to an already tense situation.

Saturday newspapers in London almost unanimously reported that a military group, possibly from the Royal Air Force, will be sent soon to Zambia, the African-ruled nation north of Rhodesia.

'YOU KEEP IT, I'LL GET ANOTHER'

Capt. Lewis E. Davis Jr., left, new commodore of eight-ship Destroyer Squadron 23, the famous "Little Beavers," gives former commodore, Capt. J. C. Hill II, the squadron's symbol. Capt. Hill was en route to Washington after his daughter's marriage Saturday for duty with the chief of naval operations. Capt. Davis took the command from skipper of the destroyer tender USS Bryce Canyon. The squadron was given its nickname by a World War II commodore, Arleigh Burke. While he was in command during the Solomon Islands campaign the ships received the only Presidential Unit Citation ever given a destroyer squadron. When in port the flagship USS James E. Kyes, flies the citation.

Rhodesia Churches Oppose Ian Smith

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Rhodesia's Christian Council, representing most churches in the country, has declared opposition to the secessionist government of Prime Minister Ian Smith and loyalty to British Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs, who represents Queen Elizabeth II as chief of state. The council in a statement called Smith's declaration of independence an unlawful act.

Garrett No.2 Choice of Rams

AFL Chiefs Claim Heisman Winner on 20th Round

By JEROME HALL

A mystery is heightening today in the strangest of all pro football drafts and Mike Garrett is a central figure in it.

The Heisman Trophy winner, grabbed in the second round of the National Football League draft by the Rams, had not been taken through 19 rounds of the American League's selections but there was a report that he already has agreed to terms with an AFL team.

"We've got him all wrapped up," a source close to the Oakland Raiders said Saturday even before Garrett closed his collegiate career in the Coliseum in a 56-6 victory over Wyoming.

But at 10 minutes to midnight, the Kansas City Chiefs took the Raider wrappings off Garrett and made him their 20th choice. The Chiefs drafted just ahead of Oakland, which then settled for Alabama fullback Steve Bowman.

Immediately after the game Garrett was rushed to the airport by a cordon of agents from teams in both professional leagues.

He had no comment when informed, as he hurried to change from his muddy uniform, that he had been drafted by the Rams.

"My decision will depend on the circumstances and what is offered me," he told a few reporters as he was spirited away from the Coliseum in a long, black limousine. He was flying to New York for an appearance on the Ed Sullivan television show this evening.

Though Garrett, who Saturday broke a 14-year-old record for most yardage on the ground during a three-year career, is considered small for pro football (190 pounds, 5-foot-9) he might develop into a valuable Ram gate attraction as a flanker back and it's believed the Rams will bid high for him.

Garrett has confided recently that he will play the two leagues against each other for the best possible contract. Though he is a sociology major at USC, he does not consider himself a charity case.

There were cases of hometown newspapers revealing the signing of AFL players before they were revealed to be draft choices. Oakland was a prime case in point.

While the Raiders did not announce that Bucknell end Tom Mitchell was their third-round draft choice until 6 p.m., sports editor Al Clark of the Harrisburg Patriot-News told Associated Press that Mitchell had signed a six-figure contract with Oakland at 9:30 Saturday morning.

As further evidence that Oakland was not announcing its selections until the player had been signed came almost 10 hours after the draft opened. When the Raiders finally revealed that Kentucky halfback Rodger Bird was their first choice, they also revealed he was under contract.

Adding to the mystery, Garrett may want to delay signing with either league to protect his college eligibility for the baseball season. He is an outfielder who has potential to command a bonus in that sport.

There was a loud celebration at midfield in the Coliseum after the game Saturday as Garrett's uniform number (20) was retired. "God bless you all," he said from behind tear streaks, "and I'll see you again."

But he wouldn't say exactly where.

The USC players paid tribute to the gritty little fellow who is the first California collegian ever to win the Heisman Trophy, the highest award in college football.

"I consider it a privilege to block for him," said lineman Chuck Arrobio, who blocked for him for four years. "He has tremendous pride in everything he does," says Paul Johnson, who played four season with Mike. "Pride, that's what he has taught me."

Said Rod Sherman, who may be the next USC all-America: "He made this worthwhile even if we didn't make it to the Rose Bowl."

Surprise! Rams Tackle Lineman No.1

By AL LARSON

The Rams, who have been run over nine times already this season, hope to retaliate next year—with a 240-pound guy who brings to mind a truck.

The Rams finally kicked their habit of drafting a college back on the first round of the National Football League picks Saturday by selecting offensive tackle Tom Mack of Michigan.

The 6-3 senior lineman from Bucyrus, Ohio, agreed to terms shortly after the selections began in New York. He was signed by former Ram coach Hamp Pool.

Mack was considered as a surprise selection, but the Rams need interior offensive linemen badly and plan to use him either at tackle or guard.

* * * * *

WHY DID the Rams take Mack over Mike Garrett?

Rams owner Dan Reeves said simply:

"Mike Garrett is a great football player. And so is Tom Mack. But the biggest single breakdown in many Rams games this year was offensive line play, with the emphasis on pass protection. And we felt that this was the area we needed most to strengthen."

Mack, who played with Michigan in the Rose Bowl last season when the Wolverines routed Oregon State 34-7, said:

"I knew last Thursday Los Angeles was interested in me, but I am surprised and pleased that they picked me that high."

* * * * *

SIGNED IN New York where he was joined by his girl friend, Anne Tollefson of La Canada, whom he met last December during his trip to the Rose Bowl, Mack explained: "I have a good contract. I'm pleased with it but I can't mention any figures.

"Playing with a last-place club doesn't depress me a bit. Michigan had a poor team three years ago, but we won the Big 10 title last year."

A pre-engineering student, Mack will not graduate in June. He plans to attend a college in California to complete his work for a degree. Mack was named to the all-Big 10 team on both major wire service polls.

Asked why he chose the NFL over the rival AFL, Mack stated, "It (NFL) offers the best challenge and future.

"I would like to play offense since that's what I

GARRETT A GO GO

Heisman Trophy winner Mike Garrett bulls across Wyoming goal, taking defender Mike Dirks (66) with him and leaving Bob Dinges up in the air. Firist of three Garrett td's covered two yards. The Trojan all-America broke 3-year collegiate rushing record on next try and fans (inset) responded with victory signs.

Mike Rips Ollie's Record in Adieu

By JEROME HALL

It was a beautiful day for a football game Saturday in the Coliseum and it's too bad they didn't have one.

What they had was a reasonable facsimile—barely reasonable—which the USC Trojan's won, 56-6, over the unspurred Cowboys from the University of Wyoming.

It was, too, Mike Garrett's collegiate goodby and he responded to the constant cheers of the 39,233 in attendance by running for three touchdowns and passing for another.

It was a day for erasures in the record book as Garrett surpassed a national collegiate rushing record that had stood 14 years. Too, the Trojan point total was the largest in 24 years and the Trojan kicker set a school record by winging eight straight conversions straight through the uprights.

Garrett scored touchdowns on runs of 2, 1 and 1 yards in the first half as the USCers built a 42-0 intermission margin. In the second half he threw a 30-yard scoring pass.

Wyoming, though terrible when trying to defend against passes, put up a spunky defense of the ground and tackled harder in the second half than in the first. Presumably the Cowboys suffered from crowd fright earlier.

* * * * *

THE TEAM from Laramie did a better job defensing Garrett than most clubs during the past three years. His longest runs were 17, 15 and 13 yards. They came in the fourth quarter against a weary ball club. Most of Garrett's gains (24 carries for 116 yards) were for 2, 3 and 5 yards.

"I felt we put in an overall excellent game," commented coach John McKay. Quarterback Troy Winslow, who completed 15 of 21 passes for 320 yards and was voted the outstanding back of the game, "played well," said the coach.

Winslow got much assistance from his receivers, who stole the ball from interceptors several times. Though he threw long passes this day, McKay pointed out he does not have a long arm — "I could have autographed one of the passes he threw, but he got the job done."

McKay, trying to liven up the post-game interviews in spite of the disappointment of the sudden, sodden conclusion to the season, added with a wry smile: "I thought Garrett's pass was a wounded dove."

The Trojan landslide began the second time they got hold of the ball, after the Cowboys had driven far enough on their first series to try a 51-yard field goal which was far short.

The Trojan drive went 80

Freshmen Shock UCLA Varsity '5'

It was very humorous the way UCLA began defense of its national championship Saturday night.

It was funny because the team that is favored in both the Associated Press and United Press International polls to win the national championship this year, lost the game.

Not just lost the game, you understand, but lost to the UCLA Freshmen team.

Not just lost to the UCLA Freshmen team, you understand, but lost by a 15-point margin.

* * * * *

THE SCORE was 75-60 against the two-time national champs and the 12,051 spectators who nearly filled UCLA's new gymnasium on its dedication night howled with delight as the youngsters on the Frosh team played like experienced players against the kind of Bruin pressure that has torn some of the better college teams apart the past two and three years.

It was Johnny Wooden Night and it was the col-

'Alamitos Vandy-lized of $10,000

By DON HARDIN

Rocket Vandy, with Charlie Smith expertly guiding the son of Rocket Bar-Susan Vandusen out from the rail position, won Saturday's running of the $10,000 Los Ninos at Los Alamitos Race Course.

The Los Ninos was expected to be a two-horse race between Rocket Vandy and Moore Go, the latter breaking from the No. 2 hole, and they finished just that way, but the winner was a length ahead at the wire and stamped himself as a real contender for the estimated $170,000 Futurity to be run Dec. 11.

The fine crowd of 12,652, enjoying a brisk afternoon under sunny skies, sent Z. Wayne Griffin's colt off at a 6-5 and Ray Seeley's Moore Go off at 2-1 with staggering odds on the eight contenders, three of them eligible for the Futurity along with Rocket Vandy and Moore Go.

Rocket Vandy was timed

Rival Loops Emphasize Big Linemen in Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobile linebacker Tommy Nobis and power-running Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski were the top selections as the National and American Football Leagues staged their player drafts Saturday with unprecedented delays on some first-round picks.

Just as was the case with the rival American League, which was holding its draft nearby, the NFL emphasized the big linemen and agile linebackers with no quarterback chosen among the first 15 NFL picks.

While Nobis was the top selection of the NFL's new Atlanta team and Grabowski was tapped first by the AFL's new Miami entry, there were these related developments:

1. Five players, all first-round selections, signed with NFL clubs — Purdue tackle

GRABOWSKI NOBIS

Jerry Shay with Minnesota, Indiana defensive end Randy Beisler with Philadelphia, Michigan tackle Tom Mack with the Rams, Kentucky tackle Sam Ball with Baltimore and Minnesota tackle Gale Gillingham with Green Bay.

2. Three players, all first-round selections, signed with AFL clubs — Minnesota end Aaron Brown with Kansas City, Michigan tackle Bill Yearby with New York and Kentucky halfback Rodger Bird with Oakland.

3. Three teams were unable to make their first-round picks in the alloted time of one hour. New York of the AFL finally made its choice almost six hours after coming up on the draft list, Pittsburgh of the NFL took 6½ hours and Oakland set an all-time record by taking more than 10.

* * * * *

THE RAIDERS made Bird their No. 1 selection but took a strange route by announcing their second, third, fifth and seventh round picks before naming the Kentucky back. The Raiders did not say why they chose to do this.

4. Sonny Werblin, owner of the AFL's New York club, implied that the Jets were having difficulty reaching players they wanted to draft.

5. Early AFL picks co-

Novack to Chargers

The San Diego Chargers drafted Long Beach State's Shelly Novack on the 15th round. Novack caught 68 passes for 1,013 yards and scored 13 touchdowns for the 49ers this season. The Chargers also drafted 49er defensive tackle Ron Ogle on the 17th round.

The Poisoned Pen

The Sunday sermons:

"In regard to Carolyn Winston's letter about conditions at Veterans Stadium, I would like to comment on critical statements about the Long Beach Police Dept. that she made. The Police Dept. uses reserve officers employed by the school to maintain order at games. These men are not ushers, nor ticket sellers, nor do they have anything to do with seating arrangements or speed with which people are permitted into the stadium. I don't know where Miss Winston parked her car, but were it not for the L.B. Motor Officers, she probably would still be trying to get away from the stadium. The stadium is inadequate, but critical comment should go to our city fathers who won't get off the dime, and not to the Police Dept. nor the administration leaders at Long Beach State."—(signed) Bob White, 6301 Johnson.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

(Agreed. If it were not for the police, our half-mast stadium confusion would be increased 100%.)

"I read with interest your letters of complaint from Los Angeles State College personnel and I agree that the treatment they received (in Long Beach) is inexcusable. But they are not the only ones unhappy about the situation. For some reason (during the L.A. State game here) both the South gates and West gate were closed. By the time we had circled the entire stadium and crossed the parking lot and stood in line to enter, the stands were completely filled. At both the Fresno and L. A. games, we parked in six inches of powdered dirt. We would much rather pay $1.50 for paved, well-directed parking than to pay this to a washrack the next day. I have no doubt that the inadequate lighting had something to do with L.B. State players being unable to field L.A.'s exceptionally long and high punts, and may have been responsible for that one official's questionable ruling. In the meantime, Long Beach, in trying to spend all of our oil money, is filling in the shoreline with rocks and parking lots, and the voters are spending millions on a Park which is virtually in the City of Lakewood. Let us hope that in two years, when we are hosts to Los Angeles again, we will have something better than these tank town facilities to offer them."—(signed) Mrs. Louis G. Harrison, 771 Terraine Ave.

(Let's hope!)

"Long Beach has earned the reputation of being an 'old fogey' town. Facilities for senior citizens are plentiful . . . for junior citizens, hold your nose! I'm fed up with this Vets Stadium mish-mash. I'm willing to be assessed one to five mills on each $1,000 of my realty taxes through 1975. WE HAVE TO PROVIDE A SUITABLE STADIUM FOR L.B. STATE. In 1975, I'll be ready to retire, so I don't think I have an ulterior motive."—(Name withheld upon request), 5110 Patterson St.

READERS' CAPSULED COMMENTS:

"Long Beach State coach Don Reed, supported by all the 'cry baby' sportswriters of your newspaper are sore lossers. If a coach is to be successful he must not only take the wins but also the losses."—(signed) Pat Bauguess, City College Student, 56 Rivo Alto Canal, Belmont Shore.

"Until I read the comments by coach Don Reed following the game between LBSC and Los Angeles, I was extremely proud of our team. He cried like a baby and blamed the officiating. I plan on being a coach and if I'm not incorrect, I thought the films were supposed to be used to help your players, not try to see how many mistakes the officials made."—(signed) Lee Marskell, 5480 Atherton St.

"I am positively ashamed of our Lakewood boosters (?) club. The Downey band did a beautiful job . . . and so did the Millikan band, but . . . the Lakewood High people ignored them. What kind of sportsmanship is that?!"—(signed) Joyce Mooney, 4702 N. Albury, Lakewood.

"My friend informs me that the four-legged ram variety is becoming quite indignant over the fact that the so-called human Rams have dishonored their name in the disgusting performances this year. A word of warning to Harland Svare: If you see a cloud of dust from the North, RUN, KIDDIES, RUN . . . that is, if you can muster the energy."—(signed) Jane Doe, 106 S. Buick, Santa Ana.

THERE'S NOTHING wrong with the Rams. It's WHERE they play! All their games should be scheduled in Shea Stadium (N.Y.) where their talents (?) would be appreciated. Suggestion: The Rams draft Mike Garrett for defense and punt returns. Prediction: Roman Gabriel will be the next great starring quarterback AFTER the Rams trade him. P.S. If the Rams really want experience they could probably pick a surplus halfback from the Bears, whose initials are J. A."—(signed) Nick Sidoti, Gay 90's a Go Go, Long Beach.

"I wonder why L.B. fans get only the Rams' games on Sunday telecasts? The Rams couldn't draw flies to an outdoor barbecue."—(signed) Jim Haley, 933 Alamitos Ave.

"I feel very sorry for Harland Svare. He is a good coach and a fine man. He must be to take what he does every Sunday and still smile some. The Rams don't need a new coach. The coach needs new ball players."—(signed) A. C. Thrower, 15403 Halcourt Ave., Norwalk.

Russell Dunks Lakers, 101-95

BOSTON (AP)— Bill Russell and Larry Siegfried sparked the Boston Celtics to a 101-95 victory over the Lakers Saturday night in a bruising National Basketball Association battle between the two division leaders.

Russell turned in a great all-around game as he scored 28 points and picked off 35 rebounds. Both were his top individual efforts of the season as Boston won its fifth straight.

* * * *

SIEGFRIED, filling in for the injured Sam Jones, tallied 18 points and got 12 of them in the first seven minutes of the decisive third period when the Celtics overcame a brief Laker lead and moved ahead to stay.

The Celtics led at the half, 49-46, and boosted this advantage to 10 points, 76-69, entering the final quarter. Then Boston quickly increased its margin to 19 points, 96-77, and coasted home. Tom Sanders, who scored 18 points, was a major factor in this surge.

Jerry West and Rudy LaRusso scored 21 points apiece to pace the Lakers, who got only two points from Elgin Baylor in 15 minutes of action.

The contest was a bristling, physical battle during which both coaches, Red Auerbach and Fred Schaus, drew technical fouls. The Lakers have now lost nine road games in a row.

ROYALS HIT 60%

Big O Sinks 44; Guerin Chased

Compiled from Wire Reports

Oscar Robertson scored a season's high of 44 points and the Cincinnati Royals hit a blistering 60% of their shots to whip the host New York Knicks 132-129 Saturday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Jerry Lucas put the Royals ahead for good 125-123 with 2:21 left in the game, hitting a one-handed jumper from the foul line.

The score was tied 13 times in the first half and the lead changed hands 14 times. No team had more than a six-point lead throughout.

Adrian Smith added 31 points for the Royals and Willis Reed hit a personal high of 40 points to lead the Knicks. Dick Barnett scored 35 for New York.

THE ST. LOUIS Hawks defeated the Baltimore Bullets 136-110, marked by the ejection of Hawks' player-coach Richie Guerin.

Guerin engaged in a skirmish with Baltimore's Ben Warley in the second period and, after teammates separated the pair, Guerin continued the argument, received a technical and was ejected.

Zelmo Beaty's free throw in the first period put the Hawks ahead to stay, and the period ended 43-32.

WILT CHAMBERLAIN scored 38 points and blocked numerous shots to lead the Philadelphia 76ers to a 124-117 victory over the San Francisco Warriors.

The win was the second in two nights for the 76ers over the Warriors and lifted their record to 12-7. The defeat knocked San Francisco below the .500 mark with an 11-12 record.

Tom Meschery topped the Warriors with 27 points.

Miami Shackles Irish

MIAMI (UPI) —Miami's four-time-beaten Hurricanes mounted a mighty defense Saturday night and gained a scoreless tie with the powerful Irish of Notre Dame before 68,077 roaring fans in the Orange Bowl.

It was the first time seventh-ranked Notre Dame has failed to score since 1962 and it was the Irish's first scoreless tie since the Army game of 1946.

The tie gave Miami only a 5-4-1 record for the season but it was a sweet "victory" to throw into the face of Sun Bowl officials who passed up the Hurricanes late Saturday in favor of Texas Christian.

Coach Ara Parseghian's machine had scored a total of 270 points in winning 7 of its first 9 games this year.

Each team had two chances to score field goals. Miami got its chances in the first half. Specialist Don Curtwright missed attempts of 43 and 47 yards.

Notre Dame moved into field goal range in the fourth period but specialist Kenneth Ivan, who went into the game with 7 out of 10 field goal attempts, missed boots of 22 and 27 yards.

	Miami	N.D.

Rushing yardage minus	17	115
Passing yardage	104	66
Passes	9-21	6-20
Passes Intercepted by	2	1
Punts	10-40	9-38
Fumbles lost	1
Yards penalized	30	30

Att.—68,077.

The Irish defense proved superb. It held Miami to a minus 17 yards rushing and to 93 yards over all.

Miami was forced to punt 10 times and Notre Dame gave up the ball 9 times on kicks.

Miami's biggest chance to upset Notre Dame came on the opening kickoff when guard Larry Bodie pounced on Larry Conjar's fumble at the Notre Dame 22. But a penalty and three incomplete passes pushed Miami back and Curtwright saw his 47-yard field goal attempt bounce off the upright.

DEFENSE SPARKLES

Blades Cut Down Victoria, Regain Respectability, 3-1

By RICH ROBERTS

Have the Blades been holding something back?

The Victoria Maple Leafs and 6,000 fans at the L.A. Sports Arena must be wondering after seeing the homeless waifs of the Western Hockey League gun down the league leaders, 3-1, Saturday night.

The Leafs' third loss in 18 games cut a win streak at six and brought the Blades back to respectability after three successive losses. They roused themselves to a rare wire-to-wire performance, doing the job on goals by Leo LaBine, Cliff Pennington and Buddy Boone.

Showing how well they can play with a decent day of rest and the home ice advantage, the Blades dominated the team that most observers say is the best the WHL has seen in years.

Goalie Marcel Pelletier gave the Leafs a 1-0 jump after only three minutes when he tried to glove Gordon Redahl's lofted shot and the puck bounced off his chest into the net.

But he settled down to make some strong saves and the Blades supported him with alert checking around their own goal.

They got even on their power play after Victoria's first penalty near the end of the opening period. Brian Smith passed the puck from the side to Norm Johnson at the corner of the goal and Johnson flipped it across to LaBine for the equalizer.

Then Pennington put the Blades on top at 13 minutes of the second period. Ray LaRose's long shot got Leafs' goalie Lee Millar out of the crease and Pennington flipped in an easy rebound.

Boone, who had hit the post in the first period, made it 3-1 early in the third. The round little man carried the puck across the center of the blue line, and, without trying to make a play, slapped a smoker from 50 feet that caught Millar straight-up.

So steady was the defense that Pelletier had to make only 22 saves, a season low, in recording his third one-goal show.

And he admitted he was fooled on Victoria's only counter.

"I thought it was going to be a low shot, and when it went high I couldn't handle it," he said.

Boone, whose goal was the winner, said: "I think it might have surprised him (Millar). Of course, from that far out I'm just shooting for the net."

Victoria's rookie coach, Frank Mario, wasn't too broken up over the loss. "We were'nt as sharp as we have been," he said. "Those 23 shots is about our low. Of course, the Blades played well too."

Blade defenseman Bob Wilson, who had one of his better games, said the biggest difference was that "we were getting back together for a change instead of letting them skate in without anybody there."

BLUE LINES: Millar made a strong play on a breakaway by rookie Bobby Schmautz in the first period. He came out 20 feet to meet his man, then sniffed him like Ty Cobb busting up a double play . . . Schmautz, with Willie O'Ree out with a pulled groin muscle again, and Marc Boileau, slowed down by the same ailment, was taking regular shifts for the first time in a while . . . Victoria's Bob Barlow leads the league in hat tricks with two after Friday's at San Francisco . . . All three of the Seals goals in that 4-3 loss came with Victoria short . . . The Blades get a long rest now after playing 11 games in 17 days. Their next match is against Seattle Thursday at the Sports Arena.

FIRST PERIOD—1, Victoria, Redahl (Sleaver) 3:04. 2, Los Angeles, LaBine (Johnson, Smith) 15:04. Penalties—Wilson (LA) 12:41; Jankowski (Vi) 15:09; Lamoureau (Vi) 16:42; Hextall (Vi) 19:53.
SECOND PERIOD—3, Los Angeles, Pennington (Larose, Boileau) 13:00. Penalties—Erickson (Vi) 3:38; Hendrickson (LA) 9:00, 18:07.
THIRD PERIOD—4, Los Angeles, Boone (Smith, LaRose) 1:09. Penalties—Redahl (V) 7:02; Wilson (LA), 7:02.

Atkins Cops Spill Marred Ascot Feature

Ex-Indianapolis champions Parnelli Jones and A. J. Foyt engaged in a hot duel for first place Saturday night in the 150-lap midget auto Grand Prix at Ascot Park, but both encountered mechanical trouble and fell out of contention.

Dick Atkins of Hayward, Calif., captured the 75-mile event in 1:1:02.43.

Jones and Foyt dueled for the first 69 laps, when Parnelli lost a wheel and his car flipped three times. He was unhurt, but his car was wrecked.

Foyt held the lead until the 118th lap when he stopped to change a tire. He was plagued by further mechanical trouble and finished far back. Bob Wente of St. Louis was second in the race, while Tommy Copp of Fresno, Calif., grabbed third.

Skee Radigan of Long Beach, hit the wall on the 118th lap and was taken to Gardena Hospital. His injuries were not serious, however.

C. S. Vandywater recorded a 77-11—66 Saturday to win class A low net competition in the weekly Virginia Country Club sweepstakes.

Class A low net—C. S. Vandywater, tie between Art Pepp, 79-11—68 and Jim Ferrie, 72-4—68.
Class A blind bogey (72)—Ralph Oliver, Hal Aldridge, Art Macrale, Dan Darnell, Tom McCarry, Jack Watkins.
Class B low net—Tie between Earl Wilscher, 85-17—68 and Greer Thompson, 85-17—68.
Class B blind bogey (77)—Hal Baum, E. A. Bateman.

Nicklaus Retains Lead

LAFAYETTE, La. (UPI) —Jack Nicklaus fired a one-under-par 71 Saturday despite a balky putter and held onto a one-stroke lead after three rounds of the $32,000 Cajun Classic golf tournament.

Nicklaus, who had seven golfers only one stroke behind him after 54 holes, found it hard to believe he was still in front of the tourney as he walked off the course.

"I'm leading? You're kidding," he said. "Shooting 71 is not very good, especially if you expect to win."

Nicklaus played almost perfect golf from tee to green over the par 72, 6,550 yard Oakbourne Country Club course. But his putter would not behave.

"I didn't putt well at all," said Nicklaus. "I hit every green, but I couldn't get down."

Nicklaus used 36 putts, taking three putts on two greens.

A quick drop in the mercury forced the field into sweaters and the chill in the air had an effect on the scores. The best rounds of the day were a pair of 67s, fired by Dave Ragan and Ed Griffiths.

The third round also saw this year's 10th ace on the PGA tour. Ken Towns holed out with a four-iron on the 167-yard 14th hole.

HOWE, WOW! 1ST TO NET 600 GOALS

MONTREAL (AP)—Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings became the first man in National Hockey League history to score 600 goals during the regular season.

Howe's goal came in the third period in Detroit's game with Montreal Saturday night, pulling Detroit to within one goal at 3-2. That's how the game ended.

Howe, playing a record-tying 20th season in the NHL, has a total of 661 goals, counting those scored in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Freshmen Stun Bruin Cagers

legiate debut of Lew Alcindor, the Bruins' prized rookie prize, who soon will become the biggest single basketball attraction on the West Coast.

Alcindor, who towers 7-1, scored 31 in his first game since he attracted scouts and recruiters from all around the country to Powers Memorial High School in New York last spring.

There have been a lot of seven-foot basketball players since Bevo Francis cracked the height-barrier in the fifties, but few have shown the potential of this long fellow.

He shoots well, he runs with stamina and he blocks shots frequently enough to demoralize the best of players. And when he dunks a basket he goes up and he goes up and he goes up. Then he drops the ball through the hoop with a soft touch.

* * * *

THERE WILL be comparisons to Wilt Chamberlain and Bill Russell, and if Saturday night's debut is an accurate indication, Alcindor may turn out to have an adequate combination of the best qualities in both.

The UCLA varsity had a ragged look as it trailed all but a few minutes in the first half. The intermission score was 36-31 for the Frosh and a scoring spree at the outset of the second half when the Freshmen tallied 10 points in a row, put the outcome beyond doubt.

Mike Lynn led the varsity scorers with 12 points. Doug McIntosh scored 10.

Midway through the second half the varsity fell 18 points behind and the Freshmen slacked off. Frosh coach Gary Cunningham cleared his bench and everybody laughed except the UCLA varsity coach and the UCLA players.

UCLA, Michigan Ranked 1-2 in Pre-Season Poll

The UCLA Bruins, defending national champions, were picked Saturday as the No. 1 team in the pre-season Associated Press college basketball poll.

The charges of coach Johnny Wooden, who will be trying for an unprecedented third successive NCAA title, beat out the Michigan Wolverines in the annual poll by an AP panel of 30 sportswriters and broadcasters.

A year ago Michigan edged UCLA for the No. 1 spot in the pre-season poll but lost to UCLA in the NCAA championship final last March.

The top 10 with last year's won-lost records and number of first place votes in parenthesis:

	W	L	Pts.

BREEDLOVE

The Speed Breed

By RICH ROBERTS

"I don't think it's an obsession at all, and you don't get any prize money for breaking the record. I mean, it's not like winning Indianapolis. But the only way you can make a living at it is to hold the record for a while."

Two weeks ago Craig Breedlove was the second fastest man on wheels, a distinction only slightly more attractive than being second fastest on the draw.

Then, on Nov. 15, he pointed a quarter-million dollar projectile down a 6-inch strip of black tar stretching over the Bonneville Salt Flats and followed it into infinity.

He sped 593.178 mph going down and 608.201 coming back, an average of 600.601 mph and, wouldn't you know it, not a traffic cop in sight.

At 28, Breedlove had recaptured the world land speed record from Art Arfons in a mad duel on the desert that carried these men so far beyond scientific knowledge that they had to write their own textbooks as they went along.

THE SPEED OF SOUND is well beyond 700 mph, but Breedlove points out with some foreboding, "We're already experiencing some problems. We're in what they call the transonic speed range. That's where some of the parts of the car are actually becoming supersonic.

"Because of the car's shape it accelerates the air over certain areas and actually gets into supersonic flow. You have shifts in pressure distribution and this can cause all kinds of weird phenomena. It can make the car become airborne, which is what happened to us the first time."

Breedlove's Spirit of America Sonic 1—let's say he's the registered owner but Goodyear holds the pink slip—is powered by a jet engine equipped with an afterburner for extra thrust.

Craig set a record of 534 mph last Oct. 14 without using the afterburner, but when he turned it on five days later all hell broke loose.

"In order to get beyond 534 we had to go into min AB (minimum use of the afterburner)," he explains, "and this is a big power jump. It put the car from 534 to over 600 and we hadn't had enough buildup runs between these speed ranges to know what might happen.

"WHEN THE car got up to 600 we left the ground. It was a direct and abrupt pressure shift. I immediately lost my steering control, and after three-quarters of a mile we were a thousand feet off course.

"I released the normal parachute system, which broke loose, then I fired the emergency system, which also tore loose. Then I stepped down on the brakes — we're still running 600 mph — and the torque on the rear wheel when the brake grabbed dropped the front end and I regained my steering. Then I had to stop it from 600 on the brakes."

The experience so unnerved Breedlove that he was already planning modifications when his crew caught up with him.

"We extended the trailing edge of the airfoil to raise the critical mach number," he explained. "We added the length only to one side of the foil to make it non-symmetrical and help create a bit more negative lift. This did the trick."

NATURALLY, ANYBODY could have thought of that . . . anybody with a master's degree in aerodynamics, engineering and advanced English, except that Breedlove has none of these.

All he has is a diploma from Venice High and a wealth of practical experience. He built his first hot rod when he was 13 and figures that Sonic 1 is only the latest creation in a natural line of progression.

"It's not the ultimate," he says. "I believe a much better car can be built."

The first man to top 400, 500 and 600 mph on a two-way average also is planning an assault on the world water speed record next year and is tempted by the glamor of Indianapolis.

"I've thought about it lately, but if you go into that type of thing you have to go all the way. It takes all your time."

Driving at Indy does not appeal greatly to him, either.

"At Bonneville, there's more danger but less exposure. You make your two runs and that's it. But if you crack up, let's face it, you aren't going to get out of there.

"At Indy there's less danger but more exposure. You can get knocked around pretty good and still walk away—but you're out there 3½ hours. I hope I can keep from it."

SPEED RUNS in Breedlove's family. The mother of his five children, Lee, drove Sonic 1 to a women's land speed record of 308.56 mph before Craig's 600-mph run, but she's more willing to stand pat.

"I don't think I'll drive again unless somebody breaks it," she confesses. "And then I'd have to ask my husband if I could use his car again."

Together they looked out the window high in the Statler Hotel toward the clear, rain-washed Palos Verdes hills and the home that speed built.

"Our place is right up there by the radar towers," Craig pointed out, and Lee added, "I wouldn't live anywhere else."

Craig looked skyward at the rainclouds. "I hope it keeps up."

So it will smooth out the salt?

"Well, that too, but mainly I hope it keeps up so Art won't get another chance at the record."

Frogs Leap to Sun Bowl On Field Goal

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Bruce Alford's fourth-period field goal lifted Texas Christian to a 10-7 verdict over Southern Methodist Saturday and the Horned Frogs immediately accepted a Sun Bowl bid.

The triumph was Texas Christian's fourth straight and earned the Christians a share of second place in the Southwest Conference with a 5-2 record.

They wound up the campaign 6-4 and will meet Texas Western on New Year's Eve in El Paso.

The Frogs, stifled for minus rushing yardage in the first half, came to life in the final quarter for a tying touchdown and the critical 40-yard kick by Alford.

Fumbling Rice Falls to Baylor

HOUSTON (UPI) — Speedster Richard Defee sprinted for touchdown runs of 11 and 17 yards in the second quarter Saturday to lead the Baylor Bears past the fumbling Rice Owls, 17-13.

Both of Defee's scoring dashes were set up on bobbles by Rice punt receiver Ronnie Cervenka in the final five minutes of the first half. Bob Purvis had a perfect afternoon, connecting on two extra points and a field goal, to round out the Bears' scoring.

Wingback Glen Hine contributed both of Rice's touchdowns, scoring on passes of four and two yards in the first and third quarters.

SPARTANS CORNER NEW GRID HONOR

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Undefeated Michigan State Saturday was named the winner of the MacArthur Bowl, awarded annually to the nation's No. 1 college football team as selected by the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

Notre Dame was the 1964 winner.

The trophy will be presented to Michigan State at the eighth annual Football Hall of Fame awards banquet in New York on Dec. 7.

Coming back from a 1964 season which netted only four victories, Michigan State won all of its 10 games this season, defeating Notre Dame in its final game Nov. 27.

Cadets Beat Odds, Tie Navy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army and Navy grappled to a 7-7 tie Saturday—the sixth-stand-off in their colorful 75-year-old series — that nullified the iron man play of the Cadets' Sam Champi and the occasional passing brilliance of the Middies' sophomore John Cartwright.

The Cadets struck first after 4 minutes, 16 seconds of the game when Charley Stowers, a converted guard from Chesapeake, Ohio, rambled 25 yards to a touchdown after a fumble recovery by Champi.

The Midshipmen, a seven-point favorite, leveled the score in the second period, when Cartwright threw an eight-yard pass to Terry Murray in the Army end zone.

Each touchdown was followed by successful conversions—Andy Dull of Tallahassee, Fla., kicking for Army and Felix Bassi for Navy.

East

A crowd of 102,000, including Chief Justice Earl Warren, several Cabinet members and high Army and Navy officials, saw the two teams knock heads the rest of the time like a group of angry bulls.

Army missed a field goal chance which might have brought victory late in the first period when Dull tried from the 27 and the ball went wide to the left.

Stowers of Army was the leading ground gainer with 92 yards. Sophomore Carl Tamulevich, who had spent most of the year on the bench, was Navy's best with 38 yards. Cartwright was thrown for minus-12 yards and Alan Roodhouse for minus-two.

Cartwright threw 36 passes, completed 13 for 124 yards. His Army counterpart, Cook, tried only 10, completed 4 and settled for 47 yards.

The last deadlock between the two teams was 7-7 in 1956. Army has a slight edge in the series with 31 victories, 29 defeats and 6 ties.

Champi, a 6-foot-4, 224-pound end from East Orange, N.J., who played both offense and defense, was the standout individual performer.

He recovered the fumble that set up Army's first score, killed a Navy threat in the second quarter when he smeared the Navy's Felix Bassi for a 21-yard loss and caught two long passes in one of Army's futile drives.

7 Thefts Sweep Tide Over Auburn

BIRMINGHAM (AP)— Alabama knocked Auburn out of the Southeastern Conference championship and claimed the title for the second straight year Saturday with a 30-3 triumph ignited by the passing of Steve Sloan and daring defensive play.

Sloan tossed three touchdown passes for the Orange Bowl-bound Crimson Tide. Alabama intercepted seven Auburn passes and captured two Tiger fumbles.

The victory before 70,000 fans gave fifth-ranked Alabama a 6-1-1 league record.

Auburn, the Cinderella team of the conference which will play in the Liberty Bowl, finished second in the title chase with a 4-1 mark, but for the year had a 5-4-1 record, its worst since 1952.

Sloan hit on touchdown passes of 11 yards to Tommy Tolleson, 33 yards to Ray Perkins, and 29 yards to Don Shankles. Alabama's first 15 points were set up by Auburn miscues.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Steve Spurrier saved Florida's Sugar Bowl credentials from tarnish Saturday when he drove the Gators 71 yards in less than a minute and hit Charles Casey with a touchdown pass that led to a 30-17 victory over Florida State.

There were three touchdowns in the last 2 minutes, 10 seconds of the game, seen by a record Florida Field crowd of 49,513.

Ed Pritchett appeared to have pulled the big upset for FSU when he drove the Seminoles 85 yards to a score and 17-16 lead with 2:10 left.

Dennis a Menace; Rebels Ring Liberty Bowl Bell, 21-0

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi's Rebels rode a brutal defense and the potent thrusts of halfback Mike Dennis to a 21-0 Southeastern Conference over Mississippi State Saturday.

Ole Miss announced its acceptance of a bid to play in the Liberty Bowl game Dec. 18 against Auburn after the Rebels chalked up their sixth victory against four losses.

The Mississippi defense produced two touchdowns and kept State bottled up until well into the second half.

Halfback Billy Clay picked off a pass by State quarterback Ashby Cook at midfield and raced all the way for a touchdown late in the first period. Jimmy Keyes added the first of three conversions.

The Rebel defenders set up the third tally after State halfback Marcus Rhoden fumbled a punt deep in State territory. Guard Rommy Lucas recovered for the Rebels at the six. Dennis, a 210-pound halfback, smashed across on the third play.

Dennis' running was the main Ole Miss weapon. He ripped off big chunks of yardage and was a key man in the defense that gave the team possession of the ball most of the game.

TIGER-CATS WIN CANADA PRO CROWN

TORONTO (UPI) — The Hamilton Tiger-Cats, staging a determined defensive stand in the final quarter, defeated the Winnipeg Blue Bombers 22-16 Saturday to regain the Grey Cup, emblematic of the Canadian professional football championship.

The Tiger-Cats entered the final quarter with a 22-13 lead and allowed the Bombers only three more points on Norm Winton's field goal.

Dick Cohee and Willie Bethea scored touchdowns for the Tiger-Cats who were representing the Eastern Conference in the Grey Cup for the eighth time in the last nine years.

Vols Whip Vandy, Eye Bruins Next

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Fullback Stan Mitchell dashed 62 yards on the third play of the game for a touchdown Saturday and Tennessee went on to whip Vanderbilt 21-3.

The victory gave ninth-ranked Tennessee a tie with Florida for third-place in the Southeastern Conference race. This is the highest the Vols have finished since 1956, when they had a 10-0 record and won the championship.

THE TRIUMPH also set the stage for a pre-bowl game next Saturday at Memphis between Rose Bowl-bound UCLA, No. 4 in the nation, and Tennessee, a Bluebonnet Bowl choice.

Vanderbilt's Toby Wilt was successful on a field goal attempt early in the second period, but Tennessee took the resulting kickoff and marched 61 yards. Sophomore quarterback Dewey Warren connected with a 20-yard pass to end Austin Denney for the Vols' second score.

Late in the second period, Vol defensive end Paul Maumoff captured a Vanderbilt fumble on the Commodores' 22-yard line and four plays later Mitchell plunged in from the one for his second score.

This was Tennessee's fourth 1965 game in which they have held opponents to less than a touchdown. The Vols have given up only 58 points in nine games.

PLANE CRASH MARS BYU TITLE VICTORY

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — Quarterback Virgil Carter passed Brigham Young University to a 42-8 football victory over New Mexico Saturday, giving BYU its first Western Athletic Conference football championship in history.

Carter passed for three touchdowns and completed 23 of 30 pass attempts for 309 yards. He shattered the WAC career total offense record by rushing for another 14 yards to wind up the season with 2,263 total yards. The old record of 2,226 yards was held by John Torok of Arizona State.

The BYU triumph was dulled by the plane crash earlier in the day that killed 13 persons, most of them BYU boosters.

The boosters, who chartered the plane to attend the game at Albuquerque, all were killed when their airliner slammed into a snow and sagebrush covered hill southwest of Salt Lake City.

Coach Tommy Hudspeth broke into tears in his post-game interview. He said his players, during a pre-game meeting, dedicated the game to the departed fans.

Military Strategists Refused to Gamble

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Navy stuck with its erratic rookie quarterback to save his confidence, while Army was reluctant to open up and the result Saturday was a 7-7 tie in their 75th football game.

Navy Coach Bill Elias said he was tempted to replace 19-year-old sophomore quarterback John Cartwright, particularly in the first quarter.

"He was falling down, fumbling and throwing the ball into the ground and merited being taken out," Elias said.

"But I kept thinking, here's a young man who has two more years and his confidence as a man is the most important thing."

Admittedly, second guessing himself, Elias said "Who knows but that Bruce Bickel or Felix Bassi might have won the game for us at quarterback."

Elias had switched between Bickel, a senior, and Cartwright for the first part of the season.

"I learned you have to stick with one quarterback," he said, "and decided it would be Cartwright."

In the Army dressing room, Coach Paul Dietzel explained Army's reluctance to gamble thusly:

"We wanted to open up, but didn't want to throw the game away — the team had worked too hard to take a chance on giving it away.

"We had had field position most of the time, and passing never has been one of our strong points.

Elias also refused to gamble when Navy punted from the Army 46 with 1:25 to play instead of trying for a first down.

"I play the averages," he said. "Army had not fumbled the ball the entire game and we figured that maybe something would happen."

Vegas May Lose Future Title Bouts

The Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson bout staged in Las Vegas the past week was the second most successful promotion in boxing history.

Only the first Sonny Liston-Patterson bout in 1962 produced a bigger all-around gate, including ancilliary rights.

Exposure-wise, it was a tremendous bonanza for Las Vegas and its "recreational facilities."

The word about the glamour of the fabulous resort was heard 'round the world as the fight was covered in virtually every newspaper around the globe; nearly 700,000 fans watched it via closed circuit and community antenna television; an estimated 75 million heard it on radio in this country, and untold millions in foreign countries via overseas broadcasts.

DAVE LEWIS
'Lost' Vegas

However, despite the fact that Las Vegas is ideal for fights carried on closed circuit TV because it can produce a good live gate while not blacking out any of the major population centers throughout the country, the city may well have seen its last heavyweight title bout for some time.

The trouble revolves around Bud Albright, manager of the Convention Center, and what has been described as his "arrogant attitude."

Al Bolan, president of Intercontinental Promotions, and Fred Brooks, head of SportsVision, which handles the closed circuit telecasts, were in complete agreement that it is almost impossible to do business with Albright on a reasonable level.

According to Las Vegas newspapermen, most promoters who attempt to bring events into Convention Center run into the same surprising treatment and as a result several events—including a couple of big fights—have been lost.

Madison Square Garden, which controlled the weekly TV fights a few years ago, finally refused to deal with Albright because of what Hank Greenspun, publisher of the Las Vegas Sun, calls "his stupid, petty and insignificant demands that causes those who deal with him to leave conferences red-faced and frustrated. There have been few who ever went through a session with him who haven't sworn it will be the last time."

GREENSPUN, WHO PLAYED AN ACTIVE PART in bringing the fight to Vegas, has fired the first salvo in an attempt to correct the situation by either having the Fair and Recreation Board replace him . . . or at least force him to change his tactics.

The difficulty between promoters and Albright was kept quiet until after the match for fear that a disagreement would have given the Louisville group sponsoring Clay the chance they had been seeking to take the fight to the Houston Astrodome.

Houston, in fact, figures to play a prominent role in future Clay fights unless the Las Vegas situation can be straightened out.

There can be no over-emphasis that sports is a great tourist attraction in Las Vegas. When the first sports event was introduced in 1953, the Tournament of Champions golf classic, it opened up an entirely new avenue of tourism for the resort town.

Some 75% of the fight's live crowd (8,106) was from out-of-town, feeding fresh money into the city.

Furthermore, there isn't a sufficient amount of money even in Vegas to buy the coverage of these events in paid advertising—especially such world-wide exposure in all news media as a title fight.

THE MAN MOST RESPONSIBLE for bringing the match to Las Vegas was Jim Deskin of the Nevada State Athletic Commission who also is president of the World Boxing Association.

Jim discussed preliminary plans with Greenspun and revealed then Bolan's dissatisfaction with Albright when his group staged the Patterson-Sonny Liston bout in Las Vegas two years ago.

At the time, Bolan said they would never come back if they had to deal with Albright because they could get better terms in other cities which had larger arenas.

Deskin and Greenspun, taking everything into consideration, felt that a flat rental fee of $5,000 would be most fair considering what the fight could do for Las Vegas, publicity-wise, and the fact that the huge Houston Astrodome was asking only $9,500.

Albright and the head of the Fair and Recreation Board were contacted and told that chances of getting another fight in Las Vegas would be virtually nil if the former maintained his unreasonable demands.

When they left to call Bolan, it was the understanding of Deskin and Greenspun that Albright had agreed to the $5,000 fee. Bolan promptly announced from New York that the fight would be held in Las Vegas.

HOWEVER, WHEN BOLAN ARRIVED to sign the contracts for the fight, he walked out of his first conference with Albright and told Greenspun "there's no way to get through to this guy. He's so hard-nosed about every minor detail and so arrogant in his demands that we just can't do business with him."

In the meantime, Albright had upped his demands to $9,500 for rent and $300 per day setting up time for closed circuit TV wiring, etc., plus a big block of tickets.

According to Greenspun, Intercontinental was "absolutely blackmailed" into paying everything asked except the $300 per day because so many other arrangements already had been made that it would have cost the promoters a small fortune to switch to Houston.

As Bolan prepared to leave Las Vegas after the fight, he said "never again."

Thus, Vegas has quite a problem on its hands.

One man seems bent on killing—or at least crippling—the goose that laid a golden egg.

BURDEN OF BRINGING RAMS BACK IN GABE'S LAP

Roman Gabriel will test his strong right arm today when Rams oppose Green Bay Packers at Coliseum. Gabriel, who has seen only limited action this season, steps in for injured Bill Munson at quarterback. Packers (8-2) continue their quest for division title; Rams (1-9) would be happy to win one.

Packers May Spoil Rams' Roman Holiday

By AL LARSON

Roman Gabriel, who hasn't started a league game all season for the Rams, has chosen an inopportune time to iron out the kinks in his throwing arm.

Replacing injured Bill Munson, Gabriel takes the firing line today against the surging Green Bay Packers who need a victory to move within a half game of league-leading Baltimore in the tough Western Division.

LARSON'S LOSER:
Green Bay 27, Rams 17

"I'm a trifle rusty from not playing for so long," admitted Gabriel, who must test his form against the NFL's top defensive secondary. The 6-4 signal-caller also has the task of helping the Rams escape a record ninth successive defeat.

L.A. matched its previous longest losing streak of eight for a single season (1959) when San Francisco rallied for a 30-27 victory last week. The club's all-time skid is 12 games spanning 1959-60.

But if the crowd of 34,000 expected for the 1:05 p.m. kickoff at the Coliseum anticipates a rout, it might do well to look past the Packers' 8-2 record and the Rams' 1-9 mark.

* * * *

TWO WEEKS ago in Milwaukee, Don Chandler kicked a field goal with 37 seconds left to eke out a 6-3 decision over L.A.

It was 13 months ago that Gabriel rallied the Rams to a 27-17 victory in Milwaukee. Then the Packers had to struggle to a 24-24 December tie at the Coliseum. So, in the last three meetings, the clubs are 1-1-1 and Harland Svare has a 54-47 cumulative point edge over Vince Lombardi.

However, odds-makers aren't so sure and have tabbed Green Bay as nine-point favorites.

* * * *

THE PACKERS seem to be once again on their old explosive track and are beginning to build up steam for their Dec. 12 rematch with Baltimore.

Lombardi located the oil can last week as the Packers clobbered Minnesota 38-13. Bart Starr, held to four completions and 73 yards by the Rams, completed 9 of 19 for 181 yards and three touchdowns.

Svare has made one significant lineup switch for today. He's opening with Willie Brown at halfback, marking Willie's first start for the Rams. The former Poly High and USC star pumps added speed into the Rams' backfield.

Willie netted seven yards rushing last week against San Francisco on two carries, and streaked for 37 yards on a pass from Munson. Brown saw his first action as a running back two weeks ago, but the Packers are bound to see more of the speedster from Long Beach today.

PACKER STAR EXPECTS TO BE TRADED

Linebacker Ray Nitschke is playing out his option with the Green Bay Packers in order to become a free agent and expects to be traded to another National Football League team.

The all-NFL defensive player said Saturday, "They're not paying me enough. What will happen now? I don't know. I suppose they'll trade me."

Under league rules, a player can decline to sign a contract with his club and after one year become a free agent. The Packers lost tight end Ron Kramer, an all-NFL selection in 1962, to the Detroit Lions this season after Kramer played out his option.

Zikes Saved, But Driver Loses Boat

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (AP) — A boat driver knocked unconscious by a wave during a $20,000 outboard regatta Saturday was rescued dramatically at the cost of the rescuer's boat.

Mel Zikes, a public relations man for American Airlines in Los Angeles, was thrown into the back of his boat by the wave from another boat traveling 60 miles an hour in the 500-mile race.

Zikes slipped unconscious into the water not far from Bob Crane of Concord, Calif., by the shore repairing a hole in the bottom of his boat. Crane pulled Zikes to safety while his own boat sank.

* * * *

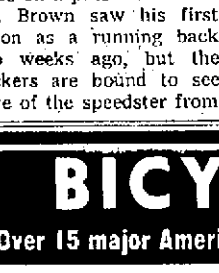

A SPOKESMAN at Mohave County General Hospital said later that Zikes, about 35, was in serious condition with two broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Another driver, Dick Lucero of Pomona sustained several broken ribs when he was thrown against the side of his boat but did not require hospitalization.

The leader after the first two hours of the six-hour race was Harold Eis of Topeka, Kan., who covered 23 five-mile laps. The final four hours of racing for the 100 competing boats will be today.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

Corpulent Corbina

You probably have driven past the old Railroad Bridge right next to Highway No. 1 just this side of Sunset Beach, and you, no doubt, have seen dozens of fishermen trying their luck. Did you ever see anybody catch a fish there? Possibly not. I don't ever remember seeing anybody with a fish on or one in the sack.

Well, George Carton, 735 Joann St., Costa Mesa, a most patient angler—all surf and bay anglers are like that—baited up Friday, using a razor clam. He whipped the bait into Anaheim Bay and bango! He had a fish on in no time.

It turned out to be a six-pound, two-ounce corbina, one of the largest caught around Long Beach for months, perhaps years. It was funny, too, that a corbina would go for such a bait.

George weighed his fish at Sims Bait and Tackle Store on Highway 1 just south of East Seventh Street. J. B. Makemson, of Sims, said that it was one of the best-looking corbinas he had weighed in a long time.

Incidentally, Makemson said that corbina averaging from 2¼ to 2¾ pounds were running in the surf between Belmont Pier and the jetties at Seal Beach, but he cautioned that blood worms are the best baits for those smaller fish. He also said that barred perch were just starting to hit. With the rainstorm apparently ended, there should be some good surf fishing in the next few weeks.

MAKEMSON AND WIFE, ETHEL, spent almost a month in Utah on a different type of vacation. Normally, they leave their bait and tackle shop and head northward into the Trinity Alps country and they usually come home with a deer or two.

However, this year they decided to see Utah for a change. Ethel got the best deer of three. She always does, says Mac.

After their deer hunt, they drove into south-central Utah and fished in Otter Lake, where, said Mac, you could catch a limit of pan-size trout in just a short while. Mac and Ethel went for the bigger ones which came a bit harder, but they caught plenty of 15-inch fish, fat and weighing three pounds each.

Mac says that he saw two fish that weighed 7¼ and pounds.

Mac, a long-time member of the Long Beach Sportsman's Club and widely known in fishing circles here and in other places, has taken on a new hobby—gathering petrified wood and agate.

Ethel, at one time one of the longest distance casters in ocean fishing, has gone along with the petrified wood and agate business so it appears that the Trinity has lost two friends for a time at least.

"After all," says Mac, "when you get your deer, plenty of nice fat fish and petrified wood and agate, what else could you want?"

NO UNFAVORABLE firearms bills affecting the 40 million gun owners in America passed the first session of the 89th Congress.

Favorable firearms legislation supported by sportsmen did not pass either. All of the bills will be carried over to the second session which convenes in January.

The main reason severe legislation did not pass, according to a Washington columnist, was that Congressmen received thousands of letters from law-abiding firearms owners protesting against unreasonable bills.

Several Congressmen report that gun owners can expect even more severe legislation to be introduced in 1966. Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach was recently quoted in a Washington newspaper as saying that Senator Dodd's S. 1592 was not strict enough.

The Attorney General is chairman of President Johnson's crime commission (The President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice). After the first meeting of the commission, the chairman announced that there was enough information available on firearms to make recommendations for additional legislation. Several members of the commission have long records of favoring highly restrictive controls on sporting arms and ammunition.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS—Did you happen to see that story in The Press-Telegram one day last week which stated that 13 persons were shot to death while an estimated million deer hunters trudged through the woods in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota?

Well, that wasn't entirely true. In recounting the figures in the story, it seems that Michigan had eight shooting deaths for Saturday and Sunday, while Minnesota, winding up its deer season, reported 13 for its short season.

Numbers of others died of heart attacks and six were asphyxiated while sleeping in places where portable heating units were being used. A 12-year-old girl playing on a sled near her home was a victim of a deer hunter's careless fire.

Automobiles killed 710 deer on Northern California roads in the first 10 months of 1965. The State Department of Highways and the State Department of Fish and Game said that other deer, hit by vehicles, probably crawled off in the woods to die.

There was no estimate of damage to automobiles and no human lives were lost. Elmer Doty, fish and game inspector, and the California Highway Patrol advocated lesser speed limits for night use in deer areas.

Nobis Top Pick of Rival Loops

incided closely with published reports earlier this month that said the league already had had some sort of draft. Of 21 players picked through four rounds who appeared on the published list, 19 were picked by clubs assigned in the story. Two were incorrect.

6. There were three players selected on the first round of each draft — Nobis, Grabowski and Shay. Nobis was taken by Houston and Shay by Denver in the AFL and Grabowski by Green Bay in the NFL.

* * * *

PICKED AFTER Nobis in the NFL's first round were:

Mack, Beisler; Iowa guard John Niland by Dallas; Princeton place-kicker Charlie Gogolak by Washington; Shay; Oklahoma linebacker Carl McAdams by St. Louis; Grabowski; Missouri tackle Francis Peay by New York; LSU tackle George Rice by Chicago, West Virginia fullback Dick Leftridge by Pittsburgh;

SHAY NORTON

Minnesota tackle Gale Gillingham by Green Bay, Massachusetts end Milt Morin by Cleveland; Bull, and quarterback Randy Johnson of Texas A&I by Atlanta.

Pittsburgh was supposed to have drafted in the No. 3 spot but passed until later. Detroit did not have a first-round pick, having traded it to Green Bay. Atlanta had the first and last pick in each of the first rounds.

Miami, which named Grabowski as its bonus pick on the first round, took Kentucky quarterback Rick Norton as its regular first-round pick.

* * * *

THE REMAINDER of the AFL's first round, with New York and Oakland passing, went like this:

Purdue tackle Karl Singer was taken by Boston, Denver picked Shay, Houston selected Nobis, Kansas City named Brown, San Diego tapped Los Angeles State tackle Don Davis and Buffalo settled on Mississippi halfback Mike Dennis.

The NFL's first round finally was completed a record nine hours and 56 minutes after the draft started. The NFL took eight hours for the first round last year. The previous record was eight hours and eight minutes in 1963.

* * * *

LAST YEAR the NFL waded through 27 hours and 10 minutes of studying, calling, thinking and selecting. That will be surpassed easily this weekend.

Nobis said it may be up to two weeks before he makes a decision on which contract to accept.

The Rams' third-round choice, Richard Tyson, won all-conference honors at Tulsa. The 6-2, 240-pound guard was rated one of the strongest linemen in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Garrett Breaks Matson's Record

yards in 11 plays. Garrett gained 53 yards in the series.

* * * *

ON THE FIRST play of the second period Garrett passed the NCAA record for most yards gained rushing in a 3-year career, a record of 3,166 set in 1951 by Ollie Matson while at USF. Garrett finished with 3,221 yards.

The play was a four-yard gain, a Garrett plunge into the middle of the line, a play that was, except for its distance, totally symbolic of his career.

Two plays later USC had its second touchdown, a 15-yard pass from Winslow to end John Thomas.

Touchdown No. 3 came three minutes into the second quarter and it was an exceptional effort by the receiver, flankerback Rod Sherman. The play covered 47 yards. It was a 45-yard throw by Winslow but it was a step too short and the defender, Rick Egloff, caught it. But Sherman took it out of his hands and stepped across for the TD.

TWO MINUTES later the Trojans had TD No. 4. It was set up by two middle-distance passes and Garrett bucked over from the two for his second score of the day.

Two more quick ones rounded out the first-half scoring. Winslow threw deep to end Dave Moton who was 10 yards behind the nearest Cowboy on the 68-yard play and Garrett accounted for TD No. 6 on a one-yard plunge after a 32-yard pass interference penalty.

The seventh and eighth TDs were Garrett's pass to Moton, who caught five for 181 yards and 3 touchdowns and was named the lineman of the day, and a 50-yard pass from Winslow that Moton took away from a Cowboy who should have had a horse.

The Wyoming TD came in the fourth period on a 44-yard pass play from sub QB Chuck Shelton to Hub Lindsey.

Bears, Bulldogs in Jr. Grid Title Game

Championship of the Long Beach Junior Football League is at stake today when the Belmont Bears meet the North Long Beach Bulldogs at Jordan High. Both teams have 3-1-1 records.

Lakewood Cougars and Los Altos Rebels play their final game at Lakewood High. Both games will be preceded by 'B' games at 12:30.

played mainly in college. I expect my biggest problem now will be getting adjusted to the rest of the team and fitting in as a pro."

* * * *

MACK IS the son of Ray Mack, former second baseman on the Cleveland Indians from 1938 to '46. His father also won Little all-America honors at Case Tech in Cleveland and was drafted by the Chicago Bears. But he chose baseball over football and in 1940 was the American League's all-star second baseman.

Mack is considered one of the finest offensive linemen in the country. "He's extremely fast and is a fine blocker in all areas," a Ram spokesman reported. One scout noted, "He's the best pass protection blocker I've seen in college this year."

The Rams weren't the only club interested in strengthening their line. Only Pittsburgh and Green Bay chose a backfield player on the first round.

The Rams only hope now that they're not caught in a double draft. There's always the chance that Uncle Sam might whisk a few of the top players away before next September rolls around.

RACING ROUNDUP

Maker's Mark Splashes to Bay Meadows Victory

SAN MATEO (AP)—Maker's Mark, who takes to mud like a duck to water, scored a 10-length victory in the 33rd running of the $16,150 Bay Meadows Handicap at Bay Meadows Saturday.

The competition turned out to be for second place and the honor went to the Irish-bred Gainstrive. By The Way II, a native of Argentina, was third in the West's oldest continuously run stakes event.

With Frank Costa sitting there and enjoying the ride on the first clear day in a long time, the 4-year-old son of Spectrum II opened up five lengths on the back stretch and kept widening his lead all the way to his third win in a row.

Time for the sloppy mile and one-sixteenth was 1:49 4/5.

Maker's Mark paid $5.60, $3.80 and $2.20. Gainstrive returned $6.60 and $4.20 and By The Way II $4.20.

* * * *

SWIFT LADY earned $46,520 for top money-winning stable Harbor View Farm when she won the $73,320 Marguerite Stakes at Pimlico by three-quarters of a length.

Swift Lady paid $12.20, $6.20 and $4.20. Prides Profile, who set the pace from the start until Swift Lady caught her deep in the stretch, paid $6.00 and $4.40 while Indian Sunlite returned $4.00.

HOBEAU FARM'S Choker stole away to a big margin when the early leaders faded out of contention in the $57,100 Gallant Fox Handicap at Aqueduct and then coasted to a length and three-quarter victory in the 27th running of the race.

Choker paid $13.00, $6.40 and $5.00 and picked up a winner's purse of $37,115. Brave Lad returned $5.60 and $4.00 and Sheet Anchor returned $5.80.

SOCIAL SONG scored his first stakes victory by winning the $10,000-added Alligator Handicap at Tropical Park.

The bay colt scampered home in 1:10 3/5 to pay $23.20, $12.60 and $8.00. Farmer Snooty returned $9.60 and $6.40 and Better Sea paid $4.60.

for the 350 yards over a strip which was the heaviest of the season in 19.1, by far the fastest time of the day, and the winner returned $4.40, $2.80 and $2.60. Moore Go, winner of the Bardella on opening day and ridden by Curtis Perner, paid $3.20 and $3, and Dal Rex Top Bar, breaking from the outside post, came up fast to grab third, a neck behind Moore Go, and returned $4.40.

The other Futurity eligibles, Silver D'Bar, Go Rebel Go and St. Bar, finished fourth, sixth and ninth respectively.

* * * *

ROCKET VANDY, who had lost to Moore Go in the Fresno Futurity but reversed the order of finish in winning the Futurity itself Oct. 16, earned $5,500 for his owner and swelled the bankroll for the year to $33,925.

Following a bad start by most of the horses, especially Moore Go, Rocket Vandy shot to a clear lead then crossed over in front of Moore Go and was in the latter's spot at the finish with Moore Go on the rail. There was a murmur of concern but the winner had a clear lead when crossing over and did not bother Moore Go.

Saturday's crowd poured $884,500 through the mutuel machines.

The Trials, with 52 horses eligible, will be contested next Saturday in possibly three divisions, and the first two finishers in the Los Ninos are almost certain starters.

* * * *

WILCOX, another two-year-old making his first start in the fifth race, proved he may be a comer as he won by two lengths in 19.5. Wilcox won his first start by a length and one-quarter.

After one week of racing in the mud, Smith and Perner are tied for the jockey lead with eight wins each, and in the trainer division Stan Immenschuh and Calvin Mims each have saddled four winners.

Racing resumes at the quarter horse plant on Monday with first post scheduled for 1 p.m.

Brisk Swap Session Seen at Winter Baseball Meet

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—All signs point to brisk business at the swap counter during the annual major-minor baseball convention starting Monday.

Having hurdled some of their more pressing problems—selection of a new commissioner, restoration of a game of the week television spectacular, establishment of a free agent and unrestricted draft, and the creation of a top level front office staff — the moguls will have more time to discuss activity on the field and personnel changes.

The owners already have created a commissioner's cabinet that includes an administrative assistant and directors for broadcasting, public information, amateur baseball and player affairs. At the time William D. Eckert, former Air Force general, was unanimously elected baseball commissioner, Lee MacPhail of the Baltimore Orioles was named as his administrative assistant.

Judge Robert Cannon of Milwaukee, counsel for the major league players, is virtually certain of being named director in charge of player affairs.

The public's prime interest, however, is the trading of players, which has been greatly stimulated in recent years by the introduction of a three-week inter-league trading period from Nov. 21 through Dec. 12.

From indications there should be some lively trading at the meeting.

The players most often mentioned in swap rumors include Dick Stuart and Wes Covington of the Phillies, Bob Allison and Rich Rollins of the Twins, Rico Carty and Hank Fisher of the Braves, Joe Pepitone and Jim Bouton of the Yankees, Orlando Cepeda of the Giants, Jim Gentile of the Astros, Leon Wagner of the Indians, Jim O'Toole and Joe Jay of the Reds, Curt Simmons and Bob Purkey of the Cardinals and Ed Charles of the Athletics.

Hottest rumor is that the Yankees may trade Pepitone to the Cards for southpaw Al Jackson, recently acquired by St. Louis in a swap that sent third baseman Ken Boyer to the Mets. Also a possibility is a Yankee-Giant deal involving Bouton and Cepeda.

First order of business is the draft.

The price for any major league club wishing to draft a minor leaguer is $25,000. The list includes such ex-major leaguers as Stan Williams, Galen Cisco, Art Lopez, Gary Kolb, Bob Saverine, Frank Funk, Chuck Cottier, Eli Grba and Dave Vineyard. Even Bob Garibaldi, the Giants' one-time $90,000 bonus beauty, is among the availables.

LIONS PLANS RENEWAL OF OLD RIVALRY

One of drag racing's oldest rivalries will be renewed Saturday night when Tom (Mongoose) McEwen challenges Don (Snake) Prudhomme in a long awaited best-of-three match race at Lions Drag Strip.

McEwen of Long Beach holds the Lions strip and world record of 214.76. He earned the nickname of "Mongoose" for his fine record against Prudhomme.

Prudhomme is recognized as the No. 1 driver in the sport after winning both the NHRA World Championship and the NHRA Winternationals in one year.

Blomgren New CAR President

Jim Blomgren of Norwalk has been elected president of the California Auto Racing, Inc.

Blomgren, 1954 California state NASCAR champion and a veteran of several seasons of super and late model stock car racing, will take office Jan. 1, from Art Atkinson of Pasadena. Other officers elected:

Phil Zito (Pico Rivera), vice-president; Glen Howard (Long Beach), secretary; Charlie Stoner (Ontario), treasurer; Chuck Murray (Santa Monica), starter; Les Gray (Long Beach), pit stewards; Larry Moorhead (Long Beach), technical inspector; Paul Turner (Lakewood), modified representative; Gabby Garrison (Long Beach), jalopy representative; Dusty Frazer (Bellflower), publicity.

Crack Field at Pomona Drag Meet

World record holder Tom McEwen and NHRA king Don Prudhomme head a crack field of fuel dragsters entered in today's second NHRA Drag Festival at the Pomona Fairgrounds.

This will be the third event of the newly formed Jackpot Pro Circuit, which alternates among four strips, and it will begin at 8 this morning.

McEwen of Long Beach will drive the Chrysler-powered Yeakel Special and he holds the Pomona strip record of 211.76 mph. There also will be a large stock car field, headed by Gus Ronda's wild Mustang.

Clem Proctor, Jerry Johnson and Roarin' Oren Prosser head a 50-car field in this afternoon's 50-lap California Auto Racing Assn. Open Competition Super Stock Grand Prix.

Action begins on the ½-mile Ascot Park oval at noon with time trials. The trophy dash kicks off racing at 2.

Ted Shuster and his famed "Phone Booth" will shoot for his third consecutive ARA main event win in tonight's 100-lap Figure-8 Stock Car Grand Prix at Ascot Park.

Ed Sauer and Nick Thomas will continue their neck-and-neck battle for the driver point championship. Action for the eight-event program begins at 8.

49ERS STAGE LAKEWOOD CAGE CLINIC

Three members of the Long Beach State College varsity will conduct a clinic in basketball fundamentals at the Lakewood YMCA Saturday at 3 p.m.

Carl Washington, veteran 49er guard, will be in charge of the clinic and will be assisted by forwards John Chambers and Pat Holmes. The clinic was scheduled by George Kuestner, YMCA executive director, for the newly organized Lakewood Gray-Y athletic program for boys aged 9 to 11, but is open to all boys in the Lakewood area.

JRB, Potato Ducats on Sale

Tickets for the Dec. 11 Junior Rose Bowl, matching Fullerton and Henderson, Tex., are available at the Fullerton campus, 321 Chapman Blvd., and at all Mutual ticket agencies.

Cerritos officials have announced that 1,500 reserved seats for next Saturday night's Potato Bowl game between Cerritos and Boise, Idaho, are on sale at the administration office, 1110 E. Alondra Blvd., in Norwalk.

Tickets are priced at $2.50 for reserved seats and 75 cents for students. The game is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Bakersfield College's Memorial Stadium.

Ryan, Washington to Captain 49ers

Al Ryan, a 6-3 senior forward, and Carl Washington a 6-2 junior guard, have been elected co-captains of the 1965-66 Long Beach State College basketball team.

The 49ers open their season Friday night by hosting Chapman at 8 o'clock. The game was originally scheduled for L. A. State at 7 p.m. Coach Dick Perry's club does play at that time Saturday at LASC against San Diego.

BARKING SIGNALS

Navy player was unable to collar this dog which delayed action in service classic for several minutes Saturday. He was eventually tied up as was final score, 7-7.

Rocky Returns to San Jose

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Rocky Bridges, popular 37-year-old former major league infielder, was re-hired Saturday as manager of the San Jose Bees of the California League.

Bridges led the Bees to the first half California League pennant in 1965 and then to a second place finish behind Stockton in the over-all standings. The Bees are a farm club of the California Angels.

Reese Retained

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) —Jimmy Reese, familiar 60-year-old Pacific Coast League baseball figure, will be back coaching with the Seattle Angels in 1966, it was announced Saturday.

L.A.'s Larrieu Captures Cross Country Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Ron Larrieu, who almost quit track after a dismal showing in the 1964 Olympics, scored a decisive triumph Saturday in the 68th National AAU Cross Country Championships.

The 28-year-old Los Angeles truck driver covered the 10,000 meters—about 6¼ miles—in 31:11.8 and was about 140 yards in front of the second place finisher, defending champion Dave Ellis of the Toronto Olympic Club.

Bill Morgan of the Golden Gate Track Club of San Francisco was third.

The Toronto Olympic Club captured team honors with 40 points followed by the University of Chicago Track Club with 73. The Quantico Marines were third with 90.

took the first, second, fourth and eighth spots. Utah placed second with 39 points.

All Systems Read A-OK for Rockets

By CHUCK MEDICK

After much delay due to rain, the Long Beach Rockets will play ball today.

Opposition will be provided by the Los Angeles Eagles, who started the Rockets' season by defeating them 3-1.

Much rain has fallen since then and considerable cold water has been dashed upon any hopes the Rockets might have on repeating as Winter League champions. They now have two losses and are a game out of the top spot with three teams tied for first.

The 1:30 game at Blair Field will take on a definite big league flavor as Emmett Ashford, recently signed as an American League umpire, will be behind the plate. Ashford plans to work the Rocket schedule until he departs for spring training.

Boys Clubs Stage Championships

Robert Reynolds of West and Norm Brodkin of North won heavyweight boxing and wrestling title Saturday during the Boys Club of Long Beach championships.

Registration is now underway for basketball and all interested players or coaches are urged to call John Northmore (437-0606). Results:

Boxing: 50-55—Robert Callahan (West), 61-70—Charles Carter (East), 71-80—Jackie Henderson (Downtown), 81-90—Robert Williams (West), 91-100—Al Plumlee (North), 101-115—Sam Williams (West), 116-145—Robert Reynolds (West).

Wrestling: 50-60—Sam Sleep (North), 61-70—Marshall Noriega (Downtown), 71-80—Tim Bah (North), 81-90—John Donaldson (North), 91-100—Sam Edwards (Downtown), 101-115—Lloyd Punchard (North), 116-130—Gary Reed (North), 131-145—Norm Brodkin.

Tab Hatton, Foy Top Minor Leaguers

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The Sporting News has named third baseman Joe Foy of Toronto as minor league player of the year and manager Grady Hatton of Oklahoma City as minor league manager of the year.

Foy won the International League batting title with a .302 average.

Hatton directed the Oklahoma City 89ers to the Pacific Coast League pennant for the second time in three years.

BACALL

Another Chance for B'wy

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Lauren Bacall is giving Broadway another chance.

The husky-toned damsel switched to the stage in rebellion against films five years ago. Now insurrection is reversed: movies are in, the theater is on probation.

"I was embittered about Hollywood," she says. "It's a great medium but there was a tendency then to write you off quickly or stick you in a slot. Now I find a healthier atmosphere. Younger people have taken over with a new approach to movie-making.

"In the meantime, I've gotten annoyed at the idea the theater is sacred and pictures are baloney. I've found they can be just as phony and pretentious around here as anyone ever thought of being out there."

Miss Bacall had every intention, in fact, of adding a couple of more pictures this winter to the three made since her 1963 return to films including "The Moving Target," a murder story with Paul Newman.

Instead she is on the rehearsal-tryout trail with "Cactus Flower," a play due on Broadway Dec. 8. The venture provided those "very stimulating" ingredients which she vowed to herself would be needed to woo her on stage again.

'10:30 P.M. SUMMER'

In 'Oscar' Drunk Tradition

COLMENAR DE OREJA, Spain—The path to the Academy Award podium has often been strewn with great drunk scenes. From Bette Davis in "Dangerous" to Elizabeth Taylor in "Butterfield 8," the wages of movie inebriation have frequently been golden "Oscars."

In the patio of the Parador de Frascuela, an ancient inn near this village in the Castilian highlands, Melina Mercouri has been playing a sequence from Jules Dassin's new psychological drama, "10:30 P.M. Summer," that is in the dramatically high alcoholic tradition.

For Mercouri, the glamorous one of "Never on Sunday" and "Topkapi," the character of Maria in "10:30 P.M. Summer" marks a sharp change of dramatic face and pace. Her face is bare of makeup, her hair is unkempt and her wardrobe consists principally of slacks, shirts and a beat-up raincoat. Her character—a woman for whom love has died, a woman disappearing from reality into an alcoholic fog—is unlike anything she has ever done on screen before.

"It is a marvelous part, but for me, I have never had anything so disturbing. I am—what do you say—playing against myself. I had a few cognacs today to help me into the mood and I am sick."

Melina clutched her stomach, thought a moment, and something of the old, wicked Mercouri twinkle came into her eye. "Please, if any one is interested, let them know that next time I am very happy to play the life of that woman who broke all the bottles in the bar—what was her name, Carrie Nation? Make me an offer."

MELINA MERCOURI bursts into hysteria while her screen husband, Peter Finch, and Romy Schneider try to wrest a bottle from her.

Nudity--It's Not Necessary

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Alfred Hitchcock says nudity is not essential to a sexy scene.

In "Torn Curtain" he hopes to sizzle the screen with a sequence involving Paul Newman and Julie Andrews — and the only flesh visible will be from the Adam's apple up.

The scene has Newman and Miss Andrews on a ship where the heating system fails. The two keep warm by sharing a stateroom bed beneath an awesome stack of covers, including blankets, comforters, coats, furs and jackets.

"When Brigittee Bardot sees this scene," says Hitchcock, "she'll turn in her towel."

MIKE NICHOLS

'Working Out'

PRE-SCENE DISCUSSION . . . Nichols, Burton

HOLLYWOOD—Mike Nichols, a gum-chewing, sandy-complexioned man of multiple talents, has undertaken one of the entertainment season's most exacting job — directing Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", a document of an embattled married couple.

It is also the first motion picture Mike Nichols has ever directed. Despite the fact that he has four stage hits currently in full and successful swing, it is something else again to switch mediums in mid-career.

"Without appearing unduly confident," the young director said, "I think it is working out all right. I have had good advice and technical help on all sides. I made a few mistakes at first, but I was able to correct them. I must confess that it has been an exciting and stimulating experience, and I am happy to be a part of the motion picture business."

BESIDES Miss Taylor and Burton, the cast includes George Segal and Sandy Dennis. Nichols himself looks upon it as a five-character show. "The fifth is the audience," he explained. "They will become so desperately involved as onlookers that by the second reel, they will unconsciously find themselves part of the cast. It's that kind of a drama."

The Burtons and Nichols have a friendly and compatible relationship, and Miss Taylor says that probably for the first time in her life she has put herself entirely in the director's hands. "I trust him and feel that he can get the best from my performance." Also she adds that this is the first time she has ever played a thorough character. Heretofore there has been a little bit of Elizabeth Taylor in each of her roles. In "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" there is none. But there may be a lot of Mike Nichols in it.

'Winnie the Pooh' Disney Featurette

Walt Disney brings to the screen for the first time the wonderful world of Christopher Robin and his roly-poly little friend, Pooh bear, in his newest animated-cartoon featurette, "Winnie the Pooh and the Honey Tree."

All of the other delightful characters of A. A. Milne's classic tales, Eeyore, the doleful donkey, timid Piglet, bouncy Tigger, Rabbit, Owl, Kanga and little Roo, are also on hand, romping through the Hundred Acre Wood in this melodic entertainment treat.

Pooh bear's insatiable appetite for honey has always been his undoing and in the movie version, this weakness involves him in a series of misadventures.

Set to music by those Oscar-winning songwriters, Richard M. and Robert B. Sherman, the Disney cartoon-fantasy introduces five new tunes.

Duke Ellington to Score 'Assault on Queen' Film

HOLLYWOOD—Duke Ellington has been signed by producer William Goetz to compose and conduct an original score for "Assault on a Queen," which Jack Donohue is currently directing for Seven Arts-Sinatra Enterprises, released by Paramount Pictures. The Technicolor-Panavision adventure-drama stars Frank Sinatra, Virna Lisi, Tony Franciosa and Richard Conte.

Ellington reports to Paramount Dec. 20 and, upon completion of the scoring of the film, will embark with his orchestra on a six-week tour of the Continent in January.

Pasternak Produces 38th 'Oscar' Show

Joe Pasternak will produce the 38th Annual Awards Presentation of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Academy President Arthur Freed announced.

This will be the second consecutive "Oscar" Show for Pasternak. It is scheduled for April 18, at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

'STIMULATING THEATER'

Actor's Circle Group 'Digs' Anouilh's 'Romeo, Jeannette'

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA

Drawing again many of the bright, young people on the prowl in this town for stimulating, unpretentious theater, Actor's Circle under the top-notch direction of Dina Gossett converted Jean Anouilh's playfully malicious and modern satitre on love, "Romeo and Jeannette," into a weird and wonderful theatrical event last Friday night.

It was the second presentation at 29 39th Place, by the group of young performers who "dig" Anouilh.

In Romeo and Jeannette the "digging" comes particularly hard at times. This fellow Anouilh is so urbane and civilized that the red savage in him is always attempting to devour the white corpuscles of his high-intellect conscience.

But some real cool acting by the Circle makes the digging worth every moment.

* * * *

IN THIS comedy? tragedy? Anouilh is off on a binge against the ritual of love prevailing against the rising tide of reality.

In short, he is saying: Romeo and Juliet could not have been for real. If so, then your father's mustache is full of soup, your mailman is the messenger of death and bathos is merely a misspelling for pathos.

To prove his bias, Anouilh makes love gory at every turn.

Lovely Bonnie Gallup (Jeannette) as the love-thief and outcast sister smashes her hands through a glass window-pane to keep up legendary pretenses that love, once contracted, renders all wounds immune to common pain. Equally mordant and typically Anouilhan is his passing comment on the fate human lovers mete out to their house (animal) pets.

They eat them.

* * * *

BUT THE unkindest cut to love comes at the very end.

Jeannette, shot-gunned into marriage with a dark stranger, is reunited with Frederick (Romeo) on his way to marry Julian. But the reunion is tragic, with Frederick and the wedding-gowned Jeannette dying upon a kiss as the ocean gallops over their moony heads. And poor Julia, the love goddess who lived and breathed love—even to the point of taking poison—is left barren with the bachelor fact of life.

Snickers anyone? You won't hear a single one because Anouilh is such a pastmaster at the game of ironically blending illusion and reality that even in this occasionally word-soggy play he fascinates you with his brittle Gallic wit. Director Gossett's penetrative and well-shadowed work keeps the piece in a playful, yet restrained pool of light and shade.

* * * *

LARRY VERDUGO, giving a fine, sensitive, brooding, eternal-lover type performance as Frederick.

Bonnie Gallup as Jeannette is undoubtedly destined for a fine theatrical career and right now her only big obstacle is her inability to harness all that big, natural, lovely power in heavy scenes. Her Jeannette, however, when muted jumped with that inner vitality so essential in transforming the intellectualizing of her character into behavioral meaning.

The dark, haunting beauty of Anita Sorrels was ideal for Julia, the meticulous in the dusty, dingy, meat-loving household.

Ray Sorrels as Lucien (or was Lucifer intended?) made the characterization of the woman-hating, love-biased, atheistic brother with "a doctorate in cuckoldry," reek with artful savagery all the way.

Sharon Conley as Frederick's mother and that of 11 other children carried other burden well and Verne Thomas is the father. Ron Thronson played the postman with a sense of death on the special delivery plan.

In the end love, still being the luck of the living, conquereth all — audience and Anouilh. You'll love this for the same deep reason people used to dote on Charles Boyer's Mayerling. We prey on it—love preys on us.

'Othello' Given December Release

The pre-release premiere of "Othello," starring Laurence Oliver in the Warner Bros. motion picture presentation of Shakespeare's drama, will take place on Dec. 15 in Hollywood.

"Othello" will be given 10 performances only during a one-week engagement that will enable the film, its cast and technical staff to qualify for this year's Academy Awards.

Wayne Fit Since Surgery

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It has been more than a year since John Wayne had surgery for lung cancer. Here's a progress report:

"I had my annual checkup at Scripps Clinic where they found it in the first place," he says. "And they gave me a clean bill of health."

* * * *

HE KNOWS the normal wait-and-see period is five years but his doctors told him he caught his early enough to rate one-year optimism.

Duke looks the best he has in 15 years. After surgery, he gave up five packs of cigarettes per day. He says that zoomed his weight to 245 pounds.

Since then he has dieted down to 225 and looks as if he could lick every Comanche in the West.

* * * *

HE'S NOW making his 167th movie with a favorite director—Howard Hawks.

In "Eldorado" he brawls, rides and gives out with all the action he's famous for.

Wayne's also expecting his seventh child.

"At the rate I'm going, I'll catch up with my grandchildren," he smiles.

He now has 10 of those, with two more on the way.

JOHN WAYNE

Italian Mouse in Full Length Film

Topo Gigio, the English-speaking little Italian mouse who created a sensation in his Ed Sullivan TV appearances, stars in "The Magic World of Topo Gigio," a full-length motion picture which will be shown in special matinee (12:30 and 2:30) performances Dec. 4 and 5, in area theaters.

The four matinees will also feature Topo's girl friend, Rosy, and his friend, a cowardly worm named Giovannino. The Columbia Pictures release in color tells a story of Topo building a rocket to the moon.

PROBLEM FOR AUTHOR

How to Enjoy His Success Without Being Slave to It

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How to enjoy success without being captured by it: That's the problem met and apparently conquered by John La Carre.

That is not his name, of course. He uses the pseudonym on his books, which include last year's sensational best-seller "The Spy Who Came In From the Cold" and the current "The Looking-Glass War."

* * * *

HIS REAL name is David Cornwell; he is 34, sandy-haired and well-spoken, a former civil servant in the British foreign service. His literary alias and the convincing detail of his novels of intrigue have convinced some of the more literal-minded that he is a spy.

An interviewer so accused him during a recent visit here. Cornwell's reply: "If I wrote a book about prostitutes, it wouldn't necessarily follow that I ran a brothel."

* * * *

TWO YEARS ago he was a foreign service employe in Hamburg earning about $6,000 a year. Today he is an international celebrity, incorporated and capable of amassing huge sums (paperback rights to "Looking-Glass" drew $400,000).

"As far as the money aspect is concerned, I set up the machinery to take care of it—and now I live in ignorance of what goes on," Cornwell explained.

Needless to say, his financial affairs are better managed than when he was a newcomer to the field of big-time literary properties. "The Spy" was sold to Paramount for $35,000.

That seemed like a fortune at the time, since it amounted to 3½ times his annual salary. But the sum appeared less appropriate when he learned that Richard Burton was to receive $750,000 plus 10% of the gross for enacting Cornwell's tale.

* * * *

CORNWELL discounts the loss of privacy as a danger to a successful author; he finds he can move with freedom in London, and he maintains the same circle of friends. But he admitted that his standard of living has changed and as a novelist he no longer observes "the minuteness of human companionship and inconvenience, such as a bus ride."

Thank You America

for making Chevrolet your first choice again this year

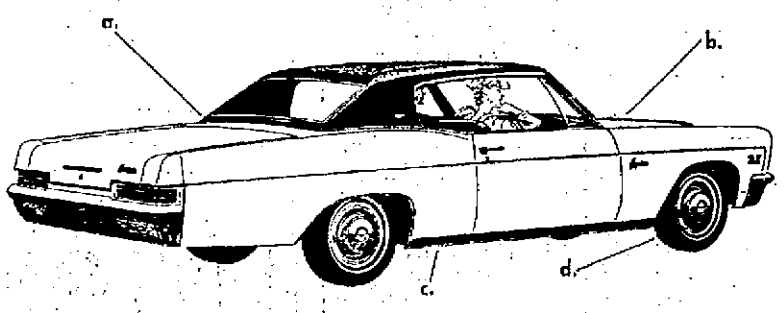

With the enthusiastic reception of our 1966 cars, more people are buying Chevrolets this year than ever before in history—more people than ever bought any other make in a single year.

Already this year, Chevrolet's first-place lead exceeds 340,000 cars—and the lead is growing greater every day.

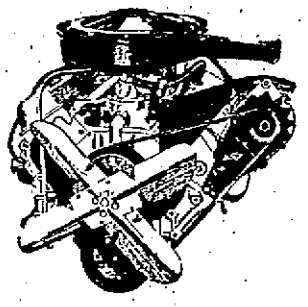

This continues Chevrolet's great record of leadership. Leadership that's been earned year after year after year.

It's been earned with such 1966 advances as these that you can order: Tilt-telescopic (or tilt only) steering wheels; Comfortron automatic heating and cooling; AM-FM Stereo radio; the very newest in comfort, Strato-bucket seats.

And it's been earned with all these Chevrolet advantages: a. Body by Fisher with luxurious, tasteful interiors. b. Long-luster Magic-Mirror acrylic lacquer finish. c. Rocker panels that clean themselves of road salt and other corrosives. d. Bonded brake linings. A traditionally higher resale value at trade-in time.

It's been earned with such engineering innovations as the new Turbo-Jet V8 engines that are now available in five different versions up to 425 horsepower.

We're grateful for your overwhelming preference for our products. Our dealers are grateful. And both of us aim to do everything we possibly can to maintain and enhance the leadership you have given us.

Leadership...the Chevrolet way

We Know How The Question Is WHO?
We're looking for a limited number of highly select men to take advantage of our knowledge, training, methods and assistance to make huge personal fortunes in their own business. Our proven program makes it possible for men with little or no experience to step right into a growing billion dollar market and show tremendous net profits from the very first week of operation. Our franchisee shop owners show an annual gross in excess of over $110,000, with the best shops grossing over $250,000, making possible personal incomes of $30,000 to $50,000 and more! There are no seasonal slumps, no shortages or expensive inventory problems and no effects from recessions—all assuring a continuous and very high personal income, and no limits on potential and growth. If you can invest from $12,500 to $25,000, depending on size and location, and you have the burning desire to succeed as a part of the world's largest coast-to-coast network of automatic transmission specialists, write, wire or call Robert Morgan, Vice President AAMCO Transmissions at 3600 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90005 (213) 386-4934 "We launch with complete personal details. Remember, no automotive experience of any kind is necessary—just convince us that you're one of the men we're looking and this can be the most important move of your life!

MANY EXPERIMENTS PLANNED

Space Sleep Deeper Than Earths? 2-Week Gemini-7 Flight May Tell

*1965, World Book Encyclopedia Science Service, Inc.

ASTRONAUT FRANK BORMAN TALKS WITH DOCTORS

HOUSTON — Is space sleep deeper than Earth sleep? Does a weightless astronaut lose his sense of balance? What happens to the calcium which leaves his bones? Can he be protected against the "lazy heart" that develops in weightlessness?

Space scientists hope to get some of the answers from the two-week flight of Gemini 7. Crammed with experiments, more than half of them medical, the flight climaxes an effort to find out what long-term space living does to the human body.

Many experiments are follow-ons to the clues provided by the four-day Gemini 4 flight and the eight days of Gemini 5.

"The things we have observed have been subtle changes," said Dr. Charles Berry, chief of medical programs at Manned Spacecraft Center. "There hasn't been anything as gross or obvious as a tumor that has resulted from man going into space, but there are changes. To uncover them, we have to do specific examinations to look for those effects."

* * * *

MOST DIFFICULT in terms of what it will demand from astronauts and researchers, are three experiments to learn what happens to the calcium that disappears from human bones during flight. Researchers have noted the same phenomenon occurring in hospital patients during prolonged bedrest. This loss of calcium is what makes the bones of elderly people more fragile than "young bones."

Space scientists consider this an urgent question. If a practical means for counteracting such calcium loss cannot be found, astronauts making prolonged or repeated space flights in the future eventually would find themselves with "old" bones early in life.

The Gemini 4 and 5 astronauts were x-rayed and their calcium loss studied. This study will be continued on GT-7. During the flight and for 10 days before and four days after, astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell will eat specially prepared food to maintain calcium intake at 800 and 1000 milligrams a day.

* * * *

RECORDS OF blood calcium levels will be kept, and samples of all waste material which leaves their bodies analyzed — even sweat. Both men will rinse off in distilled water and wear special long underwear for two 24-hour "sweat periods" before the flight. Their towels and underwear will be analyzed. Their flight underwear will get the same treatment.

"We know that a program of exercise reverses bond calcium loss in bedrest patients," Dr. Berry explained. "But the amount of exercise necessary is far above what the astronauts get from their exercising device. We must find out what happens to the calcium and how much of it remains in the body."

Another possible space hazard at which scientists are looking closely is the "lazy heart" problem, which doctors call orthostatic hyptension. This is a condition in which the heart has to pump faster to keep an adequate circulation, blood pressure falls, and the blood tends to pool in the legs and feet of an upright man.

* * * *

IN A WEIGHTLESS state, the heart does not have to work as hard. It gets used to this vacation and then needs time to return to normal. The condition seems to worsen with increased time spent in space.

On Gemini 5, pneumatic cuffs were placed around Pete Conrad's thighs while Gordon Cooper went without them. The cuffs were pressurized automatically for two minutes out of every six during the first four days. After that the system ran out of the gas used for pumping up the cuffs.

On Gemini 7, the same equipment will be run from the tanks of breathing oxygen, and will work during the entire 14 days. Researchers believe this system will prevent deteriorating blood distribution. For comparison, Lovell will wear the cuffs.

* * * *

BRAND NEW in medical experiments will be the attempt to get a pattern of brain waves during sleep. Researchers would like to know if a man sleeps more deeply when he is weightless. Borman will wear two leads of an electroencephalogram attached to shaved places on his head. Recordings made of his sleeping brain waves on the ground will be compared with the flight data.

Two experiments are concerned with the heart. The inflight exerciser will be used to provide a measured workload for the heart, to find out how fast it speeds up and slows down before and after exercise.

A microphone placed on the astronauts' chests will record any delay between electrical activation of the heart muscle and its actual contraction. This is a measure of heart fatigue.

* * * *

THE EIGHT non-medical experiments aboard Gemini 7 are mostly repeats or extensions of those carried on other flights.

Borman and Lovell will also make a series of naked-eye observations for the National Academy of Sciences. Borman offered to conduct tests which might be of value to the academy. These include:

Charting the stars they can see in the group known as the Pleiades. This test is to determine effect of atmosphere on sight.

Taking photos of the mouth of big rivers.

Observing the Gulf stream in the Atlantic.

Drawing figures of the moon as it appears at various heights.

Looking for the moons of Jupiter.

16-Year Low Expected in Oil Drilling

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—There is indication fewer oil and gas wells will be drilled in the United States in 1965 than in any year since 1949.

Total completions through mid-November were about 8.5% below the comparable 1964 period. Wildcat operations were off 10.5%.

Drilling trends the first 10½ months indicate about 41,000 well completions for 1965, compared to 45,450 in 1945 and an all-time high of 58,259 in 1956.

Wildcat completions should total about 8,300 wells, compared to 9,250 last year and a record 13,034 in 1956.

Both of the 1965 totals will be the lowest since the domestic industry recorded 39,015 completions, including 8,013 wildcats, in 1949.

Total completions have declined in all but two of the nine years ince the record breaking 1956 pace.

* * * *

FACTORS constributing to the steady declines include a world surplus of crude oil, wider spacing of wells, a 1958 recession that aggravated general conditions within the industry, and the prolonged controversy over federal efforts to control wellhead prices of natural gas sold into interstate commerce.

Domestic crude production dropped to 6,220,385 barrels a day in mid-1958 after having climbed to 7,818,400 in early 1957.

The slump in well completions has been accompanied by a sharp decline in the number of rotary drilling rigs in use. Many drilling contractors have gone out of business and the number of rigs sold at auction has increased annually since the first such action was held in 1960.

There were 1,481 rotary rigs making hole last Monday but averages for the first nine months of the year were well below that total. The January-September average was 1,346 active rigs, compared to 1,493 a year earlier.

There have been predictions the 1965 average will not exceed 1,370 active rigs. Annual averages for the past five years were 1,502, 1,501, 1,637, 1,764 and 1,745.

* * * *

THE 1964-65 PRESIDENT of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors believes, however, the 1965 drilling statistics reflect at least one encouraging trend.

Earle C. Hellums, Houston, noted the rotary rig activity was down 10% the first time nine months of the year, while well completions were off about 8% and total footage drilled was down about 2%.

"This indicates the drilling industry has continued to increase its efficiency in 1965, showing an average increase in the number of wells per rig, with a large increase in footage per rig," Hellums said.

More than 700 rigs have been sold at auction since 1960.

Hellums believes such sales have had some effect but says the industry still has an oversupply of rigs.

"The demand for an supply of rigs is still too far out of balance in most areas," he said.

"This means we still have to look into the future for economic stability in the contract drilling industry."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Secondary Shares Lead Gains in Dull Market

By C. J. PARNOW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Blue chips continued to plod through their long consolidation in the holiday-shortened week, but a host of secondary shares helped take up the slack in buying interest.

Blue chips fell sharply in the opening session and only a modest gain on Tuesday and no change on Wednesday helped save the indicator from a worse deficit on the week.

Despite the sharp drop on Monday, the analysts saw little to worry about in the market's performance since the low-priced and speculative shares continue to gain ground and particularly since Monday's retreat failed to attract any really substantially following either during that session or on the following day.

* * * *

THE THANKSGIVING holiday had a dulling effect on the market since many traders were planning to extend the Thursday celebration through to Monday and were therefore hesitant to make substantial commitments.

Brisk gains in the rail average, however, added a glimmer of hope to an otherwise dull week and the analysts saw in the acting of the carrier average the offing of a new upsweep in industrials.

The technicians point out that the last big advance in the industrial average was preceded by an aggressive move in the rail indicator and that this may be a similar signal.

* * * *

THE GOVERNMENT'S attitude toward price increases, as exemplified by the actions against both copper and aluminum, has also had a depressing effect on prices and on confidence too.

Dow-Jones industrials fell 4.56 on the week to 948.16. Rails, however, soared 5.25 to 242.33. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index slipped 0.21 to 92.03.

Trading for the four days totaled 28,373,660 shares compared with 39,716,910 shares in the five days a week before and 18,803,856 shares in the same week last year.

* * * *

GAINERS outnumbered losers 740 to 625 as 1,527 issues crossed the tape. There were 199 new 1965 highs and only 88 new lows.

SCM Corp. was the volume leader with a gain of 4⅝ at 52¾ on 592,800 shares. Martin-Marietta rose 3⅜ to 24 on 497,200 shares in second place in the active list and Fairchild-Hiller was third with a gain of ⅝ at 16¾ on 375,900 shares.

American Telephone, trading ex-dividend, dropped ⅞ to 62⅛ on 351,900 shares as the fourth most active issue. The increased dividend declared the week before had little effect on the recent downtrend in the stock.

Pan American World Airways advanced 3⅛ in fairly active dealings. Airlines were generally strong. National Airlines jumped 7⅞, Eastern 7½, Delta 7⅝ and Northwest 10⅞.

Continental Airlines jumped 7¼, Braniff tacked on ⅜ and Western added 1⅜. The three carriers are expected to benefit from the northwest-southwest route allocations under which they and, to a lesser extend Trans World and United, will serve 47 pairs of cities with their first single-carrier through service. Trans World advanced 4¼ and United jumped 6⅞.

* * * *

ELECTRONICS were hit by profit-taking during the week but still finished higher. Zenith soared 7⅝, Beckman 5⅛, Fairchild Camera 5, Motorola 7½ and Litton 7. IBM lost 7 points and Contra Data shed 2¼.

Copper shares survived the week in fairly good condition despite the forced roll-back of their recent price increases. Anaconda and Copper Range were up ⅞ and Cerro added ¾. Kennecott fell 5⅜ and Phelps-Dodge shed 2½.

Aircrafts continued to gain ground. North American Aviation skyrocketed 9⅛. Northrop rose 4⅞, Bendix 3½, Lockheed 2½, Boeing 3¼, General Dynamics 2⅜ and McDonnell 1⅜. Among the small pleasure aircraft producers, Cessna rose 4¼, Beech 3¼ and Piper, ex-dividend, 4⅛. United and Douglas were hit by profit-taking and fell 2¼ and 2⅛ respectively.

* * * *

STEELS WERE generally firm. Autos were soft with Chrysler down 2, General Motors 1¼ and Ford ⅜. Chemicals also declined, Du Pont fell 3¼, Eastman Kodak 1⅛, Union Carbide ¾ and Allied ½.

United Gas advanced 2½ to 38¼. Simonds Saw climbed 8¼ to 42¼ on a bid to acquire all of their shares of $43.50 from Wallace-Murray. Wallace-Murray rose 14⅛.

Amalgamated Sugar rose 2⅛ after directors boosted the quarterly dividend despite a drop of fiscal profits. Amphenol jumped 5 on plans for a 2-for-1 stock split. Black & Decker scored a similar gain after its directors boosted the quarterly payout.

National Biscuit fell 1⅝ after the company and Coca-Cola called for their merger discussions. Coca-Cola rose ⅞. Seaboard Air Line Railroad rose 4¾ and Atlantic Coast Line Railroad picked up 4½ after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a lower court decision setting aside ICC approval of the proposed merger of the two roads was in error. The case goes back to lower court.

Times Mirror rose only ¼ despite the fact directors boosted its quarterly dividend to 20 cents from 12½ cents in previous quarters.

Labor Disputes Cost Millions at the Cape

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Down-to-earth labor disputes at the nation's spaceport are costing millions of taxpayers dollars and loom as an ever-present threat to trip the United States in its race to the moon.

Their impact was dramatically spotlighted last week when McDonnell Aircraft Corp. machinists stayed off the job and nearly caused next month's Gemini rendezvous flights to be postponed.

Nevertheless, the overall labor picture at Cape Kennedy appears brighter today than ever before.

One reason is the "no-strike" pledge of 1961, endorsed by the general presidents of international unions affiliated with the AFL-CIO's building and construction trades department. It says:

"No strike shall be undertaken on any missile project . . . without complete exhaustion of all available procedures . . . for the peaceful settlement of the dispute."

* * * *

DESPITE THIS, more than 100 work stoppages have halted space projects here since then—from little differences of opinion that kept three or four men off the job only one day to about 10 disputes when nearly all 3,000 construction workers stayed away from work for two to four days.

Since Jan. 1, 1964, 75 stoppages have cost more than 92,000 man days of work, mostly at the $750 million spacecraft which is being built for launching men to the moon, according to figures compiled by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Thanks to Industrial unions' interpretation of the no-strike pledge, the Cape has never been totally shut down due to a work stoppage, though there have been times when 85% of all brick-and-mortar construction was stopped.

In addition, grievance-settling machinery is functioning on a local level, for the first time in years.

It is no longer necessary for labor to post pickets at all entrances to Cape Kennedy so labor's grievances come to the attention of Washington.

* * * *

"THE SAD THING is that issues involved in all work stoppages to date could have been solved peacefully under established proceedings," said David T. Roadley, chairman of the Cape Kennedy missile sites labor relations committee.

Before Roadley took office last July as chief federal mediator locally, "the only way we could bring anything to a head was to call it to Washington's attention," said Clifford D. Baxley, coordinator of the Brevard Building and Construction Trades Council.

"And the only way to do that was through work stoppages," the labor leader added.

Baxley, who speaks for about 18 construction union locals at the Cape, said labor can now take a grievance before the missile sites labor (federal mediating) committee "and get a 'yes' or 'no' answer—something we could not do six months ago."

ARMS, HANDS, LEGS USELESS SINCE BIRTH

Artist Has Brush in Teeth

PRINCETON, W.Va., (AP) —Marvin Kessinger's paintings would be worth notice even if he were an average man, which he's not. The only way he can hold a brush is between his teeth.

His arms, hands and legs shriveled and useless from birth, the 33-year-old Kessinger spends his waking hours in a motorized wheel chair. He earns an income painting oil portraits, landscaping and still lifes.

Through years of patient practice with his teeth clenching a brush, Kessinger evolved the skill to express a talent that nature tried to suppress.

Kessinger's development as an artist began in this southern West Virginia town when he was introduced to coloring books in the first grade. He began copying pictures from books and magazines. When he was 12, Miss Edith Tuggle, a teacher for homebound children, taught him to mix colors.

* * * *

NOW, AFTER years of constant practice, he makes money from his art, charging $50 for portraits and up to $25 for other paintings. "It's the only way I have to make my own way." He said. He says the five portraits he has sold took about a month and required five sittings.

"I try to paint some every day," he said, "But most of my work is done inside because it's hard for me to get up when I'm outside."

Kessinger's parents have converted a room of their small home into a studio. They help their son by laying out his brushes and spreading paint.

A sloping concrete ramp has been built onto the porch. By using a push-button control, he can manipulate his wheel chair down the ramp and into the yard.

When he's not painting, Kessinger likes to play chess and checkers. He moves the pieces with a stick held in his mouth.

A sports fan, Kessinger likes to watch the local high school and nearby college teams in action whenever the opportunity arises.

"However, painting is really my life," he says.

Fishermen Saved From Volcano

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese patrol boat removed 10 shipwrecked fishermen Saturday from Torishima Island 20 minutes before the island's volcano erupted, the Maritime Safety Agency in Tokyo reported.

The island, 360 miles south of Tokyo, was evacuated Nov. 16 because of unusual volcanic activity. On Friday the fishermen were forced to abandon their vessel in a storm near the island and took shelter ashore in deserted weather station buildings.

HHH to Address Calif. Educators

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Vice President Humphrey will give the feature address Dec. 3 at the 35th Annual Conference of the California School Boards Association, it was announced Saturday.

Humphrey is expected to discuss the impact of new federal programs on education. The four-day conference of more than 2,500 school board members starts Dec. 1 at the Hilton Hotel.

Drop Is Seen in Number of Farmers

CHICAGO (AP)—American agriculture was pictured Saturday as an expanding industry which will offer, however, fewer opportunities for young people in the future.

Prof. John Dunbar, agriculture economist of Purdue University, said that by 1975 there will be good places in farm production for only about one out of 10 youths coming from the farm.

Dunbar told the convention of the National Association of Farm Broadcasters that the farm population, which numbers about 3.5 million, will be down to about 2.5 million in 10 years. This reduction will come about, he said, even though farm production will increase sharply under advancing technology and rising demands.

Pakistan Deaths

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—Five Indian soldiers were killed as a result of "retaliatory action" by Pakistani troops in clashes in the Wagah, Hussain-Iwala and Badiana sectors, 200 miles east of Rawalpindi, a government spokesman announced Saturday. Pakistan troops suffered one casualty, he added.

Pinscher Flunks Out---No Nose for Booze

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Chatham County's booze hound has flunked out. Schoenheidt, a Doberman Pinscher being trained to follow his nose to moonshine stills, has too much of a blue nose.

Ed Swain, a kennel operator retained by the county to train the dog for the police vice squad, said Schoenheit "was bred for show and just wasn't aggressive enough to go after liquor."

Now, Swain is working with Caesar, another Doberman Pinscher, "who seems to have more of a nose for the liquor business than Schoenheidt."

Port Gateway to Exotic World

By LARRY LYNCH

What do candied grasshoppers, bales of human hair and a zoo have in common?

At one time or another one or more of each has been shipped through the port of Long Beach.

The zoo, complete with sharp-fanged leopards and a muscular boa constrictor, was shipped to Australia three years ago.

The human hair once was brought in from China for wig manufacture.

The candied grasshoppers are still a small share of the tons of exotic foods that arrive annually, as is more than ever evidenced on delicatessen shelves this Christmas season.

Of the $1.3 billion in cargo shipped through the port during the fiscal year ended June 30, more than $1 billion of it was exotic—at least in the limited sense that it was outbound to, or incoming from, a foreign port.

To be sure, most of the international tonnage through the port is of mundane, though valuable commodities.

By shipping weight the major commodities inbound to Long Beach docks last year were petroleum, steel, newsprint, gypsum and copra. Going out, in order of tonnage, were bulk petroleum, iron ore, potash, coke, grains and scrap steel.

And yet, not all of the significant foreign trade through the port is in raw materials.

Whereas a decade ago many more goods were exported than imported through the port, today by dollar value more is imported mainly because of the rise of Japan as a manufacturing and exporting power.

In fiscal 1955-56, commodities exported here were valued at $274 million compared with $97 million in imports.

In the most recent fiscal year, exports through Long Beach were valued at nearly 20% less than the $569 million in imports.

Tonnage going out is still greater than that coming in. However, manufactured goods weigh less per dollar value than raw materials.

Estimated dollar value of goods shipped in from Japan — television sets, sewing machines, rugs, transistor radios, toys, the list goes on and on—was $218 million in fiscal 1965.

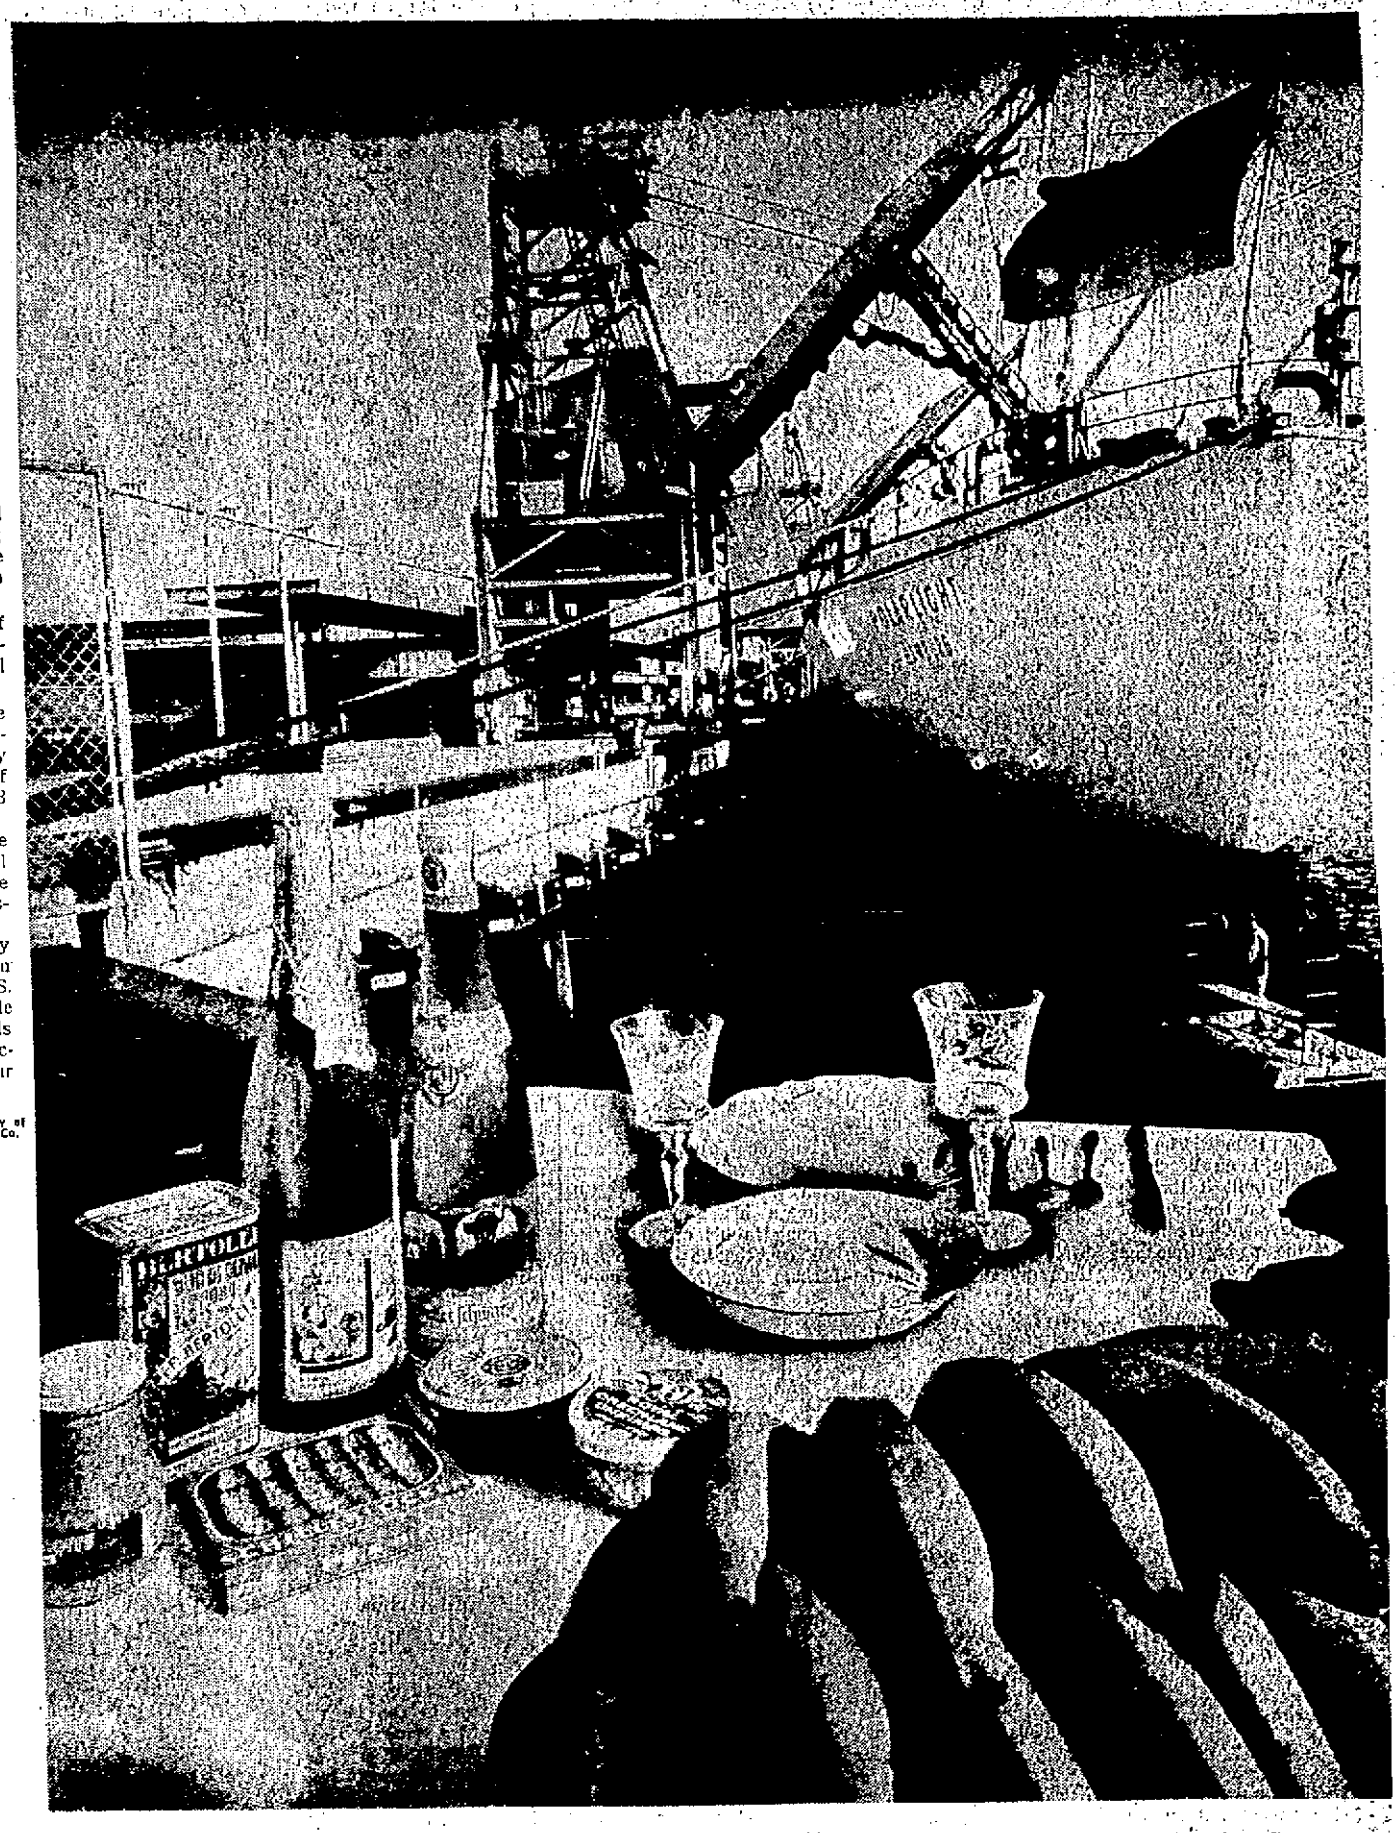

This is more than the dollar value of imports through Long Beach of all European goods, about $152 million, in fiscal 1965.

Interestingly enough, in foreign trade by country the dollar value of goods received here from Japan was exceeded only by the dollar value of goods shipped out of the Port of Long Beach to Japan — $233 million.

In spite of President Johnson's balance of payments efforts, industry abroad still seems more anxious to get a chunk of the affluent American market than local industry is to manufacture for export.

The Long Beach Chamber consistently receives requests from European, Asian and African countries for names of U.S. distributors who might be willing to handle their goods. However, chamber officials say symposiums calling on local manufacturers to develop foreign markets bear little fruit.

The Columbia Store to Close in Downtown L.B.

Isaac "Ike" Sukman, in some ways the father of retailing in Long Beach, last Monday shut the doors of his downtown department store—The Columbia.

And though the doors swung open again before the week was out, the closing was only a sign of what's to come permanently.

* * * *

"WE'RE GOING out of business here and when we've sold all the merchandise and fixtures we'll try and sell or lease the building," the 72-year-old merchant explains. "I don't like it, but I realize this type of business needs someone interested in the business to sustain it. I had a heart attack last December, and the doctors told me I'd have to give it up."

Sukman founded The Columbia in Long Beach in 1920 and built it through the years on the basis of "small-payment" credit.

At the same time he worked activity in civic affairs, helping to found the downtown merchants association and a local credit association, leading fund drives — he still heads the local Red Cross chapter — and winning honors for his work in Jewish organizations.

ISAAC SUKMAN
"Bright City Future"

* * * *

NOW HE'S liquidating the retail store in part because his son Richard, a Los Angeles stock broker, is not interested in the retail business, Sukman says.

The Columbia department store in Lakewood, also owned by the Sukman family, is unaffected by the downtown Long Beach closing. "It's a separate corporation and we've no definite plans for it," Sukman explains.

* * * *

DESPITE HIS store's closing, Sukman maintains a faith downtown "will come back" in the face of the "glamour" of the rapidly expanding suburban shopping centers.

"We have the ocean and the beach. That's one thing they can't take away from. With the city's plans to beautify and clean up the beach, this is going to become a powerful tourist attraction," he concludes.

Sukman was born in Poland, settled first in San Francisco in 1913 and served with the engineers in World War I. He still keeps his army uniform hung in his office closet. Except that he plans to continue his activities in civic affairs, he has no definite plans. "It depends on the doctor," he says.

Industry to Hike Capital Spending 8% Next Year

U. S. industry plans to spend nearly $55 billion on new plants and equipment in 1966, an 8% increase over this year's figure. This is almost four billion dollars more than industry will spend this year and close to $10 billion more than was actually spent in 1964.

This is the major finding of the annual fall survey of Business' Plans for New Plants and Equipment conducted by the Economics Department of McGraw-Hill Publications, and represents the responses of companies accounting for over 40% of industrial employment.

* * * *

COMMENTING on the survey, Douglas Greenwald, chief economist, McGraw-Hill Publications, declared:

"The plans revealed here at this early stage suggest that capital spending will be a stronger plus in the economic outlook than it has been in the past four years. The 8% increase is a considerably larger gain than has been indicated in the previous four fall surveys.

"Since 1961, the McGraw-Hill fall surveys have reported a rising, but unspectacular, level of investment planned for the year ahead. The average increase was 4%."

* * * *

MANUFACTURERS plan to spend $23.7 billion next year for new facilities. This is 9% higher than their 1965 capital investment and five billion dollars more than they spent last year. This group currently plans to spend $22.7 billion in 1967.

Steel is the only major manufacturing industry that expects a decline in capital spending next year. But having spent a record $1.9 billion this year, the 2% drop suggests that the steel industry's capital spending program, which began in 1964, will continue on through next year and well into 1967.

The only other area showing a decline—2% for next year—is the miscellaneous nondurable group. Beyond these two exceptions, all other industries indicate increases for next year with the largest increases concentrated in the durable goods industries.

* * * *

THE GAINS range from a high of 48% planned by aerospace manufacturers to a low of 5% indicated by the stone, clay and glass industry.

Contractors to Meet at Palm Springs Dec. 3-5

Congressman George H. Fallon, chairman of the House Committee on Public Roads, will be the principal speaker at the 11th Annual Holiday Conference of the Southern California chapter of Associated General Contractors in Palm Springs Dec. 3-5.

He will head an imposing list of 10 speakers who will address the conference during the three-day session, according to Byron P. Weintz, chairman of the event.

One of the highlights of the program is expected to be a panel of state and county public works authorities who will present an analysis of the record-breaking volume of public works construction contracts awarded in Southern California during 1965. Current estimates indicate that for the 12-month period new contracts awarded this year will be in excess of $925 million, an increase of more than 75% over last year.

This panel also will present a forecast of new construction volume in this category for 1966.

E. C. Losch, chapter president, says that a record-breaking attendance is anticipated for this year's conference.

Bank Chief Reid to Retire; Ex-Hockey Pro, Medal Winner

R. A. (Bob) Reid, veteran United California Bank executive and vice president in charge of UCB's Long Beach office since its opening here in October, 1946, has announced his retirement from the bank effective Tuesday, Nov. 30.

According to Reid, his retirement plans are indefinite but he will continue to fulfill all of his civic duties and responsibilities.

The list of Reid's civic accomplishments is almost endless, and during the 20 years he has headed the United California Bank office here he has served as a director or an officer of practically every civic organization in Long Beach.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH he is known in Long Beach primarily because of his many activities since coming with the bank here in 1946, his career goes back to the early twenties when he played professional hockey with the Vancouver Millionaires, from whom he was bought by the Boston Bruins, and later acquired by the New York Rangers.

Reid played professional hockey in college while taking time out from the first of December until the middle of March, and then making up his studies in the spring.

Reid attended the University British Columbia where he won every possible letter in college for athletics, starring in basketball, football, baseball, track, lacrosse, rifle shooting, and ice hockey.

* * * *

IT WAS while playing ice hockey that he earned the Carnegie medal for bravery when he rescued a girl skater who had fallen through and was being swept under the ice.

During summer vacations he took three trips around the world before he decided to settle down and became a banker.

Reid's first bank job was junior clerk in the Bank of Montreal. After a short time the Los Angeles Athletic Club wanted him on their ice hockey team, so he came to California.

In 1923 he got a job with United California Bank as a bookkeeper and shortly thereafter was promoted to teller.

While a teller he met Mollie Lary, who has been his wife ever since.

* * * *

IN 1935 HE was promoted to manager of a branch office and later managed various other branches. In 1943 he was made an assistant vice president while manager at the bank's Bell office. His assignment to the Long Beach office came in 1946 and was followed a year later by his election to full vice presidency of the bank.

Before the bank actually opened a branch in Long Beach, Reid worked for several months out of an office in the Heartwell building. He established himself in the community immediately as a willing civic worker.

Among Reid's current activities are member of the boards of directors of Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, A.I.D. (past president), Long Beach Convention Bureau, Long Beach Promotion, Inc., International Beauty Congress (past president), Long Beach Civic Light Opera.

* * * *

HE IS currently president of the Harbor Board of Commissioners, and is past president of the Kiwanis Club, member of the Navy League, past president of Virginia Country Club and perennial captain of the Virginia Country Club Golf Team, member of the Advisory Board of St. Mary's Hospital, honorary member of the Long Beach Yacht Club, former chairman of the board of the Long Beach Heart Association, past board member of the California Heart Association and Memorial Hospital, past president of the Board of Water Commissioners, and past president of the California Hockey League.

R. A. REID
Colorful Career

Reid says he will continue to honor all of his current civic and charitable commitments and responsibilities but that otherwise his plans for the future are indefinite at this time.

* * * *

HE AND HIS wife celebrated their 26th wedding anniversary Nov. 21. They have lived in Bixby Knolls 18 years and have one daughter, Erilla, and a granddaughter, Ivy, living in Anaheim.

Reid is a native of New Brunswick, Canada, son of a reknowned architect who designed the Hotel Del Coronado near San Diego and the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

Schulman's, in New Site

Schulman's Nutrition Center has announced the grand opening at 136 Pine Ave. of its new store, which features a snack bar.

It was in 1926 that Schulman's first had a store in Long Beach, making it one of the pioneers in the vitamin and nutrition field. For the past 25 years, the location has been at 142 Pine.

The new store facilities include frozen food department, gift packs, fancy foods and a health book selection.

Paint Co.'s Earnings Up

TORRANCE — Standard Brands Paint Co. (ASE) achieved new records in both sales and earnings for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, President Sid Greenberg has announced.

Sales increased 13% to $23,784,256, up from $21,082,479 recorded in fiscal 1964.

Earnings after taxes increased 12% to $1,640,495 as compared with $1,466,928.

Earnings per share were $1.34 based on the 1,225,732 common shares outstanding at Sept. 30. Fiscal 1964 earnings per share were $1.21 based on the 1,208,742 com- the end of that year.

Greenberg said, "The company is currently enjoying a very strong level of sales and while fiscal 1965 was a record-breaking year in terms of both sales and earnings, we believe we are in an extremely favorable position to increase our sales and earnings during the current fiscal year."

Full Services Go With Offices at L.B. Center

A new Executive Center now opening in Long Beach is bringing new dimensions to office rental techniques.

Sherman Associates, 4290 Long Beach Blvd., is providing not only offices, but a full range of services for tenants.

Distinctively designed, the air conditioned offices include carpeting, drapes, murals and furnishings.

* * * *

ALSO AVAILABLE for all tenants are a receptionist, conference room, storage lockers, snack room, secretarial service, 24-hour answering service and ample parking.

Marshall N. Finnan, associated director of Sherman Associates, said:

"In providing all necessary equipment and services on an equal share basis for each tenant, his overhead costs are substantially reduced, further increasing his chances of success.

* * * *

"AS WE DEAL with business executives we see the need of this type of service as costs and cost factors of operating a business are his most important problems."

Sherman Associates was started eight years ago by Sherman B. Nathanson, Los Angeles, as a management consulting firm.

"Demand in recent years for executive planning has brought the organization to the point where further expansion has been necessary," Finnan said of the new office units which occupy nearly all of the second floor at 4290 Long Beach Blvd.

Finnan has lived in Long Beach 15 years. His wife is a teacher.

Auto Exec to Attend Conference

J. Robert Hamaker, owner relations manager for Dick Browning Oldsmobile, has been selected to attend a two-day owner relations conference for top-rated Oldsmobile owner relations managers in the Pacific region, according to E. D. Ruth, regional manager for Oldsmobile division of General Motors Corp., Oakland, Calif.

J. R. HAMAKER

Hamaker is one of 12 managers in the region who will participate in the conference, to be held at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco Dec. 14-16 and conducted by the home office Oldsmobile owner relations department from Lansing, Mich.

Purpose of the conference will be to glean additional knowledge about this important phase of customer relationships, from the experiences gained by these 12 top men of the region—ultimately passing this information on to each Oldsmobile agency in the nation, it was explained.

Hamaker lives at 2842 Walker Lee Drive, Rossmoor, and has been associated with Dick Browning Oldsmobile since the first of the year.

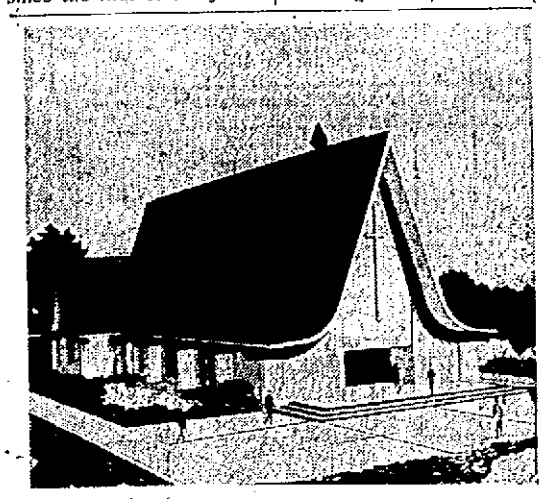

Burton Smith, Ibbetson Get NAREB Posts

BELLFLOWER—Two local realtors have been elected directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, it was announced last week by Ray T. Smith, president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors.

They are Burton E. Smith, who as president-elect of the California Real Estate Association for 1966, also will serve as a NAREB director during the year, and E. Thornton Ibbetson, who was elected to a three-year term. The election took place in Chicago during the annual convention of the 80,000-member association.

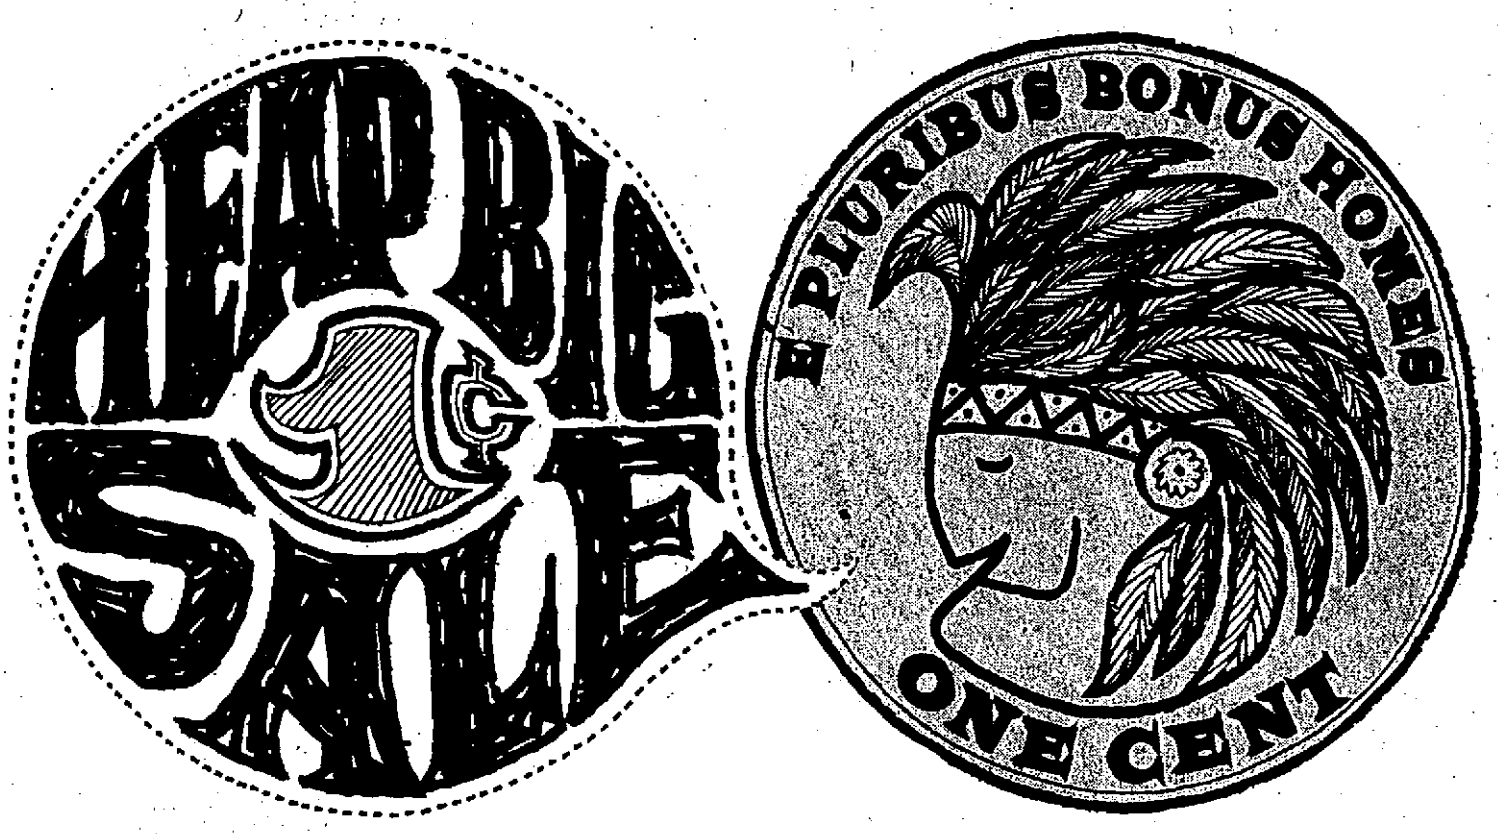

Smith will be installed as president of the California Real Estate Association at a luncheon to be held at the Biltmore Bowl on Jan. 8.

Both Smith and Ibbetson and their wives were in attendance at the NAREB convention, as was Robert Y. Prigmore, president-elect of the Bellflower board, and Mrs. Prigmore.

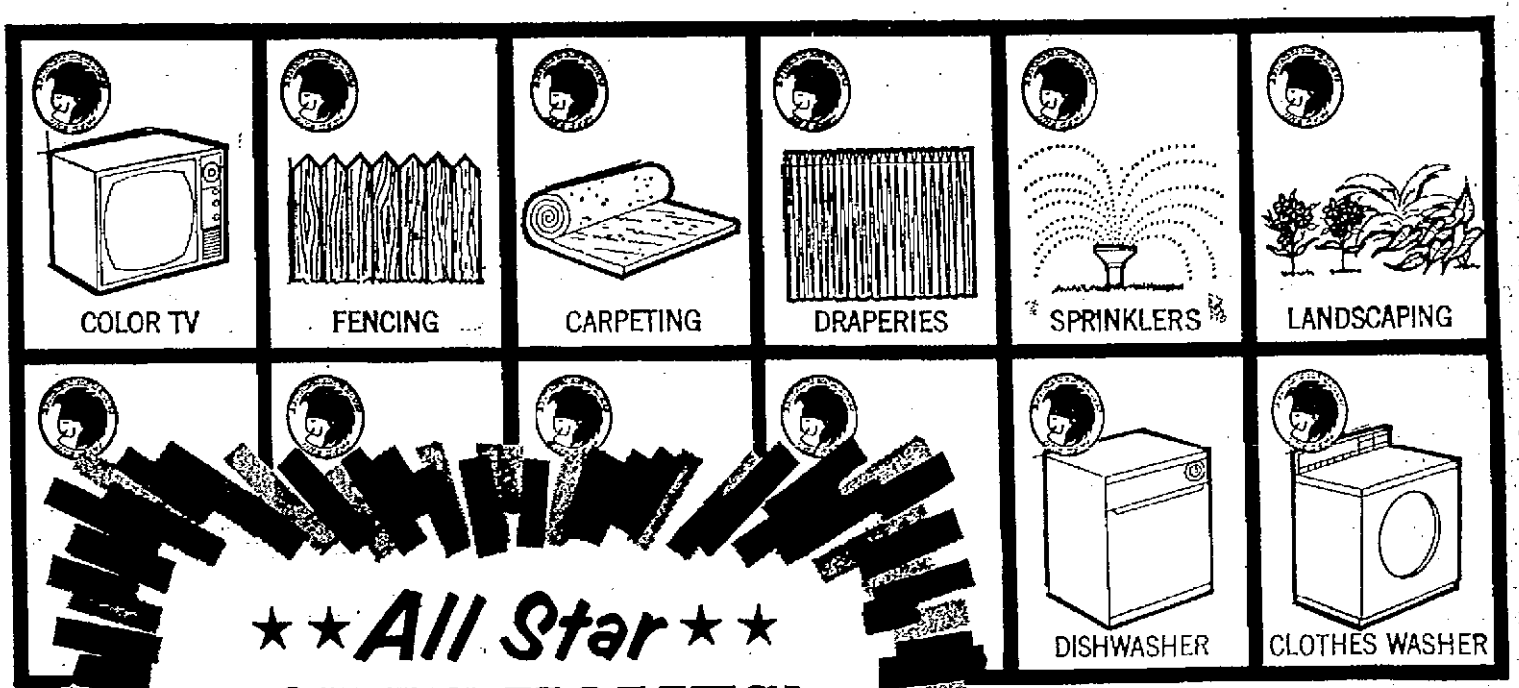

PLANNED IN WESTMINSTER

New Westminster Presbyterian Church, which will rise at 7702 Westminster Ave., is out to bid and is expected to cost around $175,000. According to architects Frick, Frick, Tipton & Jette, AIA, church will be designed in shape of cross, with chancel and narthex forming stem, and two transepts on opposite sides the crossbar. Roof structure will use A-frame principle to denote hands at prayer. There will be provision for future installation of closed-circuit television. Sanctuary will seat 700.

HOSPITAL AIDED BY UP RAILROAD

Sister Mary Laura, administrator of St. Mary's Long Beach Hospital, discusses the renovation and redecoration of the 10th Street entrance and lobby of the hospital with John W. Padden, center, special representative for the president, Union Pacific Railroad, and Joseph E. Madden, right, chairman of the Hospital Lay Advisory Board. Padden was visiting the hospital to witness the mounting of a bronze plaque in the lobby area commemorating the fourth consecutive gift of $5,000 for a total of $20,000 given to the hospital by the Union Pacific Railroad Foundation.

Construction Jump Seen Next Year

Total construction volume in Southern California during 1966 should show an increase of as much as 5½%, according to estimates prepared by W. D. Shaw, general manager of the Southern California Chapter of Associated General Contractors.

Shaw feels that if residential construction levels off next year to equal the 1965 total, the gains scored by other types of construction would be sufficient to move the total figure upward by a substantial margin.

"Our estimates indicate residential construction should wind up the year 1965 at about $1.8 billion," Shaw says. "This would be substantially under last year, but it still is the largest of any category of construction in Southern California.

* * * *

"NONRESIDENTIAL building will probably amount to approximately $1.4 billion. Military and public building should be about $200 million and heavy engineering construction approximately $900 million.

"On this basis total volume of construction for 1965 in Southern California would amount to approximately $4.3 billion. This would compare with $4.35 billion in 1964."

Shaw estimates that for 1966 residential construction will be approximately $1.8 billion, the same as the figure for 1965; nonresidential building $1.45 billion, up 5%; military and public building $210 million, up 5%; heavy engineering construction $1.08 billion, up 20%.

* * * *

THE LARGEST percentage of increase is expected in the heavy engineering category. This will come as the result of the start of construction in Southern California of the California Aqueduct which will bring Northern California water into this area.

It is anticipated that for the next six years construction of the aqueduct together with the Metropolitan Water District distribution system should increase public works construction by around $250 million a year.

"All of the categories of construction handled by contractor members of Associated General Contractors, which includes virtually everything except residential, will be well ahead of 1964," according to Shaw. "Construction total in these categories will probably set new all-time highs in 1965 and could very well set new high marks for 1966."

CARGO DRIVEN ON OR OFF VESSEL

New Japanese ship Oppama Maru unloaded shipment of autos recently in Wilmington, using ramp system as shown above. Vessel is especially designed as auto carrier, and cars are driven on or off rather than handled by cranes. Vessel, 499 feet long, was to carry load of wheat on return trip to Japan.

$572,486 Loaned

Long Beach loans totaling $572,486 for the 10-month period which ended Oct. 31 were disbursed by the western home office of the Prudential Insurance Co., it is reported by Edward J. Ahearn, Southern California regional investments manager for the company's mortgage loan department.

Of the total disbursals made, $237,486 was for residential purposes and $335,000 was for commercial and industrial properties.

Bradley Named to Statewide Job

J. P. Bradley, president of Dominguez Water Corp., will succeed Patrick J. Maloney as president of the California Water Association for the year beginning Jan. 1, 1966.

The CWA is a statewide organization whose membership is made up of investor-owned water utilities and mutual water companies and has as its objectives the development within the industry of high standards of public service.

More in 1966

Construction expenditures in the U.S. will grow by 4.5% in 1966, rising to an all-time high of nearly $71 billion, according to a new forecast prepared for the Market Research Department of Fortune.

Plaza Sales Spurt Even as Foundations Go In

With foundations just under way, one fourth of the entire Plaza development in the Bluffs community above Upper Newport Bay has been sold, the sales agents, Bluffs Realty, reported last week.

Priced from $19,995, the Plaza offers two, three and four bedroom homes in a selection of single story, two story and split level styling.

* * * *

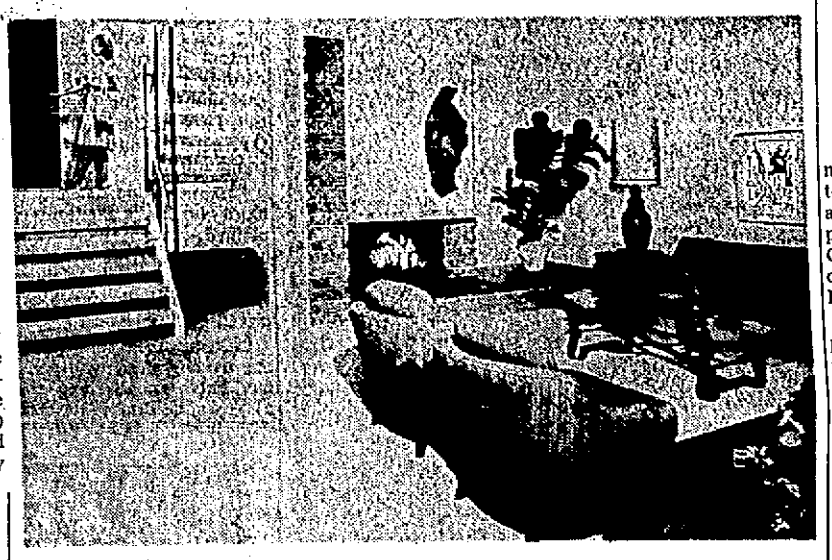

THE SPANISH motif homes with tile roofs, entry patios and balconies look out to pool, green area and park. The location also is within a few yards of the just-announced Newport Beach Tennis Club.

Plaza sales agents urged buyers to act quickly for selection as one plan, a four-bedroom two story home, already is near the "sold out" stage. The homes will be ready in early spring, 1966 for occupancy.

* * * *

ALONG with the Plaza homes, the Bluffs community is offering homes in the Riviera section from $26,500 to $34,000 and a limited number of two and three bedroom homes in the Villa section. The Villa homes are for lease.

SPLIT LEVEL, TOO

Attractive split level homes, along with two story and single level homes offer buyers a wide variety at the Riviera development at the Bluffs Community in Newport Beach. Open beamed ceilings, fireplaces, balconies and entry courts have all been appealing to buyers. Prices start at $26,500 with wide choice of location.

Paramount Industrial Unit to Rise

Ground has been broken at the Jackson-Orange industrial tract in Paramount for an 11,000-square-foot, tilt-up, concrete industrial building.

This building was designed by Louis Shoal Miller, of 403 E. Wardlow Road, Long Beach. Svend Birkelund, of 15135 Colorado Ave., Paramount, was selected as general contractor to construct the building.

D. S. MOSS

D. S. Moss, pioneer Paramount investor-developer and owner of the building, said he intends to spend in excess of one million dollars on the development of seven acres immediately south of this building to be leased to industry requiring M-2 zoning in a prime location.

Moss said at the groundbreaking ceremony that due to the demand for industrial buildings in the Paramount area he felt an investment in the industrial future of Paramount is wise.

He cited the outstanding cooperation given by the city administration, the local Chamber of Commerce and the citizens of Paramount to industry. He also said the completion of the Artesia Freeway and the improvement of Cherry Avenue will be a stimulus to industy to locate in Paramount.

Attending the groundbreaking ceremony were numerous civic leaders, including Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Iliff, John Gallegos, John Verhoeven, Ed Shanley, Svend Birkelund, Louis Spane, Bill Kennedy and Ralph Grove.

Moss has named Orville M. Artz, Realtor, as exclusive leasing agent for the new building.

Name Bank Manager

Walter Bradford Gove has been appointed manager of First Western Bank's Westminster-Midway City Office, according to an announcement made by Homer Kerley, regional vice president.

W. B. GOVE

Gove, a banker for 17 years, joined First Western in 1958 as a teller in the Pacific Office, Long Beach. Since that time he has served in a number of capacities, including installment loan officer, assistant cashier and assistant manager. He transferred to the bank's Stanton Office in 1961, and to Westminster in 1964.

Gove presently resides, with his wife, Ruth, daughter Susan and son Michael, in Westminster.

He is replacing James B. Allen as manager. Allen, because of illness, has taken advantage of the bank's early retirement plan.

Lakewood Man Gets New Post

Lakewood resident Lyle K. Caplinger has been named assistant vice president at Bank of America's area administration department in Long Beach, it was announced last week by chairman of the board Louis B. Lundborg.

Caplinger moves into his new position after serving as administration officer in the area administration department, Los Angeles headquarters.

$2,625,000 Victory Park Deal Made

Mutual Housing Association of Compton has announced sale of Victory Park to Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Co. for $2,625,000.

The transaction was handled by Orville M. Artz, Realtor, with Gerald I. Mallen representing Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Co. and Vic Wolfe for Mutual Housing Association.

Victory Park consists of 67.99 acres with 501 housing units. The property is located on the east side of Wilmington Avenue, extending from Alondra Boulevard on the south to a point 200 feet south of Compton Boulevard with street access at the easterly edge of the property out to Compton Boulevard.

Compton Creek, a channel of the Los Angeles County Flood Control District, forms the easterly boundary.

* * * *

THIS HOUSING project was constructed during World War II as a government housing development for defense workers. Upon notice from the federal government in 1946 that Victory Park had been terminated as an active project, the tenants of the project organized a mutual housing association.

It was announced by Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Co. that it has made a land use study of this acreage and it intends to remodel and construct additional units on the property.

McGraw-Hill Exec to Address L.B. Ad Club

Knox Bourne, regional vice president of McGraw-Hill publications, will be guest speaker at a luncheon of the Advertising Club of Long Beach Thursday noon in the Bounty Room of the Reef Restaurant.

KNOX BOURNE

A social gathering preceding the luncheon begins at 11:30

Bourne's speech is titled "Better Than You Think" and illustrates that the general public, and even economic experts, tend to underestimate the vigor of the American economy. It also points out advertising's role in all economic growth.

John Curtis, president of Curtis & Associates, Inc., Long Beach-headquartered advertising and public relations agency, will serve as chairman of the day.

The meeting will be the Ad Club's last before its annual Christmas party on Dec. 16. The public is invited to both affairs, and reservations may be made by contacting executive secretary Helen Perkins at the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Executive Changes Made by United

Two executive changes were announced last week by United Mortgage Servicing Corp., Beverly Hills.

Angelo Mozilo, vice president-manager, was promoted to zone managership. Succeeding him as manager is Gale A. Thomas, assistant vice president.

Mozilo announced that for the first nine months of this year mortgages originated by United increased 31% over the comparable 1964 period. Respective totals were $140.9 million this year and $106.8 in '64 for nine months. Mortgages serviced by United increased 40%.

TOTAL LIVING CONCEPTS

Rain or Shine, Interest Runs High in Surfside 'By-the-Sea'

Recent torrents of rain have not dampened spirits of visitors to Surfside "By-the-Sea," according to Ron Foell, vice president of Security Fore Corp., builders of the new community in Huntington Beach-Newport area.

"We find that reactions of prospective buyers to Surfside are the same, come rain or come shine," observed the builder-executive, "bearing out our recent survey findings that near-ocean location and total-living concepts are still ultra-important to today's home value seeker."

* * * *

SURFSIDE HOMES offer a complete modern townhouse environment, with recreational facilities for the whole family, from cabana swim club to central clubhouse and acres of green-belt area.

The dwellings are designed in comfortable Cape Cod and Colonial stylings and the community is located just 1,500 feet from the Pacific shoreline.

Home seekers have a choice of 10 exterior designs and five floor plans. Color-coordinated interiors feature wall-to-wall carpeting, Travertine tile entries and aluminum windows. Kitchens feature ceramic tile counters, hand-finished cabinetry, built-in range and oven, disposal and dishwasher.

* * * *

EACH HOME has an attached two-car garage with room for workshop and extra storage space.

Surfside Homes present from one to four bedrooms and are available for as low as 5% down. Price range is from $14,950 with monthly payments starting at $116.50, which includes principal, interest, taxes, insurance and maintenance.

Five furished model homes are open daily from 10 a.m. to sundown at 8167 Atlanta Ave., just north of the Coast Highway in Huntington Beach.

Will Move Office to New York City

Shell Chemical Co.'s synthetic rubber division will move its headquarters from Torrance to New York City by the middle of next year, announced J. B. Henderson, general manager.

The move will affect about 30 staff members involved in the division's administrative and planning functions.

The more than 900 employes of the research and technical service laboratories and the rubber manufacturing plant itself will remain at Torrance.

Schools Situated Close to Casa La Palma

Schools of all grades are within easy walking distance of all homes in Casa La Palma, making the new "Balanced Power" residential development in La Palma an ideal location for families with children, according to Ray Patscheck, sales manager.

"Casa La Palma is virtually surrounded by schools. An elementary, junior high and high school border the project. Students can reach their classrooms in just a matter of minutes," Patscheck said.

Spacious three and four-bedroom homes provide ample room for growing families, he added. A two-story, four-bedroom model contains more than 2,280 square feet of living area, while single-story homes also are extremely large. All houses have big closets and lots of storage area.

Prices range from $24,950 to $29,850, Patscheck reported, with several types of financing, including VA, FHA or conventional available on 30-year contracts.

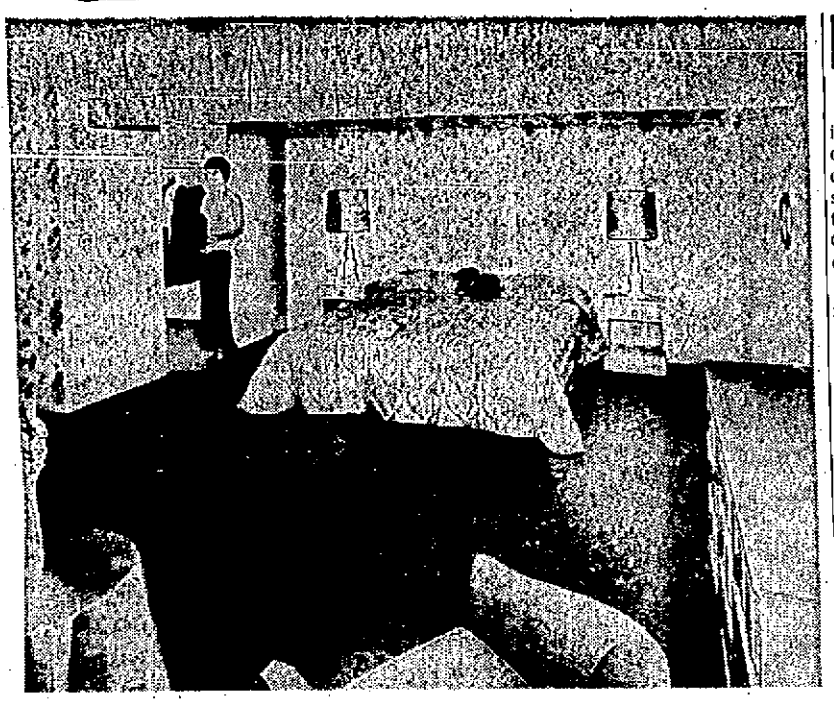

Large fireplaces are found in the living rooms of some models, while others have fireplaces in the family room. Open-beam ceilings are another feature.

Built-in Waste King-Universal gas ranges and ovens, vent hoods, dishwashers, disposers, hand-stained hardwood cabinets and ceramic tile counter tops are integral parts of all "Balanced Power" kitchens.

Located on La Palma Avenue near Walker Street, Casa La Palma is convenient to major employment centers in Orange County, Long Beach and Los Angeles. Downtown Los Angeles is 20 minutes freeway driving time away.

Casa La Palma is a joint project of two well-known and highly respected southern California homebuilding firms, Frank H. Ayres and Son and Warmington Construction Co. The two companies have nearly 80 years of building experience behind them.

Three beautifully furnished models are open daily until dusk for inspection. To reach Casa La Palma, take the Garden Grove Freeway to Valley View, proceed north on Valley View to La Palma, go left on La Palma to the models.

L.B. Realtors to Hear Bank Group Tuesday

Bank of California will present the Tuesday breakfast meeting program of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors, according to Barbara Moss, chairman of the day.

JAY GIBSON

The board meets at 7:30 a.m. in the Crown cafeteria.

Jay Gibson, local bank manager and a vice president, will speak on "Long Beach Grows Up" or "Who is the Bank of California and What Will It Do For You."

Nelson McCook, Jr., who was in 1936-37-38 director on the then called Long Beach Realty Board, is vice president and will give a little forecasting into the future. He also was chairman of the city's Economic Development Committee appointed by the City Council in 1960.

Many of you do not realize that this bank is a tri-state bank with a charter.

R. D. Lagerquist, trust officer; Louise Leinenweber, 13 years with the bank; Beulah Harsch, with some 20 years in the escrow field, Evelyn Johnson and Helen Cook representing their escrow departments, also will be on the panel.

Mel Mould Gets Office on NAREB

Melvin L. Mould, Long Beach Realtor, has been elected a director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards for a three-year term beginning Jan. 1, it was announced last week by James C. Hoffman, president of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors.

MEL MOULD

The election took place in Chicago during the recent annual convention of the 80,000-member association, Hoffman said.

Mould is one of 35 directors named to represent the 176 local real estate boards in California which are members of NAREB, the Long Beach board being one.

Mould is serving his second term as 22nd District regional vice president of the California Real Estate Association, and is past president of the Long Beach board.

He is the owner of Mould Realty which has several offices in the area and employs approximately 40 sales people.

Mould was born in Pennsylvania, served in the Army—entered as a private and came out with the rank of major in the infantry—and is a former member of the Lakewood Planning Commission.

'Premium Fun Area' Proving Popular in Premier Homes

ELEGANT ENTRY
Tiled, raised and railed entry typifies Premier Homes North and South in Huntington Beach. Stairway in right foreground leads to 17x22 fun area. Prices start at $24,750.

The "Premium Fun Area" featured in most models at Premier Homes in Huntington Beach has proved one of the development's most popular attractions, according to sales agent Frank McFarland.

Purchasers of over 150 Premier Homes sold in Huntington Beach in the past year, have found a variety of uses for the fun area, McFarland reports. These uses range from a playroom to two additional bedrooms. Roughed in plumbing in the fun area allows for either a wet bar or a third bath to be installed at the homeowner's option. The area is fully finished and has a tiled floor.

* * * *

McFARLAND announced an "Immediate Move-In Special" on one of the four-bedroom models with the fun area, for $26,500. VA no down, FHA minimum down and conventional financing are available.

The homes also feature "Total Convenience" kitchens, with double oven, range, dishwasher and built-in mixer-blender combination. Ceramic tile counter tops, hardwood cabinets, a dispenser for foils and papers and efficiency floor plans are also featured.

* * * *

REAR YARD FENCING and front landscaping are included in the purchase prices, which start at $24,750. Custom features include all-copper water piping and concrete driveways.

Premier is presently selling two subdivisions—Premier North and South—from one sales office on Terry Street adjoining the south side of Fantastic Fair Department store and one block east of Hwy. 39. Visitors take Beach Boulevard south from San Diego Freeway one mile and turn left on Terry Street to the model display.

Cypress Orangewood Development Pleases

In a preview showing last week, prospective buyers were taken on a tour of Don Wilson's Orangewood—a new development in Cypress.

The new concept of total community planning, combined with homes of outstanding quality, proved an overwhelming success, according to Wilson, president of Don Wilson Builders.

The idea of a community park—providing the neighborhood with its own recreational area—is one of the most popular features.

Another is the underground utilities—which assure the buyer of protected and increasing value in his home investment. In the first split and tri-level homes in this area, Orangewood includes another first—a spacious step-down rumpus room—providing the ideal room for family gatherings or informal entertaining.

* * * *

PROSPECTIVE buyers became acquainted with the wide variety of models available. Designed for architectural distinction, the styles range from Polynesian to Colonial. They feature three, four and five bedrooms, with two custom baths.

Living rooms feature custom designed fireplaces and every home has sliding glass doors to outside patio areas. Kitchens feature warm stained-ash cabinets, Texturama tile counters, family snack bars, O'Keefe and Merritt built-in gas range and oven, and Waste King disposer.

* * * *

SPACIOUS ROOMS to accommodate the growing family, quality wall-to-wall carpeting and decorator wall papers are other features.

Landscaping will include front lawns with shrubbery.

Sidewalks, decorative street lights and sewers are installed and paid for.

Furnished models are open, with one and two-story homes priced from $24,950, with $995 down. Orangewood may be reached by driving on the Garden Grove Freeway to Knott Avenue, then north on Knott to Orangewood.

San Ysidro Shop Opens

The San Ysidro Shop of Long Beach was opened recently at 3389 Orange Ave., facing Wardlow Avenue.

Betty Grobaty and Marion Oberhauser, owner-partners, have a line of candles, candelabra, books for children and adults and quality religious art.

Bellflower Board to Discuss New Laws

Members of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors will consider new real estate laws at their Thursday morning meeting at the Cerritos College Student Center, Norwalk.

Program chairman Bob Reed said the speaker will be Berton L. Hopkins, director of training at Anthony Real Estate Schools, Long Beach branch.

Push Watson Center Road Improvement

Strecker Construction Co. of Long Beach has been awarded a $419,558 contract to convert 223rd Street, between Avalon Boulevard and Wilmington Avenue, into a four-lane thoroughfare.

The one-mile stretch of 223rd Street borders the $175 million Watson Industrial Center in the Dominguez area of southern Los Angeles.

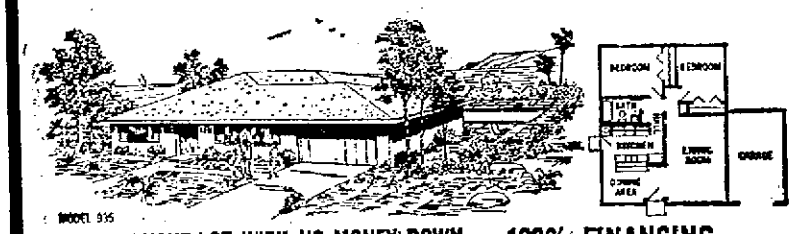

The current project is part of the County Highway Department program to widen 223rd Street and Wilmington Avenue to handle increased traffic generated by growth in the Dominguez area.

* * * *

CONTRACT for improving a second mile-long section of 223rd — between Avalon and Main Street—was awarded to Strecker last month. The street ultimately will be converted into a major, 4½-mile east-west artery extending from Alameda Street to Normandie Avenue.

Work on the Avalon-to-Wilmington link is expected to be completed by February.

MERCHANDISING AWARD GIVEN
Showcase Homes builder William Krueger and Frank H. McFarland, sales agent, accept special merchandising plaque from Independent, Press-Telegram, presented by Murray McDonald (center) of I, P-T advertising staff. Showcase Homes is a new development at Westminster on Hazard Avenue west of Brookhurst Street. Customers are given wide choice of features and construction options.

'Growing Room' Optional in Newest Showcase Homes

MEDALLION QUALIFIER
Built-in kitchens in second unit Showcase Homes in Westminster feature all-electric appliances and the homes qualify as medallion houses in addition to featuring a room that can be allowed to "grow" as needed.

Bill Krueger, builder of Showcase Homes in Westminster, offers a planning option in the form of a "growing room" in many of his plans—an area that may be utilized as a two or three-bedroom suite, large hobby or rumpus room or den. Eventually, as the family needs change, the area may be redesigned.

Frank McFarland, exclusive sales agent for Showcase, points out another popular feature of Showcase Homes, the Custom Completion Plan which allows buyers to choose from many custom details and planning options. Krueger makes a variety of changes and modifications during construction if they don't necessitate moving bearing walls.

Swimming pools also may be installed and financed on the first trust deed. Buyers may swim in their new pool the day they move into their Showcase Home.

* * * *

MCFARLAND says, "If the buyer decides what he wants done in the 'growing room' under the Custom Completion Plan or wants a pool, the work can be completed immediately and the improvement costs added to the original loan."

Showcase, now in its second unit, offers a good choice of floor plans and exteriors with three to six bedrooms. There are one and two-story homes available.

The built-in kitchens have all-electric appliances and the homes qualify as medallion homes.

The utilities have been placed underground to eliminate ugly poles and wires.

Second Unit Showcase homes sell from $25,950.

Decorated and furnished model homes are open every day at Hazard Avenue and Brookhurst Street in Westminster.

HERE'S AN ANGEL you can create for your home (see directions, accompanying story). Artistic Christmas angel figurines, like one above, will be used as centerpieces at Rick Rackers' formal dinner dance Saturday.

INDEPENDENT-Press-Telegram
Women and TRAVEL
LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, NOV. 28, 1965, SECTION W

Breathes there a woman who doesn't like to create something really special for Christmas? Rick Rackers are no exception--they just have exceptional ideas which, angels that they are, they share here . . .

You, too, can have halo

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Society Editor

Rick Rackers are having a ball. You can, too.

For their upcoming Winter Wonderland Ball next Saturday, the clever party-givers are turning out the most glittering array of angels this side of heaven.

You can do them, also, thanks to Rick Rackers, who —angels that they are—have agreed to share their techniques.

Most amazing thing about these and other do-it-yourself decorations they share: they're made from such unlikely (and inexpensive!) objects as wire, Styrofoam and burlap.

Also throw in a few coat hangers, some glue, cotton sheeting, paper toweling, wallpaper paste and dime store gadgets.

Properly grouped and stuck together, they come out looking like the handsome decorations pictured here and on Page W-3.

MOST COMPLICATED and most effective are the three-foot handcrafted angels that, as centerpieces for the ball, will highlight night's theme, "I've Got a Date with an Angel."

Directions, provided by Mrs. Bernard F. Burger, are as follows:

Use a tag board cone base (tag board is equivalent to weight of manila folder paper), Styrofoam egg (available at most dime, variety stores), wire, paper toweling, cotton sheeting and wallpaper paste.

See HAVE FUN DECORATING, page W-3

Hey, fellas (all ages). Here's a chance for you to have a date with an angel—your favorite one, of course. Rick Rackers have invited the public to attend their annual Winter Wonderland Ball, a formal dinner dance and traditional signal for start of Long Beach's holiday festivities.

Ball theme this year is "I've Got a Date with an Angel," and event will take place Saturday in International Ballroom of Lafayette Hotel.

For reservations contact Mrs. Hunter L. Richmond, ball chairman, Mrs. David Tallichet, chairman of Rick Rackers, junior auxiliary to Long Beach Assistance League, or any member of ball committee comprised of Mmes. Donald R. Ewing, Robert H. Lintz, John Nisbet, Bernard F. Burger, Allan V. Kenady or B. J. Young.

Proceeds help maintain league girls' clubs and finance Rick Rackers particular girl's club at Franklin Junior High. In addition, the auxiliary supports a scholarship trust fund for eligible students at Long Beach State College.

THIS HANDSOME Christmas "candy tree," being admired by Mrs. Hunter L. Richmond, chairman of Rick Rackers' annual Winter Wonderland Ball, can be made do-it-yourself style for smart coffee table accoutrement. Instructions, in accompanying story, were provided by Mrs. Darrel K. Clarke.

GIRLS TELL WHY

They didn't become drop-outs!

By MARY NETH

A year ago a group of Long Beach women set out to solve (or help solve) the local drop-out problem.

Their goal: to put kids who'd dropped school back in class: to keep kids at their desks who are inclined to ditch.

It was an ambitious project. The majority of the women, though well intentioned, were not trained teachers or social workers.

Could they succeed in cases where parents and educators had failed?

The record shouts down any doubts.

The Long Beach Youth Project, name of the one-adult-to-one-child program of tutoring, understanding and help, has scored 93% success. Now there are plans for expansion—new volunteers are being sought.

The pilot project, headed by Elizabeth Hudson of the board of education, Mrs. John P. Davis and Laura Mae Dunn was comprised of 29 women, 29 wavering students. All but two of the students are now back in class.

Recently a number of the girls who didn't drop out told why.

The occasion: a luncheon celebration with their 'big sisters' and school and city officials who've also lent their help.

"I just didn't like school—it bugged me," frankly stated one of the drop-outs, now only months away from her high school diploma.

"I hated it . . . having to be a certain place at a certain time. So, half the time, I just didn't go."

What did this here-today-gone-tomorrow school Miss want to do instead?

"Be independent—get a job—move away from home."

But, as disinterested as she was in the three Rs, she did fill out the "why are you sliding in school—can we help you?" card mailed by the youth project.

Result: "Gee, everyone has bent over backwards to help, I'd feel just terrible if I flubbed up," she said.

Behind her lack of interest in school lay a lot of real problems. The 'sister' conferred with everyone who could help—the big prob-

MARCIA HOLLIS (l) & CHRISTINE MARSTON . . . both agreed Youth Project program "kept us in school—its people are great."

ELSA SANCHEZ . . . "my 'sister' helped me over language barrier problems."

LYNDA KALLAS, MRS. JOHN P. DAVIS . . . "I plan to be a model," said Lynda. "She's being a model student, too," said Mrs. Davis.

- Anybody who's worried about the future fate of the nation should read Elise Emery's story about 20 Assisteens (all teen-agers, of course, who have refurbished 400 toys for Christmas giving). Younger people such as these represent what makes America tick. See page W-6.

WILD WAVES SAY

In drippy, zippy times--or do you remember?

By Iola Masterson
I, P-T Society Editor

IF YOU'RE faced with cleaning up tired Turkey Day leftovers—read this and weep. What a gourmet feast Margit (Mrs. Vernon) Cupper prepared for dinner honoring Assemblyman George Deukmejian and his wife, Gloria, long-time friends of the hostess. (See photo, right.)

A cocktail and sit-down dinner affair at Margit's Signal Hill home, 1980 Raymond Ave., it was attended by 40 close friends of the honorees. Here's what they dined upon, all personally prepared by Margit—roast duck with cherry rum sauce, Spencer roast, rice-stuffed beef, chicken cacciatori, Italian eggplant, squash, Hungarian-style red cabbage, wild rice, and, to top it off, cherry, apple and cheese strudel.

Bidden to festive affair were George's law partners and spouses, Mal and Joan Lucas and Sandy and Liz Lucas (latter couldn't be there; brand new baby at home), such Signal Hill officials and wives as Paul and Barbara Kemner, Fred and Betty Baxter, LB's Mayor Ed and Mary Wade, Burton and Elsie Benwell, Bill and Lois Smith.

"How did you get so much food cooked for that many people?" I queried. "I cooked for three days AND nights and loved every minute of it," countered the energetic hostess.

I SUPPOSE it's possible that even Florida is more pleasant right now than it has been around here. OK, so I'll go wash my mouth out but not before I finish the news about Chuck and Maria Stevens. They'll wing away Monday for Florida to attend the Winter Baseball Association meet, then go on to the Bahamas to celebrate their silver anniversary. Relatives and their daughter are holding down fort here.

WUPS! WHERE has the year gone? Christmas decorations are about to go up at Gene and Rose Bishop's home on Monita Street in College Park Estates. Well, it's really not quite as late as this makes it seem. The Bishops are decorating early for a holiday open house they'll have next Sunday.

It's to be a merry-times cocktail buffet for assorted friends and certainly will be rhythmical with Rose's Civic Light Opera cohorts present. Sound of music will pour from upstairs, where they have a grand piano, and downstairs, where they have a player piano.

For those who tire of music, there'll be other entertainment. The Bishops' boys, Anthony, 9½, and Gene Michael, 8, have two rats (live) they dote on showing to party guests.

BLITHE spirited, young-in-heart cocktail buffet was given by Lloyd and Evelyn Whaley Saturday in honor of daughter Vicki's 21st birthday, which was really Wednesday. But Vicki was too busy flying home from studies at San Jose State for partying that night.

Invited to Saturday's fun-fest were young marrieds, college students who have HAD their 21st birthdays and contemporaries of the Whaleys.

A few in the cross-section crowd present were Don and Jack Crawford and their mother, Lillian, Dave and Kay Berg, Steve and La Vonne Kral, Bob Ruchti Jr., Vic Rhorer, Jane and Bill Rhorer, Stan and Geneva Weiss and their sons; Paul and wife, Pat, and Alan, John and Kathy Hamilton.

Assisting from 6:30 p.m. and on were Dorene (Mrs. Rodney) Whaley and Dave and Jane Smitheran.

AS INSOUCIANT as they are personally will be Marilyn and Jim Crooker's "beef stew and brew" annual Christmas party Dec. 10 at their Park Estates home. Marilyn, by herownself, will prepare the hearty fare for about 100. But she doesn't plan to get into a stew about the brew—that will be Jim's department.

With open jealousy, I'm glad the Crookers flew back from a gorgeous two-weeks' worth of Hawaiian vacation to share our stinky weather.

They have nothing but rave notices for the new Rockerfeller Mauna Kea hotel and golf course on the Kona Coast of Hawaii. The golf course, carved out of volcanic rock, is one of the greatest Jim says he's ever seen—and he's seen a-many. The project has been purported to cost $20 million. That many bucks should smack of class.

YAKKED UP a storm with Helen Hamman for first time since she and Clare returned from glorious month and a half vacation in the Orient. Their paths crossed with Jim and Doris Wood's, also doing the Orient, in Hong Kong and the foursome spent a week together there, racing from tailor to tailor, shop to shop, fancy eatery to glittery night spot, having the time of their lives.

The Hammans celebrated their 40th anniversary and the Woods their ninth in Hong Kong. "Miraculous, isn't it?" quipped Helen, "considering we're still 39." Clare and Helen toured Japan, Taiwan, Philippines (loved PI), Singapore and Bangkok.

Enchanted with travels in Europe, Helen resisted touring Orient, thinking, somehow, it would be crowded, ramshackle, tawdry. Not so. She loved every inch of it.

ALTHOUGH they've been a steady twosome for over two years, this will come as a surprise to many of their friends. Thelma Marshall and Delbert Murtland were married in a quietly planned ceremony at the home of her brother, Nelson Pyle, in Los Angeles Thursday. They're now on a honeymoon to Arizona; will be home Dec. 10.

DESPITE inclement weather (that word again!) Tri Delts had a big turn out for Founder's Day dinner at Petroleum Club. Among those who tripped in drippily in chic gear geared to soggy skies were Dorothy Ellery, Charlene Swanson, prexy of alums, Eleanore Smith, Cecilia Taillichet, Polly Murphy, Helen Viets, Barbara Newton, Betty Jenkens plus many actives from LBSC.

MARGIT'S GOURMET DINNER WAS A THING OF DELIGHT, JOY TO BEHOLD . . . From left, Malcolm Lucas, hostess Margit Cupper and honorees Gloria and Assemblyman George Deukmejian

BEGINNING to feel that her last name has particular significance for her is Bev Carver. She hobbled out in the rain to attend a Nightingale board meeting at Mary (Mrs. James) Thompson's, one of her first outings since surgery on her feet for the 16th time. Some kind of pesky, reoccurring thing that keeps requiring scalpel.

SMILING politely but undoubtedly figuring they'd have been better off "to have stood at home"—because of weather, not the hospitality—are houseguests of the Brewster Grays, Hester's sister and her husband, Margaret and Art Iuchs of Kansas City. To relieve—heh, heh — the monotony, Hester and Bruce took them to Palm Desert for a long weekend—hoping, of course, for sunshine. Well, you know what happened there.

Cloudbursts, flash floods, the bit. Took them six hours to drive home. Well, at least from Thanksgiving to now (fingers-crossed) they've seen California as we love to show it off.

MRS. EDWARD MURPHY

MRS. MICHAEL ELAM

Long Beach homes await newlyweds

Murphy-Guzman

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was setting Saturday morning for the marriage ceremony joining Edward J. Murphy and Rose Mary Guzman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Guzman, 2065 Fashion Ave. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Murphy, Harrisburg, Pa.

Attendants for the bride were her cousin, Isabel Martinez, maid of honor, and Suzanne Rice, bridesmaid. Completing the wedding party were William Leung, best man; Timothy Murphy, honorary best man, and Ruben Guzman, usher.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The newlyweds will be at home in Long Beach following a San Francisco honeymoon trip.

Elam-Jackson

Shirley Ann Jackson, daughter of Mrs. Charlyne Cramer Jackson, 2940 Ladoga Ave., became the bride of Michael Hugh Elam in a 2 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Our Lady of Refuge Catholic Church.

Honor attendants for the couple were Mr. and Mrs. John Coelho. Completing the entourage were Pam Haney, Bette Jo Martin, Nancy Sahner and Sandi Jackson, sister of the bride, bridesmaids; Leslie Dudney, flower girl; Bill Hughes, Fred Crum, Ken Hall and Rich Hansen, ushers.

They departed on a honeymoon trip to Northern California. They will reside in Long Beach. Parents of the bridegroom are Hugh Elam, 1833 Ashbrook Ave., and the late Mrs. Elam.

Colby-Durnin vows set in Corona del Mar

Engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Margaret Ann, to Charles William Durnin, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Harry William Colby of Corona del Mar.

Vows will be exchanged Dec. 29 at a small family wedding service in Community Congregational Church, Corona del Mar, with a reception following at Newport Harbor Yacht Club.

MARGARET ANN COLBY

THE FUTURE bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. William G. Durnin of Long Beach, was graduated from Wilson High School and Pomona College. He now is in his third year at Baylor Medical School, Houston, Tex. He is a member of Alamitos Bay Yacht Club.

His bride-to-be also was graduated from Pomona and received her master's degree in education from that school last June. She is teaching elementary school in Houston where the newlyweds will reside until he completes medical school.

cotton sheeting and wallpaper paste.

Slit top of cone one inch and insert a 15-inch length of wire. Bend to form arms and hands. Attach with tape.

Next, mold hands and arms of paper toweling which has been dipped in wallpaper paste, with excess wrung out. (Note: wherever paste is used, excess should be squeezed out.) Then, using 24-inch strips of cotton sheeting (utilize old sheets for economy) dipped in paste, drape wire "arms" to create sleeves.

Add 60-inch drape of sheeting, also paste-dipped, for side folds (30 inches on each side) and 60-inch drape for front.

Tie gold cord around waist. Arrange all draping in artistic, classical lines while materials are damp and pliable. Then drape a triange cowl of paste dipped sheeting or lace over shoulders. Attach head, after smoothing, gluing on single layer of paper toweling.

Use yarn, glued in place for hair. Attach a wire halo. Allow two weeks to dry, then spray gold.

The finished angel will be like papier mache and, properly stored, will give enjoyment for many years.

Burlap wreath

Inexpensive, yet extremely sophisticated, is Mrs. John S. Watkin Jr.'s contribution—a burlap Christmas wreath for indoor decor.

Cut nine-inch wide strips of burlap for a total of five yards of strips. Form a wire coat hanger into a circle. Fray the burlap three inches on each side then weave it in, out and around hanger. Arrange edges around and around to create fullness.

Attach gold baubles, top with a gold bow to disguise hanger top. The natural color of burlap, the gold ornaments add up to smartness. If you like, tuck a bit of holly here and there for third dimension color effect.

Candy tree

For a coffee table at the holidays, try Mrs. Darrel K. Clarke's "candy tree." You'll need heavy velour and gold paper (almost cardboard weight), Styrofoam base, glue, stapler and two-foot long piece of dowling. Cover base and dowling with paper.

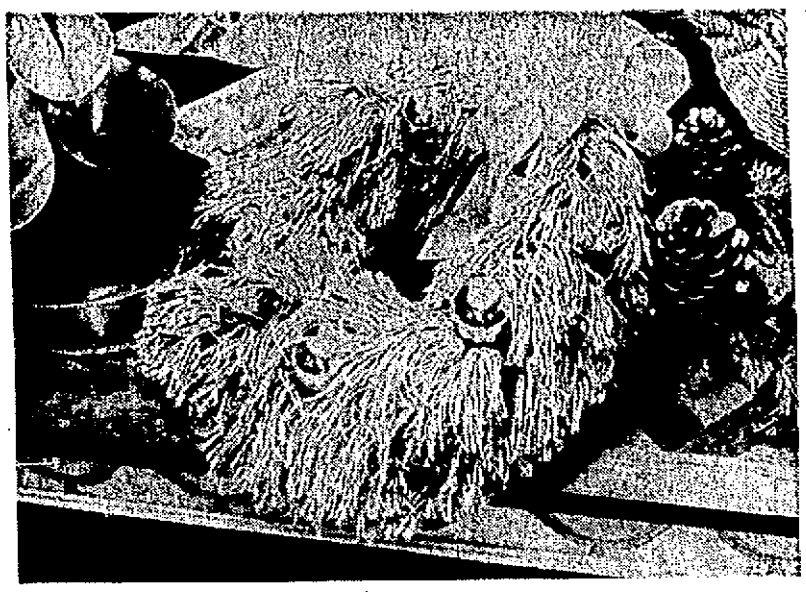

Cut circles out of the sturdy, decrative paper; planning five tiers with three circles each, diminishing in size for the top-most "branches."

Bend each circle in the middle and staple to make double cup. Glue and staple to dowling. Paper clips are handy to hold circles in place while glue sets. Decorate top of tree as desired. Fill cups with bright, assorted candies.

Candle decor

Another bright idea comes from Mrs. Clarke to brighten your holiday decorations. Use an inexpensive wicker table mat and spray it gold. Cut mat on one side to mount on Styrofoam base to create fan effect.

Secure one or two tall candles to base, heap pine cones, greenery, glistening satin Christmas balls around them. Touches of ribbon can be woven in the mat or added to greenery.

NATURAL SHADE of new burlap, deeply fringed, combined with golden Christmas baubles, topped with golden bow, makes surprisingly sophisticated indoor wreath for home or office. Best of all, you can do it yourself for pennies. See accompanying story for directions.

Girls who didn't drop out

lems melted away.

WHAT ARE the main reasons for drop-outism?

"Usually, it's a combination of factors," said Mrs. Davis.

"Unhappiness at home, lack of proper clothing, inability to study, slowness in reading—each or all can culminate in a big ball of frustrating self-doubt and apathy.

"This is where the one-to-one relationship pays off. If the girl (or boy) is taken out of the realm of statistics, treated instead as an individual, astounding things can be accomplished."

Take the case of another drop-out gal who didn't.

According to Mrs. Davis, the problem hinged mainly on loneliness — worry about her looks.

"She was a pretty girl, but she didn't know it. Her parents weren't paying any attention—no one else was either.

All she needed was some help on grooming—tips on hair care and wardrobe selection—plus some special academic tutoring—and she perked up and began to pass her tests.

"But, don't get the idea that this project is a sure-fire, quick-acting panacea," pointed out Mrs. Davis.

"It's full of unexpected dips and turns and setbacks. To a problemed teen, a minor crisis can be critical."

That's why the women keep communication lines always open. In fact, many a 'sister' has raced across town in the dark of night to talk over a situation with a distraught young friend.

"We've learned you just don't put off problems till tomorrow. For they don't go away, they get worse," said one worker.

FOR MOST of the potential drop-outs, the reasons for staying in school don't come as anything new.

School officials have been drumming away at the importance of diplomas for years. But, somehow a faltering teen can be terribly impervious to such preaching.

"Sure, I'd heard all the reasons," said one youngster, "But they didn't seem to apply to me. Besides, my dad didn't go beyond the eighth grade, and he's doing OK."

Said another: "I wasn't making very good grades, so I thought—heck, why bother. No one's going to care that much anyway."

Now, they know differently.

Someone not only cares, but, as one near drop-out puts it, "They're knocking themselves out about it.

"I guess if my education means that much to these people who don't have a stake in it at all—it REALLY must be important."

"She's so right," says Mrs. Davis.

"LONG BEACH has a far better than average holding rate for its schools—we must see that it stays that way, even improves.

"The drop-out problem is critical—growing hordes of uneducated people on the job market will spell disaster to our society."

Figures brought out by the U.S. Census show that in many occupations a high school diploma is worth about $1,000 a year in increased earnings—or about $40,000 over a life time.

The overall difference between earnings of average elementary school and high school graduates is even more striking. In 1959, the elementary grad could expect lifelong earnings of only $184,000 as compared with $247,000 for the high school grad—a difference of $63,000.

Today most employers demand high school diplomas.

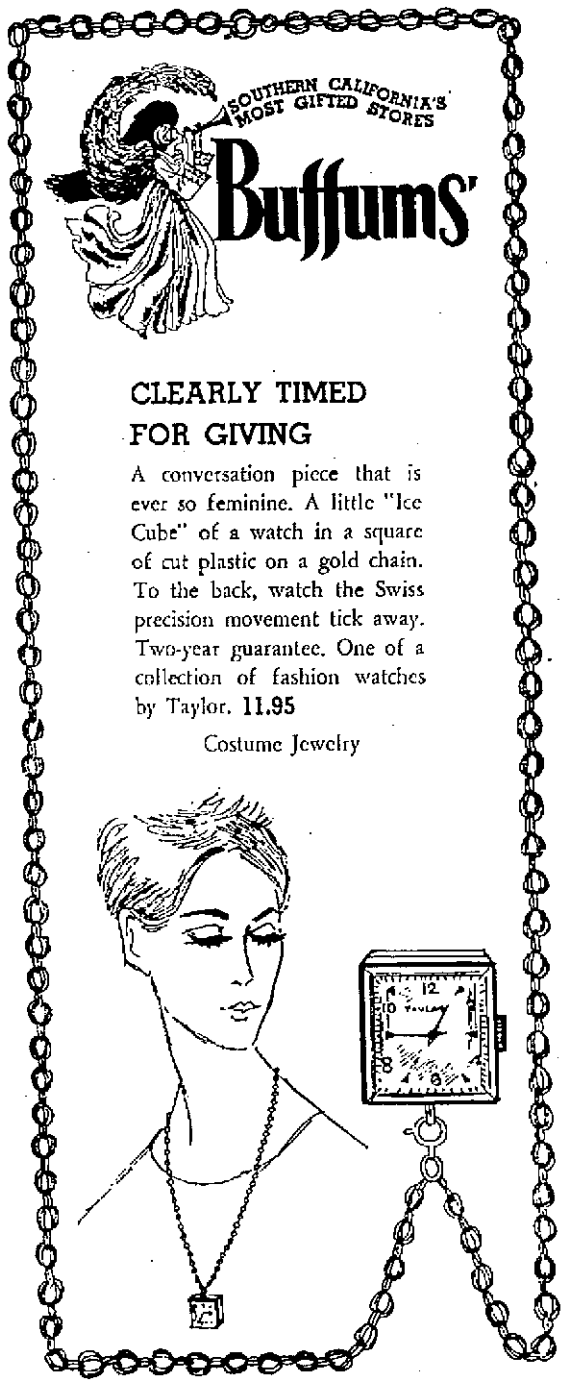

Without one you can't drive a bus for a transcontinental company; work regularly for a large construction firm; even qualify for most apprenticeship programs.

"As to the importance of education for girls, we stress the fact that, today, getting married and washing diapers is no sure way out of the labor force," says Mrs. Davis.

"According to the census, four wives out of every ten did some work in 1959, and one out of every three in 1962.

It seems, in these days, few families can live as well as they'd like on the income of the husband alone, thus women need degrees as much as men do.

August nuptials announced for Amalia Furjanick, E. D. Kearns

Engagement of Amalia Furjanick to Edward D. Kearns was made known to her fellow Bachelorette Club members with the traditional candle ceremony conducted during a recent meeting.

Parents of the betrothed couple are Mrs. Nicolas P. Furjanick, Long Beach, and the late Mr. Furjanick, and Mrs. Walter P. Kearns, Long Beach, and the late Mr. Kearns.

An August wedding is being planned.

GOHLKE-RACINELLI VOWS

Couple wed in home of bride's parents

The new Seal Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Osborne, 1201 Electric Ave., was scene Saturday afternoon for the marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann Gohlke, to Ennio V. Racinelli of Downey.

Honor attendants were Jan Keeler and Norman Parnely.

The bride's wedding attire was an off-white brocade sheath dress and jacket with pink accessories and bouquet.

A champagne reception at the Osborne home preceded the couple's departure for a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and San Francisco. They will reside in Downey.

Mrs. Racinelli received early schooling in Alexander, N.Y., and attended Long Beach City College. Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Racinelli, Santa Maria, studied at Los Angeles Art Center.

OPERATION SANTA CLAUS

Assisteens go into toy biz, stage economy sale Saturday

By ELISE EMERY

The price tags are practically price-less.

A big-eyed, cuddly lamb whose music box heart plays a lullaby, 50 cents.

A tricycle with bright blue paint, 75 cents.

A small plastic baby buggy filled with two tiny dolls and other little toys, 10 cents.

More dolls—from infants to sophisticated teen-agers—complete with clothes, 50 cents to a top of $3.50 for a child-sized pre-schooler.

A shiny red fire engine with a bell that clangs, $3.

A collection of tiny race cars, tanks, two jeeps and army men, 4 cents.

An eight-inch doll in gay yellow Peruvian costume and her Italian counterpart, 8 cents each.

BRIGHT BLUE TRICYCLE or play iron with ironing board will be excitedly welcomed by some little boy or girl Christmas morning who might otherwise have no holiday at all . . . thrugh the efforts of Assisteens, including Melsa Buchanan (left) and Diane Green.

THE 400 TOYS have been scrubbed, painted and polished by Senior High Assisteens, teen-age daughters of Assistance League members, as their year-long project, Operation Santa Claus.

The girls will celebrate the first anniversary of the founding of their organization with a one-day sale Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Assistance League Thrift Shop, 414 Locust Ave.

"I'm as much surprised as anybody at the prices," smiled Mrs. B. J. Buchanan, one of the group's co-ordinators, as she surveyed the mountain of toys at West Long Beach Girls Club, 2640 Santa Fe Ave.

Assisteens have met there the first Saturday of each month to repair and refurbish the playthings.

"The girls had a pricing session last week and agreed to keep the figures to a minimum."

"We're not trying to make a profit," explained Joan Webb, 17, Assisteens chairman.

"We want people with limited budgets to be able to buy attractive toys for their children's Christmas. We just need to make enough to buy materials to get started next year."

"We want to make this an annual sale," agreed Melissa Buchanan, 16.

The 20 Assisteens come from all five Long Beach high schools.

"We've raided our brothers' and sisters' toy boxes and have asked neighbors and friends for donations. Most of us baby sit and the mothers give us toys their children can spare," said Diane Green, 15. "Then we try to make them look like new."

"AFTER ALL, these girls are experts on the subject," Mrs. Buchanan pointed out. "They've just graduated from the toy-playing themselves."

She recalls one girl, now in college and no longer an Assisteen, who last spring brought a doll, lovingly bathed it, washed and styled its hair, made it a bright new wardrobe and looked at her finished work with pride.

Then she asked Mrs. Buchanan impulsively, "Would it be terrible if I took her home? She's been my favorite doll for years. I thought I could part with her, but I just can't!"

Although this is an all-girl project, Assisteens don't hesitate to call on brothers or fathers for help if mechanical repairs are needed.

Everything must be in safe, as well as attractive, condition.

Wearing holiday red and green ribbons in their hair the girls, aided by their mothers, will serve as sales clerks Saturday.

"It's meant a lot of hammering, sandpapering, painting and sewing," said Marsha Milton, 15, "but it makes you feel good to think how happy the little kids will be on Christmas morning."

DEAR ABBY

He's hungry for an image

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What can I do with a husband who takes me often to a lovely restaurant, then hardly speaks to me the whole time.

ABBY

He is so busy trying to impress the cocktail waitress, waiters, and even strangers at nearby tables. He considers himself a gourmet and bon vivant (which he is not) and he tries so hard to appear important to those who serve us.

You should hear him show off his high school French from 30 years ago! How can I let him know how foolish his actions are? To say nothing of his thoughtlessness in keeping busy people from their work, and annoying strangers who couldn't care less. I am too chagrined to sign my name.

Just sign me . . . EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Show me a man who's pompous in public and I'll show you a man who is nothing at home. Your husband is suffering from malnutrition of the ego, and should be treated at home, not in restaurants.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed of my father, I could die. He has been married seven times, and divorced six! All of his ex-wives are living and I have so many half-sisters and brothers, I have lost count.

I went to a priest and confessed that I had been lying about my father, and telling people who didn't know better that my father was dead. The priest said he didn't blame me for lying, but I shouldn't lie any more about it. Now I keep having these horrible nightmares in which I see my father in a coffin with the lid nailed down, and him trying to get out. Please help me. NIGHTMARES

DEAR NIGHTMARES: Your father's marital record is certainly nothing to brag about, but you are not responsible for your father's behavior. If someone asks about your father, tell them the truth. The chances are they will think you're kidding. Those nightmares are probably caused by your guilt-feelings from lying. Forgive yourself, and stick to the truth, and you'll be all right.

The move is up in co-op living!

MRS. MAX MARKS gets a lift home every day via a 10-floor elevator ride to her Villa apartment.

Staff Photos By Skip Shuman

By MARY NETH
I-P-T Staff Writer

The Dr. Max Marks own a home you enter only by elevator.

It's a two-bedroom, sunny, comfortable one with a backyard—not of green lawn—but blue sky and a view that sweeps the shoreline.

For the Marks, it's the perfect place to live.

They are among the many thousands of Americans, who have sold homes and bought apartments.

"When my children were young, I needed (and had) large houses with pools, lots of rooms and huge yards. Now the doctor and I find own-your-own apartment life most practical."

The Marks' 10-floors-up abode is in the 307-foot-high, 16-floor Villa Riviera, 800 Ocean Blvd., a landmark here since 1932.

The advantages it offers over private home ownership, as the Marks see it are: no yardwork, no exterior upkeep, no worries about locking up when they go away, no commuting and an ocean-front, downtown location.

"The doctor moved into the Villa in 1933," says Mrs. Marks, adding in explanation, "ours is a second marriage, both of us were widowed.

"At first he rented—then, later, became an owner," she continues.

"Today, I understand the apartments sell for anywhere from $10,000 to $40,000 according to size. But, after the initial payment, all you owe is your telephone bill—plus a monthly assessment."

The assessment? It takes care of maintenance, of the huge Tudor Gothic structure, plus gas, water and electrical bills.

NOW DAYS, during the big apartment boom, we often think of own-your-owns as something new.

That's not the case. Apartment cooperatives were widespread in the 1920s—the Villa was one when first built.

However, as sometimes is the case, the first tenants didn't see eye-to-eye and the building subsequently was sold and turned into an apartment-hotel.

Then in 1955, new owners took over and, once again, the Villa became an own-your-own with buyers receiving a policy of title insurance with right to use commonly held features such as the lobby, subterranean garage, elevators etc.

"IT'S AN IDEAL place to live for a couple like us," says Mrs. Marks.

"For example, when we went to the Orient, all we had to do was close the door. There was no worry about a garden over-growing or a pool needing to be cleaned and we didn't have qualms about burglars."

While in the Orient, the Marks were entertained royally by Japanese dignitaries who had visited Long Beach.

"They showed slides of their trip—and there was the Villa, our home. To them it was an outstanding landmark of the city."

The Villa, which shuddered through the jolts of the '33 quake without damage, is indeed a landmark—one that's seen more than a few heydays, had more than its share of changes.

For example, in 1953 the Villa, once called "home of the admirals," was decorated with a costly fountain no one could control.

The great fountain sat smack in front of the swank hostelry. Some 120 feet in circumference, it was designed to shoot water up 40 feet in the air, and it did, except, when there was a breeze—and that was often.

Then, unhappily it sprayed across the boulevard, providing the only free car wash in town.

During another era, commercial helicopter flights took off from the Villa's roof.

This venture also ended on a sour note.

Next door neighbors at the Pacific Coast Club complained of the noise and the copters took off for good.

"We're very fond of the Villa, her foibles, her past ups and downs," says Mrs. Marks. "We're finding apartment owning delightful."

Many residences of own-your-own of both co-op and condominium nature agree.

Nationally, the only increase in home building during the past six years has been in apartments—which have quadrupled in number. Many of these new buildings are own-your-owns.

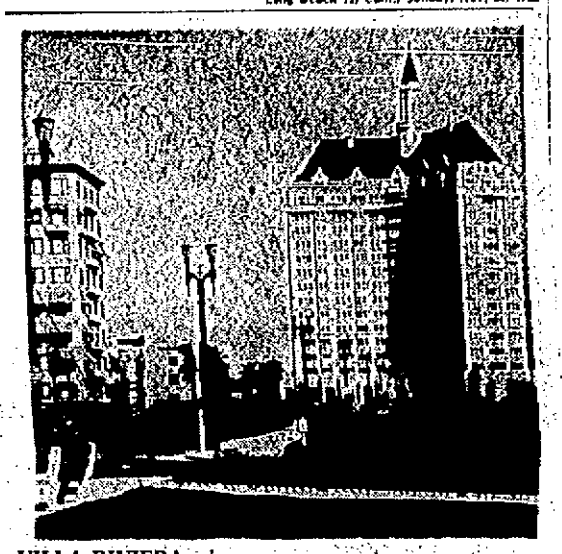

In Long Beach, where there are well over 14,000 buildings, buying into a multiple dwelling is increasing in popularity.

It can be an excellent move.

However, there are risks as well as benefits involved. Anyone interested in such type of home ownership should check-out crucial points BEFORE buying.

For tips on what to investigate and the different types of plans, check box below.

Co-op pros and cons

For many, co-op housing is like having your cake and eating it, too.

It offers convenience of apartment living plus advantages of ownership.

But, there can be thistles in this paradise.

Benefits such as elimination of landlord profit, share in equity and freedom from maintenance can be out-weighed by the responsibilities and risks that go with a joint venture.

IF YOU'VE decided advantages of co-op living outweigh disadvantages—and you're on the own-your-own market—the following may help you skirt some financial pitfalls.

1. Check out the backers—size up their records and reputations.
2. If the co-op is already a going proposition, find out how it's been faring—what the monthly charges have been.
3. Be sure all costs are included in the monthly assessment—including debts on principal and interest, utilities, taxes and ground rent.
4. Compare price and services offered with other co-ops in the area. Check whether utilities and heat are individually metered or priced on a flat rate.
5. Have a professional appraiser estimate value of the unit—get his opinion on the fairness of price.
6. Check to see if the building or property is heavily mortgaged. Also ask, does it have reserves for expense of repairs etc?
7. Be sure to figure your personal liability . . . it should not exceed the original investment.
8. Size up the management, the other people involved—are they your kind of people? Does it look like the venture will be run competently—compatibly?
9. Ask to see the by-laws, the membership agreement, the lease form and the rules on withdrawal.
10. Most important, take ALL the papers to a good lawyer; have him check the fine print.

REHEARSING FOR 'MESSIAH': LLOYD HOLZGRAF, ORGANIST; DONALD OGREN, BASS; CARL HOOVER, TENOR; OLIVE CHORLEY, CONTRALTO; JAN GROH, SOPRANO

40-YEAR TRADITION

Chorus to sing 'Messiah'

The Recreation Department Civic Chorus's performance of Handel's "Messiah," a tradition in Long Beach for 40 years, will be given Sunday, Dec. 12, at 3 p.m. in First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue. There is no charge for admission.

Frank Ahrold will direct the chorus of 70 voices and four well-known Southern California soloists in the concert to usher in the Christmas season.

* * * *

LLOYD HOLZGRAF, organist, was first place winner in 1955 in the American Guild of Organists Competition for Western States and was a finalist in the national competition in 1956 in New York. A member of Orange Coast College staff, he toured Europe last year and for 10 years was official organist for the Conference of Methodist Churches of the West. He has been organist for First Methodist Church of Long Beach, and for the past seven years has been at First Congregational Church of Los Angeles. He also is organist for Temple Israel here.

* * * *

SOLOISTS will be Jan Groh, soprano; Olive Chorley, contralto; Donald Ogren, bass; and Carl Hoover, tenor.

Mrs. Groh, a choral teacher with Long Beach Unified School District, has appeared with the Wichita Symphony, the Long Beach Symphony, Long Beach Civic Chorus and the Camerata dei Musici.

Mrs. Chorley, soloist for All Saints Episcopal Church in Beverly Hills, has sung major roles throughout the Southland and performed in opera at Idyllwild Arts Foundation. Twice she has sung at the Bach Festival in Carmel and was soloist in May for the Verdi Requiem with the William Hall Chorale in Pasadena. Locally, she was in Long Beach State College's production of "Ruddigore" which will be repeated elsewhere in January.

* * * *

HOOVER has toured in concert and light opera and in this area has been soloist with the Beach Cities Symphony, the Schola Cantorum and Long Beach Civic Chorus. He is soloist at the Neighborhood Church of Palos Verdes.

During the past 10 years, Ogren has made opera, concert and oratorio appearances in Southern California and has been soloist with the Beach Cities and Brentwood symphonies and for Los Angeles County Museum concerts.

LBCC opens student show

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Long Beach City College Art Club will open a week-long exhibit and auction of student work with a reception from 1 to 8 p.m. today in the college gallery, Faculty Avenue and Harvey Way.

Bids may be submitted for any of the drawings, paintings and pottery on display. Gallery hours will be 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday.

Auction proceeds will be used for a scholarship. Roger Bear, club president, and committee chairmen Shelby Severson, Kathy Murphy and Paul Eastup are in charge of arrangements.

THREE NEW exhibits hang in the Lytton Gallery of Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 5905 Wilshire Blvd.

The "Knud Merrild" show is a 30-year survey of work by one of Southern California's leading artists and is from the collection of his widow Mrs. Else Merrild of Copenhagen and collections in America. Organized by Jules Langsner it includes gesso-wax paintings, water colors, collages, relief construction and works in mixed media. It will remain through Dec. 26.

Also through Dec. 26 will be the "New Talent Purchase Grant Artists" exhibition which presents works by five young Southern California artists, Tony Berlant, Mel Edwards, Llyn, Foulkes, Lloyd Hamrol and Philip Rich.

The third display, "John Paul Jones," may be seen through Jan. 9. It consists of more than 50 paintings and includes abstracts, geometric forms, black portraits and more recent poetically sensitive figures in isolation.

* * * *

ALSO AT the L.A. Museum from Thursday through next Sunday will be the First International Animated Film Exhibition in the Leo S. Bing Center Theater. Three hours of animated films from 12 nations will be shown. The 15 films represent the animated art form not in the usual cartoon sense but as a medium of adult entertainment.

Showings will be Thursday at 8 p.m.; Friday at 2 and 8 p.m.; Saturday at 8 and 11 p.m. and Sunday at 2 and 7 p.m. Tickets are $2 for museum members, $2.50 for non-members and half price for children under 12.

A TWO-DAY arts festival and auction by the sponsors of Synanon will be held Saturday and next Sunday at the Synanon warehouse, 364 Third Avenue, Venice. Preview will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday with a celebrity show at 3 p.m. The auction will begin at noon next Sunday.

Works will be donated by galleries, collectors and artists. Proceeds will go to Synanon Foundation, Inc.

Intuitive, philosophical mood in PCC show

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

Paintings by Dr. Carl Albin continue in an exhibit at the Pacific Coast Club, 850 E. Ocean Blvd., in the Galleria through Tuesday. His work is intense, emotive, expressive, and varied in media, technique, and subject matter.

Albin seems most able to capture an intuitive and philosophical mood in his landscapes and in the Sumi-e (Japanese - style inkbrush) works. Three of the oils are of women, done in reds and oranges; while these are expressive of mood, the basic drawing is so lacking as to be intrusive.

OF THE SUMI-E paintings the brief segment of bamboo stalk with a scattering of leaves really hits the mark. Each leaf is but one stroke of the brush, no mistakes or corrections are possible. The flow of blue and yellow inks blend into a rendering of great feeling.

The same kind of success comes in some rather quick watercolors; one expressionistic rendering is of warships firing. Two of the oils are mountainscapes in the brilliant colors of autumn in which the color squeezed directly from the tube works beautifully.

Akira Endo to Speak at Salon

Akira Endo, violinist, conductor of Long Beach City College Orchestra and member of the college music faculty, will speak to Long Beach Auxiliary of Southern California Symphony Association Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Assisance League House, Fourth Street and Roswell Avenue.

The personable young musician is always warmly received by the Symphony Salon audiences.

He will discuss the first concert to be played in Long Beach this season by Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. Zubin Mehta will conduct the 8 p.m. program in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

Numbers will be Samuel Barber's "Meditation and Dance of Vengeance," Shostakovich's "Symphony No. I," and Brahms' "Symphony No. 2."

* * * *

MEHTA conducted the Philharmonic Wednesday in the Music Center, Los Angeles, to open the orchestra's 47th season.

Endo, born in Japan, came to this country in 1954, was graduated from Wilson High School and received a full tuition scholarship in music from USC. He received the alumni award as the most outstanding graduate from the School of Music. Currently he plays at the Music Center with the Roger Wagner Chorale, is second violinist with the Pacific String Quartet and performs with the Glendale Symphony.

Eric Pavel to explore 'Paris' scene

Eric Pavel's "Paris," third program in the 1965-66 International Film Series, will be presented by Long Beach City College at five local high schools this week.

The film-lecture opens at 8 p.m. Monday in the Wilson auditorium and will be presented Tuesday at Jordan, Wednesday at Lakewood, Thursday at Poly and Friday at Millikan. Season tickets and single admissions will be available at the box office each night.

Pavel's film explores Paris in the spring and year-round; Paris as the world capital of gastronomy, art and high fashion; the fabled night life of "Gay Paree;" and such perennial tourist attractions as Notre Dame, the Louvre, the Eiffel Tower, the Champs Elysees and the Bois de Boulogne.

Temianka to direct Oistrakhs

David and Igor Oistrakh, father and son violinists, will appear in an all-Bach program with the California Chamber Symphony Dec. 5 at 3 p.m. in the Pavilion of the Music Center.

Henri Temianka, director of the symphony orchestra at Long Beach State College, will direct.

A world famous concert violinist, Temianka is founder of the California Chamber Symphony and co-founder of the Paganini String Quartet.

* * * *

THE OISTRAKHS, celebrated Soviet artists, will appear as an attraction on S. Hurok's Gala International Season.

A limited number of single tickets will go on sale Monday.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Wins fame without flame

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

That he knows his kilowatts, there's little doubt. But whether he knows what's cooking on his electric range, there IS some doubt.

Regardless of what's what in the kitchen, however, today's Chef of the Week, G. E. Wilcox, lives better electrically as manager of Southern California Edison Co.'s southern division.

He succeeds "Chef" Charles M. Campbell, who was appointed executive representative for customer services.

Wilcox's progress could be described as electric. Joining the Edison Company in 1949 as a job analyst, he was promoted to senior job analyst in 1954; then three years later to the position of supervisor of organization and procedures department in Los Angeles. He was transferred to Long Beach and the commercial department in 1960, and became Campbell's assistant in '63.

BORN IN BOISE, Idaho, Wilcox came to Long Beach with his family at the age of 12. Franklin Junior, Poly High and Long Beach Junior College, preceded his graduation from UCLA with a degree in business administration.

Wilcox still enjoys boating despite a three-year hitch in the Coast Guard during World War II—22 months of which were spent aboard ship.

Wilcox and his wife, the former Eleanor Hilliard, whom he met at Junior College, have a daughter, Kathy, 16, a junior at Poly.

Though conscientious by nature, Wilcox does seem to speed-up his Saturday "home work" in order to be ready for any sports event to be televised. As far as he's concerned, UCLA can do no wrong.

His avid interest in sports is really a "hangover" from the days when he played an excellent game of both basketball and baseball. Wilcox also has coached two little league teams to championships.

OUR "CHEF" has given as his recipe today a Gourmet Pot Roast. We're told, however, that his favorite "dish" is "cheesecake"!

GOURMET POT ROAST

3½ to 4 lb. Beef Brisket or Chuck Roast
1 pkg. onion soup mix
½ cup red wine OR ½ cup water
1 can mushrooms with liquid

Moisten soup mix with wine or water. Place roast in center of foil and set in roasting pan. Pour soup mixture and mushrooms over roast, and wrap foil around meat to form air-tight package. Roast at 325° —1 hour per pound—(3½ to 4 hours).

To serve, transfer meat to platter and slice thinly across grain. Pour meat juices into pan and thicken for gravy.

G. EDWIN WILCOX

AOPi to party

Alpha Omicron Pi members and their families will attend annual Christmas dinner at 6 p.m. next Sunday at the UCLA Chapter House, Westwood, sponsored by the Mothers' Club. Sorority actives will entertain.

Beauty Advice

". . . I have never yet seen a finer method of improving the complexion. Wrinkles are smoothed, dryness is checked, blemishes vanish and the skin takes on a healthy, youthful look . . ." (Extract from a report by Margaret Merril suggesting the use of the tropical oil of Olay as a powder base.) Most druggists are now able to obtain supplies of this oil which gives glorious loveliness to the skin.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Too young to hold hands?

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have wonderful parents who believe that going steady at 14 is dumb. I agree and I have no desire to go steady, but they think it's wrong for me to even hold hands with a boy.

What's wrong with that? I haven't done it yet, but if I did, do you think I would really be doing something wrong?—FOURTEEN.

DEAR FOURTEEN:

In my opinion there is nothing wrong in walking down the street hand in hand, but then I'm not your mother and I think you should do as she thinks best.

I do think for a couple of kids your age to sit and hold hands is a little silly but not terribly wrong—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am supposedly going with Charles and have been since I was 10. He is a nice, considerate boy, but he bores me. He has been coming to my house, and I don't know why because I'm not very nice to him. I'm tired of him, but I feel sorry for him.

I am 13 and I can't decide whether to just let him keep on coming around or tell him to leave me alone. What would you suggest? —BORED.

DEAR BORED:

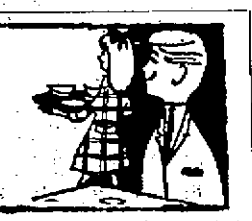

Decisions! Decisions! Of course, at the age of 10 you had no way of knowing how tiresome Charles would be in three years, but then, at age 10 you'd no business with a boyfriend, anyway.

Why not keep on ignoring Charles and one of these days he'll pick up his marbles and go home? Anyway, you're probably just a habit to him by this time and he might just come around for snacks, huh?—M.M.

Safe play may assure contract

Here is another safety play from the new Kay-Silodor-Karpin book on duplicate bridge.

South wins the first heart and plays ace and jack of diamonds. West plays the queen on the jack. You can make an extra trick if East holds the ten of diamonds and you play the king from dummy but if West holds the ten-spot, your play of the king tosses your contract into the ash can.

Their advice, to which we subscribe heartily, is to play safe. Make sure of your contract. Some team may not be in game. Others may be in five or six diamonds. By making sure of ten tricks at no trump you beat all part scores and all diamond contracts, and if diamonds do divide 3-1 you will have tied for top.

Now for a little speculation with this hand. Suppose that both opponents follow to the first diamond and that West plays the ten-spot on the second diamond lead.

CAN YOU rise with dummy's king and feel perfectly safe about dropping the queen from East?

The answer is yes unless West happens to be a great player who is gifted with both nerve and imagination.

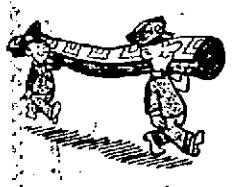

Such a West player might well play the ten from queen-ten. He would have reasoned as soon as he saw dummy that you as South would play safe in diamonds if he played the queen and would have risked his sure diamond trick in an effort to lull you into going up with dummy's king. So, against such a player you should still make the safety play of ducking.

RESPONSE GREATEST OF ALL TIME

Travelers heed call to far Pacific lands

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

The Pacific's exotic Islands, fascinating Down Under world, and mysterious ports in the Orient again are calling the traveler, and the response will be the greatest of all time.

Airlines are stepping up their service to satisfy the demands of the travel hungry. Reservations on the big cruise ships, most of which sail from Los Angeles Harbor, are rapidly being snapped up.

Warren S. Titus, president of the P&O-Orient Lines whose "biggest bloomin' ships" put out with regularity from West Coast ports, sees increased leisure time as firing up interest in cruising.

Californians will figure heavily in the Pacific caper during the next several months. They have the leisure, the money, and an understandable, abiding interest in the Big Blue.

* * * *

FOR THOSE whose leisure is limited, the jets are the answer. As an example, Pan Am speeds its customers nonstop to Tahiti in about eight hours, whereas it takes as many days to go by ship. Other destinations are shortened proportionately.

But the lure of cruising, instead of fading with this kind of competition, is growing to boom proportions and West Coast travelers into the Sunset may choose from three famous companies — American President Lines, which sails into the Orient; P&O-Orient, which links such distant lands as New Zealand and Australia; and Matson, which features cruises through various Hawaiian islands and into the alluring South Seas.

There is, also, a rising demand for freighter travel. More freighters are taking on passengers (for up-to-date information, get a copy of "Ford's Freighter Travel Guidebook" published at $2.75 by Robert E. Clark, Box 505, Woodland Hills, Calif. 91366).

HAWAII, of course, is the most sought destination in the Pacific. And for good reason. Anyone who wishes to combine a vacation in the U.S. with a feeling of being in a foreign place can do no better than plan a holiday in Hawaii. It is a polyglot of customs, cultures and creeds, and most visitors say its beauty is unsurpassed.

On various Pacific itineraries are these additional destinations:

TAHITI and Moorea, 2,381 miles south of Hawaii, in the Society Islands: an ideal spot for relaxing in tropical atmosphere; heavenly scenery, friendly natives, dancing. Most visitors regret leaving.

BORA BORA, 125 miles northwest of Tahiti, an unspoiled spot which Independent, Press-Telegram travel writer Stan Delaplane calls "the last Paradise." No one leaves it unimpressed.

PAGO PAGO is another dreamy island, in American Samoa. A new hotel has eased an acute accommodations problems somewhat. One of the world's beautiful harbors. The American influence is showing up more and more.

FIJI, Rarotonga and Niua-fo'ou: these palm - fringed atolls offer cruises, feasting, dancing, moonlight skindiving expeditions, and tropical greenery. Shopping is a delight. Nadi International Jet Airport is 135 miles from Fiji's capital, Suva.

NOUMEA, in New Caledonia, 700 miles east of Australia: lengthened runways and new jet terminal at Tontouta, 30 miles from Noumea, with daily flights from Sydney, Auckland, Fiji and Tahiti. Skirted by a soft green lagoon that stretches to a wave-busting coral reef, eight miles out. Life and customs are very French.

AUSTRALIA, which increasingly is gripping the imaginations of gadders: biologically and geologically a world unto itself, a land of strange creatures and topsy-turvy plant life. Skyscrapers and endless arid lands. Hauntingly beautiful landscapes and seascapes.

NEW ZEALAND is a country with a little of everything. Some of the earth's most awesome terrain, all loaded with natural wonders —fiords, glaciers and a maze of mountains, lakes and valleys.

CAMBODIA, whose capital is Phnom Penh, a tropical city of golden palaces trimmed with ornate carvings, the gateway to one of the world's most exotic countries.

BALI, a storybook island reached generally by plane from Djakarta, capital of Indonesia. A land of temples. The people are good looking, gracious and friendly. Incredible buys for the shopper, including carvings of

FACILITIES THE BEST EVER

Big season builds up for skiing in West

A big season for snow sports, with emphasis on skiing, is building up in the western states, including areas within easy reach of Southern Californians.

More beginners will get into the act, certainly, but skiing is turning into a family sport, too. In some areas —particularly in the National Forests—there will be outdoor nurseries where, under supervision, youngsters may practice their turns on little skis; smaller or less-active tots may choose to play in supervised indoor nurseries set up for them. There will be ski classes for all ages and a few will have lifts and tows designed especially for children.

Facilities will be the best ever — enlarged ski slopes, modern uphill facilities, lodges and apres ski activities. More chairlifts have been added — everything, in fact, to improve the sport and the comfort of the participants.

* * * *

WITHIN an hour or two from the Long Beach-Orange County snow fans are dozens of fine ski areas. Closest is Mt. Baldy which, in a good season, offers a wide variety of terrain to both beginners and experts. Serving the area are three double chairlifts, a platter pull, and six rope tows. There is a day restaurant and warming lodge at the top of one lift and within five miles of the ski area are lodges with accommodations, dining, dancing and cocktails.

Snow Summit, at Big Bear Lake, has the largest snowmaking operation west of the Rockies which is put into use when there is little or no natural snow. It is served by one double chairlift and seven rope tows, and has a bar and restaurant at the ski area.

Mammoth Mountain, near Mammoth Lakes on the east slope of the High Sierra, is gaining a national and international reputation for its good snow. It has one of the longest seasons in the country.

The Mammoth Mountain area now has six double chairlifts and two T-bars. An 1,800-foot beginners chairlift was installed during the summer, and under construction is a new Bell gondola with a 1,200-an-hour capacity.

* * * *

IN THE AREA, Mammoth Mountain Inn announces plans for a contemplated $15 million resort and recreational complex adjacent to the Inn, with construction commencing next June. It will include 500 additional hotel rooms, theater, concert hall, specialty shops, heated indoor pool, bowling alleys and health spa.

Other areas with potential big draws are in the Lake Tahoe area, Dodge Ridge, China Peak, Badger Pass (in Yosemite National Park) on the west slope, and June Lake over on the eastern slope.

Southland cities plan big yule celebrations

Southern California cities will entertain visitors with a Christmas celebration out-of-doors in December. There will be miles of giant lighted trees, two lighted water parades and a Christmas day swim in the ocean, a pageant on the desert, and a lighting display 184 feet high.

Santa Monica becomes the "City of the Christmas Story" with 14 churches constructing life-sized Nativity scenes lighted at night beneath the palms of seacliff Palisades Park. A walking cross of singing young people parades down famed Wilshire Blvd. to the Park the evening of Dec. 6.

Van Nuys takes advantage of the movie and TV studios in its San Fernando Valley for the Bethlehem Star Parade at 3 p.m. Dec. 5. According to the area's All-Year Club, studio experts help design the church-built Nativity floats and help make up and costume the live characters aboard them.

* * * *

BIGGEST Christmas parade in the West is the Christmas Lane at suburban Huntington Park on Dec. 4, of more than 100 movie, radio and TV stars, some 36 bands of 7,500 musicians, floats and riders. As the parade starts at 7 p.m., 100,000 overhead lights and 50 giant searchlights flash on.

Even the horse riders will be light decorated in the "Christmas Spirit" parade Dec. 6 at Oxnard on the Ventura coast north of Los Angeles.

In the same area at Camarillo, Walter Brennan of movies and TV will be master-of-ceremonies and the bands and choral groups will be wearing many native costumes in a "Costumes of Many Lands" parade on Dec. 11.

Light - decorated yachts will parade in the main channel of the Port of Los Angeles at San Pedro the evening of Dec. 18 with a backdrop of home light decorations sparkling 1500 feet up San Pedro hill.

* * * *

AT NAPLES, canal community in East Long Beach, residents will fashion pleasure craft into lighted floats and parade through canals and Alamitos Bay the nights of Dec. 18-19.

The first (since 1920) and most famous of the area's lighting spectacles, the Mile of Christmas Trees, will see about 100 giant deodar trees strung with 10,000 colored lights along Santa Rosa Ave. leading down from Mt. Lowe in suburban Altadena from Christmas Eve to New Year's night.

Tallest spectacle is at Calipatria in Imperial Valley, called the "Lowest Down City in the Western Hemisphere," which has a flagpole 184 feet high reaching sea level and hangs great strings of lights to it, sighted for miles around.

On the desert on terrain similar to the Holy Land, the community of Joshua Tree fashions shops and stores into buildings of Bethlehem and stages a nightly pageant under lights.

21-day Eurailpass ticket for $99

A new Eurailpass ticket good for 21 days and costing $99 will be introduced Jan. 1.

The 13 Eurailpass countries of western Europe have agreed to maintain these prices for 1968: one month, $130; two months, $180; and a three-month ticket, $205.

The new 21-day ticket makes it practical for the person with average vacation time to use Eurailpass.

WITH NEW LIFTS, LODGES

Utah's ski ranges 'greatest on earth'

Lather a two-mile high mountain range with layer upon layer of what experienced skiers label "the greatest snow on earth." Spend millions of dollars to build the most modern chair lifts, gondola lifts, T-bars and even the world's first underground ski lift to service scenic slopes. Spend additional millions for luxury lodges and more modest family style resorts, fine restaurants and informal spas. Link ski slopes and resorts with jet-age airports, railroad stations and transcontinental highways by means of well-paved, well-cared highways. Combine these elements with some of the finest snow sports terrain in the country and you'll have Olympic — Utah's ski land for the 1965-66 season.

For more than a quarter century, Utah has been widely known as an unexcelled winter sports area for both snow conditions and terrain. The Wasatch Range—Utah's Rockies - extends on a north-south line through the state, spearing snowclouds atop 11,000-feet high peaks. As the westernmost extension of the Rockies, the Wasatch gets snow early and keeps it late, hence the worldwide reputation of Alta, one of the first resorts in the nation to attract an international clientele.

* * * *

NOWADAYS there are a dozen fine ski areas scattered from Utah's northern forests down to a new development in the state's southwest — all easily accessible by direct air routes from such centers of population as Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Dallas, Houston, Las Vegas and Phoenix, as well as from such eastern and midwestern points as New York, Chicago Minneapolis, Boston and Philadelphia.

Utah's "proximity skiing" —Salt Lake City with its jetport, rail terminals, hotels, motels shops concerts theaters and night-life is less than thirty miles from most major resorts—has brought new developments and considerable refurbishment at all its ski areas.

Ski Week Jan. 21-30

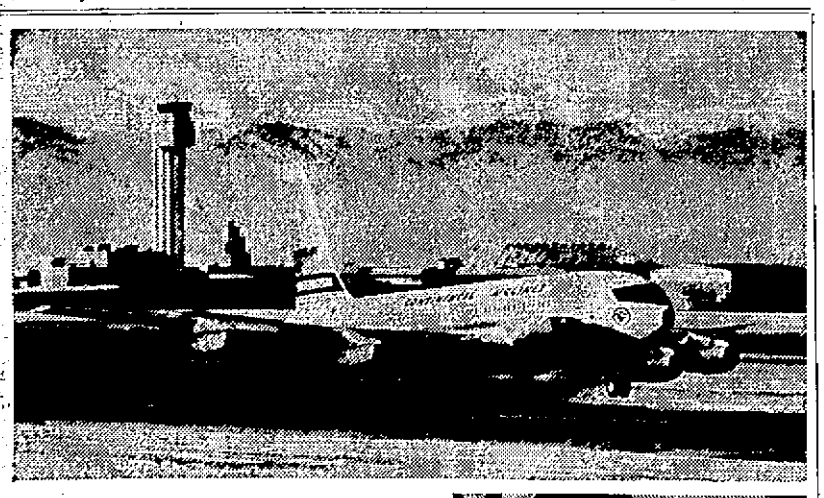

National Ski Week makes its second annual appearance Jan. 21-30.

More than 1,000 ski instructors and ski club members will open the celebrations with torchlight parades on skis at major ski areas.

Following will be special demonstrations of ski technique, exhibitions by ski patrols, winter carnivals, learn-to-ski clinics and instruction programs, open house parties, apres ski get-togethers, fashion shows and ski film showings — all at ski areas.

A building permit has been issued for a 23-story hotel, "The Delta," to be built in Zurich, Switzerland, with 486 beds, conference rooms, large convention hall, restaurant, new-type shopping concourse and garage for 250 cars.

Caribbean picture's all sun

By Fred Taylor Kraft

The vacation throng is pouring into the sunlit Caribbean by air and by sea and, before the winter season ends next April, these pleasure seekers may set an all-time spending spree of $150 million.

Not that it costs big money to go on a lark on the scores of islands that stretch from Venezuela to the Virgin Islands off Puerto Rico.

It's the numbers.

New ships and more ports of call, explained knowledgeable Travel Weekly, will tax berth capacity during the coming months to a peak of 255,000, a rise of 10%. Some of the ships will be sailing in from the West Coast.

The influx by air also is rising at a giddy rate, many flying out of California. Proof lies in the report of one airline—Delta—which says its travel there from Los Angeles International Airport has jumped more that 200% this year.

* * * *

REASONS are obvious. Nowhere do the warm beaches, with their multitude of water sports, have greater appeal. The Caribbean teems with fish. Eating your way through the score or more most-visited islands, some just being "discovered" by travelers, is a gastronomical delight. The gay dances of the natives uniquely combine rhythms descended from a Latin, Gallic, English and African heritage. Accommodations range from adequate to the finest at every stop.

You may prefer an uncluttered island or the go-go tempo that prevails on such much-visited destinations as Jamaica and Puerto Rico. There are quiet stops—honeymoon heavens—like Saba, Carricou Saint Eustatius, Dominica, Marie-Galante, Monserrat, The Current and George Town, Exuma.

On Anguilla, a British Leeward Island, top-notch beaches and scenery can be enjoyed at a hotel expenditure of $6 to $8 a day, including three meals.

* * * *

GROWING in importance tourist-wise are Trinidad and Tabago, at the extreme southeast end of the West Indian island chain. Rich in flora and fauna is Tobago, the Robinson Crusoe island, and it's off the beaten path of most tour itineraries. Trinidad, busy and fun-loving, is the melting pot of the West Indies.

Dancing is a way of life in Haiti. Folk dances get top billing in the flamboyant nightclubs; and, of course, there is the calypso and the steel drums, standard fare at all stops. Haiti's growing popularity is due, at least in part, to completion not so long ago of a jet runway at the new International Airport outside Port-au-Prince, the capital.

Other charming islands are Martinique, Guadeloupe and Barbados.

* * * *

BUT DON'T pass up Puerto Rico or Jamaica, or Puerto Rico's neighbors, the Virgin Islands. True, these spots draw the most tourists—along with the Bahamas—but again there are reasons. Each has beautiful beaches and posh ocean front hotels. Each has festive nightlife and elegant restaurants. San Juan, capital of Puerto Rico, has gambling casinos. And Jamaica, proclaim travelers who should know, is one of the most beautiful spots on earth.

You'll find free ports for shopping in a number of the islands, notably the Virgin Islands and Jamaica. The U.S. Virgin Islands have a big advantage over all the others: you can bring home $200 worth of duty free purchases and a gallon of liquor. From all others, U.S. Customs limits purchases to $100 (retail value) and one bottle.

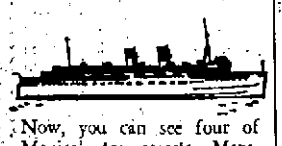

English is either spoken or understood throughout the islands, but you can pick several where French is the predominant language, if that's your preference. Others are Dutch, English, or Spanish, and there's one — Montserrat—where descendants of yesteryear's African slaves speak English with a brogue as thick as any found in a Dublin pub.

Said one vacationist after returning from three weeks in the Caribbean: "I could have stayed a year and never been bored a minute."

THE GAY SPRIT of the Caribbean in general, and of Haiti in particular—where dancing is a way of life—is reflected by this troupe in a Port-au-Prince nightclub.

WINTER TRAVEL

Western ski areas improve facilities

Tahoe area, has built more double chairlifts and opens the season with 14 of them. There are also the relatively new gondola tramway which serves the Gold Coast area, and six platter pulls for beginners. Also new is a lounge for the "brown baggers."

* * * *

SLIDE Mountain, near the crest of the range between Reno and Lake Tahoe, has a new 700-foot double chairlift for beginners. Alpine Meadows, in the Tahoe City area, has a new ski school director. Heavenly Valley has installed its fifth double chairlift, already boasting the biggest aerial tramway in the Far West. Donner Ski Ranch, near Donner Summit, has one double chairlift, one platter and a new rope tow. Soda Springs, just west of Donner Summit, has a chairlift, one J-bar, one T-bar and two rope tows. Twin Peaks is the newest area to go into operation, opening with a double chairlift. It will operate on weekends until Easter.

In the central Sierra are Dodge Ridge with four double chairlifts, one poma, one platter and eight rope tours. China Peak, under new management, is adding a new look in slope grooming and hill maintenance, plus an enlarged lodge. Night skiing will be offered on beginner hill on Wednesdays and Fridays.

* * * *

A POPULAR SPOT for western skiers is Sun Valley, Idaho, which is adding a post-graduate course to its ski school curriculum — slalom racing.

Considerable work has been done to improve skiing at Sun Valley: two new double chairlifts, new runs and old runs cleared, new warming hut and dining room at foot of Warm Springs run, expansion of the Roundhouse, double seating area, and new 900-foot Poma lift on Roundhouse slope.

Colorado, of course, is loaded with ski slopes. Best known, no doubt, is Aspen which claims to offer the most complete ski facilities in the world in its three great areas — Aspen mountain, Buttermilk, and Snowmass - At - Aspen. Chairlifts and T-bars have a total capacity of about 10,000 an hour. Lodges are within easy walking distance of the lifts, along with restaurants and nightclubs.

Then there's the Pacific Northwest. And Canada, naturally, is cashing in on her national snow resources, with a multiude of ideal areas in British Columbia and Alberta.

U.P. Special to Sun Valley

Union Pacific Railroad again will operate its "Snowball Special" from Los Angeles Union Station to Sun Valley, Jan. 8-15 and March 12-19.

Reduced rates for the trips start at $154 and include transportation, chuck wagon meals en route, six nights lodging, six full days of ski lessons, and use of Sun Valley lifts and pool. Reservations are necessary.

More than 15,000 Southland skiers have used the "Snowball Special" since it began operating in 1958.

He hated red

The famous pirate "Bluebeard," who is honored in St. Thomas, U. S. Virgin Islands, by a hotel bearing his name, is said to have been named because of a tonsorial error. The legend, as reported by Pan Am travel experts, is that he hated his red beard and had it dyed black. A few days later a chemical reaction set in and the beard turned a bright indelible blue.

Special tours into Mexico

"Christmas in Mexico" is the special escorted tour offering of Greyhound for travelers who desire a taste of Old World charm and hospitality in the New World during the year-end holidays.

There are three of these "extras" in Greyhound's year-around schedule. There is also a stepped-up schedule from once-weekly to twice-weekly departures during December through April from Los Angeles.

Departure dates from Los Angeles are Dec. 8, 14 and 16. All the features of Greyhound's regular Mexico Escorted Tour are provided on these special vacations, plus numerous opportunities to participate in Mexico's religious, public and private holiday observances.

The economy price tag for the three-week vacation; with twin-share accommodations at only $339.95 from Los Angeles per person. An optional extension to Acapulco is available for only $36 per person on a double or twin basis.

Palm Springs closes in

Palm Springs has moved closer to the Long Beach area. A visitor information office for the desert resort has been opened in Los Angeles by Transportation Consultants, Inc., a West Coast-based travel marketing organization.

Current data on weather, hotel accommodations, recreation, and other information concerning the resort may be obtained by calling the Palm Springs Hotel and Visitor Information Office at Hollywood 6-1626. The office is located at 6290 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90028.

The Palm Springs Hotel and Visitor Information Office will also answer written and telephoned inquiries with appropriate brochures, upon request. Direct telex communication will be maintained between the Los Angeles office and the Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce Visitors Bureau for prompt servicing of inquiries.

Rattle & roll

Construction of new establishments and enlarging of the casino at St. Vincent, in the Aosta Valley of the Italian Alps, has ben undertaken by the company that manages the casino.

The contract, which was to have expired on March 31, 1966, has been renewed for 12 years, by unanimous decision of the Aosta Valley Council.

The new facilities will include the building of a new hotel at St. Vincent and the installation of a cable car for Mt. Zerbion.

Gold museum

The world's largest collection of gold objects made before the Spaniards arrived in the Americas is at the Gold Museum of Bogota. According to Panagra (Pan American-Grace Airways), the 8,000 finely wrought earrings, masks, nose pieces, and other pieces made by the pre-Hispanic goldsmiths, are valued at more than $30 million. Star of the show is the Quimbaya vase worked in gold foil, and decorated with repouss', cutting, and bangles.

Travels with Delaplane

For people trying to make that cheap vacation to Hawaii, this ought to be the answer: Camp on a warm beach.

I saw a beautiful camp ground on the island of Kauai, near the end of the Hanalei Road. Good white sand beach. The camp ground is on grass alongside the beach. Installed toilets. A river with a deep fresh water pool for bathing. A nearby plantation village with a general store for shopping.

Air fare to Honolulu is $200 round trip from the West Coast. Kauai is 30 minutes from Honolulu.

I saw camping gear for rent in the yellow section of the Honolulu phone book. (Better write and have it waiting.)

A bus runs to the end of the island, but not often. Getting to the village for food might be a problem. But you should be able to rent a bicycle in Honolulu. Get one of the fold-up kind you carry like a suitcase if you can. (You can buy them for $89.50.)

And write Hawaii Visitors Bureau, Honolulu, Hawaii for a list of camp sites in all the islands and registration rules.

When I was there at the top of the season there was only one couple camped.

"We are going to Mexico but I am worried about mosquitoes. I am bothered a great deal by their bites."

ON THE SNAKE River in Grand Teton National Park, the boatsmen spray themselves with "Off.." Works for mosquitoes but doesn't bother the little "no-see-ums" you find near the beach. So stay away from beach cottages — they go right through screens.

In Puerto Rico, doctors give shots that take some of the itch out of the bites. And there's a prescription spray-on medicine that does the same thing.

In both Puerto Rico and Hawaii, local people say Vick's Vap-o-Rub is the best thing to take the itch out of the bites.

Mexico has a national spraying program against mosquitoes. Even so, I take the once-a-week pill against malaria.

"Is it true that April is the best month to be in England?"

IF YOU DON'T mind wearing an overcoat. May's the better month. It snowed at Easter one year when I was in London. Average in April runs 45 to 55 degrees.

The English, however, don't look at the weather. They look at the calendar. When it says April, they gets into shorts and bike around in blizzards.

In rating English weather, you must remember that they keep their houses and pubs at about 60 degrees in winter. Our average 70 degree housing feels like the tropics to them.

"I heard there are odd closing hours in cocktail lounges in Australia."

THAT'S CHANGED. Used to be they closed at 6 p.m.—allowing Australians their beloved "5 o'clock swill." They got in a bar and drank beer as fast as possible between 5 and 6. Sydney changed some years ago to a 10 o'clock closing. And Melbourne has now done the same. No closing time if you're in a restaurant. And hotel guests always could get a drink anytime. Same as England and Ireland where food and drink for horse and man is supposed to be on tap for all travelers at all hours.

Overseas travel to jump

Despite President Johnson's "See America First" program, Southern California travel agents expect the number of Americans voyaging overseas to increase 15 to 20% next year.

The bulk of this rise, according to President Anthony Stute of Continental Express and General Manager Noel Houwing of Unitours, will be made of groups or charter tours traveling under the vague title of "affinity groups."

According to travel regulations, an affinity group must be an organization formed for a purpose other than travel. Stute and Houwing, whose companies specialize in this line, both predicted 50 to 60% of the Southern California market will be made up of affinity group travel next year.

Stute gave the example of one group that started three years ago with 3,000 members, 150 of whom joined the travel program. Now the membership is 31,000, and about 2,000 are expected to travel next year.

California is second only to New York in travel of the affinity group type, according to their figures.

The two travel executives also agreed in predicting that:

—A trend away from the "27 countries in 21 days" type of travel will continue.

—Off-season travel will grow as a major attraction for tourists seeking more elbow room and more value for their money.

—An increase in student tours, although most tourists will continue to be middle-aged and older.

wood, horn and stone, silverwork, weaving and sculpture.

THAILAND, friendly and progressive yet dangerously close to a great war front, Viet Nam. Bangkok, the capital, has its busy klongs (canals), shopping, dancing and nightlife, and good hotels.

INDIA: Already a legend among travelers, a vast land of paradoxes, its mysteries never solved. From Calcutta, most travelers from the Pacific go to New Delhi, Agra and Benares, some as far as Bombay. English speaking, with travel comparatively easy. Sights like the Taj Mahal at Agra leave globe-trotters breathless.

SINGAPORE is the legendary "crossroad of the world" whose Raffles Hotel is one of the famous landmarks of the Orient. Easy to get to, with good hotels. There are shoppers who say Singapore's prices are the lowest, period.

HONG KONG is where a fine handcrafted suit is made in less than 48 hours at pipe-rack prices. A melange of races. One of the busiest and most colorful harbors anywhere. Floating restaurants. A skyline dotted with towering new hotels. Cruises and shopping are the main pastimes of travelers.

TAIWAN: This Republic of China is the only part of real China that U. S. citizens can visit. On a flying route, 500 miles northeast of Hong Kong, 1,300 miles southwest of Japan. Lush scenery, a variety of fine food, great works of art, superb shopping. Taipei, the capital, has its share of new hotels.

JAPAN: Kyushu, on APL itineraries, is a springboard to sights in Asia's most progressive and literate country. Sights are endless. Visitors should not miss a cruise on the Inland Sea, and an eye-popping view of the world's biggest city—Tokyo.

PHILIPPINES: Most tourists head for Manila, the capital, but they should not overlook Baguio, the summer capital 180 miles away. Clean and modern, it lies in the center of gorgeous landscapes, has excellent hotels. A must is the central market, local version of a supergigantic supermarket.

KOREA, which has evolved a way of life that is distinct, even among the countries of the Orient. The adventurous visitor who wishes to mix ancient customs with comfortable vacationing heads for lovely Cheju Island, 60 miles southwest of the tip of Korea, where the old way of life can be observed while living it up hunting, fishing, or sunlazing.

Treasure tip

Check the local regulations before you go looking for treasure from sunken ships, advises the American Automobile Association. Florida, for example, requires that you turn over one-fourth of your find to the state. The Federal Government generally frowns on treasure hunting in areas set aside as national preserves.

Newest resort

Playa Azul, on Mexico's Pacific coast, will become the country's newest resort. The Mexican National Tourist Council reports the state of Michoacan is developing beaches, building resort areas and laying out roads to spots previously inaccessible only by boat.

WINTER TRAVEL

B.C. building new ferry

Construction of a new auto-passenger ferry "Queen of Prince Rupert" which next summer will link northern Vancouver Island with the mainland of Prince Rupert is proceeding on schedule, according to officers of British Columbia (Canada) Ferry Authority.

The new service, which will follow "The Route of the Haidas" — a tribe of Indians living on British Columbia's north coast and Queen Charlotte Islands — will give motorists a fast, all-weather route between Seattle, Vancouver, Victoria and Alaska. It will make connections at Prince Rupert with ships of the Alaska ferry system.

More than 150,000 Californians patronized British Columbia ferries last year.

STARS GATHERING FOR INTERNATIONAL

The surf's up in Hawaii

WINTER TRAVEL

By Dorothy Gale Vigil

Hawaii is the surfing capital of the world and December is the top month for surfing buffs.

The 13th annual Makaha International Surfing Championships continues as Hawaii's surfing classic of the year.

Surfing experts from around the world will vie with one another while riding the incredibly high waves that thunder toward the Oahu shoreline with express train speed.

Visitors are welcome to attend this meet, dates of which are Dec. 18 through 24 and Dec. 26, the day after Christmas. No admission is charged and special buses will run from Honolulu and Waikiki beach.

* * * *

SOMETIMES called "The World Series of Surfing," the Makaha contest has, in the past few years, gone on under ideal conditions. Experts are predicting even bigger and better waves this winter, so that only star surfers will survive elimination heats.

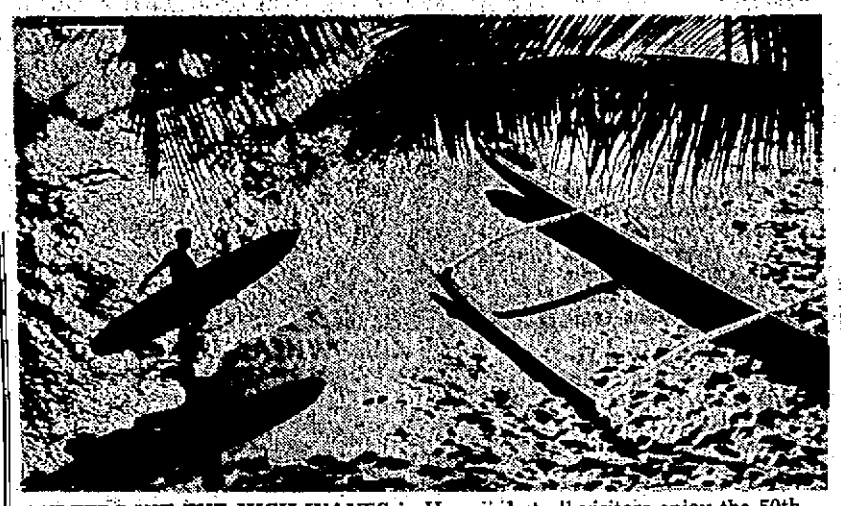

The event will be televised on the American Broadcasting Company's "Wide World of Sports."

A new and promising surfing competition this year in Hawaii is the Duke Kahanamoku Invitational, with the world's best two dozen surfers scheduled to match skills.

* * * *

THE NOVEL angle on this meet is that it will take place on whichever of five excellent Oahu surfing beaches have the best surf when competition days arrive — Dec. 15 and 16. Thus contestants can only wonder whether they will end up braving the crashing waves at Sunset, Waimea, Pipeline, Haleiwa or the world-famous Makaha.

The Duke Kahanamoku Invitational will be televised in color by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

SURFERS HIT THE HIGH WAVES in Hawaii, but all visitors enjoy the 50th State's swimming, surfing, and paddling an outrigger any day of the year. (Hawaii Visitors Bureau photo.)

Big shows continue to brighten Vegas

If there's one area in which Las Vegas can solidly lay a claim, it's in hanging on to its reputation as the entertainment capital of the world. With no less than five million-dollar extravaganzas, two Broadway productions and three shows starring Hollywood headliners—all playing simultaneously on the three-mile stretch of the famous "Strip" —the slogan can be called anything but empty.

In fact, it becomes almost awesome when you realize that the extravaganzas each parade a cast of more than 50 people, that each of their performers' payrolls range well over $50,000 a week, or that the stage effects run the gamut from fiery earthquakes, rainstorms, live tigers, trapezes, disappearing swimming pools, skating rinks, ship sinkings—all the way to octupus-like stage platforms that swing over audiences' heads.

* * * *

SANDWICHED between these elaborate productions are the individual star shows, where the likes of Harry Belafonte and his troupe, in one hotel, and Juliet Prowse, in another, may be performing almost within earshot of one another's applause.

That's because the usual pattern among the showroom restaurants is to present a dinner show starting about 7 p.m., then a late show at about 11:15 p.m. "Late-late" shows are an additional offering of some of the rooms on Friday and Saturday nights, starting at 2 a.m. There is never an admission charge.

IN DOWNTOWN Las Vegas, a glittering area known as "Casino Center," this lounge type of entertainment really thrives. Here, in more than a dozen neon-emblazoned clubs and two major high-rise hotels, the shows not only are continuous, but feature musical combos, singing groups and variety acts of every conceivable sort. Everything from the Caribbean Limbo to Tokyo Nights plays Fremont Street at least once.

Bridge tourney

Riviera Hotel will host its second annual Masters Bridge Tournament in Las Vegas, Jan. 31-Feb. 4. First prize of $7,500 is the largest ever offered. Total prize money will exceed $10,000.

The total elimination, team-of-four event with I.M.P. scoring, is expected to attract the finest teams in America.

Heartland of Mayaland

Merida is an old Spanish town in the Mexican state of Yucatan — founded in 1542 on the site of the Indian town of Ti Ho — and the traveler who comes here by jet to see the nearby, ancient Maya ruins may be aware of a community life in which overlays of time are almost visible.

The flow of jets in and out of the Merida airport is constant, and growing, due to the area's charms. Pan Am has direct hops from the Southern states and Mexico City, and through its other gateways including Los Angeles.

By road, the Yucatan peninsula is still relatively isolated from the rest of Mexico, but more and more visitors are driving. Combine this method of transportation with the jets, and there is evidence that the worldwide boom in tourism has touched Merida.

* * * *

CIVIC pride has lighted up parts of town with new street lights, and there are several new motels where a knowledgeable interest in the wants of tourists is shown. Rates at the modern Hotel Panamericana start at $10 double. City tours start at $4, including the Maya museum.

But the old, half Spanish, half Indian town goes its bustling way in tropical sunlight. With a population of near 200,000, it's the largest community in the flat, rather barren countryside.

Heavy Spanish colonial type buildings press in on the narrow downtown streets. Old buses barrel cheerfully up and down the streets, day and night, and for a small fee you can ride one of the "pulpito" hacks drawn by the little Yucatan horses. The local people use them as taxis.

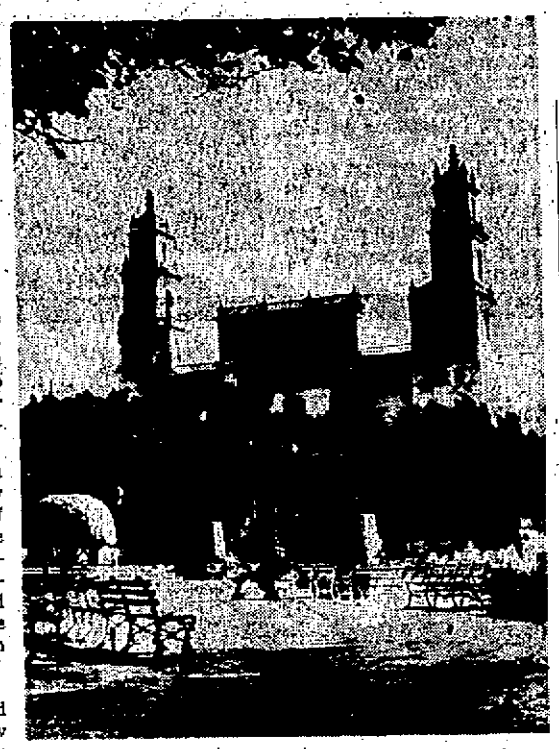

* * * *

ON THE MAIN plaza stands the 16th century cathedral, women before its doors selling religious trinkets; and on another side of the plaza is Merida's oldest home, built for the family of the conquerer of Yucatan, Don Francisco de Montejo.

In the sidewalk crowds are the short Maya women with their round, soft, flat-featured faces. They wear beautifully embroidered white huipil, a simple, one-piece dress, like a Mother Hubbard.

Out of town on the highway to Campeche, begin to appear small thatched-roof huts, built of stone, concrete or mud and sticks, the houses of present-day Mayas —exactly the same as those in which their ancestors lived 1,000 years ago.

Most tourists who go to Merida are en route to see the ruins at Uxmal or Chichen Itza. But not to be overlooked is Merida where the traveler may see the cultures of three ages side by side.

THE CATHEDRAL OF MERIDA dominates the view from Merida's central plaza. More and more people are going there to see the nearby Mayan ruins. (Pan Am photo.)

Paris popular

Air France regular traffic from Los Angeles to Paris during the third quarter of 1965 rose 25% over the same period last year, according to Edmond Boeri, western region manager. The airline serves the West Coast with all nonstop 707 Intercontinental jetliner service between the two points. Flight frequency is three times weekly.

A CAR TO KNOW . . . A PLACE TO GO

Toyota Tours Lake Arrowhead

By BILL EMERY

Just 70 miles from Long Beach and a mile high in the clean, crisp, clear air of the San Bernardino mountains, Lake Arrowhead awaits with a resort of the four seasons.

We tackled the ascent with a new 1966 Toyota Corona sports sedan borrowed for the weekend trip from Hal Keenum's Imports at 3580 E. Pacific Coast Highway in Long Beach.

The Japanese import has a 1900cc, 4-cylinder engine which develops 90 horsepower and is capable of accelerating to 100 mph in seconds. The powerful four-door compact climbed the grade without once requiring a down-shift. Steering is very positive making for excellent control and effortless driving at high speeds.

The Toyota is equipped with a double barreled down draft carburetor and when you need that extra seat, it leaps out!

With its heavy gauge steel body cushioned in rubber and with five cross members, this compact is the strongest structurally of any automobile in its class. What is even more amazing is the unusual roominess in this sedan. It has ample room in every direction . . . headroom enough for a hat, elbow room and leg room.

The all synchromesh three-speed transmission makes it a fun car to drive and if you prefer, an automatic is available this year . . . and it is really a performing automatic.

The self-adjusting hydraulic brakes with air cooled aluminum steel lined drums on the front wheels is but one of the many advanced features this import offers.

Formed in 1907, Lake Arrowhead is a 780-acre body of clear mountain water three miles long and over one mile wide fed by springs, rain and melting snow. The original developers shunned any show of commercialism and pioneered an Alpine community pitcuresquely complemenitng the surroundings.

The Lake Arrowhead Development Company continued this project when they began a unique systemized maturity program late in 1960.

Recently completed, the million dollar 18-hole championship golf course covers 137 forest-studded acres and includes 45-acre Grass Valley Lake. The new clubhouse, an $850,000 facility, incorporates 13,780 square feet within a dramatic design. Inside are a pro shop, lockers, sauna baths, two cocktail lounges equipped for entertainment, gourmet dining, snack bar, banquet rooms and a nursery.

Outside is a pool, and tennis courts are planned.

Expansion is everywhere. A new medical center, a cultural center, a West Shore shopping center similar to the Village, a Lake Arrowhead Yacht Club and a new North Shore Marina View Estates development are being engineered.

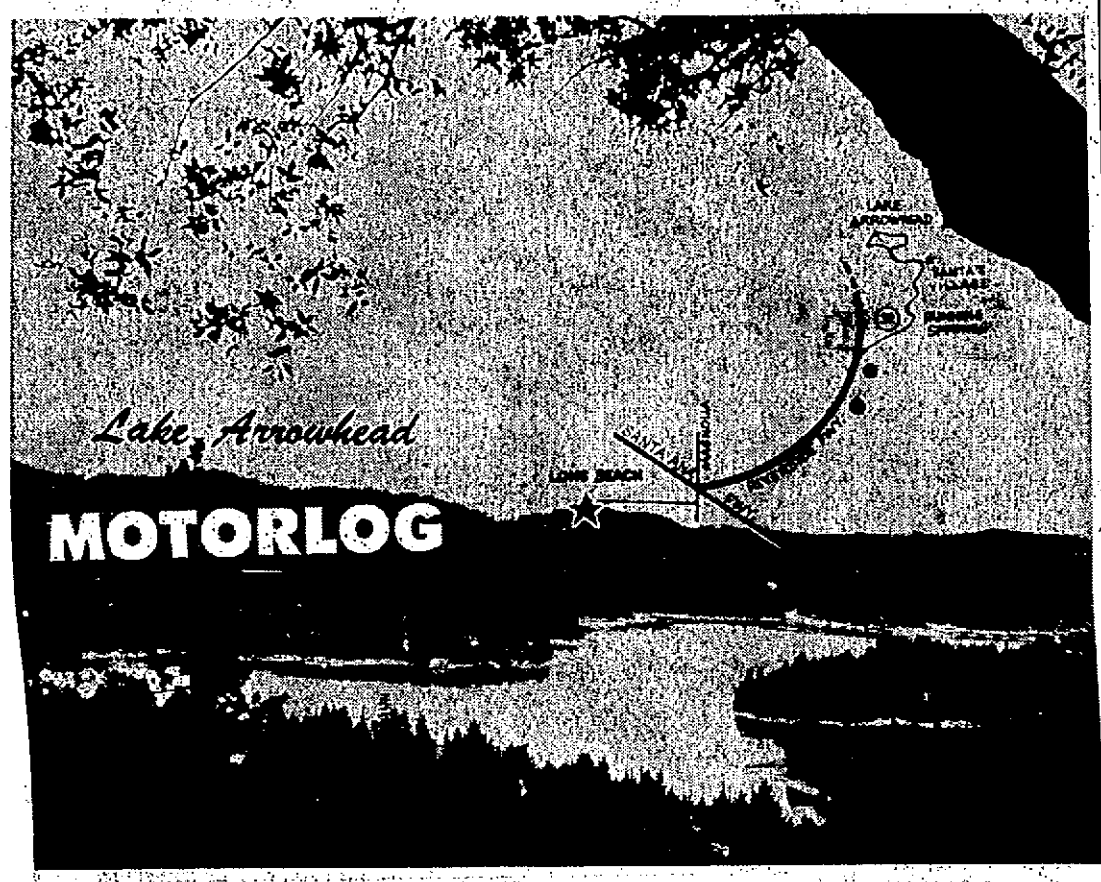

The Lodge, which was recently newly decorated, offers informal luxury in this exhilarating setting. Overlooking the clear lake, it can be restful or recreational depending upon your mood. The four-season Lodge offers swimming, water skiing and boating. In the winter, it's convenient to skiing, skating, sledding and tobogganing. There's dancing in the lounge and the beautifully appointed dining room offers the finest cuisine, wines and beverages while you enjoy an enchanting view across the lake.

Nearby, Santa's Village offers a multitude of attractions to make a visit to this year-around magic forest wonderland a memorable experience. Admission is fifty cents and a dollar with children under three free. Santa is at the North Pole daily greeting the children while Mrs. Claus is busy in the candy shop.

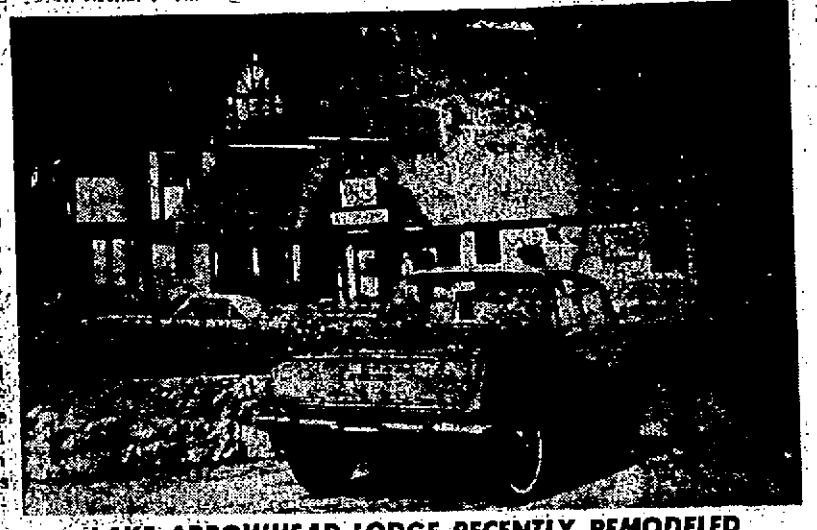

We were greeted by Raggety Ann and Andy, Soldier Brad (who seated himself up front in the Toyota) and Soldier Jack. Mr. Pumpkinhead preferred the other side of the fence in the picture. He played it cautious.

This is a great area to get to know, and the new '66 Toyota is well worth your consideration when you shop for a real performer in the compact class.

'Who Shall Live?'

A medical procedure that can be used to save the lives of uremic poisoning victims will be examined during "Who Shall Live?", an hour documentary at 6:30 p.m. today (Sunday), channel 4.

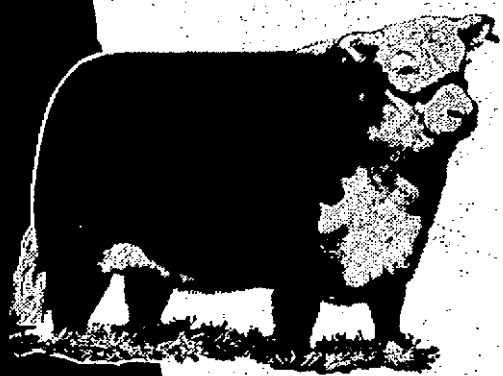

The title stems from the fact that, while there are 100,000 victims, only 100 are benefiting from the medical breakthrough. For those who don't receive the treatment, the kidney disease is fatal.

The program focuses on the Seattle Artifical Kidney Center where 40 patients are being treated at a cost of $10,000 per year for each patient.

The artificial kidney cleanses the patient's blood through a process called dialysis. The procedure was perfected by the University of Washington Medical School in Seattle.

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

THE OVER-GENERALIZING, all-inclusive, negating expression goes:

"Product of a broken home."

It is an expression that irritates Dawn Wells.

Miss Wells has the role of Mary Ann on CBS-TV's (channel 2's) "Gilligan's Island" series.

She also is what the over-generalizing, all-inclusive would include, the product of a broken home.

Her parents, Joe Wells, a Nevada hotel executive, and Evelyn, a bookkeeper, were divorced when Dawn was four years old.

"But I never felt like a child from a broken home," she said. "I felt like I had two families."

She has equal praise for both her parents in providing her with a happy, meaningful childhood.

"I never felt torn between them," she said. "They never talked against each other. They never competed for my affection."

There was more of a family feeling in each of her homes, contends Dawn, than there is in many of today's so-called "togetherness" households.

★ ★ ★

"IT SEEMS TO ME," she said, "that there are too many young mothers today whose main daily objective is to get out of the house.

"Leave the kids at home. Let a baby-sitter raise them.

"Even when there's a picnic, they don't take the children."

Her mother, although she had to work, arranged her working hours so she was home when Dawn arrived from school.

"There never was a time," said Dawn, "when there wasn't a hot meal on the table for me and when there wasn't a linen napkin.

"I always felt a strong sense of family tradition even though there were only two of us at home."

Dawn doesn't think too much either of "the average young woman."

"She's lazy," said the actress.

"Look at my 85-year-old grandmother. She makes her own bread and ravioli. When she's at my place and if we don't have the house cleaned at 9 a.m., she gets nervous.

"Wants to know what we're doing just sitting around."

Taking pot-shots at mothers and young women is not exactly the best way for a striving actress to top a popularity poll.

It's even more hazardous when the actress is not a mother herself.

Which Dawn is not.

IN REAL LIFE, she's been married to actor-agent Larry Rosen since 1962. In video life, she's been portraying "Gilligan's Island's" Mary Ann for two seasons.

The role is that of a young, innocent girl in a group on a desert island.

"It would be a little difficult to write in a pregnancy for Mary Ann," said Dawn.

After the TV series ends, however, Dawn wants to have a series of children, hopefully four.

She's not overly worried her opinions will offend young mothers. If her opinions give second thought to only one mother and that one takes with her children on the next picnic, then Dawn will feel she's accomplished something major.

Further, she doesn't really think many women will resent her.

She has precedence for that belief.

For Dawn is a former beauty-contest winner, Miss Nevada in the Miss America contest.

And very few of the "Gilligan's" series femme viewers have held her beauty against her.

None of the male viewers have objected either.

'Seven Days in President's Life'

Filmed during a very critical period of the Viet Nam war, "Seven Days in the Life of the President," a one-hour special, airs at 8 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 11.

The program, marking the debut of the "March of Time" series, will be repeated at the same time on Monday.

The special follows President Lyndon B. Johnson as he meets with cabinet members, talks with congressional leaders and focuses his power on accomplishment of Administration goals.

It examines his relationship with the White House press corps and the public.

Repeat 'Korean Legacy' Special

A number of Orange County residents will be seen during a repeat of the 60-minute "Korean Legacy" special at 7:30 p.m. today (Sunday), channel 5.

The program is about couples adopting Korean orphans. Aired originally last December, it won a local Emmy and was cited by the Overseas Press Club for "Outstanding Journalistic Achievement."

During the course of filming the program, Harry Holt, the Oregon farmer who had started the Korean adoption movement, died after a heart attack.

Uncle Miltie Takes Pay Cut

MILTON BERLE, RITA MORENO
"Trials of O'Brien," 10 p.m. Friday (2)

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Milton Berle, seen only sporadically on television the past five years, is starring in a new movie and galloping back to video in earnest this season.

Most of Uncle Miltie's time recently has been spent on the road—nine months a year—playing night clubs.

"People who never visit clubs asked me when I was going back to work," Milton said during an off-day from "The Oscar."

"I hope they weren't feeling sorry for me."

They needn't have. The comedian was drawing roughly $25,000 per week. Then, of course, there was the $100,000 yearly stipend NBC-TV had been paying him on a contract running from 1951 to 1981.

But Berle chafed at his absence from television. The contract called for exclusive appearances on NBC, and the network appeared to be disinterested in keeping him busy. They paid him for doing nothing.

So Miltie hired a new agent and renegotiated his NBC contract. He took a 40% pay cut, reducing his annual salary to $60,000, but erased the exclusivity clause.

THE RESULT: Berle's TV schedule this season includes Dean Martin's show, "Bonanza," "The Fugitive," "The Man From UNCLE," "Slattery's People," "The Lucy Show," "Trials of O'Brien" (10 p.m. this Friday, channel 2), "The Hollywood Palace" (9:30 p.m. this Saturday, channel 7 in COLOR), Red Skelton and Ed Sullivan.

In the dramatic shows Milton will play straight parts without laughs, just as he is doing at Paramount in "The Oscar."

"I play an agent in the picture," he explained. "Not the cigar-chomping stereotype you see in so many movies. He's a sensitive guy who does a good job in a dignified way.

"This is the first straight role I ever played in a movie, although I've done some dramatic stuff in five television shows."

Berle was nominated for an Emmy several years ago in "Doyle Against the House," a performance that changed the image of television's first major star.

If Berle lost $40,000 a year by changing his contract, he'll earn more than a quarter million dollars for his guest shots and appearances on dramatic shows.

The comedian's most satisfactory bonus, however, is that he will be able to spend almost the entire year at his new Beverly Hills mansion with his son, Billy, 3.

"These are his growing-up years," Miltie explained. "I don't want him to ask who that stranger is who comes in off the road a couple of times a year. That's the important thing. I'll be home with my wife, Ruth, and my son."

UNCLE MILTIE AND LIBERACE
"Hollywood Palace," 9:30 p.m. Saturday (7)

SPECIAL

WHO SHALL LIVE?—Edwin Newman is narrator for a Seattle-filmed probe of the artificial kidney machine, featured recently in a 7-part "Kildare" segment, which could save the lives of thousands if enough were available and if the cost of treatments ($10,000 a year for 3 years) could be reduced. Some of the 100 being treated, from among tens of thousands, are interviewed at 6:30 p.m., ch. 4. The others will die.

RED RIDING HOOD—An original musical comedy by Jule Styne and Bob Merrill tells the children's classic from a new point of view—the wolf's. Starring at 7 p.m., in color, ch. 7, are Liza Minelli (see also Wed. "Ice Capades") as Red Riding Hood, Cyril Ritchard as the wolf, Vic Damone as the woodsman and The Animals as a wolf pack. The wolf's no villain, but a lonely, misunderstood beast searching for a friend.

PACIFIC—Then and Now—Bill Burrud returns to Guadalcanal and other areas of World War II action, contrasting what he saw then with life today. Repeat 90-min. special is at 7 p.m., in color, ch. 13.

KOREAN LEGACY—Dana Andrews is narrator for a reprise of the Emmy award-winning documentary of Oregon farmer Henry Holt, who brought eternal hope to Korean waifs, and met his own untimely death during a pilgrimage reported at 7:30 p.m., ch. 5.

MARCH OF TIME—Premiere. An intimate study of Lyndon B. Johnson during one hectic week of decisions and crisis is the first in a monthly series of 8 hours produced by David L. Wolper in association with the editors of Time & Life, to screen at 8 p.m., ch. 11, with a repeat Monday at the same hour. Mobile camera crews trail the President's daily movements, shooting candid, unstaged meetings with subordinates and high-echelon policymakers. Voice-over commentary for the July-filmed hour is supplied by LBJ.

JULIE ANDREWS SHOW—In her first major TV special, the Oscar-winning actress joins Gene Kelly and the New Christy Minstrels in a musical color hour at 9 p.m., ch. 4. Highlights are a "family tree" publication number with Julie and Gene humorously portraying various ancestors, and a game in which each tries to guess what song the other is tapping with his feet.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S Concerts—9th season premiere. For his first of four concerts taped at the Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall, Leonard Bernstein draws an analogy between the structure of atoms and music—one created by particles, the other by notes and intervals. To illustrate the 7:30 p.m. hour, ch. 2, he leads the New York Philharmonic in the first movement of the Symphony No. 4 by Brahms, the fourth movement from the Symphony No. 4 by Vaughan Williams, and the Prelude to Act III of "Lohengrin" by Wagner. (Season's second concert, Dec. 14, explores the sound of an orchestra.)

MERV GRIFFIN—A full 90-min. show from Spain, at 11 p.m., ch. 11, offers filmed segments from the U.S. Embassy, a ranch in Castille, Madrid's famed Plaza del Toros, and the location sets for three movies—"Funny Thing Happened on Way to Forum," "10:30 P.M. Summer" and "Dr. Zhivago." A tour of the capital winds up the show.

SUE McKeever, wife of the Los Angeles Rams' Marlin McKeever, introduces an hour COLOR documentary on professional football at 10 p. m. Tuesday, ch. 2.

SPECIAL

A SLICE OF SUNDAY—The violent world of professional football as seen by a player's wife is the subject for a KNXT special at 10 p.m., in color, ch. 2. Red-haired Sue McKeever, married for 5 years to Rams' tight end Marlin McKeever, introduces the program, filmed on location at various NFL stadiums, and narrated by Aneta Corsaut (Andy Griffith co-star).

BATTLE for the Iadrang Valley—A CBS News special report on the fiercest action in the Viet Nam war to date is reported by Morley Safer at 10:30 p.m., ch. 2. Four camera crews recorded action in the Iadrang Valley, and Safer assesses the significance of the encounters, and the import of the new battle technique of the North Vietnamese. (The postponed look at the Watts riots gets the 10 p.m. hour next week.)

Pan and Fan Mail

It was a welcome relief, to say the least, not to have seen Red Skelton's TV wife clobber him on the head these past few weeks.

He must have plenty of headaches from the blows he receives. Why doesn't Red sock his mate for a change?

I am not alone in voicing my opinion of how stupid and boring that part of the program is.

I could switch to another channel, but I like Red and hate to see him made a fool of by some female. Surely the script writer could think of something more amusing than that.

Mrs. Muriel Fry, Long Beach

Madame, many is the man that has been made a fool by some female.

* * * *

I would like to say a good word for "Wagon Train."

I was very disappointed when the show didn't return this fall and I'm going to miss seeing the whole group. I did enjoy the stories of the treks to California.

I have watched them for so long, I almost felt like I knew them. The stories were different each week and it didn't matter if you missed one — I always picked it up on repeats the following summer.

Sorry it's finished.

Mrs. E. Ross, Long Beach

No more treats from the treks.

* * * *

I would like to know when "Lost in Space" will go off the air, if it does. And would you please tell me what ratings this program has?

Mike Arehart, Lakewood

"Lost In Space" hasn't been exactly setting the world on fire. On the other hand, most of the ratings have found it in a safe place among the top 40 shows. I don't think it will get lost this season and there's a fair chance it will be back for a second run.

* * * *

Do you know if "Secret Agent" will be back next summer?

Elizabeth Connery, Long Beach

Summer is just around the corner for "Secret Agent." The series starts again at 8:30 p.m. this Saturday, channel 2.

Children's Movies

KHJ-TV (channel 9) has purchased 13 color movies for children.

Among them are "Santa Claus," which won best-family film honors in the San Francisco Film Festival, and "Littlest Angel," a dual winner at the Venice Film Festival.

SPECIAL

BIOGRAPHY OF JFK— The moving story of the life and career of John F. Kennedy is told in films with his father, his family, with colleagues and world leaders, narrated by Cliff Robertson, personal choice of the late President to portray him in "PT 109." At 8:30 p.m., ch. 13, hour features an original music score by David Rose.

ICE CAPADES OF 1966— Arthur Godfrey dons his ice skates for the first time in nine years to act as host to highlights of the 26th edition of the famed ice show, in a salute to the world of entertainment. Non-"gay blades" Liza Minnelli and Roger Miller are singing guests during the 9 p.m. color hour, ch. 2, with 7 human and one chimpanzee (Spanky) stars, plus 72 regular cast members, taking part in segments saluting Broadway, opera, the circus, ballet, the recording industry and Hollywood, plus "Holoholo Mokupuni," a Polynesian interlude. Show was taped in August at Atlantic City.

What automatic washer has topped the best features of the other leading brands?*

Answer: Hotpoint for 1966—here's proof:

	HOTPOINT	BRAND A	BRAND B	BRAND C	BRAND D
WASH CAPACITY (Manufacturer's rated capacity)	16 LB.	12 LB.	No rating available from manufacturer	12 LB.	14 LB.
WASH POWER (Motor size)	½ H.P.	½ H.P.	⅓ H.P.	½ H.P.	⅓ H.P.
PORCELAIN PROTECTION	100% porcelain	Porcelain top only. Painted cabinet.	Baked enamel top. Painted cabinet.	Porcelain top. Painted cabinet.	Porcelain top. Painted cabinet.
DEPENDABILITY	All these fine modern automatic washers have good service repair records. Hotpoint is proud of their excellent service reputation and invites your comparison.
FEATURES:	Hotpoint provides these other important convenience features in a popular priced washer—hot-warm wash, fountain filler, 4 speed combinations, water level control, automatic bleach and rinse dispenser.

Conclusion: You get more in a Hotpoint washer. See your Hotpoint dealer for his introductory special.

SPECIAL

TRIALS OF O'BRIEN — Neilsen's 13th-from-the bottom-rated (22.5) series moves in to the Friday hour at 10 p.m., ch. 2, to replace the third-from-the-cellar (16.1) "Slattery's People." Opener in the new time slot could turn the trick, starring Milton Berle as a baggy-pants burlesque comedian charged with murder, with Rita Moreno as his two-timing exotic dancer wife, Hal March as the other man who topples out of a closet on-stage with a knife in his back, Danny Dayton as a "second banana," Ann Corio as a stripper and Virginia Wing as a dancer-comedienne. And Peter Falk, as O'Brien, represents Berle in the murder trial. (Uncle Miltie, seen all this week with Mike Douglas, returns Saturday as host of the Hollywood Palace, and again next Monday on "The Lucy Show.")

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews of Recent TV Programs

Program: "Salute to Stan Laurel," aired last Tuesday on channel 2.

As a variety special, this hour touched all bases, included a couple of strike-outs and several foul balls.

Host Dick Van Dyke pleasantly handled his emcee chores and had his studio audience doubled over with laughter in a monologue illustrating why people laugh at others' pain. A two-bagger.

Bob Newhart, in monologue portrayal of a children's show TV host, commanded his young charges to blacklist a sponsor who had dropped him. A triple.

Buster Keaton and Lucille Ball in a pantomime about a park and a policeman were merely passable. A single.

Audrey Meadows played the heroine in a spoof on "The Perils of Pauline", serials of the good old days. There was one scene during which Miss Meadows was about to lose her head to a buzz-saw.

Using silent-screen techniques, her emotions were audibly displayed to the audience. The flashed caption read:

"Did James Bond really start this way?"

Miss Meadows was superb as was the content of her skit. A home-run.

By contrast, Cesar Romero, Tina Louise, Leonid Kinskey and Louis Nye were wasted in overdone trivia about making silent movies. Foul balls and then a pop-out fly to the infield.

The worst of the special, a strike-out, originated with Phil Silvers, a man who ordinarily could bat in the clean-up spot.

Somewhere along the way, Phil mistakenly got the idea that this was a "Salute to Phil Silvers." He came across all ego.

Critic Bert Resnik of "TeleVues"

The best moments of all were the film clips from the old Laurel and Hardy films, slapstick in the classic tradition.

Critic Cynthis Lowry of AP

Program: "National Citizenship Test," aired last Tuesday on channel 2.

The questions touched on such matters as how many years a senator is elected for, whether the President is head of the legislative branch, the names of the two senators in one's own state (41% of the national test sample couldn't name either), search warrants, double jeopardy, the right to bear arms, the fifth amendment, prayer in schoolrooms, citizens' arrests and the rights of dissenters to attack our Viet Nam policy, talk about the over-throw of the government and denounce organized religion.

The only question I got wrong concerned census takers—I thought I could refuse to give them information if I wanted to, and the notion still appeals to me.

DES MOINES WOMAN WASHES 208 DIAPERS A WEEK

Reason for washathon: 2 sets of twins, children of Mr. & Mrs. Richard Frazer of Des Moines, Iowa.

She depends on her 10-year-old Maytag and it never lets her down

Imagine the havoc a washer breakdown would cause here with 4 kids in diapers. It hasn't happened, and the washer's 10 years old. Maytag dependability is no accident. It's the result of quality that's designed into every one of the many parts that go into every Maytag Washer. And you get Maytag's basic dependability features in every washer Maytag makes—regardless of price!

Here are basic dependability features found on every Maytag made. Virtually indestructible pump. Rugged agitator drive, time-proven in millions of Maytags. Rust-resistant cabinets. Metered fill. Automatic water level control. Automatic water temperature control. Swirl-away draining action that removes lint and dirt from around clothes, not through them. Adjustable leveling legs. Rust-proof lid hinges. Safety lid stops action in seconds.

SPECIAL

G-T 7 LAUNCH—Astronauts Frank Borman and James A. Lovell are due to leave the pad at Cape Kennedy at 11:30 a.m. for their 14-day mission, including a rendezvous today with the second-stage booster and later (Dec. 13) rendezvous manuevers with the G-T 6 capsule. Color coverage is planned on all networks, with pre-launch activities beginning as early as 9 a.m. (ch. 4). NBC plans split-screen telecasts during the morning's Penn State-Maryland grid clash.

CHRISTMAS PARADE—The 19th annual Christmas Lane Parade from Huntington Park will receive live 2-hour coverage starting at 7 p.m., ch. 5. Stan Chambers and Dorothy Gardiner co-host the event, which this year has as its theme "Christ in Christmas."

SHINDIG! — The famous jazz and blues festival at Richmond-on-Thames, England, is seen in a 2-part color tape today and Thursday at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7. Jimmy O'Neill hosts, with today's segment including the Animals, the T-Bones, the Brian Auger Trinity, the Moody Blues and Georgie Fame.

SECRET AGENT—Return premiere. The British-produced series starring Patrick McGoohan moves into the 8:30 p.m. hour, ch. 2, vacated by the shift of "O'Brien" to Friday. Opener guestars Griffith Jones as a British official stationed in Paris, and being blackmailed by an international ring. Security agent John Drake finds the case fraught with international implications. (Another British series, "The Saint," is due for a network hour next season.)

LAWRENCE WELK— A special Currier and Ives edition of the musical hour recreates the colorful American era depicted by the two famous lithographers, with scenes set on sleighs, at a park bandstand, on deck of a clipper ship, a formal ballroom, on the steps of a stately mansion and in a 19th century drawing room. All the cast are costumed in the finery of the era at 8:30 p.m., in color, channel 7.

OUR COVER

Mary Poppins, a new doll so authentic you'll think she flew right out of the Walt Disney film that inspired her. This foot-tall doll with "bendable" arms was specially sculptured to resemble actress Julie Andrews in her Academy Award-winning role. From the doll's rooted hair, which is fashioned in a bun, to her high black shoes, she's dressed just like her motion picture prototype. Her outfit even includes doll-size copies of Mary Poppins' wondrous umbrella and magical carpet bag. Among additional costume changes available for the doll are a party dress with matching bonnet, nanny's work dress and apron, as seen in the film. Made by Horsman Dolls, Inc. And the new arts have come to many other toyland items.

EVOLUTION OF A YULETIDE TREE

March of the Christmas Dolls

By Maymie R. Krythe

CHRISTMAS trees have moved along with progress ever since Martin Luther set up a simple, candle lighted tree long ago to delight his children, and the forms of this seasonal decoration are varied and delightful, none more so than that enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Miller, 3920 Lime Ave.

First set up in 1963, the Millers' version of Christmas tree has now become an annual custom in their home. It is about eight feet tall and is mounted on a circular base, four feet in diameter. A little koala from Australia is clinging to the pole that forms the trunk of the tree.

FROM THE tip to the sides of the base are different kinds and colors of fancy tinsel ropes; and in between these are seen strings of colored lights. The circular base is covered with cotton to give the effect of snow-covered ground. And on it dolls dressed in costumes of different lands appear to be walking in pairs around the circle.

Mrs. Miller, an elementary teacher in the Los Angeles School system at South Gate, became interested in foreign dress several years ago when she took up folk dancing with the Long Beach Recreation Department. Then she started her hobby of collecting dolls in their native costumes. Friends have contributed to her group; but she added many others when she traveled in several European countries while on sabbatical leave.

Also she and her husband collected other dolls when they visited his native land of Austria. He was born near Vienna and has fond memories of the Christmas trees his family set up, and on which real candles burned.

MILLER MUST be given credit for the plan to feature the collection of dolls from all around the globe. The project presented a problem as the figures could not be seen under the drooping branches of a regular tree. So he conceived the idea of an artificial tree where the costumed dolls could be properly displayed and enjoyed.

It is interesting to see this distinctive lighted Christmas tree, as a whole; also it's interesting to study the individual figures that make up the complete picture. There are several dolls from Germany — one from the Schwarzwald, the beautiful Black Forest, wears the familiar dress, with full skirt, apron, and wide hat with the characteristic red pompons of her district. Another German doll is about a century old; and an English doll of the same age has a flowered print dress that still, after many years, retains its original gay colors.

From Hong Kong and the Orient come dolls in gay kimonos; there's a Chinese woman in bright blue, also a Japanese with a wide hat and colorful garb, that presents an attractive picture. A Mexican couple catches the eye, for the husband wears an out-size hat and striped serape, while the senora's native dress is if vivid hues.

IN CONTRAST is a pair from Greenland wearing garments made of real fur. The man carries a small seal in his arms; and his wife's necklace reveals how rich the husband is. Some dolls from Peru are worth noting. One carries a baby on her back, while the man has a bundle of wood on his shoulders. Both wear the big round hats of their country, high boots, and costumes of heavy woven wool.

There's a pair of dolls, too, from the Island of Malta, the man sports a red stocking cap, while his partner has a black one and cape of same color. A French couple from the Loire River region in native dress walks near a pair from Holland. The woman models the well known Dutch lace cap, while the man is garbed in baggy trousers and wooden shoes. An American Indian squaw in native dress contrasts strongly with a lovely bride from Malta. The latter looks charming in a ruffled white lace dress and wedding veil.

Two unusual dolls, only one inch tall, in crocheted costumes are about 100 years old and have arms and legs that actually move.

There are also Italian tarentella dancers and Spanish flamenco performers. One of the latter holds her castanets and is garbed in a blue dress with white polka dots.

THERE ARE also dolls from Switzerland and the Scandinavian countries. Some very interesting examples are from the fishing town of Nazare, in Portugal. The girl doll wears the required seven petticoats, which you can count if you wish. The men of this town carry their money in tasseled stocking caps, and wear Scottish plaid shirts. It is said that many years ago some men from Scotland were shipwrecked near here and the survivors settled on this coast.

This outstanding tree at the Rudolph Miller home revolves by means of an electric motor; and the movement heightens the spectacle as the figures apparently move around the circle. Since the dolls represent many different lands, and are happily joining together in the unusual Christmas scene, this modernistic tree is a distinctive symbol of global friendship, with peoples of varied nationalities uniting to celebrate the world's most important religious holiday.

If Mrs. Miller's mother, Nina Cuthbert Jackson, one of Long Beach's early distinguished residents, could see this modern Christmas tree, she would find it a great contrast to the one her daughter enjoyed as a child. For in their yard the Cuthbert family had an evergreen, which each year they carefully dug up, and took into the house, where it was adorned with various items in true "Good Old Days" fashion.

LAST OF HER KIND AFLOAT

Sea Veteran to Sail Again

By Frank H. Black Jr.

THE OLD LADY—last of her kind afloat—is going to sea again.

After having been tied to a pier in the Port of Long Beach the past 10 years, the 275-foot, 4,000-ton Lumberlady is now getting an overhauling at the Craig Shipyard for duty again on the high seas.

The veteran Pacific Coast steam schooner was sold recently by Owens-Parks Lumber Co. to the Ensenada firm of Rucusos Consolidados de Mexico. A survivor of the Battle of Tarawa in World War II, she will be used to transport volcanic aggregate from San Quentin in Baja California to San Diego and Long Beach.

In 1918, the Lumberlady, along with six sister ships, was built for the Argentine government at Ecorse, Mich., on the Detroit River by the Great Lakes Engineering Works. But the ships were not delivered to the Argentines because during this country's second year of participation in World War I an agency of the U.S. Shipping Board seized all vessels in shipyards.

AFTER THE WAR, the Lumberlady—christened the Cottonplant—was sold to a private firm and she steamed out on her maiden voyage across Lakes Erie and Ontario, through the locks of the Welland Canal, down the Saint Lawrence River and to her first port of call at Beaumont, Tex.

There she loaded out a cargo of square timbers for England.

Over the next several years, the Cottonplant carried lumber and general cargo out of Gulf ports to Europe and South America. When she was sold to a Pacific Coast lumber company, her name was changed to the F. A. Warner.

Then another change of name took place when the ship was sold to the Coos Bay Lumber Co. Her third name was the Lumberman.

In 1940 she was sold to Owens-Parks and renamed the Lumberlady.

A MAN WHO has seen much of the Lady over the years is Capt. C. E. Berry, marine superintendent for Owens-Parks in the Port of Long Beach. He saw her arrive in Beaumont on her maiden voyage in 1919, was with O-P when she was purchased in 1940 and saw her many times during World War II, sailing under the lengthy title of the United States Army Transport Lumberlady.

"During those war years, the Lady hauled general military cargo — from beans to bullets — between Hawaii and various South Pacific battle fronts," Capt. Berry said. "She even hauled barges loaded with supplies."

He added that the Lady saw a lot of action in the war and was in "the thick of things" during the famous Battle of Tarawa in November, 1943.

Not a fast ship by today's standards, the Lumberlady had a top speed of 10 knots plus during the war years. "I was told that her speed depended on how scared she was. If things were real hot and she was really scared, she'd move along at 11 knots or so," Capt. Berry said.

THE ARMY returned the Lady to Owens-Parks in 1946. Capt. Berry said she underwent extensive repairs and then was put back on the lumber run between Oregon-Washington and Long Beach.

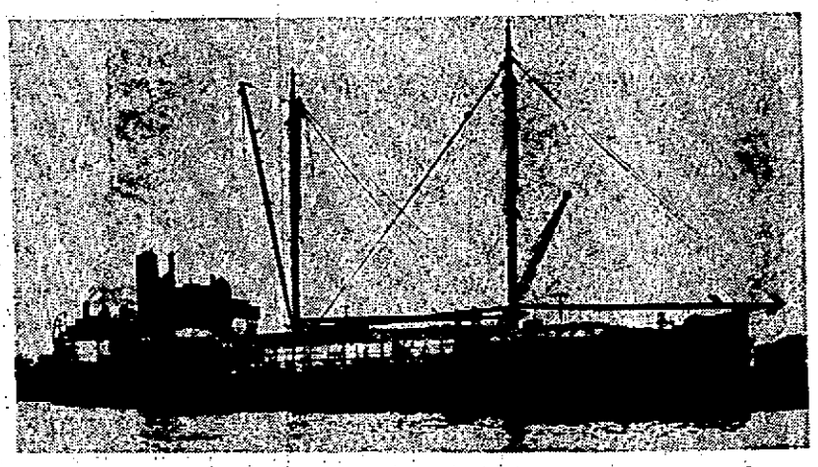

In 1955, she was taken out of service because it would have been too expensive to change her power plant from steam to diesel and to fit her out with new lumber-handling equipment to make her competitive in the lumber trade.

According to Capt. Berry, before World War II there were more than 100 steam lumber schooners working the Pacific Coast. "Now she is the last steam schooner on the seas," he said.

Just as she first started out carrying the vital building material, lumber, the old Lady is going to sea again to carry a vital, new building material for myriad construction projects in Southern California.

Veteran steam schooner Lumberlady is being readied in dry dock to go back to the sea after a period of retirement. She served in World War II and long in the coastal lumber service, as shown in peacetime photo below.

Push-button marionettes in many characters are easy for young hands to manipulate.

New arts have come to toyland

Op, Pop and Poppins

Lazy Daisy is 24 inches of cuddly canine that tots, teen-agers and college-age collectors find irresistible. She has super-shaggy coat, "bedroom" eyes, hair curlers and—well, she's fun. Pussycat, Pig and Puppy Dog (below) vie in toyland for "op" honors. There is also an elephant.

By John Ronson

THE NEW ARTS have come to toyland. You may not see giant soup cans on toy store shelves, but one look around will reveal how op and pop art are reflected in the new toys for Christmas.

Little charm dolls, for example, wear clothes with op art patterns. Stuffed animals, in pop art fashion, are "tattooed" with colorful tapestry designs all over their bodies.

Favorite characters abound in dolldom. There's a supercalafragilisticexpialidocious Mary Poppins doll, looking just like Julie Andrews in her Academy Award-winning role; a Patty Duke doll, which comes wih an autographed photo of that teen-age Academy Award winner, and a new Cinderella doll set, featuring interchangeable heads and costumes so that the doll can be transformed from scullery maid to belle of the ball and back again. A "glass" slipper is included so you can be sure she's the real Cinderella.

"Pose-able" limbs, rooted side-flip hairdo and two-piece casual outfit are features of Patty Duke, TV star who's now a doll star, too.

PLENTIFUL are new high fashion dolls and hair fashion dolls, whose coifs can be dyed almost any color, or changed with stylish wigs and wiglets. But the fashion vogue doesn't change Raggedy Ann and Andy. Now in their second half century of popularity, those favorites with the red yarn hair and shoe button eyes have newly designed night clothes, but they are made of old-fashioned cotton flannel and have sleeping caps to match.

New baby dolls walk, wave, sleep and awaken automatically.

Virtually all of the better known spies have come in from the cold to the warmth of the Christmas spirit in toyland. There are James Bond and The Man From U. N. C. L. E. games and guns, and a vast variety of other secret agent paraphernalia to satisfy the playrooms' counter-espionage corps.

STILL MORE realism is evidenced in the rugged steel cars and trucks which now make powerful motor sounds without the use of batteries.

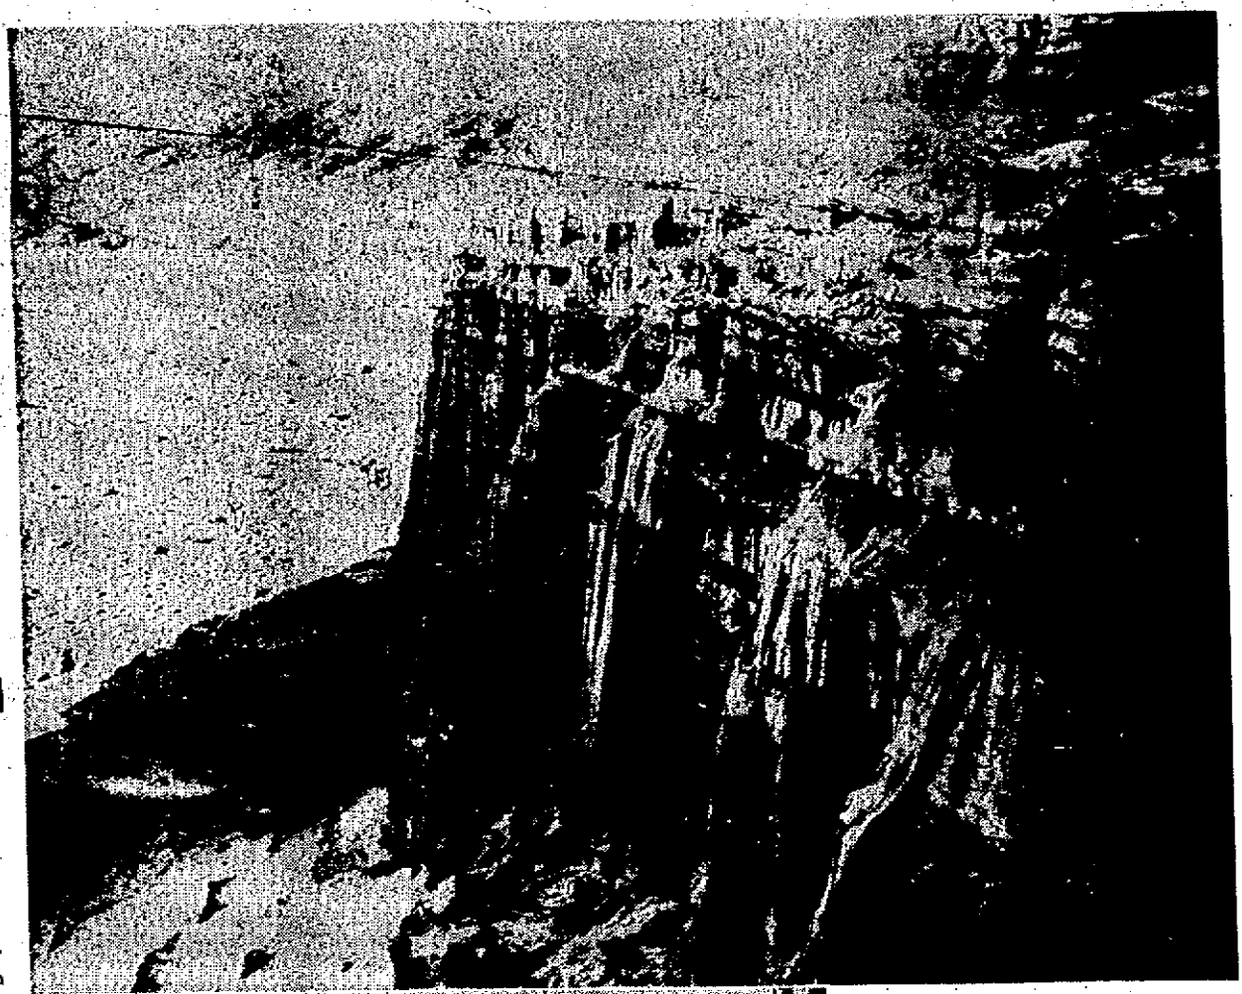

There are tigers in toyland, too. Some are made to ride on, others to cuddle and sleep with, and still others to dress up bikes and trikes.

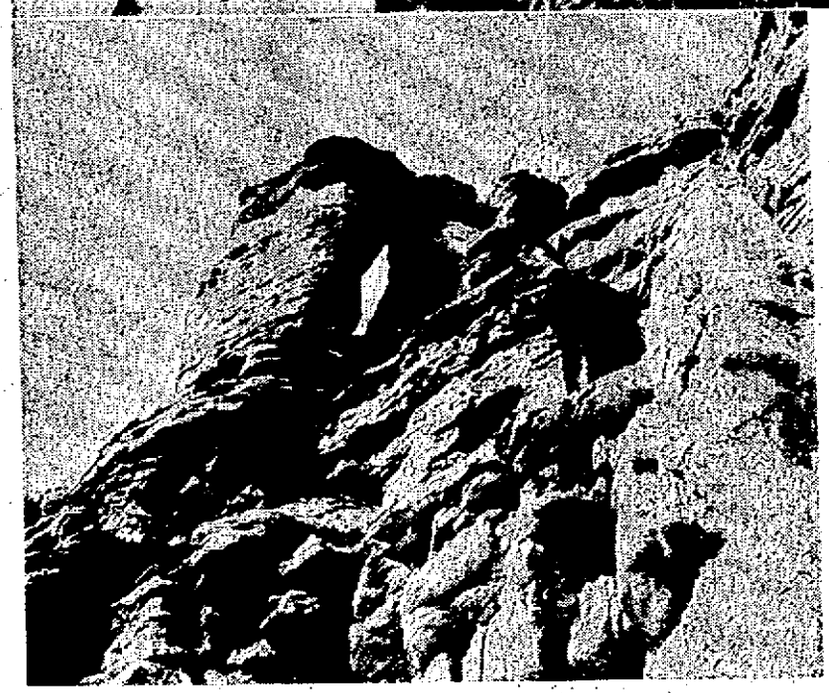

For those youngsters who have everything? How about a "mink" stuffed animal? You can choose from bears, puppy dogs and pussycats. Each has had his fluffy coat "tipped" to give it that warm, luxurious, mink-y look.

Sculptured Castles in the Sun

By VI CHAMBERLAIN

Spectacular formations abound in Red Rock Canyon, desert area northward 175 miles from Long Beach. Photographers, rockhounds, motion picture companies and nature lovers find the canyon of special interest. Above, formation known as "The Citadel" guards the surrounding terrain. Left, the "Closed Cathedral." The aperture can be imagined to be a religious figure with arms outstretched as if beckoning gently. Formation is believed to have been caused by an earthslide.

ONE NEED not see "The Acropolis," "Buried City," "Temple of the Sun," and other forms of ancient and modern architecture. About 175 miles from Long Beach, one may view such wind-and-sand sculptured castles, temples, cathedrals, sphinxes, domes, spires and gargoyles in rainbow-splashed Red Rock Canyon.

John L. Von Blon, who wrote considerably about the area, is credited with being among the first to discover the valley which is 15 miles long.

The predominance of red pigment in the formation of the weird cliffs, determined the name of Red Rock Cayon.

Photographers, geologists, rockhounds and motion picture companies find the area of special interest.

VOLCANIC mud twisted, swirled and fashioned by water, sun and dry winds, has created eerie pillars, arcades and figures; making this a miniature Bryce Canyon.

Indian pottery and oher artifacts have been found in one of the caves where prehistoric monsters once lurked. William Mulholland, chief engineer of the Los Angeles Aqueduct, once found a petrified bone of a sabre-toothed tiger there. It is now on exhibit at Exposition Park Museum in Los Angeles.

Joshua trees and yuccas punctuate the reddish-brown sand gorges. And in the springtime, blue, white and gold wild flowers mantle the lower region, fringed by scarlet "Indian paintbrushes." Baby-blue eyes and the infrequent Magenta Mariposa lilies contribute a colorful mosaic to the grandeur of the landscape.

SHUTTERBUGS click ecstatically and artists or daubers alike try to capture the mystery and beauty of the canyon on canvas.

The '49ers passed through the canyon after leaving Death Valley on their way to Los Angeles or the Mother Lode country. Today, following the same route but skimming off from high-speed Highway 14, gem-seekers park their campers or take a jeep or Honda in search of semi-precious stones such as opals found in the confines of this fantastic citadel.

Centuries-old fossil beds lie virtually unexplored, intriguing the imagination of those who thrill to adventure and relics of bygone cultures.

Desperados and fierce bandits "holed up" in the shadowed recesses of a group of rocks named "The Acropolis" by an early explorer. From this headquarters, black-masked robbers sprang out to pounce upon the hapless drivers who freighted gold through from the Gerro Gordo Mine at Owens Lake to Los Angeles, in early days.

WESTERN MOVIES and spectacular films with desert or wildly unique backgrounds are shot against the backdrop of Red Rock Canyon.

Efforts are being made to dedicate the area as a state park so that all may enjoy the peculiar figures carved by nature; and to preserve for future generations, the relics and historical gems that may be uncovered through controlled and scientific endeavors. No definite decision has been made as yet but the State Resources Agency is to be requested to make a study.

Although there are no public campgrounds or accommodations in the canyon at this time, tourists and desert folk picnic in the romantic protection of rocks known as "The Pillars of Hercules," "Pan's Pipe Organ" and many other groupings; some listening perhaps to the dire wail of a stray coyote as the moon appears. Or perhaps shivering as a dry wind shrieks through the stark multicolored columns and pillars.

A pleasant drive from Los Angeles on Highway 14 (old Highway 6) takes one through Mint Canyon, past Palmdale, Lancaster and Mojave; then about 35 miles north to the canyon.

SCIENCE ON THE MOVE

The 'Educated' Beam

The laser, capable of radiating light hotter than the sun's surface, is creating its own demands by demonstrating its capabilities in many fields, including medicine.

By ED MATOVICH

AHH—THE eight-legged Venusian is in the center of the target screen, and at a range of only 11 million miles.

Change the laser controls, press the energy release button, wait a few seconds, and, there! He's been vaporized, never to trouble our space lanes again.

Sound like something out of Buck Rogers? Yes. But many a man on the street has been misled to believe the fledgling laser will soon be turned into an interplanetary weapon of mass destruction.

I must confess, at North American Aviation's Autonetics Research Center laboratory in Anaheim we have accidentally killed a fly or two. But there have been no human volunteers.

It is true, laser beams may some day prove useful in long-distance weaponry, because there is no curved trajectory to consider. Before that day comes, certain problems must be solved, and the laser will have long since made major radar, communications, medical, welding and tooling contributions.

THE LASER is a sophisticated flashlight with an "educated" beam.

Ordinary light "glows" to help us see because it has many waves which reflect in many directions. Laser light, emitted by a crystal rod or gas tube, has one wave length and one direction.

The result is a pin-point beam hotter and brighter than the sun's surface.

The first laser was developed only six years ago, but technological advancements needed to make it useful have been rapid.

A high-power pulsed laser already has been used in an eye operation, re-attaching a retina through formation of scar tissue with the laser beam. If a more practical laser could be made (present-day devices use high voltages and arch-discharge lamps, which occasionally explode), there is little doubt that it could be used for microcauterizing diseased areas, "welding" severed nerves, and perhaps for micro-surgery, cutting tissue by vaporizing rather than by scalpel.

AND THE LASER is being used at Autonetics in some intriguing studies. Combined with special optics and other devices, it produces three-dimensional TV-type pictures, recognizes and identifies specific words on a printed page, and measures distances up to 20 miles with extreme accuracy.

While laser theory is simple, the working art represents a combination of theoretical and experimental physics, chemistry, metallurgy, optics, electronics, and systems engineering. It is not difficult to see why practical understanding of the laser and associated equipment has just begun to develop.

Scientists have discovered that many exotic elements such as europium, and gases such as helium and xenon have lasing qualities. But no single laser can combine all the attributes necessary to all possible applications.

A great deal of work is being done to improve laser materials and devices, with an estimated 500 groups in the U. S., including several dozen in Southern California, engaged in research. Immediate problems include increasing power yields, pulse energies and flash frequencies.

AT AUTONETICS we have improved laser lenses, rods, couplers, and Q-switches. Our researchers also have produced a giant amplifier which radiates a 160,000,000-watt beam, and are working on a new high-powered continuous-operation laser structure, and nuclear power sources.

Lower power density lasers have been developed that can weld exotic metals. Relatively high initial costs and low production rates of such welds are limiting factors. But there are always specialized applications where cost is secondary and, using a poor pun, it is here the laser may shine.

For the near future, radars probably will represent the largest single practical use of the laser. They will be used by aircraft to determine range and velocity, avoid terrain and spot overhead obstacles, and by space vehicles for rendezvous and docking operations.

Continuous low-power gas lasers open up another field which Autonetics is considering—communications.

The amount of information which can be carried on an electromagnetic beam is directly related to the beam's frequency, which ranges between a trillion and a quadrillion cycles per second.

THEORETICALLY, all the radio, FM, television and telephone conversations in the United States at any given moment could be carried simultaneously on a single gas laser beam. But generating light beams is one thing; harnessing them to carry signals is another.

It is true the laser cannot move into a ready-made market as the now-famous transistor did not long ago. Rather, it must create its own demand by demonstrating its capabilities. It is doing just that.

We don't pretend the laser is a logical cocktail party topic. But we certainly welcome public interest. With a lot of work and a little luck, perhaps we can make the interest justified.

(Editor's Note: Author Matovich is a senior research engineer at North American Aviation's Research Center at Anaheim.)

Experimental laser range finder developed by Autonetics Navigation Systems Division successfully fixed distances up to 15 miles in tests on Mojave Desert. Left above, spots and plumes are etched inside polystyrene, glass and plexiglass samples by laser's intense beam of light. A lens focuses laser's light at a point inside the sample, creating a fracture and damage effects yield data on performance characteristics of experimental lasers. Left, the author monitors crystal laser's output when fired through amplifier.

This Is a Laser

Six years ago Physicist T. H. Maiman pumped a series of light impulses into a cigarette-shaped ruby rod. A beam narrower and more intense than any known by man was ejected.

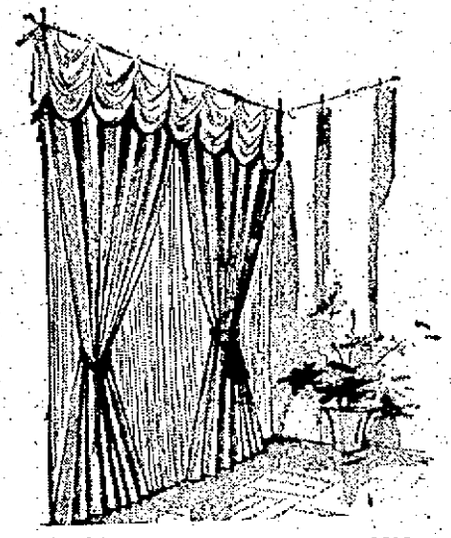

Scientists were quick to spot potentials of the coherent beam-producing device, now known as the laser (which stands for Light Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation). Beams of light theoretically could transmit messages, weld exotic metals, cut through materials neatly and accurately.

Development of the laser has been termed one of the great scientific break-throughs of our time. The following article describes some of its seemingly limitless applications.

Symphony in Blue

By Stella George

TONES OF blue create a symphony in color in the Los Alamitos residence of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gormley and family, 12141 Chianti Ave.

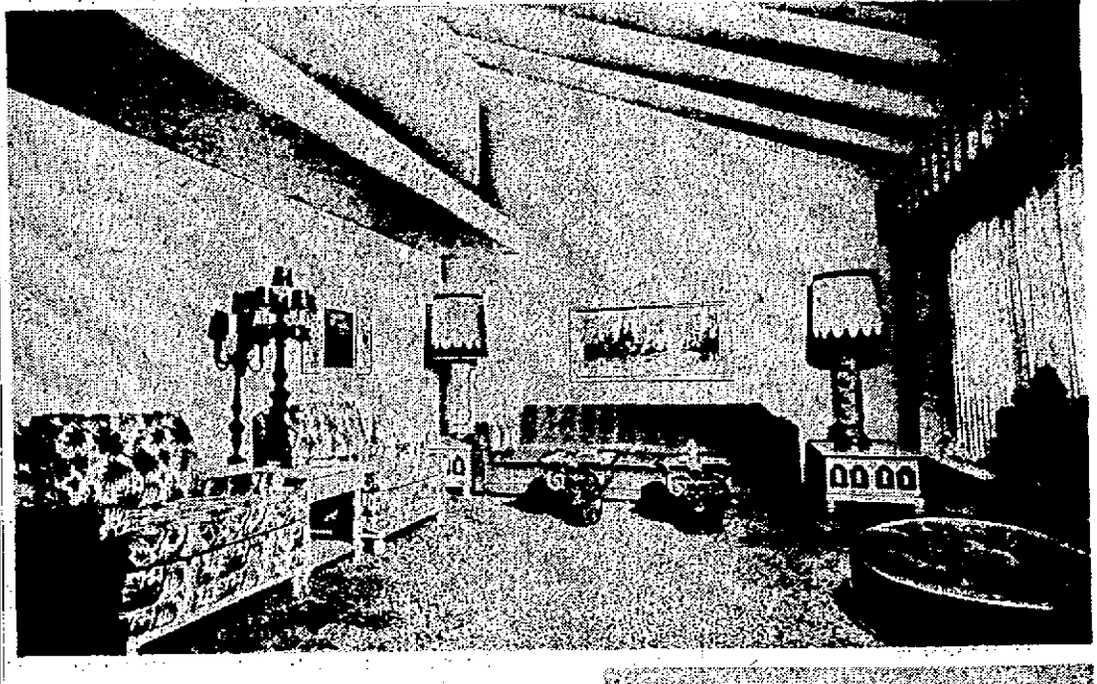

Changes have been made in the dwelling to the extent that other residents of the area with similar homes are scarcely able to recognize the basic structure. Professional touches were given by Howard Volen, interior designer.

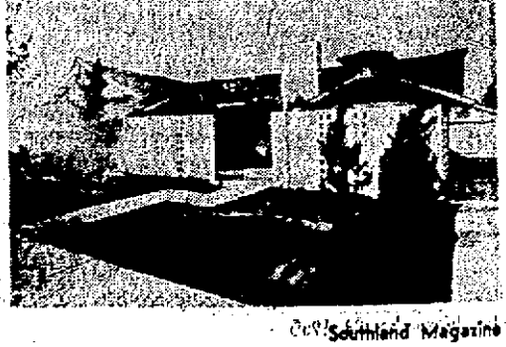

Major structural changes and additions include the building of a new bedroom, a den, and a passageway to both.

Establishment of an entry was achieved by placing a filigree screen separating the living room on the right from the entrance area. A low chest with a mirror above are at the wall to the left.

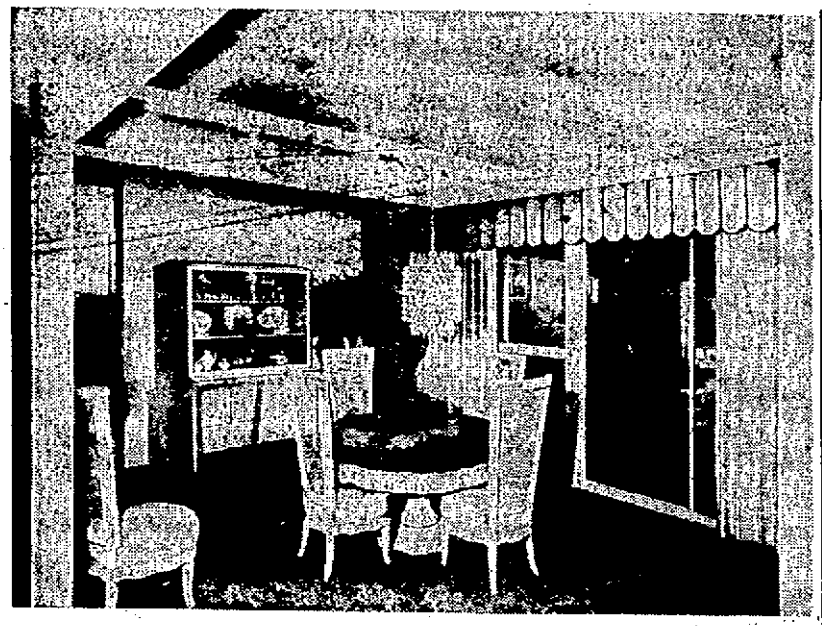

CARPETING in the living quarters is thick wool turf in a shade of Wedgewood blue. Various tones of blue predominate throughout the rooms, each blending with or enhancing another shade. The sofa at the far end of the room is royal blue. Handsome lamps at either end have white shades accented with light blue and darker blue velvet trim. Twin lounge chairs have a blue and white floral design. A silk velvet ottoman is of plum shade. Backing the fili-

Blends of blue predominate in the color scheme of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gormley and family. Top, family's much-used den is one of additions made to the original house. It enjoys access to the pool. In the center is a view of the living room—sofa and chairs in blue, ottoman in plum and the lamps with blue velvet trim. Right, a view of the exterior approach to the home.

What was originally intended to be a family room is now a formal dining area. Table is of continental height, chairs are done in blue.

—Staff Photos by JOE RISINGER

Patio area is, in effect, two sections but united. One, left, is poolside and the other, below, is a covered extension of the house.

gree divider is a love seat done in green with the woodwork finished in antique blue. Colorful hanging lamps above can be seen through the divider.

Two coffee tables in front of the sofa are replicas of Corinthian columns. Draperies are blue over white curtains. The valance is scalloped, trimmed in blue velvet, an original design by Voien.

The family room area (adjoining the kitchen) has been transformed into a formal dining room. A crystal chandelier sheds dim, flattering light over the round, low, continental height table. Imported Italian chairs are high backed, upholstered in sky blue. A small console hangs on one wall, the former finished in antique gold. The rooms view a patio and blue pool in the rear garden. Blues in various shades, with many touches of green are carried out in the patio furniture.

ORIGINALLY, there was an open bar at one end of the kitchen which separated the far end of the room. Antique white doors now hide the bar; however, the doors may be opened when desired, and on the kitchen side all bar equipment is ready for service. Below the bar on the living room side is a hidden stereo unit. Speakers are placed strategically throughout the house and patio, those in the living room hidden above one of the low ceilings.

The master bedroom is pink and pretty. Carpeting, walls, spread and accessories are in pink. Furniture is antique white as are shutter doors which enclose large closets.

Sherri, 7, has her room done in shades of orange and persimmon. Her spread is gay with butterflies, and a canopy tops her bed. The room is not large but there is space for her piano, chests of drawers, stuffed toys, and even a tiny desk and chair.

Douglas, 15, has a room furnished to masculine tastes. Carpeting is olive-green, and he even has a large, comfortable leather chair in which to relax when time permits.

Pamela, 17, enjoys a room done in blue and green tones. The bedspread has blue and green stripes to match the canopy overhead. All important feminine accessories — even a hairdryer — are at hand. All three bedrooms appear much larger than they actually are because of the well-chosen and well-placed furniture.

THE DEN is a combination family room, den, study, all-purpose rumpus room and "relaxation" room. It overlooks the patio through glass doors. The sofa is upholstered in olive and blue, and, again, blue tones predominate. A comfortable leather chair has no label on it; however, one glance discloses that it is reserved for father Gormley. A desk and chair are across the room from the sofa. Built-in closets and cupboards are on either side of the window (across from the patio.) Draperies are soft white with blue trim above at the valance line. Accessories include such treasures as an original painting by Bruce Hill — three dimensional, in shades of blue and green.

The Gormley home is living proof of what can be done to a tract home to make it appear custom designed throughout. It is a home that glows with personality and color.

Come To Our Big Birthday Celebration

Tantalizing Cherry Duckling

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

DELICIOUS roast duckling makes any dinner a special occasion. It's world famous for its elegance and versatility with accompanying foods.

This tantalizing cherry duckling with spicy almond rice is a practical suggestion for Sunday family dinner and is sufficiently elegant for a buffet for guests.

The combination of orange rind and allspice provides a fresh piquancy to the rice and almonds, lending a unique flavor to the cherries. The slivered almonds add a pleasing crunch to the spicy rice.

Depending on the number of guests and their penchant for cherry duckling, a second quartered duckling can be kept in reserve conveniently in the kitchen to replenish the chafing dish on the buffet.

A molded salad, prepared in advance, hot rolls, coffee and a light desert further simplify the preparation and serving of this delightful buffet.

To quarter a duckling, use a sharp knife or poultry shears. First cut lengthwise along the backbone, and then turn the duckling over and cut through the breast bone. Finally, quarter each half of the duckling midway between the wing and leg.

Cherry Duckling With Spicy Almond Rice

1 frozen duckling (4½ to 5 pounds) defrosted and quartered
¾ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1 can (1 pound) pitted red sour cherries in water
⅓ cup chopped onion
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup uncooked rice
⅓ cup slivered almonds
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
½ teaspoon allspice

Wash and drain duckling quarters. Sprinkle ½ teaspoon salt evenly over duckling quarters. Brown both sides of quarters in oil, turning as needed to brown evenly. Drain cherries, save juice. Pour ½ cup cherry juice and onion over duckling quarters. Cover; cook slowly until duckling is tender, about 1¼ hours. Remove duckling from pan. Drain off excess fat. Blend cherries and remaining juice, sugar and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; add to pan drippings. Cook stirring constantly until thickened. Cook rice as directed on package. Melt butter or margarine; add almonds and brown lightly. Add cooked rice, orange rind and allspice; mix lightly. Serve duckling on rice and top with sauce. Yield: 4 servings.

Roasted Duckling With Cranberry Orange Stuffing

1 frozen duckling (4½ to 5 pounds) defrosted
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup cranberries
¼ cup sugar
⅓ cup orange pieces, drained
¼ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
4 cups (½-inch) bread cubes
6 to 8 orange slices for garnish, optional
Whole cranberries for garnish, optional
Watercress or parsley for garnish, optional

Wash and drain duckling, dry skin gently with paper toweling. Sprinkle body and neck cavities evenly with ½ teaspoon salt. Saute celery and onion slowly in butter or margarine until tender but not brown. Add cranberries and sugar; cook slowly until skins of cranberries begin to break. Stir in orange pieces, juice and rind. Add bread cubes and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; mix carefully. Stuff duck cavities loosely with stuffing mixture. Skewer neck skin to back. Cover opening of body cavity with aluminum foil and tie legs together loosely. Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F) until meat on drumsticks is tender, about 3 hours. Serve plain or garnish with orange slices, cranberries and watercress or parsley. Yield: 4 servings.

Shutters add interest and are especially useful for a summer cottage that is closed part of the year. Pattern 389, which shows how to make shutters and gives actual-size cutting guides for decorative designs, is 35 cents. This pattern also is one of four full-size patterns in the Homestead Improvement Packet No. 30, all for $1. A profitable summer ahead with these patterns. Send orders to: Pattern Dept., Southland Magazine, Independent-Press-Telegram, Bedford Hills, N.Y.

On the Water

With just about everyone on or in the water these days, here are a few hints for protecting your camera from water hazards. Don't leave it lying around the boat. A sudden pitch or roll can send it flying into the scuppers or worse, overboard. Do keep it handy where you can grab it for that sudden picture opportunity. A good way, if you own the boat, is to fasten a suitable plastic or wooden box to the bulkhead or some other convenient spot. With the lid on, it will keep the water out; it can't get loose unless the boat upsets, and it's always at hand.

When taking pictures from a motor boat never rest the camera on any part of the boat if the boat is running.

COIN ROUNDUP

Canada Types

By Maurice M. Gould

A COMPARABLE situation to that which presently exists in American coin collecting has now taken place in Canadian numismatics — the trend toward type collecting.

For many years the U. S. collector simply filled out his board by date and mintmark, and this method brought many millions of new collectors into the field. But each succeeding year witnessed a sharp rise in the prices of all numismatic material, until the point was reached where the average collector could not afford to complete his sets.

A series of coin boards and holders was even issued for dates only, leaving out the mintmarks, but this method, too, has proved costly; the trend naturally veered to type coins.

THERE IS a boom at the present time in U. S. type collecting. Five or six years ago, when I first saw the definite trend toward this field, I predicted that type collecting would be the popular numismatic mainstay of the future.

Sideview Token

We can now observe the same situation developing in Canadian coin collecting. The completion of the regular Canadian series is becoming too costly for the young, average collector, and the natural course is to turn to type collecting. During the next few years, type coins will become more and more popular, with various albums being issued to aid the collector in reaching his goal.

What is a type coin?

This is one coin selected from an entire series, such as a Canadian small cent. The least expensive of each ruler, in the finest condition possible, is used in making a type set. In this way, the rare and scarce dates are avoided.

A type set is both historical and informative, and adequately depicts the history of any nation's coinage.

AS MORE and more of these coins go into permanent collections, they will become increasingly difficult to obtain and will show a regular increase in value. They are the finest potential for a well-rounded investment, as well as the real pleasure of numismatics.

The time to begin your Canadian type set is now! I look for the Canadian type coins to mount steadily in value and, in some cases, shortages will certainly develop.

Of special interest are the coins such as the 1858 20-cent piece; this denomination was issued for a period of only one year, and many have been melted down and mutilated over the years.

Canadian silver dollars, by types, have already become quite popular, and the demand has been strong for this entire series.

It will be necessary to settle for coins which are not in uncirculated condition in the Victoria series, because they are becoming more and more difficult to obtain.

ONE PHASE which should not be overlooked is the collecting of coins of the provinces. For example, only one coin was issued for Prince Edward Island, the 1-cent piece of 1871. Four hundred thousand were struck, and while this coin is easily obtained in ordinary condition, it is scarce in top condition. Foreign type collectors of the world greatly value this coin.

The same applies to the coins of New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

A collection of type Canadian Tokens is both historical and unusual. The "Sideview Token" of the Bank of Montreal, issued in 1938 and 1839, is one of the most sought-after tokens in Canadian collecting, and comes in the half-penny and penny denominations.

Even the collectors of the 1890s were always looking for these desirable pieces.

TO ORDER the "Coins of Special Value" booklet, send 50 cents with name and address to Coin Roundup, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. Allow three weeks for delivery.

Californians and Poet Frost

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

BOOKS about Robert Frost will be legion. When the big parade to the publishers' presses begins, in its ranks will be found volumes ponderously pedantic, dolorously didactic, and there will be thoughtful works of scholarship with probing insights into Frost's poetic craft. There will be boring books and exciting ones.

Louis Mertins' "ROBERT FROST: LIFE AND TALKS — WALKING" (University of Oklahoma Press, $7.50) is the first of the exciting ones. It will be a gold mine for all future writers on Frost, and for all who have loved Frost's poetry. It is so obviously a labor of love that it infects the reader with the same emotion. To paraphrase the classic movie plot, it is a case of boy (or rather young man) seeks autograph, boy wins autograph, and boy, at the same time, wins a lifelong precious friendship.

That friendship began in 1932 when Mertins, then living in Long Beach, sent one of his poems to Frost — object, the great poet's autograph. Frost, visiting his son in Southern California, gave not only the autograph, but "an immediate kinship," which was to last to the end of Frost's life. In the 30 years the book records, Frost revealed much of himself. Mertins and his wife visited the poet frequently, in Monrovia, in Boston, Hanover, N.H., and at Amherst. On Frost's visits to California (it will come as a surprise to many that this is his native state) he stayed with the Mertins.

What manner of man was Frost? There were so many facets to this surprising man, and there are so many facets in the way in which Frost revealed himself to the Mertins! In a review such as this we can only flash a handful of nuggets from the gold mine presented us by Mertins.

"Frost loved to talk, and he loved to walk, and he was always happy when he could combine the two. He often mentioned the term 'Talks-walking' . . . Those who knew and understood the poet will agree that his 'Talks-walking' with those he called his friends stand alongside the recorded conversations between Plato and Aristotle." Hardly that, but one can pardon the exaggeration engendered by Frostian enrapture, and agree that Frost's "thinking aloud" will captivate generations of readers.

Frost's love of the land, of the trees, of the flowers, of all nature lead his great friend Mertins to say: "In an age when the classics were familiar, Robert would have been likened to Pan. He was of the very essence of the Arcadian deity-Pan truly. with us, everywhere and forever . . . I never talked with him without my heart likening him to the god of the woods and the fields . . . Lovers of trees, lovers of the land—Pan he is and will be."

Of Frost and religion: "There never seems to have been any criticism of his nonattendance at church. The undeniable goodness of the man seems to have disarmed completely whatever critic might have excoriated him for this matter of default in things spiritual. To Frost, religion was not a matter of some creed 'made to order' but a vast, elemental possession of the human soul."

Ivory tower poet? Not the Frost, who teaching at Methuen, Mass., tackled the problem of some "toughies" in class. "They were a pretty savage gang . . . I remember one day I started to punish one of them. He turned on me with an open knife in his hand. I was pretty rugged and soon had the knife." A superior asked if Frost wanted the boy sent to reform school. "I didn't want to spoil the boy's whole future and I said so."

Humor, says Mertins, "was always a staple literature of the poet's idle hours." "Some of Mark (Twain) is as funny as anything ever written," he told Mertins, "especially I have in mind the first half of Connecticut Yankee. That's the sort of fun-making that makes you fall out of your chair."

This was a man of exquisite poetic beauty and at the same time of Yankee down-to-earthness. Before one has, with regret, laid down the book, one inevitable comparison looms up, one "twin" to Frost presents himself — Thoreau. And as Louis Mertins puts it: "Henry Thoreau and Robert Frost . . . both were reincarnate Gracco-Romans who might have written, the earlier, "Walden Pond," the latter, "North of Boston," "on papyrus a century or two before Christ. Here were two men of today—their day—writing for the many men of tomorrow — any tomorrow."

A TITLE LIKE "THE MULE ON THE MINARET" (Farrar, Straus, $6.95) is worth half the battle to any writer. Alex Waugh's tale of intrigue, his first novel in six years (a long wait for a prolific writer) lives up to the title's promise.

There were many men War I, still very young, with their skins intact, and for whom there seemed to be no place in World War II. Noel Reid was seemingly one of them. But the British army sent the history professor to Beirut. Back in England there are a wife and a couple of children, to whom he has been the soul of devotion. In Beirut he is caught up not only in spying and counterspying, but in the web of beauteous (of course) Diana Challis.

Oxford graduate Nigel Farrar is there, too, engaged in forcing Levantines to spy for Britain. He loves Annette, a rich and (of course) lovely Lebanese.

Then too there are Eve, young English girl, breaking from a background of conservatism; the young Turkish student Aziz; the old army pro Johnson, whose tragedy is that he sees no place for himself in civilian postwar England. There are these and many more emotional casualties of the war, but all play their parts, big and little, in winning the war in the Middle East for the Allies. And speaking of old pros, Alec Waugh retains his standing in the best sense of the expression.

Whence the title? An Arabian proverb says "A man who takes his mule to the top of a minaret must bring it down himself."

THE SUCCESS of Isabelle P. Buckley's four schools in Los Angeles attests convincingly to her philosophy of earliest possible training of children through the old-fashioned theories of firm discipline and training in routine, responsibility and concentration.

Mrs. Buckley's second book on her teaching methods, "COLLEGE BEGINS AT TWO" (Whiteside-Morrow, $4) refutes many concepts of progressive education. She believes that although all children are different, all should be taught phonics in reading and, too, how to think, rather that what.

For parents, "indulgence is out, discipline is in," and a controlled routine of courtesy, good habits, duties and religious faith must be established in the home so teachers can teach in the classroom.

The book includes a commentary on the school curriculum and a subject-by-subject rundown.

Recipe of the Week

SOMETHING different in a pie is this week's prize-winner in the recipe contest, winning $5 for Mrs. Porter Poston, 430 E. 31st St., Wilmington, Calif. The recipe:

Autumn Frozen Praline Pie

1 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
¼ cup light corn syrup
¼ cup margarine
½ cup dark brown sugar (packed)
½ cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 cup milk or half and half

Blend cream cheese and corn syrup until smooth. Combine margarine, sugar and chopped nuts in a pan, bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Gradually add to the cream mixture and stir in the milk. Pour into the short-bread crust and garnish with pecan halves and freeze.

Shortbread Crust

1 cup all purpose flour — 1 egg
1 tblsp. sugar — ¼ cup margarine

Combine flour and sugar and cut in margarine, add and mix well. Press onto the bottom and sides of an 8 inch layer pan. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) for 20 minutes. Cool.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipe along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

If you serve a dish that friends rave about, submit the recipe to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine. It may win a $5 "Recipe of the Week" prize.

HOW BUSH PICKERS COLLECT CHRISTMAS GREENERY

By Karen Smith

THE HOLIDAY season is "bustin'" with greenery used for Christmas decoration, and especially for floral arrangements that make up some of the loveliest gifts for milady.

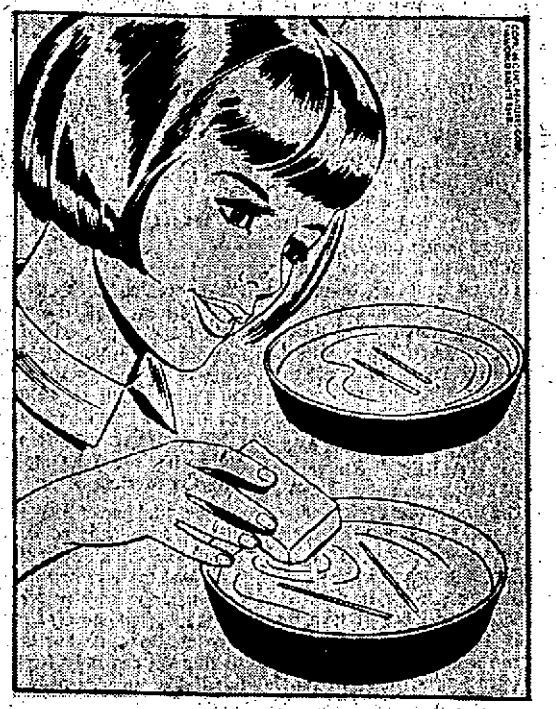

The language of greenery was much in use among the early Greeks and Romans, who represented the important events in their lives with plants. The olive branch symbolized peace; the bay was the poet's crown; the oak was the patriot's crown. But probably the bush pickers who harvest greenery for Christmas arrangements don't think of these things. And many have never even seen the blending of greenery into floral arrangements to give the fresh, natural look. To most, collecting plants is a job that assures them of a little income when it is most needed.

THERE ARE both large and small companies that hire bush pickers to go into several designated areas on the Pacific Coast owned by private landowners such as lumber companies and by the U.S. Forest Service. Some companies conduct classes in cutting techniques, as plants are not to be pulled up by the roots or needlessly harmed in any way.

Bush pickers include men, women, and children. They must be hardy people who are not afraid to go into dense woods on dim trails that are tangled and often wet. Some families work together, but not a few rugged individualists travel alone with packs and sacks. The greenery, which includes sword fern, salal, huckleberry, Monterey and beach pine, pepperwood, cascara bark, redwood boughs among other items, is transported by trucks and cars to be weighed in where shipments are packed.

THERE ARE, of course, persons other than regularly employed bush pickers who collect various plant parts for use at Christmas time. For example, at the nonprofit, nonsectarian Boys Republic in Chino, the youngsters make Christmas wreaths for sale to keep the farm-school going. All during the year, they go on field trips to collect hard pods from such plants as the jacaranda, flowering eucalyptus, Italian cypress, etc. These are dried, drilled, wired, then stored away until material from companies employing bush pickers is available.

Science for You

By Bob Brown

PROBLEM: Surface tension.

NEEDED: Two toothpicks, a bowl of water and a small piece of soap.

DO THIS: Place the toothpicks side by side on the still water surface and they tend to move together. Touch the soap to the water between them, and the toothpicks move apart.

HERE'S WHY: The surface of the water acts like a very thin rubber sheet. This is called surface tension. Soap and many other substances will reduce the surface tension. If the soap is placed between the toothpicks the surface tension there is reduced, allowing the greater surface tension effect on the outside of the toothpicks to pull them farther apart.

Two collections of these experiments are available under the titles "Science Circus" and "Science Circus No. 2." They may be seen in libraries or bought at bookstores or from the author.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Respiratory Aid

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

AN EXPERIMENTAL vaccine against a serious respiratory disease in young adults and children has shown promise in its first human trials.

The vaccine protects against primary atypical pneumonia, once known as "virus pneumoniae. This disease is caused by a virus-like microbe, Mycoplasma pneumonia. This germ accounts for 10 to 50% of pneumonia cases among college students, military recruits and prisoners. It also has been linked to throat and ear infections.

The new vaccine was well tolerated in preliminary studies among 36 human volunteers, according to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Association. It produced a significant rise in antibody level in 25 to 30 volunteers (83%). (Antibodies are disease-fighting molecules.)

A BRIEF program of regular, graduated exercises is beneficial in the treatment of boys suffering from moderate to severe asthma.

Doctors, reporting in Pediatrics, say the physical fitness program consists of calisthenics, relays and games, and tumbling.

Mothers of the boys say that there has been a marked reduction in the number and severity of asthmatic attacks and that emotional upsets have decreased significantly.

EXPOSURE of males to radar may play a role in appearance of mongolism in their offspring, new research indicates.

Mongolism is a congenital disorder marked by mental deficiency.

A four-year study of 216 Baltimore families turned up the puzzling finding. Each of the families has a mongoloid child.

When these families were contrasted with a group with no mongoloid children, researchers found more radar exposure to the fathers of the mongols. The fathers were exposed to this type of microwave radiation during military service.

The research was conducted at Johns Hopkins University and reported to a meeting of the American Public Health Association.

TWO FRENCH surgeons warn of the subtle aftereffects of decompression sickness.

Amateur skindivers, they say, should be made aware of the long-term dangers that may stem from a single faulty decompression that leads to an episode of the bends.

Crippling joint diseases, affecting the shoulder and hips, may appear years later. And such disease is totally unresponsive to treatment.

Bone changes similar to those seen in severe degenerative joint disease affecting two or more joints may not show up for four to five years, the surgeons say.

At the first hint of diving injury, divers should give up deep descents, the doctors say in a report in Medical World News.

TWO SEPARATE studies show that administration of gamma globulin (a blood fraction) at time of surgery does not protect against possible subsequent development of serum hepatitis.

Serum hepatitis is liver inflammation stemming from virus-contaminated blood used for blood transfusion. It had been thought that gamma globulin, rich in antibodies, would thwart the hepatitis organism.

'Obediently Yours'

By Eleanor Avery Price

SOUTHERN California Dog Obedience Council presents its Top Dog show today at Northridge Park, Reseda Blvd. south of Devonshire, Northridge. The cream of well trained dogs from many clubs will be exhibited in what, if you see it, might be the turning point in your relationship with your own dog. You just won't want to stand around and wish your dog was better behaved and less of a nitwit. You'll see it is possible to have him obey you and still be happy and still love you.

Pictured today is a Shetland sheep dog, American and Mexican Ch. Title Page C.D.X., owned by Lydon and Clare Lippincott, members of Orange Empire Dog Club and Club Canofil de Baja California. Your dog may not win such impressive titles, but he can be a better dog. If you are healthy or someone in your family is active, then get the pet into an obedience class, outdoors among people who want to be your friends.

AND DON'T worry about your dog being too old. If he is well and peppy, he can still learn. The late Blanche Saunders, known as Miss Obedience, told the story of Io, a Dalmatian that never had a lesson until age 10 years. By age 11, the dog completed Utility Dog Tracker, making her the third dog in obedience history to earn this advanced degree in a year's time. And the owners had never before trained a dog!

Breeds of large dogs can go into obedience classes by age six months. Shy dogs and biters need help even before that age, otherwise they may be difficult to handle when they finally do get put into a class.

In a novice class, your dog will learn to heel on leash (turn, stop, slow, go faster, etc.), stand for examination, heel off leash, come when called, do the long sit of one minute, and the long down of three minutes.

IN AN OPEN class, the dog learns to heel free, drop on recall, retrieve on flat, retrieve over a high jump, do a broad jump, do a long sit of three minutes with handler out of sight, and a long down of five minutes with handler out of sight. The high jump is the heighth of the dog at his withers to a maximum of 72 inches. (Some breeds must go over several murdles.)

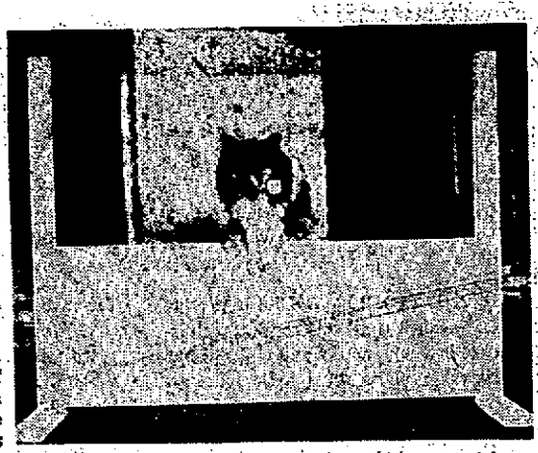

In a utility class, the dog learns scent discrimination on wood, leather, and metal. He learns to seek back to find certain articles. He learns to obey hand rather than voice signals. He follows through in directed jumping. And he learns to stand for group examination with his handler a way at a distance.

Tracking is more complicated, requires plenty of room. The dog learns to locate humans lost in the woods, search out and find objects dropped along the trail and even follow the scent of a criminal.

JEWEL CITY Cat Club has a show today at Glendale National Guard Armory; dog show at Tulare County Fairgrounds.

Christmas Place Cards

By Ruth C. Ikerman

IF YOU have need for place cards at the holiday season, here are simple ideas which call for a minimum of time and material, and which make attractive seasonal souvenirs.

Buy small candy Santa Claus figures, wrapped in foil. These come in several colors, and the red, gold, silver, green, make a good assortment for your table. Cut 3x5 manila cards in half, and paste the small Santa onto the card. He lies down flat, as if resting from his labors, and does not stand up unless you want to prop the card against a glass. With red crayon write the name of the guest and preface it with "Merry Christmas."

Use another white card as the basis for inserting plastic candy canes in red and white. Cut two small slits, one near the top and the other near the bottom of the card, and then insert the cane down through the top one and up from the bottom slit, so it will rest flat on the card. Or attach a tiny but real candy cane by means of transparent tape.

A BRANCH of plastic poinsettias can be cut into individual blossoms and one fastened to each place card. Buy a strand of plastic holly and cut it in inch long pieces, using each fragment at the top of the place card, instead of at the side as customary.

Inexpensive white toy birds with red beaks make conversational pieces for place cards at a family dinner including children. Write the name on a white card and tie it with a golden cord around the bird's neck.

Start with a plain graham cracker and turn it into a package by writing the name of the child across this with a frosting tube. Or just frost the cracker and sprinkle onto it bright candies, using cinnamon red hots to make the initial of the child.

REMEMBER to make good use of pens which write in gold or silver. There is something magic about seeing a name in a treasured color, and "lucky pennies" can be attached to such cards.

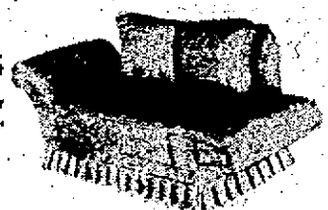

Never forget the easy place cards available in an average sheet of gift wrapping paper. With scissors cut out the snowmen, angels or ice skating children. Write names of the guests in contrasting ink across the bodies of the figures, or make tiny squares of paper, and write the names in contrasting crayons and paste on the cut-outs.

Individual place cards can be fun to make, and assure the family holiday guests of a warm welcome.

Happy Snow Family

Marianna Gaba poses with happy members of a Snow Family that will brighten yule scenes.

By Steve Ellingson

NO MATTER whether we live in the south, or the north, snow is an integral part of Christmas. Otherwise, how could Santa get around with his sleigh? Since snow is such an important part of Christmas and since everyone wants to achieve a beautiful holiday setting in their yard, we created the Snow Family pictured with actress Marianne Gaba. No matter what the temperature, here is a family that will last, not only for days or weeks, but for season after season. A more cheerful, gay and lighthearted family you never did see. They'll add a dazzling touch to your yard and boost the holiday spirits of your whole neighborhood.

Father Snow is more than five feet tall, and of course, Mother Snow, the two youngsters and dog are all in proportion. Each is printed in bright and waterproof colors. Like billboards, they will withstand severe outdoor weather and last for many seasons. You may place them on your roof as well as in your yard. Because of their light colors, they show up well at night time when lights are turned on them.

MAKING THE Snow Family is certainly easy. All you need to do is glue the large pictures to plywood, then saw them out. After that they are ready to go on display. Complete directions come with each set.

To obtain the Snow Family pictures No. C-6 send $5 by currency, check or money order to Steve Ellington, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

PRACTICE AT 5 A.M.

Diligence Pays Off!

By Scott Cory

A MYSTERIOUS quest for the chalice of knowledge jerks Harold Stokes out of bed at a bleak 5 a.m. and keeps him going strong until late in the night. Between school and music, scouting and church, this light, soft spoken youth has little time to waste.

Now a Jordan High School graduate, Harold is beginning to reap the benefits of his nonstop way of life. He was honored by being the only student in his school's 30-year history to achieve 800 on the college entrance exam (CEEB) — a perfect score. He also became the only student from the city of Long Beach to rank among the top 25 money winners in the 51st Annual High School Chemistry Contest. With 717 top students from 102 Southern California high schools participating, the honor was gratifying.

THESE AND many other accomplishments would not have been possible without his years of preparation. While other boys were playing with tin soldiers and toy cars, Harold was playing with numbers and words. Today he studies advanced math books just for relaxation.

As Harold began climbing the ladder of grades his teachers recognized his enthusiasm and always urged him on toward higher goals. He was picked the outstanding citizen of the 7th grade, and the top science student of the 9th. A full list of his awards and honors would read like the lengthy pedigree of a true champion.

Faced with the hustle of city life and the temptations of youth, he has not always found it easy to keep up his rigid schedule. He had to force himself out of bed long before sunup for a lonely hour of piano practicing. The times are not rare when he has caught himself dozing between the more slothful notes. A special softening pedal was installed to keep the music from disturbing his sleeping family.

From 6:30 to 7:30 he attended a religious class at his church, and then began school at 8. His interests ranged through science, mathematics, language, and history, where his straight A average usually kept him a jump ahead of the rest of the students. Harold seemed to be filled with an unquenchable thirst for chemical knowledge.

Harold Stokes starts his day off at 5 a. m. with a lonely hour of practice at the piano.

DURING HIS senior year he was hired by the school as a paid teacher's assistant in chemistry. Most kids took a lunch sack to school, but not Harold — he took one home; a brown lunch bag, bulging with bottles of residue from the day's work; given to him by his teacher to continue his experiments at home. He proved, to his family's dismay, that it does not always take a match to shoot off fireworks. He did it with one drop of water and a mixture of powdered chemicals, in the middle of the floor.

Harold usually returned to his music after school, and as if nimble fingers weren't enough, he developed fancy foot work playing the organ for an hour each day. He has starred in two solo piano recitals.

Just in case Harold might have had a little slack time, he took up scouting. He's a Life Scout now, and also serves as assistant scout master in Troop 56.

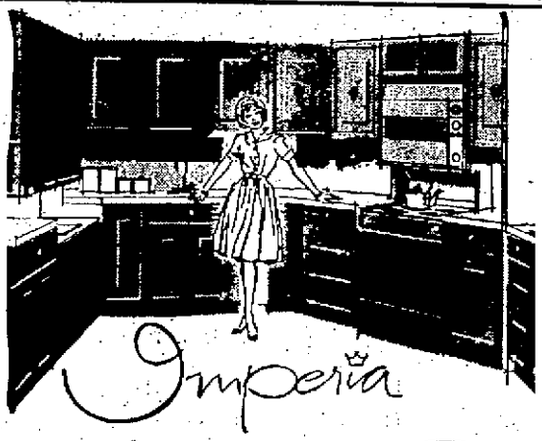

And with future years now merging with the present, he knows that his long hours of hard work and study have not been in vain. He has competed in exam after exam, and always scored among the top. Harold was tested in physics competition with top students from all over Southern California and ranked 30th. As a result he became eligible for scholarships from 9 different colleges, including Caltech.

Harold received many cash prizes and numerous scholarships, but accepted tuitions and fees from Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. Whatever changes university life makes in his routine, it is certain that the self discipline already learned will hold him to a schedule of continued improvement.

Stokes displays the start of figuring on a problem such as brought him perfect score.

Beauty and Fun

Each autumn the fruits of the gourd vines color in bright yellows, oranges, creams and greens. The little gourds are widely used for ornamental purposes, heaped in bowls or used in charm strings together with the seed pods of many other plants.

Gourds also may be used for bird houses, dippers or darning eggs. Or, for fun, may be made into birds, as in the photo above, or painted with faces. Lettered gourds are used as place markers at the table. Plan to plant gourd seeds next spring for fall use.

YOUR GARDEN

Irish Heath Brightens Winter

By Joe Littlefield

DABOECIA cantabrica or "Irish Heath," a native of Western Europe, is a low growing evergreen shrub with white or pinkish-purple blossoms that look like lily of the valley flowers. The heather-like foliage is shiny rich green, with gray underside. The happy news about this shrub is that it grows to about two feet, in sun or partial shade, blooms for about six months, starting in late May or June and continues on through October. The petite look of the shrub gives the appearance of being a perennial plant whereas it is a hardwood shrub and it stands cold down to 10 degrees above zero.

Daboecia, like the heathers, needs a peaty soil to grow and thrive. Gardeners must mix half of pre-moistened sphagnum type peat moss with half of the soil that was dug to make hole for the shrub, also same type of peat-soil mixture if desired as pot or tub specimen plant for patio or porch.

GARDENERS may cut the white Irish heath flowers for small flower arrangements indoors, spraying the blossoms with lily of valley perfume.

Guests, familiar with lily of valley fragrance, temporarily may be fooled by the perfumed blooms.

The heathers are desirable winter blooming shrubs with small foliage like the daboecia, but leafage is dull green color, the flowers very small but in dense masses, in colors of pink or rose. They, too, need the peat-soil mixture to grow well.

Recently, while at a garden clinic at a nursery, I met M. R. Bapple of Rialto, retired from the plastics manufacturing business, who adds his helpful share to Christmas festivities.

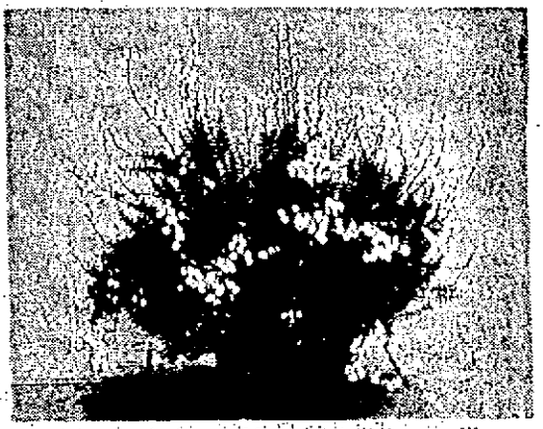

HE FOUND his fixed retirement income wasn't sufficient due to land taxes continually rising on his acreage, so he and Mrs. Bapple decided to supplement their income by developing a Christmas tree farm!

He purchased young sequoia saplings from forest nurseries, planted and grew them on to saleable size, with Mrs. Bapple's assistance. They have been growing the trees for five years, grow 5,000 annually which they sell.

Christmas tree shoppers (visitors welcome, too) for live Christmas trees come in family groups from various parts of Southern California, look over the growing trees, take bamboo stakes that have measurements on them like yard sticks do, measure the size of trees they want, estimate their cost per foot, tag them, and pay a deposit on them.

THE BAPPLES continue to grow them, hose the foliage to wash off dust and smog. The customers come back a few days before Christmas, pay the balance due on the trees, cut them and take them home. The larger trunk trees are cut with Bapple's power saw. The largest sequoia he has sold was a 14-footer to Kaiser Hospital in Fontana. The tree stumps grow new trees, and Bapple has sold as many as three re-grown trees from the same stump.

Purchasing trees extends their useful life and they are more fireproof because they are much greener.

Irish Heath bears blossoms similar to lily of the valley. It is hardy in the sun or cold.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply in this column.

MISS RULE: Please give brief data on NASH—F.N., Downey.

NASH is qualified as being based on the phrase "Atten-Ashe" describing the ancestor's home "at the ash-tree" in 12th century Britain. Atten-Ashe was converted to Atnash, then to Nash in the 1300s. William Atten Nash is recorded in Writs of Parliament at that time. The Nash armorial shield is blue, emblazoned with three silver ravens.

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on VITALE and VITELLI — M.V., Westminster; V.V., Long Beach.

VITALE, an Italian name of great antiquity, developed from the Latin word "Vitalis" describing the ancestor as "man with great vitality." The Vitale armorial shield from Milan, Italy has a black eagle on a gold background. VITELLI, although similar in spelling, is from the baptismal name Davide (David in English) meaning "beloved." Davide was altered to the nickname Vide, then Videlli and Vitelli, using the suffix "-elli" for "young or little." The Vitelli shield has two black calves one above the other on a gold backing.

MISS RULE: Would you give data on CARON—J.C., Garden Grove.

CARON, a famous French surname, developed from the Roman Latin word "Cara," which became the French "Car-on," meaning young, well-liked one. An alternate origin, the Latin "Caroncula" described "Worldly one." There are 15 coats-of-arms for Caron. The basic shield, granted as early as 1497, has three gold coins on a blue background; across the top is a gold stripe.

MISS RULE: Please explain RUCKER—G.R., Long Beach.

RUCKER had its inception in Germany as the 13th century hero - warrior name Ruck - hardt translated as "powerful one with a raven's wisdom." The raven was symbolic in medieval times, of great knowledge and wisdom. The Rucker shield is red, decorated with a double-headed silver eagle.

MISS RULE: Would you analyze VAN SITTART — H.M., Long Beach.

VAN SITTART of Holland, formerly Van Sittert, combines "Van," meaning "descended from," with "Sitt-Hart," signifying "victorious, powerful one." The Van Sittert armorial shield is silver, decorated with two horses and six bird wings.

MISS RULE: Would appreciate data on MAYFIELD — T.M., O.M., H.M., Long Beach.

MAYFIELD of England began in the 1200s as "Maegfelde," deciphered as "Warrior's field or property." The Mayfield family armorial shield is red, emblazoned with an ermine cross.

MISS RULE: May we have the background on KISSLING, KISSLER, KISSINGER — B.T., Westminster; A.K., D.K., Long Beach.

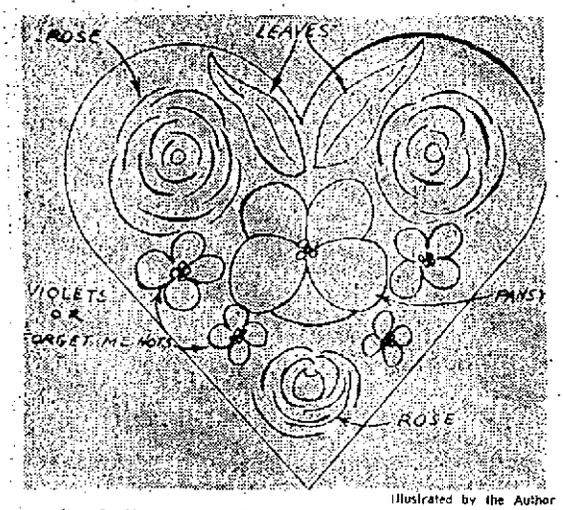

KISSLING was conceived in Germany as "Giesel-Ing" deciphered as "wand bearer's descendant." KISSLER, formerly "Giesel-Her" meant "wand-bearing warrior," while KISSINGER denoted "son of Kissler." "Giesel" or "wand bearer" represented a ruling personage who held a wand of authority. The Kissling armorial shield from Nurnberg is silver, decorated in the center with a green rosebush bearing three red flowers, growing out of a green mound.

MISS RULE: Kindly inform us on EVANS—D.E., R.E., Long Beach; W.U., Compton.

EVANS is recorded as the ancient Welsh source word, "Ieuanc" meaning "young man." Evans has been recorded in Montgomeryshire, Wales, since the 11th century. The family founder was Llewellyn Aurdorchog, lord of Yale. The Evans coat-of-arms has a rampant gold lion centered on a blue shield. American descendants include Samuel, Abiather and Benoni Evans of Connecticut who all served in the Battle of Lexington, 1775, at the start of our Revolutionary War.

Candy flowers in a heart-shaped box make a gift.

By V. Mynock

IF THE flowers on the birthday cake are too pretty to eat — don't!

The candy flowers are sometimes hard, such as the market-shelf variety, but the ones Aunt Suzie makes are simply out of this world in varied shapes and hues.

Making a collection of these dainty confections can be fun if they're air dried till hard and placed side by side in a heart shaped box you may have saved. Cover with transparent cellophane or plastic wrap to keep out dust and most important, moisture. Secure behind with Scotch tape. Stand up on the china cupboard shelf or mantle.

SOME FROZEN cakes come in a metal pan with a transparent cover. These pans may be used by wadding colored or plain tissue paper in the bottom to bring flowers up even with the plastic lid so they'll stay in place.

Aluminum pans for frozen pies may also be used, again using the transparent wrap as a window. Two holes may be punched in the bottom edge for inserting a ribbon hanger and hung on the wall. Several together make a colorful display.

What a sweet garden to present to an appreciative friend or relative! No watering required.

MOST OF the fortune cookies opened by guests at the Leilani restaurant, 5236 E. Second St., Long Beach, contain innocuous little messages, such as "You will embark on an interesting trip" or "Choose your friends carefully."

When I dropped in one evening recently, I was served a cookie containing two messages. One said "Invest your funds wisely," while the other offered this this startling declaration: Soviet Russia is run by rat finks."

DON MAY

Fortune Cookie Message?

The second message, implying that the cookies had been baked by Chinese involved in the ideological war with Russia, was a plant, of course. It had been inserted by the Leilani's owner, Don May, a lively host who likes to amuse his friends with intriguing innovations. Some of his original ideas are quite delectable, such as the Chinese noodles used as croutons in his American salads and the tiny Chinese pea pods served with his teriyaki steaks.

Don is also famed in Belmont Shore for the vast quantities and varieties of Cantonese specialties served with his Celestial Dinner ($9 for two persons). This dinner begins with pu-pu, the term for a de luxe collection of appetizers. Included are Hawaiian barbecued ribs, barbecued tenderloin, ru maki, egg roll, shrimp, sui mai, ha gao and a fine soup. Next comes diced breast of chicken cooked with mushrooms, bamboo shoots, water chestnuts and almonds; barbecued pork with Chinese peas and chicken livers; pineapple boneless duck with wonderful Mandarin sauce; fried rice, almond cakes and aromatic imported tea.

The Leilani, tropical in decor, also has family style Cantonese dinners, priced from $5 for two persons, and complete American dinners from $2.75.

SUNDAY TREAT—Nothing in the entire gourmet scheme of things seems to blend more perfectly than chicken and wine. That's one of the reasons why the coq au vin rouge (chicken cooked in red wine) is such an exquisite treat the way it's prepared at Alfred Restaurant, 700 E. 45th St. near Atlantic Avenue in Long Beach. It's served for $3.75 daily and Sunday on a table d' hote dinner including superb hors d' oeuvres, soup or salad, potato and beverage. Many other select continental and American entrees are also featured.

Q. I would like to know why the college professors and intellectuals who voted en masse for Lyndon Johnson feel so little warmth for him.—Emily Smith, Evanston, Ill.

A. In many academic and intellectual circles Johnson is regarded as basically a political creature, clever and calculating but undereducated and undercultured, ruthless rather than reflective, imperious by nature rather than inquiring, a manipulator rather than a manager, a resourceful politician without root convictions. This assessment may be entirely wrong, but the President as yet has been unable to wipe clean from the mirror of public opinion his image as a wheeler-dealer. In view of his Presidential accomplishments to date, however, history no doubt will treat him kinder than many of his intellectual contemporaries.

Q. The Charles Chaplin-Sophia Loren movie, has it started yet?—George Goldstein, San Jose, Calif.

A. Starts in London in January.

Q. Who is tightest with a nickel—Sean Connery, Gene Kelly, or Fred MacMurray? Is it true that none of these actors will pick up a check?—L. R., Hempstead, N.Y.

A. All three are notoriously thrifty men, but understandably so. Each comes from a family where there was very little money. Each on occasion has been known to pick up a check.

Q. Joseph P. Kennedy is a multimillionaire. He owns the Merchandise Mart in Chicago and heaven knows what else. Admittedly Francis X. Morrissey has been of great political help to the Kennedy boys. Why doesn't Joseph P. Kennedy show his gratitude by placing Morrissey on the family payroll just as he's done with several of his sons-in-laws? Why embarrass Sen. Ted Kennedy by having him support Morrissey for a federal judgeship when truthfully there are such large doubts as to Morrissey's qualifications? The old man couldn't get Jack Kennedy to nominate Morrissey. Why should he push it off on Ted?—J. M. O'M., Boston, Mass.

A. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has sent the challenged nomination back to the Senate Judiciary Committee. It was not thought that Morrissey's nomination would arouse the national interest it did. It may well be that in the Kennedy private interests there is no available position for a lawyer with Morrissey's qualifications. It is highly doubtful whether President Johnson will resubmit Morrissey's nomination to the Senate next year.

Q. Who is the most influential and powerful woman in Soviet Russia? — Clara Miller, Buffalo, N.Y.

A. One possibility: Yekaterina Furtseva, minister of culture.

Q. I read that John Derek will never give Ursula Andress a divorce to marry Jean Paul Belmondo. Why not?—Jan Henreich, Atlantic City, N.J.

A. French actor Jean Paul Belmondo, married, is in no position to marry anyone.

Q. In the Goldwater defeat of 1964 how many Republicans in the House of Representatives lost their seats? —T. Upton, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. At least 38.

Q. Harry Belafonte's wife, white or Negro? Herb Jeffries' wife, Tempest Storm, white or Negro? Walter White's wife, food editor Poppy Cannon, white or Negro?—D. J., Mobile, Ala.

A. All three wives in question are white. Poppy Cannon is White's widow.

Q. Now that Jack Benny no longer has a TV show of his own, what is he doing? — Frank Gershorn, Yonkers, N.Y.

A. He is making personal appearances, filling guest spots on other TV programs.

Q. How does Hollywood feel about the Leslie Caron-Warren Beatty alliance?—Linda Sue Marsh, Greensboro, N.C.

A. There is a belief that Miss Caron, unwise in affairs of the heart, six years older than Beatty, will be unable to make the alliance last.

Q. Is it true that the late President Kennedy would not hire a girl as his secretary until she agreed to give him scalp massages?—Annie Lee Wayne, Detroit, Mich.

A. Not true. His secretaries gave him scalp massages, a practice originally recommended to him by his father. But masseuse abilities did not comprise a requisite for the position of senatorial or Presidential secretary.

Q. Where will Bob Hope take his troupe this Christmas—Santo Domingo or Vietnam?—Vivian Blanco, San Bernardino, Calif.

A. Vietnam.

Q. In the battle of Dien Bien Phu in which the Viet Minh, the Communists, defeated the French, weren't the French army generals guilty of great stupidity? Isn't that the truth as to why the French lost in Vietnam?—Arthur Gordon, Troy, N.Y.

A. The stupidity of the French military in 1954 was criminal. Thousands of Frenchmen lost their lives because their officers were incompetent, inefficient, shortsighted, guilty of miserable judgment. In choosing to make a stand at Dien Bien Phu, a few miles from the Laos frontier and close to the Chinese border, General Navarre was guilty of one of the most stupid and costly blunders in the history of modern warfare. Cold or no cold, I've saved all year for Jamaica. Contac® saved the day.

Why take sneezes, sniffles, and a stuffy nose on vacation with you? Take Contac instead.

Just one Contac capsule the morning you leave will help you feel (and look) better all day. Another at bedtime helps you have a peaceful night's sleep. There's good medicine in Contac—over 600 tiny "time pills" to help relieve your cold symptoms. Some work right away—others wait till later. Altogether they keep working for up to 12 hours.

Of course the best thing to do is keep your cold at home. But when something special comes along that you can't bear to miss, you'll be glad you have Contac.

It's at your pharmacy.

THE SPACE RACE FOR PEACE

by FRED BLUMENTHAL

One day recently, when a homeowner on remote Wallops Island, Va., answered a knock on his door, he found a swarthy man standing there with a rug over his arm. In English, the stranger explained that he had been admiring the homeowner's front lawn. It had just the right Eastern exposure, the man said, and he would like to use it to face Mecca and make Moslem devotions five times a day.

The Virginian's initial reaction was one of shock, but when he heard the man's explanation, he quickly granted the unusual request. The stranger was a Pakistani scientist from the Wallops Island rocket-launching site. He was working on a joint U.S.-Pakistan space research project—one of 70 such co-operative space ventures in which the U.S. is engaged.

The incident dramatized a little-known side of the space race—and of the quest for peace. Today, the headlines go to U.S.-Soviet competition in space and to cold war and hostility in world affairs. Yet in both space and international relations, competition is the exception and co-operation the rule. In the year of the Cuban crisis, for instance, while the U.S. and Russians spent several days calling each other names, more than 600 meetings were held at which the two countries agreed to co-operate.

PREPARING THE BLUEPRINT

Tomorrow, a special White House conference will highlight this movement toward nations working together. As the climax to International Co-operation Year, proclaimed by the United Nations at the suggestion of the late Indian Prime Minister Nehru, committees of prominent Americans from such fields as health, arts, atomic energy and education will report to President Johnson on international co-operation in their specialties in the past ten years and suggest new ways to co-operate in the future. The conference is expected to produce a blueprint to help nations work jointly against the world's problems.

In preparing the blueprint, the conference could well take a leaf from what has been done in space research. More than 150 men and women scientists from all over the world have worked with the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Four international satellites—in which the U.S. has furnished the rocket and handled the launch while the other nation has designed and built the payload—are now in orbit. Fifteen nations have collaborated with NASA in low-altitude "sounding" projects.

Perhaps the most important partnership has been with the Soviet Union. The two nations are exchanging vital weather information obtained from space satellites, also plan to publish a joint review of research in space biology. The U.S. also recently joined with India in a rocket project in Thumba, in the southern part of that nation. After the project was completed, India turned the range over to the UN for use of all members. A U.S.-trained launch team will execute space firings from there—including our own.

PROJECT BEGETS PROJECTS

Co-operation can also beget other co-operation. Recently Argentina completed a rocket range, then asked the U.S. and Brazil to join in space projects. Next the Argentines proposed that all nations along the 75th meridian of longitude—which runs through Montreal, Philadelphia and western South America—join together in weather reporting.

And one unexpected dividend of space co-operation is in the people-to-people field. You see it best at Wallops Island, where scientists from all nations have been adopted by the community. Recently a group of Italians were there 14 months training to launch their San Marco satellite to study air density. They became favorites in the town, addressed civic clubs, played bridge with local residents, gave lessons in Italian. When the satellite was finally launched, everyone in town turned out. They pronounced it a beautiful shot.

Co-operative space study projects among nations, obscured within the complex realm of science, are too little known and appreciated. Yet not only are they adding to our knowledge of the universe, but they are proving again that nations can live and work together in peace and harmony.

HIGHER SPEEDS ARE COMING:

DO 100-MPH HIGHWAYS MAKE SENSE?

by E. D. FALES JR.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

How fast do you want to drive your car? At 65 miles an hour? 80? 90?

It's a question you'd better start thinking about because—like it or not—you may soon be going a whole lot faster. Speed limits recently have leaped from 50 to 60 and 65 in many states. But 20 states already permit 70, and five have recently stamped an okay on 75 miles an hour on certain sections of the new Interstate Highway System.

Now it seems that even this is just a beginning. A committee of state engineers recently voted to make designs available for 80-mph roads—"if any states want them." You may see 80-mph postings on some new Interstates within three years. Some engineers say 90-mile limits may follow within another six or seven years.

Dramatically topping all this is a proposal by a committee of experts for the first American 100-mph highway. To be called the "Century," this road would run nearly 500 miles, from Boston to Washington, D.C. Engineers say it is quite feasible as a means of coping with the "automobile explosion" now beginning to clog Eastern roads. The proposal, drafted in part by the safety experts of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratories at Buffalo, N.Y., is in the hands of the Department of Commerce and of Congress. And the Century is being discussed in Washington as possibly the next step beyond the 41,000-mile Interstate System, which will be completed in 1972.

All this thrust for greater and greater speed comes as a shock to many drivers. I know, because I've been talking to them on the road. A few welcome the idea of speeds from 80 to even 140. The majority are frightened of the idea. An increasing number, I have found, are beginning to hunt out quieter old roads for refuge from the roaring torrent of cars and trucks attracted to the big pikes.

Yet there is something to be said for high speed and high-speed highways, engineers maintain. It's true that as speed rises above 50 mph, the rate of fatal accidents skyrockets—if anything goes wrong. But in designing the fine wide Interstate roads on which little can go wrong, engineers have slashed the death rate far below that on slower roads.

Moreover, a 100-mph highway could be engineered to get rid of such hazards as glare from oncoming headlights and fast lane-changing in roaring traffic that now plague us.

THE CENTURY

On the Century, for instance, you will find:

No jalopies. Right from the start, old worn-out cars will be barred — thus eliminating one great cause of death.

All cars traveling at the same speed. No one will rush up behind you in your lane and pull out, then cut back in. The highway will have one flat speed—minimum and maximum.

No trucks. You'll no longer have to jockey between "moving mountains." And truck drivers will no longer have to swing around you. Instead, trucks will have their own high-speed "Super Freightway"—free of cars.

Here's what driving the Century at 100 will be like—the good and the bad points: You'll enter at a gate and show a special speed license. Age won't be a barrier, but a bad "repeater" accident record will. Your car will get a quick automatic safety test. You'd need a powerful engine, beefed-up brakes and special "speed tires" like those now used on police cars.

OVERRIDE

First you'll find yourself on a "slow road"—speed limit 80. This is for local traffic. Then you'll take a 90-mph ramp to the 100-mph lane. A radio voice "override," interrupting any program you may be hearing, will guide you, tell you when to increase your speed to 100.

Then suddenly you'll be in the full-speed "chute." It will be a roomy lane, wider than today's. There will be flat, easy shoulders, no ditches, culverts, poles —nothing to hit. You won't be in danger of colliding with other cars because you'll all be spaced an equal distance apart.

Small electronic "sensors" in the road will send out a buzz if you get too close to the fellow ahead. And if he slows down—even to 90—warning lights on his car roof will flash, while a buzzer sounds in your car. Thus another great cause of death—the rear-end collision —will be all but eliminated.

Stray animals will be fenced off the road. You'll be warned when to slow for rain or snow. Headlight glare and fog collisions will also be eliminated.

Even if your car should go out of control, special new safety devices, like soft plastic "bushes," will catch and cradle it.

Your great problem? Monotony. For 100-mph driving will be deadly dull. No time to watch scenery. No people, no towns. Every mile will look alike.

But the super-safe, super-speedy Century is off in the future. Eighty- and 90-mph driving on ordinary highways is just around the next curve. Here is what you should know about it:

The death record on the only U.S. road that now posts an 80-mile limit,

WHAT MEN—

Mrs. Evelyn Showers, Newport News, Va.: "If the tires wouldn't blow out I'd be in favor of it. I like the idea of getting to distant places faster by car instead of airplanes. I'm afraid of traveling by plane."

Going up: Auto speed limits are getting higher on U.S. highways, soon may hit 100 mph. Do American drivers want to go that fast?

the Kansas Turnpike, is horrendous—twice as bad as on the 70-mph Ohio Turnpike and six times as bad as on the 70-mph Maine Turnpike. No one is sure why. One theory is that 70 mph is the point beyond which an older car simply cannot be pushed. A second theory says it's because of tires, which can take a sustained 70 but may stretch and come off the rims at 80. A third blames Kansas's level terrain. Drivers, this theory holds, misjudge distance, causing rear-end collisions. Finally, it's acknowledged that much traffic on the pike goes not 80 — but 90 and up.

In spite of this bad record, national safety experts say 80-mph driving isn't that dangerous in one of Detroit's better cars, on a good super-road and in light traffic.

3 "MUSTS"

But 80 mph will call for a special new brand of driving. The keys to this are:

■ You must drive "alone"—never in a cluster of cars.

■ You must plan far ahead—and never get within "hitting distance" of another car. Some of the nation's top drivers, at speeds over 60, try to surround themselves with a "turnpike cushion": no car closer than a quarter-mile ahead, none alongside and none closer than ten car lengths behind.

■ You must drive so you never need brakes. A single hard "panic brake" application at 80 can wreck you.

And fuel consumption will go up sharply in 80-mph driving. If a 1000-mile trip today costs you $17 for gas, the same trip at 80 may cost $35. And at 100 miles an hour you'll shell out $50 or more.

What effect will "speed-driving" have on you psychologically? Very little. On 80-mph roads you may get something called "vision pulsing" at night — the regular passing of guard-rail posts. But even that may be eliminated by use of irregularly spaced posts. Your main problem may be slowing down. After a long run above 80, psychologists recommend coffee —or a stop for "deconditioning"— before you drive on ordinary roads again.

But does anyone really want to go that fast at all? Where is rising speed getting us?

Columbia University's eminent traffic psychologist, Dr. James Adams, says it's making us tense, appeals to what he calls the "high-tension" type. Dr. Adams is frankly against it. For most of us, he says, 70 is the limit of safe driving.

And yet other psychologists and engineers disagree. Some say driving at 80 and above, which seems so dangerous, will one day be as easy as driving at 60 today. A few years ago a lot of people thought we'd never be driving as fast as a "mile a minute."

But as cars change, new controls develop and roads improve, some say speeds will always increase. "It's man's nature to go faster and faster," says one engineer. New York University's Prof. W. J. Toth sums up: "This generation seems to be setting a top speed of 70-75. But the next generation will go higher. It seems inevitable." CONTINUED ON PAGE 9

AND WOMEN—SAY ABOUT TRAVELING 100 MILES AN HOUR

Woody Bob, Hershey, Pa.: "Everybody is going 70-75 miles an hour half the time today. Yes, I'd go faster, even up to 140 mph in a car that would do it safely. But I wouldn't go fast through scenic country."

Mrs. Lillian Robbins, New York City: "I've visited Europe, where there are no speed limits, and the accident rates over there are absolutely fantastic. I'm against anything that permits people to go faster."

Patrick T. Clark, Charlotte, N.C.: "I hope we don't go any faster. A 60-65 mile an hour limit is fine, just fine. Anything over that and I think people start to lose control; and at that point anything can happen."

Revolutionary new detergent from Procter & Gamble

New heavy-duty BOLD®! goes beyond clean...beyond white... all the way to bright

Now, don't settle for clean . . . don't settle for white . . . go all the way to bright!

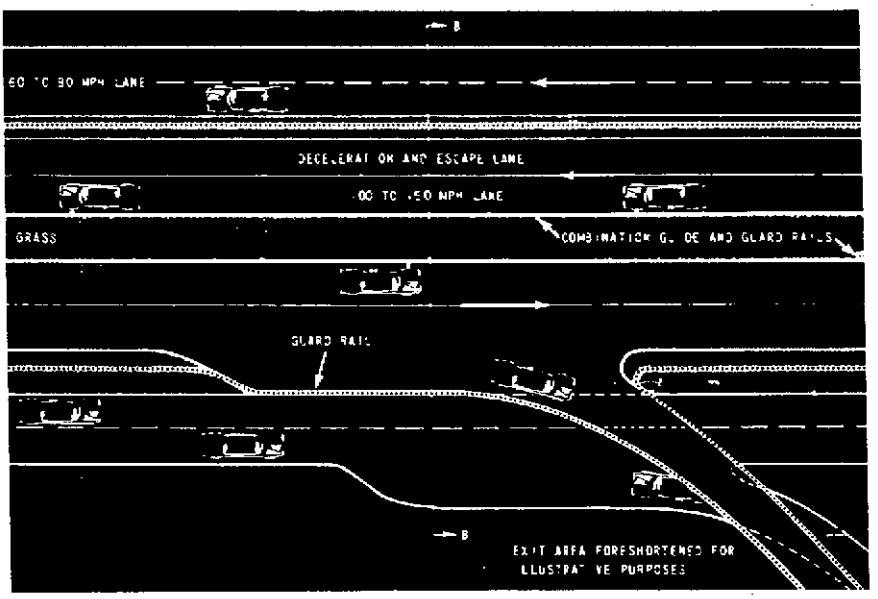

Now you can get the most beautiful wash of your life with Bold, the new heavy-duty detergent with power to go beyond clean, beyond white, all the way to bright.

In all detergent history there's never been a power formula like Bold's. Bold is so new it even looks different. It's loaded with power granules. Blue ones. Green ones. You only see them in Bold.

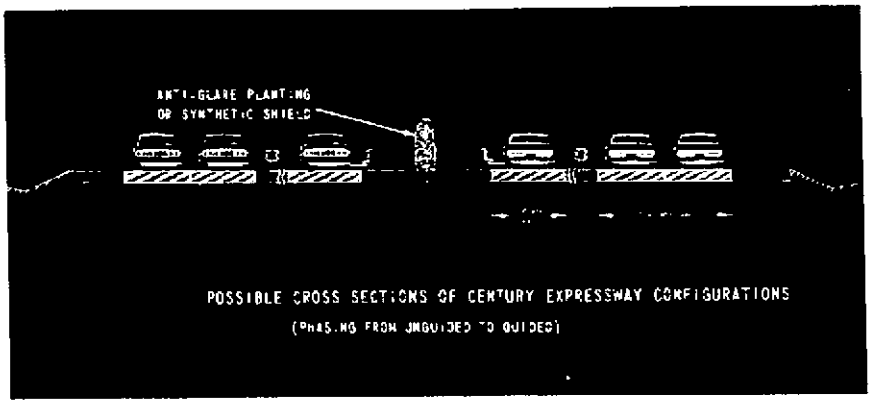

Bold is so powerful it doesn't just get dirt out, it gets clothes bright. You get not just whiter whites, but redder reds, greener greens, stripier stripes . . . even blacker blacks.

So don't settle for just a clean wash, or white wash. Get Bold, with the power to go beyond clean, beyond white, all the way to bright. See for yourself why Bold has been granted the Good Housekeeping Guaranty Seal. Bold! New from Procter & Gamble.

Proposed 100-mph highway is depicted in these drawings. Express road would include acceleration and deceleration lanes, single super-wide express lane for traffic hitting 100 to 150 mph.

Century in cross-section shows built-in safety features. Planting between lanes would cut down glare. Guard rails would separate traffic. Lanes would actually be wider than shown.

THE WORLD'S FASTEST ROADS

GERMANY'S AUTOBAHN

ENGLAND'S "M.1" MOTORWAY. No speed limit. Sports cars sometimes cruise at 100-120 miles an hour. Good average speed for ordinary cars: 70.

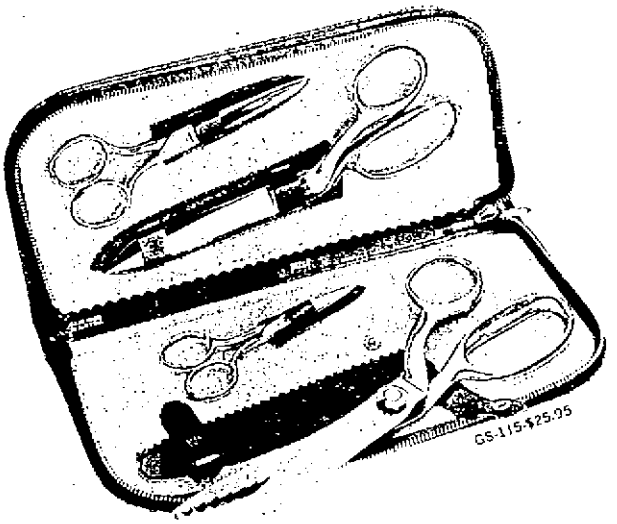

ITALY'S NEW AUTOSTRADA DEL SOLE (Highway of the Sun). No limit. A few cars go 90 mph, some faster.

GERMANY'S AUTOBAHN. No limit except 60-mph postings at one or two spots. Cars go fast: 60-80 mph. Sports cars sometimes cruise above 100.

U.S.: KANSAS TURNPIKE. Originally 65-mph limit. Now 80. Average speed of all cars is about 67. Some go 90. (High fatality rate—four times U.S. turnpike average—may be due partly to fast use of cars that are not suitable for speeds over 60.)

U.S. INTERSTATE SYSTEM ROADS. Most speed limits are between 60 and 70. These are the world's safest roads.

A DIPLOMAT'S WIFE GOES TO WORK

by LLOYD SHEARER

Thai beauty, Marayet Andriane, daughter of one diplomat and wife of another, will make screen debut in The Sand Pebbles. Marayet hopes to make two films a year.

HOLLYWOOD.

Paris, Geneva, London, Washington, Rome—in diplomatic circles these are recognized as swinging towns. The people in these cities are sophisticated, the restaurants are gourmet, the clothes are haute couture, the society is cultured, the life is cosmopolitan, the climate is temperate.

This is not true of Bangkok, Thailand, where Marayet Andriane was raised, daughter of a diplomat—her father was Thai ambassador to the Scandinavian countries—and where she now lives, wife of Jacques-Louis Andriane, director of administration for SEATO (South East Asia Treaty Organization).

As the 25-year-old wife of a French diplomat, Marayet finds life in hot, steamy, humid, tropical Bangkok not particularly exciting. "To tell the truth," she confides, "it consists mostly of giving and attending dinners and cocktail parties, of welcoming various members of the diplomatic staffs, of living in a tight little world. I was educated in Switzerland, so that I don't have too many friends of my own age in Bangkok. I have no children. There are only a limited number of charities I can work for, and in many cases female work is frowned upon—so you can see how happy I am to get a job as a film actress, to come to Hollywood where everything is exciting, mostly because it is new to me."

In one of the casting gambles of the year Marayet has been chosen to play a prostitute in The Sand Pebbles, a novel of gunboat diplomacy on the Yangtze, set in the 1920's. She was chosen by Robert Wise (West Side Story, Sound of Music) no small judge of talent, "because she's photogenic, sexy, beautiful, innocent-looking, intelligent, and she fits the role." Also because she's only getting $5,000, the Hollywood equivalent of peanuts for her work in the film.

Marayet landed the choice role because she happened to be in the right place at the right time. "I was in Paris," she recalls, "attending a round of parties with my husband. That's one of the advantages of being married to a French diplomat. One gets to go to Paris on holiday.

"At some party a gentleman approached and asked me if I were an actress. He turned out to be Edward Legry, a Frenchman in charge of the Paris office for 20th Century-Fox. I said, 'No,' and he said, 'Would you like to be one?'

"It's a very old line, used mostly by lecherous Italian diplomats, and ordinarily I would have paid no attention. But Mr. Legry seemed most sincere. He said that Robert Wise had bought The Sand Pebbles, a best-seller which had won the Harper's Prize, and was looking for an Oriental girl. Would I submit to a test?

"I asked my husband's consent," Marayet narrates, "and when he said yes, I went for the test. Some while later Mr. Legry said, 'You have to go to Hollywood for further tests.' I finished all the tests, and they gave me the part. I play opposite Richard Attenborough, Steve McQueen, and Edgar Bergen's daughter, Candy, and it's simply a marvelous role. We're shooting the picture in Taiwan and Hong Kong and Hollywood, and I hope it is opening up a whole new life for me. My contract calls for two films a year, and if I could spend six months in Hollywood and six months with my husband in Bangkok—that would just be heaven."

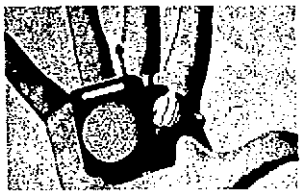

WHAT ABOUT HER HUSBAND?

Would it also turn out to be heaven for her husband? Would not a successful film career interfere with a successful marriage already nine years old? Would it not prove only a half-time marriage?

"I don't think so," Marayet avers, "because my husband is primarily interested in my happiness. And I am also interested in his. I am sure that while I'm away, filming The Sand Pebbles, he will miss me dreadfully. But in my absence I have recommended three young women, family friends. I chose them myself. These three young women will look after him in my absence. That's another advantage of being married to a Frenchman. Where women are concerned, French diplomats are highly adaptable. This is particularly true of my husband. He will be lonely for me, of course, but in the presence of other women his heart will not break. And besides, I shall always come back. You see, we love each other truly. For us, a film career is just an interlude."

With husband, Jacques-Louis Andriane (r.), Marayet greets French ambassador to Thailand. Husband will stay in Bangkok while she makes film in Hollywood.

MAKE LIFE EASIER—TAKE A LOOK AT THESE SMART NEW IDEAS FOR YOUR HOME AND FAMILY ■ BY PETER DRYDEN

New look in model railroading: Now comes a train set to delight youngsters — all landscaped, wired, ready to go. It consists of 17" square plastic sections with attached track and scenery. By snapping sections together, you can create a layout in a few minutes. Set with 6 sections, 3 cars, locomotive, tender, transformer. About $30 in stores. Larger sets also available. A. C. Gilbert Co., Dept. PP, Erector Square, New Haven, Conn.

Easy repairs: A new adhesive for fixing chipped or broken glass and ceramic items requires no mixing, does not run, holds parts on contact, usually eliminates need for clamping. And it can withstand freezing and boiling temperatures. 98¢. Dow Corning, Dept. PP, Midland, Mich.

Portable dryer: With this electric dryer (above), you can dry up to 2 lbs. of sweaters, scarfs, lingerie, baby items. It weighs 10½ lbs., is easy to move from room to room and take along on trips. Gentle tumbling action dries nylons in 10 minutes, and the 140-degree heat is safe for fine fabrics. In white, white-pink or white-blue. $39.95 in stores. Udico Electric Co., Dept. PP, 1801 S. Olive St., Los Angeles, Calif. 90015.

Car-powered air pump: Here's a pump (above) that works from your car cigarette lighter socket and can blow up an air mattress in seconds, inflate inner tubes, toys, even large rubber boats and outdoor pools. It draws no more current than car radio, has sealed bearings, nylon pistons, never requires oiling. $9.95. Gloy's, Dept. PP, 11 Addison St., Larchmont, N.Y.

Make-it-yourself mini-bike: You can build this one (above) starting with an old bicycle frame and using a standard bicycle seat or a special seat for two. With a 2¾-hp engine, it can go 30 mph. Step-by-step plans, with photos, construction details: $2. Engine and parts also available. Details: Gillion Mfg. Co., Dept. PP, 1109 N. 2nd St., St. Charles, Mo. 63301.

Electric candle: Pick up this battery-powered light (above) and it goes on like a brilliant candle. Put it down and off goes light. It's useful as bedside light, adornment for table or sideboard — and in emergencies. It works on 2 C flashlight cells, has switch to keep light on. In chrome, gold, black with gold flecks or white with gold flecks. $3.95. Delta Electric Div., Novo Industrial Corp., Dept. PP, Marion, Ind.

Shrinks Hemorrhoids New Way Without Surgery

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

My Favorite Jokes

by Bob Hope

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ever since Leslie Towne Hope left his birthplace, Eltham, England, he has looked for new worlds to conquer. First as a dancer, then as a boxer, finally as a stand-up comedian in vaudeville, Bob Hope has always been on the go. Today at 61 he has all the money he will ever need, is in fact one of the wealthiest men in the world, but continues to entertain "because I just wouldn't know what to do if I didn't make people laugh." A fixture on TV with his anthology series and his comedy specials, Hope also makes films and special appearances. His greatest source of personal satisfaction is derived from playing servicemen's camps. During World War II he toured dozens of military installations both at home and abroad, continued the same tireless routine in the Korean War, and only a week ago finished his final preparations for a Christmas jaunt this year to Vietnam. Herewith some of the favorite jokes he's told to servicemen the world over:

At Midway Island: "I want you men to know that this troupe is going to stop at Wake Island. We were there before a few years ago with Jayne Mansfield. She wore a pink ermine bikini when she went in swimming. The island has been tilted ever since."

At Wake Island: "We're on our way to Vietnam. The Defense Department has tried everything else there . . . so why not us?"

In Korea: "Of course you fellas know why I'm here. I forgot to take the Goldwater sticker off my car."

In Korea: "I can hardly wait to take Les Brown and the boys to Vietnam. If the Cong wants guerrilla warfare they're going to get it."

In Seoul: "Everywhere we go we get a great reception. They think it's Secretary McNamara with shutdown orders."

With the 7th Infantry: "We had a wonderful trip coming over here considering the plane they gave us: it took off from a kneeling position."

Camp Casey, Korea: "This is my fifth trip to Korea. The first four times I didn't believe it. I just came back to see how they've rearranged the mud."

In Okinawa: "We were on our way to Vietnam but some chicken was dragging his feet so we stopped here to refuel. I hope the PX has my shoe size."

In Bangkok, Thailand: "I understand this is one of the oldest civilizations on earth. There are even people here who remember Crosby as a boy."

In Korat, Thailand: "They have trouble with Red Chinese infiltrators here. This morning a fortune cookie followed me for half a mile, and it was ticking."

In Bangkok: "Thailand is one of our staunchest allies. That's what our ambassador told me when he shoved me back on the plane."

In Vietnam: "Hello, advisers. Welcome to Sniper Valley. What a reception I got at the airport just now. Our soldiers thought I was a replacement . . . If there are any Viet Cong in the audience, remember, I've already had my shots . . . Vietnam is a very democratic country. Everyone gets to be president . . . Yes, sir, they say the enemy is all around us but I'm used to it with my kind of act."

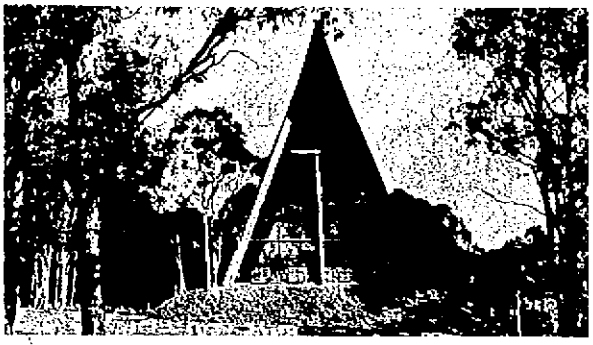

In the Philippines: "It's nice to see so much harmony between the sailors and marines here. Each working side by side to get transferred somewhere else."

On Guam: "Guam is a very strategic base for us. It's our lifeline station in the South Pacific, the last chance to get tax-free booze."

International Airport, Los Angeles: "We really had a ton of security in Vietnam, Secret Service men following us everywhere, MPS with submachine guns, fully armed helicopters, and that was just to keep the GI's away from the girls. I spent more time under the bed than a nervous bride."

Prince Charles, shown deplaning at London airport, is a center of controversy following recent decision to have him attend Australian prep school that stresses rugged outdoor activities.

Timbertop project: Students helped build chapel opened last year.

A SCHOOL FOR PRINCE CHARLIE

What has chopping wood, mowing lawns, pick and shovel and garden work to do with educating the future king of Great Britain? This question has raised a great hue and cry in both Parliament and the British press since the recent announcement by Buckingham Palace that Prince Charles would spend part of the current school year at Timbertop branch of Geelong Grammar School in Australia. As shown in these pictures, Timbertop, located in bush country 116 miles northeast of Melbourne, offers students a Spartan regimen of work and play in addition to a strict academic program. The Prince's day will start at 7 each morning, end at 9:30 each night and include compulsory cross-country runs, weekends of hiking and camping in the open and similar rugged outdoor activities. The 17-year-old Prince will be at Timbertop for a single term, February through April. Social life at the school is nil, with no television and few radios. The idea is to foster in students complete self-reliance, a princely idea—even for a real prince.

Timbertop students are kept busy clearing up grounds, mowing lawns, tending furnaces and feeding school's livestock. Each day calls for periods of study, outdoor work and exercise.

A tug of war is engaged in by Timbertop students in lieu of organized games. During entire school term boys see no footballs or cricket bats, instead are expected to use materials at hand and make up their own entertainment.

Frosty Chocolate Log

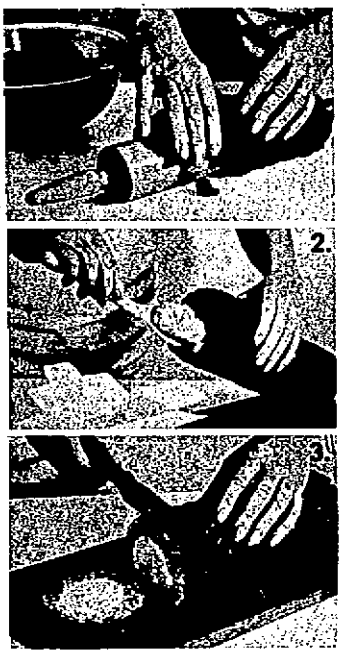

BY BETH MERRIMAN PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Looking for something new and delightful to serve at a children's party? Try this luscious frosty chocolate log made with crisp puffed rice, nuts, marshmallows and chocolate. Fill the center with a favorite flavor ice cream, and you've got a treat that will gladden the hearts of your young guests.

FROSTY CHOCOLATE LOG

4 cups puffed rice
½ cup chopped nutmeats
28 large marshmallows
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 quart ice cream, any flavor

Heat puffed rice in shallow pan at 350° for 10 minutes. Pour into large greased bowl; stir in chopped nutmeats. Combine marshmallows, chocolate and butter in top of double boiler. Heat over boiling water until melted, stirring occasionally. Stir in vanilla. Pour marshmallow mixture over cereal and nutmeats, stirring until all kernels are evenly coated. Follow illustrated steps shown at right. 1. Butter hands and, working quickly, shape mixture around well-greased rolling pin. Chill until firm. 2. Remove rolling pin, being careful not to break chocolate shell. Fill hollow center with ice cream. Freeze until firm. 3. Let stand at room temperature a few minutes. Then slice crosswise with sharp knife.

WHAT'S NEW IN CHRISTMAS WRAPS, PUSSYCAT?

by ROSALIND MASSOW
WOMEN'S EDITOR

Take the tiger out of the tank and put him under a tree this Christmas. Cat wraps are the newest and most charming method of "belling" a present—and they are easier than you suspect. All you need is holiday paper in solid colors and small pattern designs, a pencil, cardboard, a pair of scissors, glue, pipe cleaners and lots of ribbon. Take a good look at the photo above and copy the ideas, or create some flossy cats on your own. First you wrap the gift in the usual way, then glue on eyes, whiskers, nose and ears; or cut a cat's face out of cardboard, cover with Christmas paper and glue eyes, nose and whiskers to that. Strips of ribbon serve as whiskers, satin-tone ribbon as the shaft of the nose and colored paper as eyes and tip of the nose. To add legs, use empty cardboard tubes found inside rolls of gift paper; cut down to size, then cover with paper. Whether you go Alley or Persian, your cats are certain to become the pampered pets on Christmas morning.

How to make a wrapped cat

Box present and wrap in small print designed paper. For ears (1) cut 3" triangles from same wrapping paper, fold down center line, fold bottom and glue to box top. For eyes (2) cut out three sets of circles of colored paper—cutting largest (black) with pinking shears to achieve eyelash effect. The middle circle should be white, the eyeball should be green or gold. Ink in a dot for pupil in small-set circle. Nose and mouth (3) are made of black paper in design shown. Glue on pipe cleaners or narrow strips of ribbon (4) for whiskers and tape prepared bow between ears.

BISHOP WALSH: SILENT MARTYR

A RED CHINESE PRISONER, HE CELEBRATES A GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY NEXT WEEK

by RAYMOND KERRISON

In his cell in Shanghai, behind the towering brick walls of Communist China's biggest political prison, Bishop James Edward Walsh will awaken early on December 7.

An elderly, frail man, he will fill the day as he has a thousand and more like it since 1960, when he was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment on trumped-up charges of spying.

He will have a plain breakfast, make up his bed, tidy the cell which he shares with a Chinese bodyguard. He will step outside twice to exercise in the compound between the concrete blockhouses. He will allow himself the luxury of three or four cigarettes. And perhaps read a little poetry.

But most of the day he will pray. It is the only thing he has left. For at least three hours he will count off silent Rosaries—for he is permitted no beads—on his wizened fingers.

"I have become a man of many Rosaries," he wrote in a recent letter to his family in Cumberland, Md.

December 7 will mark the 50th anniversary of Bishop Walsh's ordination to the Roman Catholic priesthood, an event so rare and majestic that, as in marriage, it is cherished by its celebrants and regarded as golden by everyone.

But for the bishop, a former Superior-General of Maryknoll, America's leading Catholic missionary society, this anniversary will be of incomparable significance. It will commemorate the event that led gently, and perhaps unsuspectingly, into a life of unspeakable hardship, violence and suffering.

It led to 40 years in China, made him one of the most distinguished clergymen in the nation, subjected him to a decade of nerve-jangling harassment and then deposited him in a cell to endure a living martyrdom.

THERE IS NO BISHOP

If he were home, Bishop Walsh would celebrate this anniversary with grandeur, panoply and festivity. In prison, he will have nothing. Not even a card. The Red Chinese consider his religion unnecessary. Indeed, they do not even recognize it. A lifelong friend once scribbled "best wishes" on a plain card and addressed it "Bishop James Walsh." It was returned, undelivered, because the Chinese said they knew no one named Bishop James Walsh.

Bishop Walsh will not be permitted to celebrate Mass or receive Holy Communion, both of which have been denied him since 1958. He is not allowed even the simplest sacramentals, such as a Bible, a breviary or a rosary.

The bishop has two links with the outside world. Packages of food, toiletries and cigarettes are sent monthly through the International Red Cross. "Please don't send me meat or fish," he says. "These heavy items are beyond my capacity. The lighter food is very welcome—coffee, cheese, a little candy."

The other link is an exchange of letters each month alternately with his elder brother, William, and sister Mary. No one else in the family may communicate with him, except at Christmas and on his birthday, when all his brothers and sisters and close relatives add their signatures to a card.

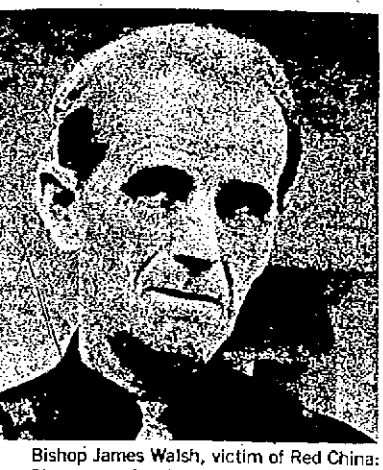

If the range of correspondence is excruciatingly narrow, it is no less prized by the bishop and his family.

Bishop Walsh has never been a robust man—he barely makes 130 pounds—but he has the constitution of an ox and the fortitude of a saint. He is 74, but his health has held fast against years of privation and indignities. His handwriting is firm, his humor intact.

He does not complain and does not seek his release. He accepts his fate with the resignation of a man who has surrendered his will to God. "While no one likes to be confined," he once wrote, "I am not unhappy here and I leave the future entirely in the hands of God."

Bishop Walsh's cell is in the prison hospital, not because of ill health but, according to the Chinese, because of his age.

Bishop Walsh first went to China in the fall of 1918. When the Communists seized China in 1949, he was the executive secretary of the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai, a clearinghouse for all the Church mission and cultural activities in China.

For the next ten years he lived through what the American Catholic hierarchy has termed the worst persecution of Christianity in its 2000 years. Bishop Walsh was denounced in all the familiar epithets—"traitor," "stooge" and so forth.

Priests around him were arrested, imprisoned, tortured, shot or deported. His telephone was tapped, his confessional invaded, his sermons recorded verbatim. He was awakened at all hours of the night for interrogations. He suffered intimidation, economic reprisals, police raids and a ferocious campaign to discredit his name.

The ordeal failed to break him. In desperation, the regime urged him to leave. He refused. "Our good friends," he said stubbornly, "will have to throw me in or throw me out. What does it matter in the case of an old fellow in the sere and yellow leaf like me? To put up with a little inconvenience at my age is nothing; it seems like a privilege to me."

They threw him in. In October 1958 he disappeared from his rectory and was neither seen nor heard of again until March 1960, when Peking announced his cruel sentence. What happened in that "limbo" remains a mystery, but on the basis of other case histories, it is not unreasonable to assume an attempt was made to brainwash him into renouncing the Vatican and joining the state's "independent" church.

Because of his age, Bishop Walsh's 20-year term amounted to a death sentence. Its harshness appalled the U.S. government, Protestant and Jewish leaders, Buddhists, Moslems and Taoists, newspapers and foreign governments, all of whom condemned it as an outrage. The Maryknoll Fathers said that if love was a crime then their bishop was indeed guilty.

Why did Bishop Walsh stay in China when the Reds offered him a free and easy passage out? Could he not have been of more value to his own society and the Church if he had transplanted himself, say, to Latin America, where the shortage of priests is critical? Was it sheer cussedness that held him?

Bishop Walsh stayed on for the most simple reason: love and loyalty.

There was another reason. He explained, "There is some good, I think, in giving the Chinese a little help or encouragement, if only a moral gesture."

Events since have confirmed the wisdom of his choice. Serge Lentz, an editor of Paris Match, the French magazine, who recently came out of China reported that Christianity had been so thoroughly uprooted and stamped upon there was hardly a trace left.

SURVIVAL SYMBOL

If this is true, complete victory will escape the Communists as long as Bishop Walsh remains there. He is the symbol of Christianity's fight for survival in China. His voice is silent, but his sermon is eloquent.

As such, Bishop Walsh is an acute embarrassment to the Reds. Rumors swept Hong Kong some months ago that his presence weighed so heavily on the regime that he would be released. The U.S. government, through its ambassador in Warsaw, presses Bishop Walsh's case, along with that of three other American prisoners.

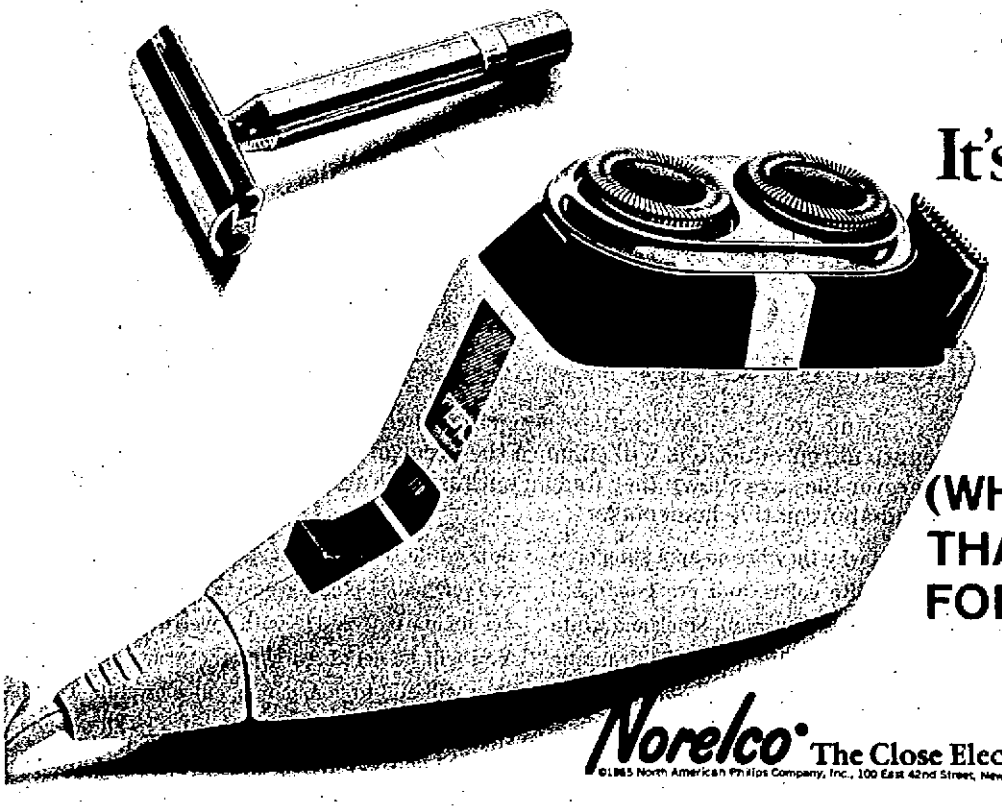

Nikita Khrushchev, the former Soviet Premier, promised President Eisenhower during his visit here in 1959 that he would do his best to intercede for the bishop. None of these efforts has borne fruit, and since the Chinese tend to make prisoners serve their full terms it is unlikely Bishop Walsh will be released before the expiration date: October 17, 1978. He will be 87—if he survives.

So he edges toward his golden anniversary, a rather forlorn figure, isolated from the world, separated from his family, unaware even that two schools bearing his name are rising in Cumberland and at Kowloon, the gateway to Red China.

The world may pray for him but not pity him, for, as Longfellow wrote:

The holiest of all holidays are those
Kept by ourselves in silence and apart;
The secret anniversaries of the heart.

PARADE'S SPECIAL

INTELLIGENCE REPORT

BECAUSE OF THE VOLUME OF MAIL, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES ABOUT THIS COLUMN.

MINIMUM AGE. What should be the minimum age for girls to marry throughout the world? A United Nations committee on marriage has recommended age 15. Most of the Western nations agree, but Saudi Arabia claims 15 is too long to wait. Mr. Jamil Baroody, Saudi Arabian delegate, objects to a fixed international age. "In many tropical countries," he points out, "girls are mature at 12 or 13." Physically, that is.

LONG WAR. According to foreign intelligence sources our war in Vietnam is going to be long, nasty, and costly. The French, who pulled out of Vietnam in 1954 -- first white army to be defeated in Asia since the Russo-Japanese War -- predict we will have to stay at least ten years. The British feel we will have to stay just about as long as we have to stay in South Korea. Possibly 20 years or longer. Blair Seaborn, a Canadian diplomat who visited Hanoi last month, says he found no Viet Cong interest in negotiating on terms acceptable to the U.S. The Viet Cong cannot get it into their heads that there is a great difference between the French and the Americans. They got the French to give up after ten years, feel that opposition to the war in Vietnam will grow in the U.S. to the point where Johnson will give up the fight. They know little about Lyndon Johnson. Military men overseas believe that the U.S. will have to pour more troops into Vietnam -- possibly one million -- or resort to strategic nuclear or heavy conventional bombing of Hanoi and North Vietnam. Sooner or later, should the Viet Cong agree to negotiate, U.S. occupation forces will be necessary to enforce a cease fire, a stalemate, a peace treaty.

PRESIDENTIAL FEVER. When Bill Scranton, governor of Pennsylvania, finally agreed to run for the Republican Presidential nomination in 1964, many veteran politicians cracked, "Too little, too late -- Goldwater has it sewed up." They were right. It looks now, however, as if the Presidential virus implanted in Scranton two years ago has begun to grow. In the past few weeks Scranton has made 50 or more speeches, most of them outside his state, helping Republican political candidates on all levels, mending fences, winning friends. He refuses to comment on the 1968 Presidential campaign, but at this writing William Scranton and Richard Nixon are the Republican front runners.

NUNS IN STYLE. Nuns are back in style -- at least in film land. The Sound of Music with Julie Andrews, possibly the most profitable film ever turned out by 20th Century-Fox -- its potential gross is $65 million -- may have triggered the revival. Columbia has just finished shooting Life with Mother Superior which it has retitled The Trouble with Angels. It stars Rosalind Russell, Binnie Barnes, Hayley Mills and Gypsy Rose Lee. In this one

ROSALIND RUSSELL

Gypsy plays the dancing teacher at the convent. MGM is filming The Singing Nun with Greer Garson and Debbie Reynolds, also preparing Mother Cabrini. In addition, two foreign film-makers, Luis Bunuel and Jacques Rivette, are preparing respectively, The Nun and The Nuns. And ready soon for release is the Italian import, The Little Nuns.

EARLY HEART DISEASE. American men develop coronary disease at an earlier age than the men of any other nation. The peak age for men in this country suffering from angina pectoris is 42. In other countries it is 52. Angina pectoris is a pain in the chest frequently radiating to the arms, caused by a spasm of the coronary artery of the heart. Why should American men fall victim to angina sooner than their foreign contemporaries? Dr. E. Grey Dimond of the Scripps Clinic in La Jolla, Calif., offered four possible reasons at a recent meeting of the California Academy of General Practice: (1) the stress and strain of life in America, (2) the competitive society, (3) the lack of exercise, (4) the American diet. "The only other nation," says Dr. Dimond, "which offers a similar pattern of high, aggressive, competitive, frenetic, anxious living is West Germany. And in that country more and more men are suffering from more and more coronary disease at an earlier age. Soon they will get down to our level."

WORKING MOTHERS. Last year there were 25 million women workers in the U.S. About 9.5 million were mothers with children under 18 years of age. Most of these mothers work because they have to. Either their husbands do not earn enough to support their families, or the women themselves are family heads. Half of all families headed by women live in poverty. More than 80% of the nation's working mothers have husbands living at home. About 17% of these women are married to men whose income is less than $3,000 per year. About 10% of America's working mothers are nonwhite. The statistics come from the recently released U.S. Department of Labor leaflet, "Who Are the Working Mothers?"

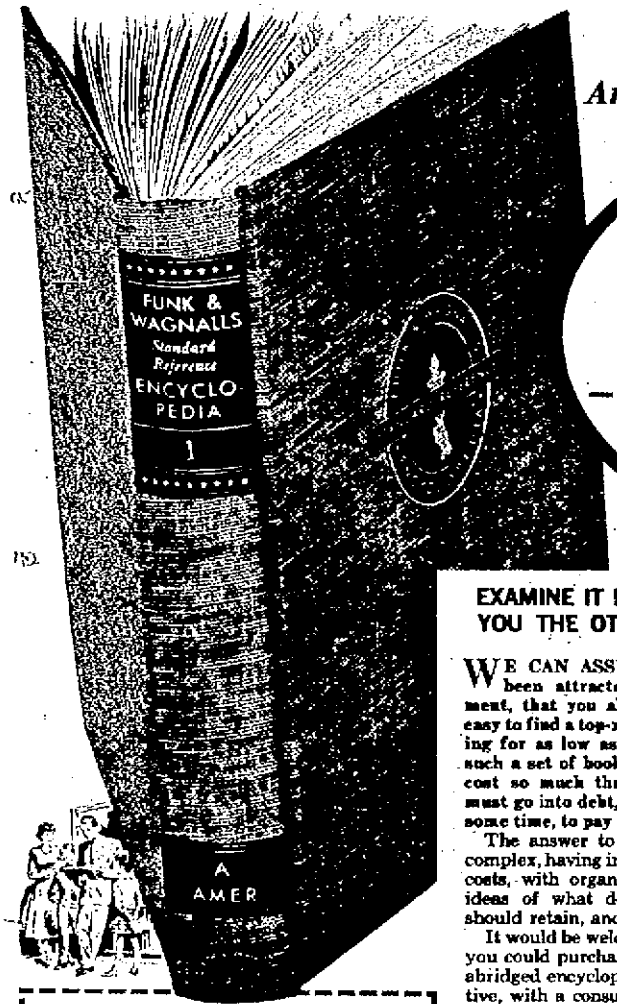

MAIL FRAUD. Each year the public is bilked of more than $1 million through mail fraud. Most firms in the mail order business are scrupulously honest, but several gyp artists set up companies during the Christmas gift-buying season only to cheat the gullible. Be careful of land stock purchases via mail and various sex devices supposedly designed for "rejuvenation." Only a few weeks ago after months of painstaking work, postal inspectors caught up with a pair of sharpies who were selling worthless sex rejuvenators out of a Hollywood post office box. Henry Montague, chief postal inspector, says if a company is unknown to you or is offering a suspicious bonus gimmick, it's a good idea to investigate it before sending off your money. Write to the Better Business Bureau or the Chamber of Commerce in the city where the company has its headquarters. Many publications vouch for the honesty of their mail order advertisers, but some do not.

WE CAN ASSUME, since you have been attracted by this advertisement, that you already know it is not easy to find a top-notch encyclopedia selling for as low as $200 . . . Why should such a set of books, however wonderful, cost so much that the average family must go into debt, or mortgage itself for some time, to pay for it?

The answer to that question is very complex, having in part to do with selling costs, with organization, with old-time ideas of what detail an encyclopedia should retain, and other factors.

It would be welcome – wouldn't it – if you could purchase a big, complete, unabridged encyclopedia, really authoritative, with a consulting and contributing board second to none, recommended by highest authority not only for use in schools and libraries but especially for home and family use – at a price you can really afford? It would be more than welcome, we are sure, since such an encyclopedia could be a superlatively important aid for you and your family socially and in business, and for your children at school and college.

SUCH AN ENCYCLOPEDIA DOES EXIST!

Yes, the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia – in twenty-five big, beautiful volumes in its latest School & Library Edition, expensively made to the rigid specifications demanded for school and library books – is yours at a SMALL FRACTION of what these other encyclopedias cost.

And we'll give odds that, although it is just as scholarly, it will prove better for your needs than any other – easier to read, to understand, more attractive in every way for more frequent use.

OUR UNUSUAL PROPOSAL

We will send you the first volume of the set for free, gratis, as our gift to you, to prove what we are saying.

No, you need not return the volume ever, or pay us anything for it. All we ask in return is that you drop us a card if, after examining this volume, you decide you do not want any others.

If, several weeks later, we have not heard from you, we will ship you Volumes 2 and 3 of the set, and then two more volumes each month thereafter, as they come off press, until your set is complete. (Yes, you always have the right, at any time, to cancel any further shipment of volumes.) And we bill you for these two volumes shipped you each month and you pay only AFTER you receive them. Your credit is good with us.

SEE THE FREE BOOK BEFORE DECIDING

The price? Only $2.79 per volume, plus 21¢ mailing cost for each. Yes, far less than even a popular novel. But that is not important now. You will want to see the book first – see with your own eyes what it is truly worth.

But please give us the same courtesy we are rendering to you, and do not ask for the free volume unless you intend to give sincere consideration to our really unusual offer.

However, if you do think you would like to own a great encyclopedia, at an almost unbelievably low price, then send off the coupon at left as soon as you can. A brochure with other details concerning the full set will accompany your free Volume 1.
